Dr. Egan in his address to the graduates told of the suffering of the Allies at the hands of the enemies, and said that the claims of France for territory are justified and that the accusations by the Americans in France that the peasants charge extortionate prices are futile when we think of our own profiteering.

GOV. SMITH GETS DEGREE.

Fordham University Holds 74th Annual Commencement Exercises.

The seventy-fourth annual commencement exercises of Fordham University were held on the campus of the university yesterday afternoon, Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, D. D., presiding. The university conferred 243 degrees. Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred on Governor Alfred E. Smith, United States Senator David I. Walsh, the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, chaplain of the 165th Infantry; Assistant Attorney General Francis P. Garvan, and William J. Mulligan, Overseas Director of the Knights of Columbus. Senator Walsh and Mr. Mulligan were unable to attend the exercises, but the degrees were conferred. The honorary degree of Doctor of Science was conferred on John T. Fetherston.

The address of welcome was made by the Rev. Edward P. Tivnan, S. J., and the address to the graduates was delivered by Governor Smith.

"I cannot understand," Governor Smith said, "what I ever accomplished in this world to merit the honor conferred on me here today, and I am likewise unable to understand why I have been selected to receive the degree of Doctor of Laws. It is true, that for twelve or fifteen years I have doctored some laws, but some people don't believe that my remedy was the best one. To my mind, no function in our State is as important as the education of our youth. General O'Ryan told me at Albany recently that one thing more than any other added to the success of our army abroad was the intelligence of the individual American soldier, and I think I showed how highly I appreciate education when I signed the recent educational bill increasing by $5,500,000 New York State's contribution to the common school.

"Education is the best and the strongest force to combat the social evil that confronts the country today. The only way to comprehend the value of a university education is to be without it when you are about 45 years of age; but don't make the mistake of believing that's all you need. You need more than that; you need hard and honest work. Hard, earnest plugging is the price you will have to pay for ultimate success."

In conferring the degree on Governor Smith, the Rev. Father Hill, S. J., recited a brief summary of the Governor's public and private life and referred to him as "above reproach." United States Senator Walsh was spoken of in the highest terms, as was Father Duffy, Assistant Attorney General Garvan, and Mr. Mulligan. In conferring the honorary degree of Doctor of Science on Mr. Fetherston, Father Hill recited his war record as an engineer. Mr. Fetherston was Commissioner of Street Cleaning under the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel, and is also a graduate of Fordham.

The degree of Master of Arts in course was conferred upon eighteen persons, seven of whom were nuns. Twenty degrees of Bachelor of Arts were conferred, 7 degrees of Bachelor of Science, 87 degrees of Bachelor of Laws, 63 of Doctor of Medicine, 8 of Bachelor of Science in Medicine, and 29 of Graduate in Pharmacy.

The honor graduate of the day Law School was Owen E. Reilly, who received a prize of $50 in gold, and the honor graduate of the same school in the night session was George Roesch, who received a similar prize.

The exercises closed with an address by Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, who spoke on education. The prelate in his remarks pleaded with the graduates to go out and to treat with the laboring man as his brother and to regard the laborer as a builder in reconstruction.

SIMS TELLS YALE OF TASK IN PEACE

$673,316 Alumni Fund Double the Amount Asked—598 Degrees Include 148 Men in War.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 18.—Announcement that Yale University has received gifts in the last year totaling $1,854,214 and that the Alumni University Fund for the year was $673,316, breaking all previous records, was made by President Arthur T. Hadley this afternoon at the Alumni luncheon. The Alumni contribution was more than double the amount asked by the university. Of the gifts to the university, the largest was $1,000,000, a bequest of the late Oliver H. Payne of New York.

Admiral Sims referred to his own activities as an orator, saying that he "only made one speech" before taking command of the American naval forces overseas, and "that speech has been termed an indiscretion."

The Admiral went on to say that this war had shown "that the commissioned personnels of navies in general are not well trained in the practice of the principles of warfare, however skillful and efficient they may be in other respects." He urged the "imperative necessity of naval war colleges on a better and larger scale," because of the rapidly changing conditions of war on the sea.

The commencement exercises in Woolsey Hall today were those of Yale University's 219th year. Thirteen honorary degrees and 598 degrees for work in course were awarded. Professor Emeritus Theodore Salisbury Woolsey, '72, was public orator, and an incident in the conferring of degrees was the granting of 148 "honoris causa," including seventeen B. A. and six Ph. D. degrees granting "post obitum," in the cases of men who served or died in the war, the university recognizing their services as an equivalent of work in course.

The honorary degrees were conferred on the following:

Doctors of Science—Harvey Cushing, Professor of Surgery, Harvard University; Samuel Wesley Stratton, physicist, Director of the National Bureau of Standards.

Doctors of Divinity—Charles Henry Brent, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church and Chaplain General, A. E. F.; Orville A. Petty, divisional chaplain, A. E. F., pastor of Plymouth Church, this city.

Masters of Arts—Orville Wright, inventor and aviator; Sanford Hosea Wadhams, Colonel, Medical Corps, A. E. F.; Russell Cornell Leffingwell, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Charles Albert Coffin, Chairman, Board of Directors, General Electric Company; Robert Stewart McClenahan, formerly President of Assiut College, now planning the new university at Cairo; Lieutenant Jean Julien Demordant, French soldier and painter, blinded in war.

The 598 regular degrees were distributed as follows: Bachelor of Arts, 342; Bachelor of Philosophy, 176; Bachelor of Fine Arts, 1; Bachelor of Music, 2; Bachelor of Law, 6; Bachelor of Divinity, 22; Master of Arts, 7; Master of Science, 6; Mechanical Engineer, 2; Electrical Engineer, 2; Master of Forestry, 5; Doctor of Medicine, 12; Doctor of Philosophy, 14; Certificates in Public Health, 2.

Thomas W. Farnam of New Haven was elected a Fellow of the Corporation by the alumni, to succeed Eli Whitney. The announcement was made at the alumni luncheon.

AMHERST ALUMNI DINE.

Dr. Bliss of Beirut Tells Them We Have Roused World Hope.

AMHERST, Mass., June 18.—At the alumni dinner, which closed the Amherst commencement today in the college gymnasium, the Rev. Dr. Howard S. Bliss, of the class of 1882, President of the Syrian Protestant College at Beirut, who was in Turkey during the whole of the war, and who recently spent seven weeks in Paris, having been invited to appear before the "Big Ten" in order to furnish information as to conditions in Syria, spoke on "The Inescapable Mandatary of America." He illustrated his points by allusions to his experiences in Syria during the war and in Paris after the armistice.

The degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred at the formal exercises in College Hall earlier in the day upon General Peyton C. March, Chief of Staff of the United States Army; Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts; Solomon B. Griffin, formerly managing editor of The Springfield Republican, and Dr. Bliss.

Lewis Thurston Reed, pastor of the Flatbush Congregational Church, Brooklyn, and Robert Charles Denison, pastor of the United Church on the Green, New Haven, were honored with the degree of Doctor of Divinity, while Charles Edwin Lamson, pianist and composer, and Clarence Hawkes, blind author and lecturer, were made honorary Masters of Arts.

Honorary degrees were granted to Amherst men who left college to go to war, and impressive ceremonies were held in honor of thirty-two who gave their lives in the service.

CLEAN-UP WEEK PROGRESS.

City Official Predicts Removal of Much Debris.

Arnold B. McStay, Commissioner of the Street Cleaning Department, said yesterday that all carts in the department had been requisitioned for clean-up week, and that they had removed three and four tons more refuse per day than the normal amount. Probably from three to four thousand tons of debris, he believed, would be hauled away in the seven days of the clean-up campaign. The Commissioner gave credit to the Fire Department and the Health Department for their efforts in cleaning up certain places, but said that most of the work was done by the Street Cleaning Department.

The following suggestions for property holders have been drawn up by those in charge of the campaign:

1. Put out all refuse by 7 A. M.
2. Tie up all papers.
3. Put all other household refuse into boxes and barrels.
4. Trade waste, such as brick, lime, building material, &c., will not be removed by D. S. C. carts from dwellings.
5. No refuse, except garbage, will be removed from factories, loft buildings, hotels or other places not used jointly for business and domestic occupancy. The owners of such buildings must remove all refuse at their own expense.

SEES GAS BIG FACTOR IN WARS OF FUTURE

Nation Unready to Use and Guard Against It Will Be Helpless, Says Siebert.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Major General William L. Siebert, Chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States, testifying today before the House Ways and Means Committee on the vital relationships between the dye industry and the manufacture of chemicals for national defense, declared his belief that gas would be an important factor in future wars.

"As a military man," asked Representative Moore of Pennsylvania, "do you believe that gas will be used again in war?"

"I certainly do," replied General Siebert. "I do not see any difference between gas and any other thing that has for its object the killing of human beings, because that is what war means, and that process is going to be kept up until one side is sufficiently strong to impose its will upon the other. You can't apply the word humane to it at all."

"Then," interjected Representative Green, "a country which has a large supply, or at least a potential supply of gas, would be a bad country to tackle, wouldn't it?"

"A nation," replied General Siebert, "that would be absolutely unprepared in so far as gas is concerned, and defense against gas is concerned, would be helpless."

Representative Moore asked whether the gases which General Sebert had testified were used more extensively toward the end of the war by the Americans were being made on the other side of the water or in the United States.

"We had no shells to put our gas into, and we shipped a large amount of chloride and exchanged it for phosgene," was the reply. "None of the gas shells that we fired were made in the United States. That is one of the streams that was just starting to flow at the end of the war. The gases themselves were shipped to France, about 3,000 tons, in ton containers, and placed in shells made in England or France.

"When our troops went into the Rhineland we went along some of our chemical warfare people, and in one of the first big mustard gas plants they went into they inquired and were told that the Germans had abandoned their own method and adopted the American way of making mustard gas."

ARREST TWO MEN IN TAX FRAUD CASE

Accountant and Revenue Agent Held Under Heavy Bail for Making False Return.

TWO OTHERS ARE SOUGHT

SUSPECT SCORE OF FIRMS

Officials Say Big Concerns Have Cheated Government Out of Millions of Dollars.

Morris S. Rachmil of the Sterling Accounting and Audit Company and Morris Rosenblum, an agent of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, were arrested by Federal officials yesterday on a charge of conspiring to defraud the Government by the filing of false tax returns.

The officials said that through the arrests they obtained information that a score of big firms doing business south of Fourteenth Street had tried to cheat the Government in this way, and that some actually had withheld taxes due, to the amount of millions of dollars.

Benjamin P. De Witt, the Government prosecutor, said Rosenblum, who appeared crushed by the arrest, confessed to having been concerned in the certifying of alleged fraudulent tax returns made by expert accountants for firms which paid liberal fees for them. It was also said that Rosenblum had a list of firms which employed the Sterling Company, and had promised to give it to the authorities.

Agents of the Internal Revenue Department, it was said, will be instructed to visit these firms today and to overhaul their books. In some cases, it was said, the books will be seized and taken to the office of Collector William H. Edwards for careful examination.

The Revenue officials were looking late yesterday for a partner of Rachmil in the Sterling Company, and an employe of the concern, who also are named in the complaint.

Trap Laid by Edwards.

Exposure of the alleged methods of the Sterling concern came through information furnished by F. A. Page, Treasurer of the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc. He told Collector Edwards that the accounting company had offered to fix the books of his concern in such a manner that a large saving would be made in the income tax payment. Mr. Edwards advised Mr. Page to accept the proposal and to keep him informed. This was last October. A statement prepared yesterday in behalf of Mr. Edwards says:

"When Rachmil approached the Coastwise Warehouses with an offer to falsify their returns, one of the officers of that company advised Collector Edwards of the contemplated fraud, and upon the Collector's advice the scheme went ahead until final returns were filed on June 16. The matter was communicated to Washington by Collector Edwards, and Albert L. Hopkins, special attorney for the Internal Revenue Bureau, was designated by Commissioner Roper of the Internal Revenue Tax Department to work with Collector Edwards.

"The accountants had a confederate, Morris Rosenblum, who was employed by the Internal Revenue Bureau. The scheme was for the accountants to falsify their books and the return, and the revenue agent, Rosenblum, was to prove the false return."

Mr. DeWitt said the Sterling Company was to receive $11,000 as soon as the fraud was consummated. He said the tax rightfully due from the Coastwise Warehouses was about $65,000, and that the return made by the Sterling Company, and certified by Rosenblum, was for $3,642.81. It is alleged that $2,000 was paid when the agreement was made, and that $9,000 was to be paid yesterday. After the arrests, $2,000 was found on Rachmil and $7,000 on Rosenblum. All the money previously had been marked.

The formal complaint charges Rachmil, Rosenblum, and the others mentioned in the complaint, with having conspired with the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., to "prepare a false, fraudulent, and incorrect profits tax return for the year 1918," and that Rosenblum "in his capacity as Internal Revenue Inspector, would falsely, corruptly, and unlawfully certify to the correctness of the said returns." It is also alleged that Rachmil, Samuelson, and Joffe prepared a list of false entries to be made in the books of the concern. The complaint also says:

"The source of deponent's information and the grounds of his belief are an investigation made by him of the records of the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., including certain false entries made at the direction of Rachmil, and information obtained from F. A. Page, treasurer of the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc." The complaint is signed by Arthur A. Nichols, an internal revenue agent.

Held Under Heavy Bail.

Discussing the case, Mr. DeWitt said: "Just when Rosenblum began operating with the Sterling people I do not know. It appears that he met Samuelson in a poolroom, and Samuelson told him he could make a lot of money by working for him. In February the Sterling Company had prepared a list of entries for the books of the Coastwise concern. These later were inserted in the books. On June 16 the return was delivered to the Coastwise people. It was agreed, I am informed, that Rosenblum was to share largely in the money to be paid."

Asked how the books had been changed, Mr. DeWitt said he did not know all the methods used. He said that $100,000 was knocked off the surplus of the Coastwise Company, on which a tax of 15 per cent. was due. On this one item, it was pointed out, the taxes due were reduced by $15,000. All the books of the Sterling Company have been seized.

United States Commissioner Hitchcock held Rachmil in $15,000 bail and Rosenblum in $10,000 bail for examination June 26. Rosenblum was paroled until today in the custody of Internal Revenue agents.

BIG SHIPS HERE FOR VISIT.

More Than 12,000 Sailors on Nine Dreadnoughts to Have a Holiday.

Nine dreadnoughts of the Atlantic fleet, together with destroyers and supply ships, are scheduled to arrive today and cast anchor in the North River. The ships are coming from a dozen stations in the Atlantic, and the commander of the Third Naval District could not announce the hour of arrival. It is expected, however, that the ships will follow each other into the harbor throughout the day, without attempting any formal entry in battle formation, such as marked the arrival of the fleet in April.

The ships will remain in the river until after July 4. They include the North Dakota, Delaware, Florida, Utah, New York, Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Wyoming, and Texas. More than a dozen destroyers will be with the largest ships. The aircraft supply ship Shamrock will accompany the fleet.

Will Investigate Palmer in Open as He Requested

SHIFTS TELEPHONE DEPARTMENT HEADS

BETHELL RETIRES FOR REST

H. B. Thayer, for Forty Years with System, Is Designated as President.

Important changes in the personnel of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and a reorganization of the corporation, were announced yesterday by Theodore N. Vail, Chairman of the Board of Directors. Mr. Vail's statement on the matter was as follows:

"Preparatory to the end of the period of Federal control and in view of the great development which has taken place in the art of transmission of intelligence by electricity, particularly of the great development of multiplex telephony, machine operation of both telephone and telegraph, and of wireless telephony, there are many large problems confronting the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, all in the line of greater, better development and wider usefulness.

"In view of all this and to facilitate all the possibilities of the future, it is necessary that the organization be adjusted to meet these new problems and be put on a permanent basis.

"I have requested of and recommended to the Board of Directors the following changes, which are in titles rather than in functions.

"I will, as the Chairman of the board, be in active direction of the policy and problems of the company, and by this change will be enabled to give more of my uninterrupted time and attention to the larger problems of the business.

"Vice President Bethell, who has been in charge of the Federal Operating Board, was invited to rejoin the organization, but as he wishes to take a long rest, has declined, to the regret of the board. H. B. Thayer, who has been for nearly forty years prominently identified with the operating of the telephone system both from the manufacturing standpoint and from the practical operation, has been made President. N. C. Kingsbury, who has had to do with both the operating and public relations, has been made First Vice President. N. T. Guernsey, the General Counsel, has been made Vice President in charge of the legal department. John J. Carty, long the head of research, experiment and development, has been made Vice President in charge of development and research. W. S. Gifford, who has long been connected with the company, and who, since resigning as Director of the Council of National Defense, has been comptroller of the company, has been made Vice President in charge of accounts and finance.

"Bancroft Gherardi, for many years Mr. Carty's chief aid, and who has been acting chief engineer during the period of Mr. Carty's war service, has been made chief engineer."

Mr. Bethell could not be reached last night at his home in Montclair, N. J.

HYLAN ORDERS INQUIRY IN ARREST OF WOMEN

Asks for Report from Enright on Case in Which Judge Rosalsky Dismissed the Charges.

Mayor Hylan requested Police Commissioner Enright yesterday to make an immediate investigation and report concerning the arrests of Lillian Cohen and Sallie Kobin, respectable working girls, who were convicted in Magistrate Mancuso's court on charges of disorderly conduct made by Detective Gunson of the Vice Squad. The young women were honorably discharged, the Magistrate criticised, and the detective rebuked by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions on Tuesday, when he decided the appeal from the sentence taken by the young women. The Mayor's letter to the Commissioner was as follows:

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor.
June 18, 1919.

Richard E. Enright, Esq.,
Police Commissioner.

My dear Commissioner: I wish you would make an immediate investigation in regard to the arrest of two young women, Sallie Kobin and Lillian Cohen, and report to me. Young women doing no more than it is reported these two girls did should be warned and not arrested. The police officer can very well distinguish the woman on the street who is a solicitor or street walker from the unsophisticated young woman.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo also gave the case his attention in consultation with the Magistrates of the Women's Court, and asked Miss Alice C. Smith, probation officer, to produce a copy of her report made after investigation of the case. Magistrate Francis X. Mancuso, who found the girls guilty on the charges and testimony by Gunson, but released them on suspended sentences after they had been in jail for four days, declined to discuss the developments resulting from Judge Rosalsky's ruling. Magistrate Mancuso said he was preparing a statement which he would give out soon, defining his position in the matter.

When Commissioner Enright was asked what action he had taken on the Mayor's letter he replied that he had no comment to make concerning the matter. Gunson is a new man in the department, having been appointed a policeman in November, 1916, and for a short time was attached to the West Forty-seventh Street station. For two years he has been a member of the staff of the Fourth Inspection District, commanded by Inspector Dominick Henry.

Mrs. Ellen O'Grady, Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner, who has a staff of twenty-eight women detectives, whose services are largely devoted to looking after the welfare of girls, declared that she would make an inquiry regarding the Misses Cohen and Kobin.

Prevention of Railway Accidents.

Because of the many railroad accidents resulting from rear end collisions, the Public Service Commission of the Second District called a meeting yesterday to discuss methods of prevention. James E. Sague, a former member of the commission, suggested that an automatic speed recorder be placed on each engine, and Frank Rhea, a consulting engineer, stated that all engines shall have automatic control. Several inventors of automatic control devices will be asked to file specifications with the commission.

TAILOR TESTIFIES AT WILKINS TRIAL

QUESTIONS NEWSPAPERMEN

MINEOLA, L. I., June 17.—A tailor who testified here today for the prosecution in the trial of Dr. D. K. Wilkins, who is charged with murdering his wife at their home at Long Beach in February, said that he had found bloodstains on a suit sent to him for cleaning a few days after the death of Mrs. Wilkins. Chemical tests had convinced him that the spots on the suit were those of blood, the tailor said, and that they could not have been coffee stains.

The tailor said he was Julius Kaplan of 151 Avenue D and that a few days after the murder a suit had been sent to him by Joseph Jacobson, a tailor in the Bronx. Kaplan said that he noticed stains on the collar and one lapel of the coat and that he had made a chemical test to determine whether they were bloodstains

"How can you tell bloodstains from other stains?" asked Charles N. Wysong, counsel for Dr. Wilkins, in beginning his cross-examination.

"By using peroxide or ammonia on them," replied Kaplan.

"What happens to bloodstains when you use those things?" asked Mr. Wysong.

"The bloodstains turn white," said the witness.

"Is it easier to tell a bloodstain which has been on the cloth a week or which has been there only for a day?" was another question asked by counsel for the defense.

"It is easier to tell them when they have been there only a day," the witness answered.

Kaplan said that he was not a chemist, but that he had studied chemistry in Germany about twenty years ago. He said it was a gray sack suit. Joseph Jacobson, the Bronx tailor, said that the name of the man who brought in the suit was not taken, and that only a numbered ticket was given as a receipt. He said the suit brought to his shop was a gray sack and that the suit had not been returned when the customer returned for it the first time.

When Supreme Court Justice Manning convened court yesterday for the resumption of the trial, Mr. Wysong moved to have struck from the record the testimony of Cassius Coleman, the Justice of the Peace at Long Beach, that, at a conference he had had with Dr. Wilkins and Louis Freese, then counsel for Wilkins, Freese had admonished his client:

"Don't talk too much. You will 'hang' yourself."

In the questioning of newspaper reporters who had interviewed Dr. Wilkins after he had reported to the police of Long Beach that he and his wife had been attacked by burglars, District Attorney Weeks attempted to show several discrepancies in the various stories told then by Dr. Wilkins. One of these alleged discrepancies was his description of the instrument with which he said one of the burglars had struck him on the head. One of the witnesses said he had referred to it as a "lead pipe," a "blunt instrument," a "blackjack," and a "bludgeon." Other questions were asked to draw out the details of the conversation which Dr. Wilkins had told reporters, had taken place between him and the burglars. Other witnesses told of seeing buttons, a veil, and other apparel near the house after the murder. The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning.

WANTS INCOME TAX INJUSTICE CORRECTED

Smith Tells New Jersey Governor Legislature Should Protect Nonresident Taxpayers.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 18.—A possible injustice, as well as one error, in the provisions of the New York income tax law as applied to nonresidents should be corrected at the beginning of the next legislative session, Governor Smith informed Governor William N. Runyon of New Jersey in a communication made public tonight. Governor Smith's communication was in reply to a protest from the New Jersey executive written "on behalf of many thousand New Jersey residents who are engaged in business in New York," and who, under the new State income tax law, would be affected by its provisions. Governor Smith in his reply wrote:

"There seems to me to be one possible injustice and one error in the provisions of the New York Income Tax act as applied to nonresidents. Provision should, it seems to me, be made, if it is practically possible, for the $1,000 and $2,000 exemption to apply to nonresidents who receive their whole income in the State of New York, provided an equal exemption is not granted in the place of their residence. By inadvertence, also, the withholding agent in the case of the nonresident is required, unless the nonresident pays his tax directly, to deduct 2 per cent. in the case of incomes under $10,000, whereas the tax under another section of the bill is fixed at 1 per cent. for incomes under $10,000. This error in the bill, as well as the possible injustice above mentioned, can be corrected, and should be corrected, I think, at the beginning of the next legislative session in January, two months before the first tax must be paid, so that the nonresident taxpayer need not suffer any actual injustice.

KEPT OUT OF WAR, A SUICIDE

Alston Reichling, 31 years old, a Columbia graduate and a pupil of the Department of Extension Teaching at Columbia in 1915 and 1916, committed suicide yesterday morning at his home, 388 Lafayette Avenue, Brooklyn. Reichling was known to be despondent because of his inability to get into the military service or to get regular work. He attempted strangulation by hanging himself by a long scarf to a chandelier in his bedroom. His weight, however, broke the fixture, and while unconscious he was asphyxiated by the escaping gas.

Reichling was graduated from Columbia University in the class of 1909. One of his classmates was Joyce Kilmer, the poet, who made the "supreme sacrifice" on the battlefields of France. Many others of this graduation class lost their lives in the war. Reichling had tried persistently for service at the front. He trained at the Plattsburg Camp, but was rejected because he did not come up to the requirements as to weight.

Reichling was greatly depressed by his failure to qualify for service with the expeditionary forces. He went to Kentucky and obtained a position in a small college there as an instructor in languages. Some of the people there, fancying that he had pro-German sympathies, made things so unpleasant for him that he returned to New York. Since then he had vainly sought a position.

To add to his despondency, he was told upon reaching his home on Tuesday evening that the rent of the apartment occupied by himself and his parents was to be increased.

"Well, I seem to be up against it all around," Reichling remarked to his mother as he retired to his room.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 17.—Lord Haldane does not see any valid reason why women should not attain to the post of Lord Chancellor. Discussing Lord Buckmaster's bill for the admission of women to practice of law in his speech at Caxton Hall tonight, Lord Haldane said that when Viscount Grey and he, about twenty years ago, introduced a bill to remove the disability of women, they thought there ought not be any legal disability imposed upon women except for certain reasons. Those reasons did not attach to the office of the Archbishop of Canterbury or that of Lord Chancellor. The latter office, he said, he had held for three years, and it was one that with a little preliminary culture might be given to a distinguished woman, just like any other office. Old-fashioned prejudices might make some delay in the elevation of women to the office of Archbishop or Lord Chancellor, but the principle was the same so far as the magistracy was concerned, and it ought to be a simpler business in the case of barristers and solicitors.

HAMBY LIFTS VEIL FROM CRIME CAREER

NO HOPE OF ACQUITTAL

Case Transferred to Supreme Court in Brooklyn—Trial Begins on Monday.

Gordon F. Hamby, who is awaiting trial for the murder of two men during the robbery of the East Brooklyn Savings Bank last December, lifted the veil a little from his past life in an interview in the Raymond Street Jail yesterday. In reply to questions he said:

"I have taken part in the robbery of about thirteen banks and two trains. Holding up banks is quite easy. Most of my jobs were done in the central part of the country. I am wanted in Chicago, San Francisco, and several other places. The only time I ever had to shoot during a bank job was in Brooklyn. I did not want to shoot then. I had to because the clerks would not do as I ordered them."

Upon motion of District Attorney Lewis, the trial of Hamby was transferred yesterday from the County Court to the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. The case will be called before Justice Fawcett next Monday.

In his talk Hamby, who prefers to call himself J. B. Allan, said he was born in Alberta, Canada, and had had a college education.

Asked what he thought would be the result of his trial, he replied: "I don't want a trial. Give me the electric chair, and the sooner the better. I will be greatly disappointed if I am not convicted in the first degree. I insist that a trial is unnecessary, but I suppose I'll have to go through one, for it is the formality of the State of New York to try criminals whether they are guilty or not. In Mexico I would not have to wait ten minutes. There a man who commits murder is immediately stood up against a wall and shot. The sooner I am convicted the happier I will be.

"I expected to get $40,000 out of the Brooklyn bank job," he continued. "I was greatly disappointed at the little we did get. This was because my partner did not carry out my instructions. I had ordered him to jump over the rail the minute we entered the place, but he was an amateur and wasted too much time. It took him about four minutes to pick up what money we did get when it should not have taken more than a minute."

Asked if he had any women accomplices, Hamby replied: "I met a girl in New York and we went to Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Chicago, California and Tacoma. I was surprised that the police of California did not get me. Then in Tacoma I got into that political row with Davis which led to my killing him, and here I am."

"Who was your partner in the Brooklyn bank robbery?" he was asked.

"I don't care to say. I don't want to implicate him. He is married, and I think by this time he has left the country. I met him first in Norfolk, Va., a short time before the Brooklyn job."

Reminded that he had not answered the question as to woman accomplices, Hamby said:

"I never worked with any woman holding up banks or trains. In fact, I bothered with women very little. I never told them any secrets, for they talk too much."

Asked about his funds, Hamby said: "I have none at present, not even a penny to buy a cigarette. The only money I had I gave to a friend, and this I do not expect to get back."

"What interest have you in life, with these charges staring you in the face?" was asked.

Hamby lighted a cigarette and watched the match burn itself down and go out before he replied.

"The only interest I have is to see that I spend the time from now until I go to the electric chair in smoking, reading, and making myself as comfortable as possible. I know there is no possible chance of acquittal. In fact, I shall not even take the witness stand in my defense. I know I am guilty, and that is all there is to it.

"There is one reason why I do not care to take the stand. That is that I may be asked questions which I do not care to answer. Of course, if I am especially requested to tell how I came to leave the straight and narrow path I will do so."

The prisoner said his parents were dead, and that he had two brothers whom he had not seen for five years. He said he did not know where either of them was. He said he tried to enlist for the war in the Canadian Aviation Service, but was rejected for refusing to answer certain questions.

Hamby keeps aloof from his fellow-prisoners. He spends much time reading books on psychology. Although he refuses to divulge his real name, the District Attorney has found a clue that may lead to its discovery. Among papers taken from Hamby in Tacoma, Wash., have been found several sheets of paper on which appear figures used in reckoning the latitude and longitude of a vessel at sea. It also contains several names. Through these papers, Mr. Lewis hopes to ascertain the ship on which Hamby went to Europe, and thus learn the name under which he obtained membership in the Seamen's Union and the place he gave as his residence.

CONGRESS FOR REPEAL OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

House Passes Bill, 233 to 122, and Senate Takes Similar Action on Rider.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Both houses of Congress went on record today in favor of repeal of the daylight saving law, clocks to be readjusted to the old system on the last Sunday in October next.

The repeal bill was passed by the House, the vote being: For repeal, 233; against repeal, 122; present, 5. The bill now goes to the Senate.

The vote to take up the repeal bill was 273 to 96. After more than two hours of debate the House rejected, 203 to 19, an amendment by Representative Bland, Republican, of Indiana, to make repeal effective immediately. Passage of the bill soon followed.

Shortly after this action was taken in the House, the Senate voted 56 to 6 in favor of the daylight saving repeal rider to the Agricultural Appropriation bill. The Senate amendment, like the House bill, provides that daylight saving, inaugurated as a war measure, shall end next October. Senators Calder, Frelinghuysen, Newberry, Page, Phipps, and Robinson voted against repeal.

Repeal was strongly urged upon Congress by agricultural interests, which contended that farm labor conditions were complicated by the daylight saving system.

CHALONER TO ASK RETURN OF ESTATE

SEVEN CHANLERS WITH HIM

Action Against Trustee Will Be Based Upon Decision in Recent Libel Case.

John Armstrong Chaloner, who was declared insane by courts in this State twenty-two years ago, and who was adjudged sane by a jury in the Federal Court in this city last month, when he won a verdict on a libel action, announced last night that he would have the full support of the seven members of the Chanler family in a new legal fight to have himself declared sane by the courts of New York and to have his property restored.

He said that a petition calling upon Thomas T. Sherman of the committee in the management of his estate in New York to relinquish the property would be filed this morning and that a hearing would be held in the Supreme Court Tuesday, July 8. He expected, he said, that a decision would be reached within a few weeks, so that he would be declared sane in this State and have here the same rights enjoyed by him in Virginia, where he has lived most of the time since he escaped from Bloomingdale Asylum nearly twenty years ago. In a statement Mr. Chaloner said:

"As Lord Byron remarked: 'A change came o'er the spirit of my dream'—my dream of the last twenty-two years, my restoration to my property—and the odds, in the twinkling of an eye, have changed from heavily against me to as heavily in favor of that dream's realization. This 'consummation devoutly to be wished'—as Hamlet observed—has been brought about by the combined good offices of two charming women, my sister-in-law, Mrs. William Astor Chanler, and my sister, Mrs. John Jay Chapman, as indicated by the following letter from Mrs. Chapman, addressed to me in care of Mrs. William Astor Chanler:

Sylvania, Tarrytown-on-Hudson,
June 9, 1919.

Dearest Archie: I know that I speak for all your brothers and sisters when I tell you that they will do nothing to obstruct any steps that you may take to recover complete control of your rights and property, nor do anything to interfere with your personal freedom.

Indeed, it has been for many years their wish that you should be re-established in your personal freedom and property rights.

Your affectionate sister,
ELIZABETH.

"This means, of course, that Othello's occupation is gone, that the further retention by Mr. Thomas T. Sherman of the post of 'committee' of my personal property would be a work of supererogation. I feel quite sure that Mr. Sherman has the grace to see this, and will step down and out gracefully at the approaching hearing of my case, Tuesday, July 8. But if he does not, and it comes to a 'showdown,' I feel safe in saying that I can 'deliver the vote'—the solid vote of the entire delegation of the Chanler family, male and female—against him. The petition in which the above letter forms an exhibit was signed by me this afternoon and will be served on Mr. Sherman tomorrow."

Mr. Chaloner said that the members of the family to whom he referred were all his brothers and sisters. They are: Winthrop Astor Chanler, William Astor Chanler, Mrs. John Jay Chapman, ex-Lieut. Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Robert Winthrop Chanler, and Mrs. Temple Emmet.

"The action of Judge Hand last month in instructing the jury in my libel action to decide upon my sanity, and the subsequent favorable action of the jury was providential," said Mr. Chaloner, discussing his case last night at the Hotel Brevoort. "It might have taken me years to have recovered the management of my property in this State, and to have myself declared sane, but I think now that, because of that favorable action, it will be only a few weeks before I am restored by the New York Supreme Court to the full enjoyment of my rights and privileges in the State."

He said that if the New York courts restored his rights and property in this State he probably would not take up his residence here but would retain his citizenship in Virginia, where he has lived since he escaped from the State jurisdiction. One reason for his desire to stay in Virginia, he said, was that the surroundings of his estate there were ideal for his purposes of continuing his literary efforts in quiet environment.

"It is probable that I will make frequent visits to this city," he said, "even if I do not maintain a residence here. I am sure I will be here for a great part of the theatrical season, because I am fond of the theatre and the opera. I will probably come to New York about the time of the Horse Show and remain until Lent.

"This has been a long, long fight for me, but I am sure it is going to end in victory. I have been seeking favorable action for about twenty-two years."

Under orders of immunity issued by the Federal Courts, Mr. Chaloner was permitted to come to New York for the trial of two libel cases, and to remain ten days after the completion of the actions, with full immunity from seizure by the State authorities. The last order will be vacated June 27. Mr. Chaloner said he probably would leave the city June 26, unless an extension were arranged, although he will return for the hearing on July 8.

The estate of Mr. Chaloner is estimated at more than $1,500,000, much of it in real estate holdings in this city. His lawyers are Kaplan, Kosman & Streusand. His attorney of record is Frederick A. Ware.

LETUP IN TRAFFIC CASES.

Only 70, Mostly for Speed Violations, Are Arraigned.

Only seventy cases were arraigned yesterday in the Traffic Court before Magistrate Frederick B. House, most of the charges being for speed regulation violations. A curious incident marked the disposal of one of the cases, and involved an unknown man, who announced himself as a "special investigator" for Police Commissioner Enright. Motorcycle Policeman Cornelius J. Goodyear, the officer, appeared before the Magistrate with a man who, he said, had questioned him about the complaint he had made.

"Step up here," said Magistrate House sharply. The investigator did so.

"I would advise you to mind your own business and not interfere with this police officer," said Magistrate House, "and, by the way, what is your business?"

"I am a special investigator in the office of the Police Commissioner," said the man, as he exhibited a pass to that effect.

"Well, let me give you some advice," replied the Magistrate. "You had better leave this police officer alone, no matter who you are."

WAR PROHIBITION REPEAL UNLIKELY

PRESIDENT IS LAST RESORT

New House Bill Would Authorize Him to Allow Use by Means of Proclamation.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Hope of the advocates of the repeal of the wartime prohibition law, so far as it applies to wines and beer, waned today when the Senate, by 55 to 11, defeated an effort to take up a repeal bill offered by Senator Phelan of California. This action, coming after the decision of the House Judiciary Committee yesterday not to vote a repeal bill out, apparently seals the doom of beer and wine on July 1, unless President Wilson acts.

Representative Gard in the House today offered a bill by which the President, through proclamation, might permit the use of light wines and beers, upon the theory that demobilization had been completed and that the exigency that induced the passage of the war time prohibition was over. The Judiciary Committee will take up the measure Saturday.

The Senate vote came after Senator Phelan had moved to suspend the rules so that his repeal bill, which was still in committee, could be taken up. Mr. Phelan quoted from the testimony of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, before the Senate Judiciary Committee Saturday, when he spoke of discontent among workingmen over the prospective lack of beer.

"The President has said he has no authority to repeal wartime prohibition," said Mr. Phelan. "Congress ought to take the matter into its own hands."

Senator Gronna, Repblican, of North Dakota, moved to lay Mr. Phelan's motion to suspend the rules upon the table, the effect of that motion, if carried, being to dispose of it until another attempt might be made to resuscitate it. The Phelan motion was tabled, 55 to 11. Those who voted not to table were:

Democrats — King, Phelan, Reed, Thomas, and Williams—5.

After Mr. Gard had offered his bill in the House Representative Randall of California, a prohibitionist member, said he would fight it if it came before the House.

SALOON MEN RUSH FOR LIQUOR STAMPS

Warning That They May Be Invalid After June 31 Fails to Deter Purchasers.

Following the order of United States Internal Revenue Commissioner Roper to continue the sale of special liquor stamps, which operate as Federal licenses to allow the sale of liquor at wholesale and retail, there was a rush of liquor dealers at the Internal Revenue offices in this city to purchase the stamps.

In accordance with the instructions of Commissioner Roper, every applicant for stamps was advised that the stamps would not confer immunity for violations of the Federal or State liquor laws, and that they might prove invalid after June 31. This did not deter the purchasers, however, who were eager for the stamps covering the sale of liquor for the year from July 1, 1919, to July 1, 1920, because of the chance that President Wilson might put an end to the operation of the war-time prohibition law by declaring mobilization finished, in view of the failure of Congress to act on his recent recommendation on the liquor question.

While officials of the United States Brewers' Association and the National Association Opposed to Prohibition denied that they had information that the President was likely to act so as to allow the sale of liquor until the Prohibition Amendment should go into effect, there was a strong belief that this might happen.

ASCOT RACES REVIVED.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 18.—The Royal Ascot race meeting, which was suspended during the war, was revived this week in all its glory. It is one of the few survivals of an England which some people think is dying, and here and there one hears gloomy predictions of coming changes and upheavals amid which this ultra fashionable and artistocratic gathering will be hurled into the melting pot.

There was nothing whatever in the characteristics of this week's festival to suggest the prevalence of any such lamentable forebodings in the classes whose special prerogatives are said to be threatened. One modern essayist writes:

"The impending fate of the world is forgotten while fashion and sport dance the victory season away. Bonar Law's gloomy accents are hardly heard and scarcely heeded by the butterflies and dragonflies. If an historian of 1970 should happen to read this article while he is collecting material we advise him to study the wild frivolity and frenzied luxury of 1920. It may of course turn out to be the Dance of Life and not the 'Carmagnole,' or Dance of Death, but there is a lot of work to be done, a lot of debt to be paid, and a lot of coal cellars and bellies to be filled during the winter."

The King and Queen and other members of the royal family attended the meeting daily, motoring part of the way from Windsor and driving on to the course in semi-state. The royal party received a welcome warm enough to suggest that London society was nowadays cultivating demonstrativeness. The royal inclosure, which used to be the mecca of American women visiting England during the season, was as well filled as in pre-war days, and the display of toilettes was, if anything, more brilliant than ever.

Really, the only difference between the Ascot of today and of old is that the prices of everything, from lemonade and ices up, have more than doubled.

ANNA WHEATON WEDS.

The wedding of Major Walter T. Collins, U. S. A., of Chicago, who has been a banker in that city, and Miss Anna Wheaton, musical comedy actress, who lately appeared in "Oh, Boy!" took place at 7:30 last evening in Dobbs Ferry at the country place of Messmore Kendall, an old friend of the Wheaton family. It was celebrated on the lawn near the fountain in a setting of trees, flowering shrubs, and June roses, and Mr. Kendall gave the bride in marriage.

She wore a white satin robe draped with lace, and a tulle veil. Her two sisters, Mrs. Helen Bivins and Mrs. Catherine Tullidge of Savannah, and Jane Grey, the actress, were her attendants. Major Collins and his bride have known each other since before her stage career.

The honeymoon is to be brief, as Mrs. Collins will on her return commence rehearsals in a new play in which she is to appear in the early Autumn.

Mutinous French Sailors Make Attack on Brest Jail

BREST, June 18.—Two hundred French sailors, carrying a red flag, attempted to enter the naval jail here yesterday to rescue imprisoned sailors. The attempt failed. There were no casualties.

The imprisoned sailors were from the French battleship Justice, which arrived here from Sebastopol, the Russian Black Sea naval base.

The city was more calm today, but the situation was considered to be still serious.

BOY SCOUT DRIVE PASSES GOAL HERE

McADOO THANKS WORKERS

Rainbow Division Turns in $16,500 as Result of Canvass on Last Four Days.

William G. McAdoo, Chairman of the General Citizens' Committee directing the campaign of the Boy Scouts of America to enroll 325,000 adult associate members and to obtain subscriptions for $1,000,000, announced last night that the reports indicated that the aims of the drive would be found to have been more than realized when the final count was made. The campaign in this city ended at midnight, after a meeting in the stadium of the City College and rallies throughout the city.

"In all of its essentials the Boy Scout campaign has been a great success," said Mr. McAdoo. "We are confident that the 1,000,000 associate members have been enrolled, but it is impossible at the moment to give figures because the returns from the country have not been received. Some communities report large oversubscriptions. Full returns have not been received from the five boroughs of New York City, but we feel confident that as a result of Boy Scout Week, New York will raise her quota of associate memberships.

"Besides the memberships and the money, which were the immediate objectives, the Boy Scout Campaign has been of tremendous benefit in familiarizing the country with the purposes of this fine organization for making the best kind of citizens out of the boyhood of the country.

"In behalf of the officers of the Boy Scouts of America, and in behalf of all the boys of America, who will be benefitted by this great movement, I desire to thank all those who have contributed so generously to the movement and all those who have worked so unselfishly for its success."

An avalanche of subscriptions by mail reached the Boy Scout headquarters and early in the day William H. Edwards, Chairman of the Campaign Committee for this city, announced that the total would be more than $300,000. Reports from all the borough Chairmen were that the goals had been reached and probably passed. One of the surprises for Chairman Edwards was that the Rainbow Division of the Manhattan Canvass Committee had held up reports on the greater part of its work. The workers of that organization were ready yesterday to turn over to the committee more than $16,500 as the result of the last four days' canvassing for members. Mr. Edwards sent a letter to the division praising the members for their zeal in the Boy Scout cause.

Some of the large subscriptions yesterday were: Sigmund Eisner, $5,000; anonymous, through Frank M. Patterson, $5,000; William Howell Reed, $1,000; Vincent Astor, $1,000; E. H. Gary, $1,000; Percy S. Straus, $1,000; John D. Ryan, $500; Michael Friedsam, $500; Payne Whitney, $500; American Thread Company, $500; Mrs. Charles W. Dustin, $500; Menton B. Metcalf, $500; H. M. Crane, $500; Union News Company, $350; Dwight W. Morrow, $250; Charles E. Hughes, $250; Lehman Brothers, $500; McAndrews & Forbes, $500; Paul D. Cravath, $250; Frank M. Paterson, $250; Singer Manufacturing Company, $200; George D. Pratt, additional, $200; C. M. Newcombe, $200, and Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., $200.

INCOME TAX BILL EXCITES WISCONSIN

Manufacturers and Merchants Threaten, If It Becomes Law, to Quit the State.

MADISON, Wis., June 17.—Wisconsin business interests, recovering from the shock produced when the Arnold Income Tax Increase bill passed the Senate, are rushing representatives to Madison to help slaughter the bill when it shows up in the Assembly.

Proposed by Senator Arnold, Milwaukee Socialist, and slipped through the Senate by other radicals, the bill provides a large sliding scale increase in the rate of taxation for persons and corporations until those whose net incomes are more than $20,000 a year would be mulcted to the extent of 25 per cent. on amounts in excess of that sum.

The Senate, regretting its action after hundreds of protests had been sent to the capital, attempted to recall the bill from the Assembly for reconsideration and amendment. But the Assembly voted today to hold the bill. It will probably come up Thursday.

Manufacturers and merchants have publicly announced that if the bill becomes a law they will move their business out of the State.

Following would be the new schedule on individual incomes:

"In excess of $1,000, 1 per cent.; in excess of $2,000, 2 per cent.; in excess of $3,000, 3 per cent.; in excess of $4,000, 4 per cent.; in excess of $5,000, 5 per cent.; in excess of $6,000, 6 per cent.; in excess of $7,000, 7 per cent.; in excess of $8,000, 8 per cent.; in excess of $9,000, 10 per cent.; in excess of $11,000, 12 per cent.; in excess of $13,000, 15 per cent.; in excess of $16,000, 20 per cent., and in excess of $20,000, 25 per cent.

In excess of $1,000, 2 per cent.; in excess of $2,000, 3 per cent.; in excess of $3,000, 4 per cent.; in excess of $4,000, 5 per cent.; in excess of $5,000, 6 per cent.; in excess of $6,000, 7 per cent.; in excess of $7,000, 8 per cent.; in excess of $8,000, 9 per cent.; in excess of $9,000, 10 per cent.; in excess of $11,000, 12 per cent.; in excess of $13,000, 15 per cent.; in excess of $16,000, 20 per cent., and in excess of $20,000, 25 per cent.

FLYNN PREPARES BIG HAUL OF REDS

MORE OUTRAGES PREDICTED

Chief Denies, However, He Said Fourth of July Was Set for Them.

REIGN OF TERROR PLANNED

Palmer Told House Committee of Plot to Destroy Government "at One Fell Swoop."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Officials of the Department of Justice are in possession of information which satisfies them that the persons who sent the May Day bombs through the mails wrapped with paper stamped with the name of a New York department store are members of the same band of terrorists who staged bomb outrages in ten cities on June 2, the date of the attempt upon the life of Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, whose Washington home was badly damaged by a bomb.

William J. Flynn, recently appointed by Attorney General Palmer as Chief of the Bureau of Investigations, said today there was no doubt that these outrages were of a single origin.

Another statement made by Chief Flynn was that he expected more bomb outrages. Alluding to an assertion that he had predicted an outbreak on July 4, he said he had not named that day.

Developments today, after the arrival in Washington of Chief Flynn for conferences with Attorney General Palmer and other officials, all pointed to the probability of an early round-up of the persons now under surveillance as participants in the bomb plots.

Chief Flynn said it had been established beyond a doubt that two men were directed to place the bomb at the home of Mr. Palmer—in fact, he said there were two eye-witnesses who had seen the men a few minutes before the explosion which killed one of the terrorists, and they were able to provide the officials with an excellent description of the companion of the man who was blown to pieces.

The presence of these witnesses, the Department of Justice is satisfied, was responsible for the failure of the bomb throwers to kill Mr. Palmer as well as for the death of one of the bombers. The theory now is that the men had a bomb which was set to explode at a certain hour, at about 11 o'clock, and that one of them was killed because he waited too long in the hope that the persons whom the Department of Justice says were witnesses to the attempt would go away. It is believed that after hesitating until almost the minute set for the bomb to explode, the terrorist attempted to place the bomb under Mr. Palmer's window and was then unable to escape.

His companion was about thirty feet away when the explosion occurred, it is said. He was uninjured and, it is believed, immediately left the city. Both the men connected with the attempt, the witnesses told the Department of Justice, carried suitcases.

While it is stated that the identity of the man who was killed has not been entirely established, the agents of the Department have traced his movements. It is established that he came to Washington from New York and the authorities have found a house in New York at which the man stopped two weeks before the night of the explosion at the Palmer home.

Agents of the Department of Justice, under the direction of Chief Flynn, have now formed a close working agreement with the police of the principal cities of the United States and it is reported, also have extended their operations to Canada.

The department has been proceeding with the reorganization and development of its Bureau of Investigations in the expectation that the $2,000,000 which Attorney General Palmer requested for the detection and prosecution of crimes would be granted by Congress, and there was an outcry of protest from officials tonight when the news was received that the Appropriations Committee of the House had reported the Sundry Civil bill with an appropriation of only $1,400,000 for this work.

The department made public, in another appeal for the funds which it says are absolutely essential to the carrying out of its plans, the information which Mr. Palmer gave to the House Committee when making his request. In the course of this statement, it develops, Mr. Palmer said that "we have received so many notices and got so much information that it has almost come to be accepted as a fact that on a certain day in the future, which we have been advised of, there will be another serious and probably much larger effort of the same character which the wild fellows of this movement describe as a revolution, a proposition to use up and destroy the Government at one fell swoop."

"All that," Mr. Palmer also stated to the committee, "extends throughout the entire country. In the detection of the crimes which have been committed of the same character described, necessarily we can, and will, get a great deal of information, which, if properly used, will serve to prevent the perpetration of such crimes, and I really am quite as much interested in their prevention as in the punishment of the perpetrators."

GET BOMB CLUE IN BROOKLYN.

Police Search Room Used by Woman Caught in Philadelphia.

Clues which the police think may shed considerable light on the identity of the perpetrators of the recent bomb outrages were found by detectives of the Bomb Squad yesterday in the rooms at 268 South First Street, Brooklyn, formerly occupied by Lydia Vincocis, the radical arrested in Philadelphia last Tuesday.

Detectives Brown, Newman and Wallace, of the Bomb Squad, accompanied by a Government agent, went to the Brooklyn address to verify the story told by the Vincocis woman. They found that the landlord and janitor at the house remembered her very well and at once recognized her picture. The officials were admitted to her rooms, which, it was stated, had been vacant ever since she left here a couple of weeks ago. She had lived there for two months under the name of Miss Rosenberg, the landlord told the police.

A copy of the Anarchist Soviet Bulletin was found which bore the water mark of the Ukrainian Print Shop, and the detectives, when they had finished searching the room, went at once to the shop. There they found three radicals—Adolph Schnabel, the head of the Russian organization in this country, which is known to the public as the "Philanthropic Anarchists"; Sergius Youmshanoff, secretary of the Russian People's House, of 133 East Fifteenth Street, and Arthur Lesigne, Treasurer of the latter organization.

The three were taken to Police Headquarters, where they were questioned as to the activities of the Ukrainian press and other matters. The police refused to divulge what the men answered. They were released after a few hours.

Dynamite Caps Stolen.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Federal agents as well as the Chicago police were notified today that several hundred dynamite caps and exploders were stolen from the magazine of the Superior Stone Company's quarry at La Grange. One theory is that the theft was for the purpose of using the caps in making bombs.

Record Price for Gray Goods.

Two things stood out in yesterday's trading in the local market for gray goods. One was the selling by first hands of spot Eastern 39-inch 80 squares at 27 cents a yard, which is said to be the highest price ever paid for these goods. It is equivalent to $1.08 a pound, or 32 cents a pound higher than the maximum price set by the Government on this construction during the closing months of the war. For late delivery, second hands sold some of the same goods at 25 cents a yard. The second feature was the way both first and second hands sold 38½-inch 64-60s at 15 cents early in the afternoon, following a very quiet morning. The sales were for June and July delivery, and the goods moved so fast that within a comparatively short time they were put up a quarter of a cent by both factions and sold at that price for similar shipment. First-hand offerings of the goods were rather limited, and were said to be mostly confined to goods that mills wanted to dispose of before the mid-year inventory. Other print-cloth business included the selling, by second hands only, of nearby deliveries of 39-inch 68-72s at 18 cents. Among the business done on coarse-yarn fabrics were sales of 37-inch 48-squares, four-yard sheetings at 15¼ cents.

Sellers in Women's Neckwear.

Gilets and Bertha effect collars are the present big sellers in the women's neckwear trade. The former article is presented in tucked nets trimmed with "Val" laces. The collars are made of Oriental laces and net. Pleatings have come to the fore again during the last few weeks, and the manufacturers are having trouble keeping up with the demand for such goods. One dollar is now the starting point of retail prices in the women's neckwear departments, and it has been found that the styles selling above that figure meet with an active response. While there is some talk in the trade of settling Fall styles, some of the manufacturers believe that this standardization is not productive of the best results.

Refusing Sample Cuts.

Some of the representative men's wear piece goods houses are declining to furnish sample cuts. These suit lengths were formerly handed out without question to customers who might require them for one purpose or another. The recent decision to discontinue the practice is regarded in the trade as in line with the conservation of material, so that regular orders can be filled. The depreciation of a piece of goods through this sample cutting is also something for which the mill agents can find no excuse.

Salesmen Make Up Orders.

Indicative of the eagerness of salesmen to see that their customers get what goods can be obtained for them was the scene in one of the leading ribbon houses yesterday. Three or four of the order takers were busy selecting merchandise from the stock counters to fill orders received from their accounts. This task of making up the orders would ordinarily be left to the stock clerks, but the salesmen are taking no chances these days. If the merchandise is to be had, they are intent on finding it.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Another payment has been made by Ferdinand Ehrlich of Ferdinand Ehrlich, Inc., importers of general merchandise, 41 Union Square and 22 East Seventeenth Street, on the indebtedness incurred in 1910 by the firm of Ferdinand Ehrlich & Sons. Mr. Ehrlich, who is one of the veterans of the local commercial world, is held in high regard by those who have had business dealings with him. He will continue to make payments on the old indebtedness until it is entirely wiped out.

W. W. Wilbraham, who was formerly associated with Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, as buyer of Oriental rugs, is now engaged in similar work for Boggs & Buhl, Inc., of Pittsburgh.

Levin Brothers of Terre Haute, Ind., are now represented in this market by A. David, resident buyer, 43 Leonard St.

Kahn & Jampolier is the name of a new firm of resident buyers that has begun business at 25 West Thirty-third Street. It is composed of Elliot Kahn and Jack Jampolier, both of whom have had several years' experience in connection with women's ready-to-wear garments.

The Interstate Embroidery Manufacturing Company, of which John P. Siemo is President and which recently opened a new factory in West Hoboken, has inaugurated a system of profit sharing under which 25 per cent. of the net profits will be shared with the employes for the first year. After the first year the opportunity will be afforded the employes to buy shares in the business, from the money thus received.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Again Move Forward, with Speculative Industrial Issues Taking the Lead.

Whatever spirit of caution and restraint that may have been engendered by the deficit in last Saturday's bank statement and the subsequent sharp advance in call money rates, as well as by the warning sent broadcast by the Federal Reserve Board previously, was entirely dissipated by the time yesterday's stock market opened. The same wild and none too discriminate demand for the highly speculative issues that Wall Street had become accustomed to before the sequence of events above referred to occurred was in evidence, and stocks like Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, the two classes of Royal Dutch shares, General Motors, Tobacco Products and Texas Company recorded initial gains of 2 to 4 points, and virtually the whole industrial list and the major portion of the railroads showed substantial gains overnight.

After the opening and throughout the morning the advances continued. In this period the market was very active and displayed every indication of a complete return of courage and the willingness to continue the speculation for the rise. Professional traders and those who deal through the commission houses alike were active on the buying side, and for the first two hours the price level ranged well above the final quotations of Tuesday.

The posting of the opening and renewal rates for money at 8 per cent. for mixed collateral loans and fractionally higher for the industrial collateral tended somewhat to curb the speculation, and from mid-day until about 2 o'clock the market was irregular. Some of the highly speculative stocks receded rather sharply from the early high figures, and the volume of business fell off noticeably. But with the appearance of abundant supplies of money and a corresponding decline in the rate the advance was resumed in the last hour, and most stocks then rose to the highest prices of the session. At the close a majority were either at the best of the day or were very close to the best prices.

Several items in the day's news contributed to the market's bullishness. The weekly trade reviews of the steel and iron industry were unusually favorable, reporting a good demand for a wide variety of products, and containing predictions that at the end of the year it would be found that May had marked the low level of activity and that material improvement would date from that month. The present state of the industry is said to be far better than that of last month, with mills now operating at the rate of 75 to 80 per cent. of capacity, as against little more than 50 per cent. in May.

The weekly weather report issued by the Government also reflected improvement of no mean order. This is to be expected, for June usually is a month of decided crop improvement. But this did not diminish the enthusiasm with which the report was greeted.

The foreign situation again caused little concern among market operators. It seems pretty generally agreed that Germany will accede to the demands of the Allies; if not promptly, then a little later on, and it would be a mistake to assume that professional Wall Street differentiates in this matter. Wall Street is convinced that the war is over, and, while there undoubtedly will be some sentimental relief when the Peace Treaty is finally signed, the Street takes it that to all intents and purposes the war is a thing of the past and is turning its face forward.

The abrupt fall in exchange on Paris occasioned some comment in banking circles. On Monday the rise in Paris checks was heralded as indicative of the early establishment of credits for France in this market. Paris took the same attitude, and on that day dollars turned weak there. As a matter of fact, fluctuations in the exchanges just now probably reflect nothing more than the constantly shifting trading position, and have practically no other significance. Later, when bankers and industrial leaders are organized and plans are matured for extending aid to Europe, the exchanges will be significant, but that time is not yet.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Strong Opening.

No more convincing evidence of the recuperative power of the stock market was needed to induce buying yesterday than the strong opening which followed on substantial gains made Tuesday. Some of the speculative favorites advanced from 2 to 4 points overnight. Texas Company, for instance, opened 4 points above the close of the previous day. Hide and Leather preferred was up 2, and United Cigar Stores and Royal Dutch showed a like gain at the opening. Atlantic Gulf and West Indies was traded in 2½ points higher than the Tuesday close. Throughout the list a similar condition was recorded, even though the gains were not quite so pronounced. This strong opening made its weight felt throughout the day and the recession which some of the professional traders had expected failed to materialize. The money market was, comparatively speaking, easy, a factor which made for a greater degree of confidence, even though the July 1 obligations are not far away.

Some Short Covering.

The strength of yesterday's opening was a shock to traders who were expecting a decline to follow the sharp rally of Tuesday. The strain of seeing prices soar to higher levels became too great for some after a few minutes, and the covering of short commitments was undertaken, this helping to send prices up quite rapidly. Those who have taken the short side in the present movement are apparently not any too sure of their ground, and the least indication of strength is sufficient to cause a scramble for stocks.

Pool Operations.

There was more activity in pools yesterday and several issues apparently achieved their advances largely due to this. During the period of tight money the pools were willing to rest, but with easier rates and a returned confidence on the part of the public, the stage was set for renewal of operations. A pool made up of Chicago interests was reported to be working in one of the equipment issues, all of which were in demand during the day.

Sinclair Oil Advances.

A gain of more than 6 points was made by Sinclair Oil yesterday. The advance came in conjunction with the announcement that earnings for the first quarter of the year showed an increase of 70 per cent. over the net from operations for the corresponding quarter of last year. After all charges, but before Federal taxes, the earnings were $2,847,829.

Cutting the Par Value.

Attention has been drawn in some quarters to recent recapitalizations of a number of companies which have resulted in a decrease in the par value of their stock. While the comment in speculative quarters has been favorable, there have been questions in other circles as to how effective the decrease in parity has been. It is generally admitted that most of the new securities issued have proved more attractive as speculative mediums than was the case with the old stocks which had been selling before the change at comparatively high prices.

Illinois Central Contract $16,540,717.

The Director General has signed the compensation contract with the Illinois Central Railroad at $16,540,717. In its annual report for 1918, which was issued within the last few weeks, the road based its condition on the assumption that this amount would be allowed. In the report it was indicated that the balance after all material deductions had been made was $11,715,590, which was equal to $10.72 on the outstanding stock. In 1917 the road earned $13.90 on the stock. Under Federal operation the road's net operating income decreased more than $3,300,000.

How the Market Recovered.

One of the best indications of the general recovery of the stock market on Tuesday is found in the averages. On Monday, when the decline was greatest, the average decline of 25 industrials was 2.93, and 25 rails declined .82, making the total average decline for 50 issues 1.87, or about 1⅞ points. On Tuesday the average for 25 industrials regained 3.70, and rails .97, while the addition of yesterday's gain made the total advance in average price of the 50 shares of industrials and rails 3.31, which more than offset Monday's loss of 1.87.

FACE $13,626,000 DEFAULT.

Committee to Handle Interests of Chicago Elevated Ry. Noteholders.

A protective committee to handle the interests of the holders of the $13,626,000 extended secured 6 per cent. notes of the Chicago Elevated Railways has been formed, with Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, as Chairman, and with George M. Reynolds, President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, of Chicago; John H. Mason, President of the Commercial Trust Company, Philadelphia; T. Hartley Given, President of the Farmers' Deposit National Bank, Pittsburgh, and R. Floyd Clinch, of Crerar Clinch & Co., Chicago, as the other members. K. W. Berry, of 55 Wall Street, will act as Secretary to the committee. Holders of the securities are invited to deposit their notes either with the National City Bank, or with the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, of Chicago, which are designated as Depositaries under the agreement. Copies of the agreement may be had at either institution, or upon application to the members or the Secretary of the committee.

In the circular which the committee sent out last night to holders of the notes, it is stated that "it seems inevitable that the Chicago Elevated Railways will default in the payment of principal" of the issue. These notes are part of an original issue of $14,000,000 one-year 5 per cent. notes which were extended a year ago for one year. Of the original total holders of $374,000 of the notes refused to extend last year. The others accepted the extension, which was arranged by depositing additional security in trust for the protection of the notes and by increasing the interest rate from 5 to 6 per cent.

TO SHIP GOLD TO EUROPE.

$100,000 in Bars, First Engagement Since End of Embargo.

The first gold engagement for export to Europe since the Federal Reserve Board lifted the embargo on the metal was made yesterday, when $100,000 in bars was engaged at the Assay Office for shipment to Europe, presumably to Spain.

Other engagements yesterday added about $1,500,000 in the amount taken for shipment to South America. It is understood that some of the South American exports will start moving by the end of the week.

The National City Bank, it was learned yesterday, has received permission to increase its shipments to South America to a total of $6,000,000, of which $1,000,000 has already been sent. A good part of the remainder will go Saturday or early next week.

To Build Pipe Line from Oilfield.

The Producers and Refiners' Corporation will shortly begin the construction of a fifty-four-mile pipe line from the Burkburnett oil field to Lawton, Okla., where the company will have complete loading facilities. The line may later be extended to Tulsa, Okla., where the Producers and Refiners Corporation has a 6,000 barrel refinery. At present the shipping of oil from the Burkburnett field is done almost entirely by tank cars. The new pipe line, it is asserted, will relieve the congestion and furnish the company with a large supply of high grade oil for its refinery.

ASK STEEL CONCERNS FOR RAIL MILL COSTS

Federal Trade Commission, for Railroad Administration, Calls for New Statements.

DISPLEASED BY RECENT BIDS

Trade Reviews See Improvement in General Bookings—Export Orders Increase.

The Federal Trade Commission, acting for the Railroad Administration, has called upon the steel companies for new statements of rail mill costs, according to The Iron Age. This action follows the dissatisfaction which the Director General of Railroads, Walker D. Hines, expressed with the bids of steel companies for an order of 200,000 tons of steel rails. It was charged by him then that the steel companies were apparently in agreement to submit the same figures in their bids and he claimed that there had actually been no competition for the order. Only one company, the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company, submitted a bid that differed from the so-called stabilization prices for rails as agreed upon with the Industrial Board of the Department of Commerce, this bid being $10 a ton higher for both Bessemer and open hearth.

The uniformity of the bids drew condemnation not only from Director General Hines, but also from the Attorney General, A. Mitchell Palmer. There was an implied threat, it was said, in the latter's remarks that the steel companies were violating the Sherman antitrust law. Just what is the import of the request for new cost figures is considered to be something of a puzzle. The cost sheets of the steel manufacturers were submitted to the Railroad Administration officials at a meeting at the Hotel Plaza and when there was no agreement as to prices the Railroad Administration announced that no more conferences would be held but that competitive bids for the rail order would be asked. It was the contention of the steel men that the figures which they submitted at the conference, namely $45 a ton for Bessemer and $47 a ton for open-hearth rails, were the lowest that could be set under the present high costs. It is considered probable that the cost sheets which are asked for by the Federal Trade Board will be the same ones which were shown to the Railroad Administration officials, the cost of operations having changed in no material manner since then. The demand is described by The Iron Age in this wise: "No such constructive object as the placing of additional rail orders is avowed, the performance having rather effect of harassment."

Indiscussing streel trade conditions, The Iron Age says in part:

> Improvement in the steel situation is asserted in stronger terms this week. Mill schedules show it, particularly in the Central West. In a number of finished lines bookings are larger, and the opinion has been ventured that May output will stand as the low record of the year.
> Steel ingot production fell last month to an average of 83,000 tons a day, against 102,500 tons in April, a decrease of 17 per cent. The May rate represents about 26,000,000 tons a year, or about 55 per cent. of the country's capacity.

The Iron Trade Review says:

> Lacking the telling factor of railroad buying to round out the market, the demand for iron and steel is spreading to an extent that occasions widespread encouragement. Were the transportation interests free to add their normal needs to the present moving tonnage, it is not difficult to picture the effect on the general situation that probably would result.

TO AID STOCK INQUIRY.

Quotation Company Will Co-operate with District Attorney.

Manager H. P. Gibson of one of the quotation companies that furnishes daily market prices of curb stocks notified the District Attorney's Office yesterday that the company would co-operate in the investigation for remedying conditions concerning the promotion and sale of questionable shares in the financial district. Mr. Gibson inclosed a copy of a letter which he announced had been sent by his firm to members of the New York Curb Association asking for information concerning the promotion of curb stocks.

Assistant District Attorney Dooling, who is investigating and prosecuting stock fraud cases, said yesterday he had received information that the president of one oil company who had been sought by the District Attorney's Office for examination concerning this company's operations and other stock sales, had gone to Europe.

Colorado Springs Bond Notice.

The First Mortgage Gold Bond Protective Committee of the Colorado Springs & Cripple Creek District Railway Company has issued a circular notifying bondholders that 80 per cent. of the outstanding bonds have been deposited with the Central Union Trust Company under the agreement, and that deposits of additional bonds will be received without penalty until July 1. The circular says the road's receiver is rebuilding a burned bridge which caused the diversion of a large amount of traffic, and that this will be ready for use about July 15. It also says assurances have been received that a fair part of the diverted traffic will be recovered.

COTTON DROPS, THEN RISES.

Early Decline, Followed by Advance Holding to the Close.

Good weather reports from most parts of the cotton belt, and lower than due Liverpool cables, caused a general decline in the early part of yesterday's cotton market. The highly favorable weather caused a good deal of Southern selling to eventuate, and the Liverpool advices, which indicated a falling off in the spot demand there, as well as a heavier tone to the contract market, inspired local ring operators to take the short side for a quick turn, which they did with rather profitable results. First prices were down 5 to 16 points, and the selling which followed sent the price level down further until losses ranging from 45 to 58 points had been scored around noon.

The Government's weekly weather report showed an unexpectedly favorable situation developing, despite private reports to the contrary. Trade interests failed to react to this report in the usual way, and, for that matter, the trade did little of anything on either side of the markets.

In the afternoon, especially in the last hour, when the stock market began to advance and speculation there assumed substantial proportions, Wall Street buying turned cotton prices up and lifted the level from the low ranges of a half cent or more below Tuesday's closing to 15 to 20 points above those figures, and at the close the late advances were held well.

Business was not unusually brisk, although there was a good volume moving. Close observers look for an early resumption of the big speculation, particularly if the stock market broadens out again and the money situation eases. The export clearances posted totaled 24,861 bales, making the total for the week thus far 36,880 bales.

CAR TRUSTS

Bond buyers interested in the purchase of high grade investment securities are asked to consider the splendid record for safety and marketability possessed by equipment trust certificates and bonds.

The United States Railroad Administration at present is contemplating the issuance of approximately $280,000,000 par value of equipment trust certificates to be secured on equipment costing $400,000,000.

In reference to this equipment trust financing The New York Times remarked in its leading editorial on Monday, June 16th, 1919, that "This is a favored security and is expected to be so good that it will sell itself."

From the report of Chairman Frederick B. Washburn of the Committee on Savings Legislation to the Savings Bank Section, September 24th, 1918, we quote as follows:

"We have recommended to all Savings Banks: That they purchase a large percentage of serial securities, which would yield a constantly inflowing stream of cash. Serial municipals and equipment obligations of railroads will supply the need and are readily obtainable in any given maturity."

We have specialized for many years in the purchase and sale of car trust securities, millions of dollars par value in equipment trusts having been bought and sold by this house during these years without the handling of a single defaulted security.

We therefore believe that excluding the direct obligations of the United States Government, equipment trust certificates, bonds and notes represent the safest and most attractive form of investment security now offered to the public.

Court decisions have established the prior position of equipment trusts in receivership and in reorganization proceedings. In many instances the courts have held that car trusts are entitled to preferential treatment over first mortgage bonds.

There are several hundred millions of these equipment obligations outstanding which offer to the purchaser an attractive choice of yield and maturity. Our trading department maintains an active market in these bonds.

We buy and sell entire issues of railroad and industrial car trusts and will submit at all times a comprehensive list of offerings of the car trust securities of well known companies, comprising both odd lots and round amounts of bonds.

Our mailing list is now in process of revision. We shall be pleased to add thereto the names of any individual investor, bank or institution to whom our offering lists may be of interest.

A booklet describing the history of car trust securities and detailing their many advantages will be gladly mailed upon request.

British Victory and Funding Bonds

Owing to the low rate of exchange, why not invest in the four per cent. British Funding Loan and Victory Bonds? The issue price to be £80 and £85 for each £100 par value, which, at the current rate of exchange, approximates £75.10 and £80.10 with an increased proportionate yield on investment. The bonds are free of British income and super tax to all bonafide non-residents of Great Britain.

The Victory Bonds are accepted in payment of British death duties at their face value. The Funding Loan (stocks and bonds) will be accepted for British death duties at £80 for each £100 par value.

The Anglo-South American Bank, Limited, will be glad to transmit applications through its head office in London, which will hold securities in safe custody if desired, and collect interest and drawn bonds free of charge.

Texas Prepared

One of the great advantages which will be enjoyed by producers of oil in the Texas fields is the already completed pipe lines for the transportation of crude. Exclusive of the Standard and Prairie lines there are approximately 8,000 miles completed to date.

We are probably safe in the statement that no other oil fields as extensive as Ranger and Burkburnett were ever developed, so well equipped with refineries and pipe lines, and before the development progresses much further the equipment will be materially increased. In addition to this the refiners of Texas have over 10,000 tank cars to handle their crude and refined products.

Confidence

Those who believe in the strength of this nation and the future of American industry cannot fail to have confidence in the bonds and notes of corporations for whose products and services there is a steady and growing demand throughout the United States. The fact that these securities now yield returns that are possible only when conditions are unusual should prompt decisive action.

RUSSIAN BONDS KEEP LEVEL

Prices Unchanged, Despite Failure to Pay on Maturity.

The $50,000,000 6½ per cent. three-year bonds of the Imperial Russian Government, which fell due yesterday, were not paid, as it had been announced they would not be on Tuesday afternoon. The bonds, which have been dealt in on the Broad Street curb, changed hands yesterday at substantially the same prices as had obtained on the previous day, around 62. The 5½ per cent. issue of $25,000,000, which matures on Dec. 1, 1921, also was quiet and steady, with no change in price from the preceding day's figures of 47.

At the offices of the members of the banking syndicate which originally floated these bonds, it was reiterated that a protective committee will be formed to take care of the bonds, but it was said that no announcement of the personnel of this committee could be made at the present time. The banks and bankers who handled the marketing of the bonds include J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City Bank, the Guaranty Trust Company, Lee, Higginson & Co., and Kidder, Peabody & Co.

Sinclair Oil gained 6¾ while Mexican Petroleum moved up 4½ and Pan American Petroleum 8¾. United Cigar Stores was bid up 9¾ while American Sumatra rallied 3¾ and Tobacco Products 3¼. This company owns a 60% interest in the Harmon Well, Panuco River district, Mexico, which has an estimated output of 80,000 barrels a day. A large part of this output has been contracted for at a price which should net seven cents a barrel profit; should the total output be sold at the same figure very substantial profits should be earned on the common stock.
The company has recently sold approximately $500,000 prior lien convertible shares, the proceeds of which will take care of the floating and funded indebtedness of the company and have a substantial cash working capital.
I trade in both the prior lien and ordinary shares and solicit inquiries in connection therewith.

New York Railways Company

To Holders

First Real Estate and Refunding Mortgage 4% Bonds, due 1942:

The Court has announced that the interest due July 1, 1919, on the above-named bonds will not be paid. A large amount of bonds has already been deposited and the Committee urges all bondholders, who have not deposited, to do so immediately. United action is necessary in view of the certain default in the payment of interest.

The Committee wishes to call your attention to the fact that June 21, 1919, is the last date upon which the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, will receive bonds for deposit under the Deposit Agreement dated March 7, 1919. Bonds will not be received after that date, except upon such conditions as the Committee may decide to impose. Certificates of Deposit representing deposited bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Dear Mr. Homeseeker:

Many of you desire a suburban home of your own. Business takes me to Europe. I want to sell mine. This letter will enable us to meet each other. The plot has 100 ft. of actual water front, with riparian rights, running in depth 245 ft. to Lake Drive. A beautiful lawn with splendid shading oaks and many flowers and shrubs runs to the water's edge. The house is five years old and in perfect condition. There are 4 big rooms on the first floor, 4 fine bedrooms, 2 large bathrooms and sleeping porch on the second floor, and a pool and billiard room, maid's room, bath and store room on the third floor. Electric light, heat, water, parquet floors and all city conveniences are installed. Everything up to date and modern. And it is only a few minutes' walk to the R. R. Sta. Express service. Quick, convenient, and easy commuting to heart of Manhattan. The price is less than it has cost me to date; $18,500. Most of this can remain on mortgage. If you like the furniture I will sell that, too, at a bargain. Take a little cash, put aside your present rent for a few years and own it free and clear.

Sincerely,
Opportunity,

TRY FOR JUNIOR ACCOUNTANCY,

OCTOBER, 1919,

AND FOR SENIOR ACCOUNTANT,

OCTOBER, 1920.

October 15 to November 15 is the period during which one-fourth of the year's business changes, readjustments, and building up of staffs are made.

If you have a faculty for figures and the crude stuff for the making of an accountant, there is just about time between now and October 15th this year for you, thru suitable intensive training—during your spare hours at home—to qualify for a Junior Accountancy position that will pay at least $35 a week.

And ample time to qualify, before October, 1920, for position of Senior Accountant, Auditor, or Income Tax Expert, at a salary of at least $75 a week—with possibilities of more than twice that amount.

It is only a question of raw ability and industry, a resolute purpose to devote five spare home hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business-training system ever devised, under the tutelage of a corps of eminent Certified Public Accountants who are renowned as practical teachers.

We have given hundreds of ambitious, earnest men and women the start that has put them over the top, and have their records to point to with just pride. We can do as much for you if you are made of the right stuff. It is worth your while to investigate.

The commission, Washington, D. C. states that the need of stenographers, typewriters, and bookkeepers (both male and female) for employment in the United States Government service at Washington, D. C., is acute, as the demand far exceeds the supply. The commission desires that qualified persons be urged to compete in the examination for the above positions for employment in the Government departments at Washington. Persons desiring to apply for the departmental examination should secure and execute Form 304 and forward same by mail to the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes.

Associate Supt. John L. Tildsley went to Cambridge yesterday to see his son, John, graduate at Harvard.

Magnus Gross, former President of the Teaching Council, and afterward assistant to Secretary Palmer, will be assigned to a position in City Supt. Ettinger's office on June 25.

The Board of Education yesterday decided to ask for $500,000 to make necessary repairs to school buildings in the five boroughs.

The city high schools have held the ninth contest for the Municipal Art Society Trophy for good draftsmanship. Sixteen teams of five pupils each entered the contest, the pupils in each team being students in the fourth term of the high school course. Morris Greenberg, head of the art department of the Commercial High School, Brooklyn; Robert Dulk, a well-known designer, and James P. Haney acted as judges. Stuyvesant High School won the trophy by a total of 265.5 points out of 300. Manual Training High School secured second place, and Bay Ridge High School third place. Teams from eight high schools contested for a similar trophy offered by the School Art League to advanced pupils. In this contest the Morris High School won the trophy by a total of 241.5 points out of 300. Bay Ridge High School secured second place, and De Witt Clinton High School third. The trophy offered by the School Art League consists of a bronze medallion. Miniature copies of the two trophies will be distributed to the team members at the commencement exercises of the winning school.

Mrs. Grace Stracnan Forsythe, District Superintendent in charge of Districts 33 and 35, Brooklyn, has asked the 1,200 graduates of P. M. today. She has asked the Mayor, the President of the Board of Education, and other officials to address the children.

Emily Blaesius, a teacher in P. S. 18, the Bronx, will be dismissed from the school service on charges preferred against her of being absent from her duties without leave.

Samuel W. Patterson, a teacher of English in the De Witt Clinton High School, will be excused without loss of pay from June 23 to 27, inclusive, to give a course of lectures on "Principles and Methods of Teaching" at the Summer Conference at Wellesley College.

John McCormack, the tenor, who has just become a naturalized American citizen, will sing at an Americanization meeting at P. S. 27, Manhattan, this evening.

GUARD MOBILIZATION TEST.

Two Brigades Assembled to Try Out Speed and Efficiency.

Two brigades of the New York guard were mobilized last night by their commanders to test the speed of assembling the men and to vary the program of training during the Summer. Men from six of the regiments were assigned to posts in different parts of the city and marched or rode in automobiles to stake their stations there before returning to the armories.

Brigadier General George R. Dyer, Commander of the First Brigade in this city, said the test mobilization was carried out so that the regiments would have full appraisal of their equipment and of the efficiency of their units. Brigadier General James Robb, in command of the Second Brigade in Brooklyn, said the mobilization had nothing to do with the troubles on the Mexican border or bomb outrages.

PEACE-TIME RECORD IN ARMY RECRUITING

955 ACCEPTED IN TWO DAYS

Officers Say Applicants for Admission Express Desire for Practical Training.

Reports reaching the Army Recruiting Service in this city from recruiting stations in other parts of the country and from the War Department in Washington yesterday indicated that the phenomenal run of successful recruiting of men to serve in France and on the Rhine had been the rule throughout the nation. The peace-time recruiting record of 508, set on April 18 of this year, was exceeded on the second day of the drive.

"All peace-time recruiting records throughout the country have been shattered by the wide campaign of publicity conducted by the War Department to tell the people of the wide opprtunities that exist for young men in the military service," said the bulletin given out yesterday by the Army Recruiting Service here. "For the first time in its conduct of recruiting the War Department began a campaign of paid newspaper advertising on Monday, June 16.

"On that day 442 men throughout the country were accepted for service. On Tuesday, June 17, the number of men accepted was 513. The acceptances are ordinarily about one-third of the applications. Taking this as a basis, it is seen that, since the campaign of publicity was opened, almost 3,000 young men have asked for admission to the great university known as the American Army. The greatest number previously accepted on any day in peace time was 508, on April 18, 1919.

"The figures for the New York district alone are: Monday, June 16, 151 applications, of whom sixty-three were accepted; Tuesday, June 17, 247 applications, of whom ninety-four were accepted."

Although no official reports upon the day's recruiting in the metropolitan district had been received last night at the headquarters at 461 Eighth Avenue, officers said that the indications were that the number for Wednesday would be even larger than on Tuesday. They pointed out that this was unusual because the number of enlistments usually drops in the middle of the week.

Colonel J. T. Conrad, Major C. B. Howard, Captain F. H. Hackett, and other officers of the recruiting service here were unanimous in the opinion that the response to the call for 50,000 recruits, for service in any branch of the army and in practically any country where large forces are serving now, was due largely to the offer of the army to teach every soldier some trade or vocation that would be useful to him in civil life. Branches of the army which, in giving out information for recruiting, have emphasized most strongly the educational opportunities have been receiving the largest share of the applications. Coupled with the offer of travel and foreign service, this educational appeal has had an extraordinary effect, the officers pointed out.

Instances of the desires of individual recruits who applied yesterday for admission to the army were cited by the officers as proof of their assertions. One of the men who applied for enlistment yesterday in the Motor Transport Corps was Albert A. Hite, of 23 West Sixty-second Street, who said that the educational opportunities of the service appealed to him so strongly that he could not resist the desire to enlist. Hite said that he had been working in a garage for $21 a week, and that at 39 he saw a chance in the army of learning more about gas engines.

Another recruit who expressed the same desires was Joseph Axelrod, of Waterbury, Conn., who at 21 was earning $21 a week as a press hand, and it seemed to him, he said, that he had little chance of quick advancement.

"Those two instances represent the desires of the majority of the men who have applied for enlistment in this district," said Major Howard. "The men want to learn something new that will increase their earning capacity and experience, and they see in their service in the army the chance they have been looking for."

BOARD ANSWERS TEACHERS.

Says They May Meet in School Buildings if Rules Are Observed.

The Board of Education, in a long secret session of its Committee of the Whole yesterday, discussed, among other matters, the recent letter of the Teachers' Union, asking that trials of teachers be held by a committee consisting of persons outside the board as well as in it, and requesting that the use of the public school buildings be restored to the union. President Prall was authorized to send a reply to the letter, stating that the trials of teachers were held in accordance with statutory legislation on the subject, and that the board did not deny to any teachers' organization the use of the public schools, providing that it lived up to the rules of the department.

A letter was read from the American Defense Society praising the board's attitude in the German language question and Bolshevism. It asked the board to extend the prohibition of the teaching of the German language in the public schools to five years, saying that as soon as Germany was able it would renew its fight against France and Great Britain, a struggle in which the United States might be involved.

The Italian American Democrats of the Bronx sent a letter to the board protesting against statements about Italy's part in the war made in questions asked of school children. It said that Italy's entrance into the war was inspired by the same motives that inspired America to take part in it. The communication was referred to the City Superintendent.

Action in the case of George J. Smith, member of the Board of Examiners, was deferred until the regular meeting of the Board of Education next Wednesday.

POST-WAR PRICES IN ITALY.

Vice Consul Tells of Eggs in Naples Hotels at $3 a Pair.

Italy is passing through a post-war period of inflated prices, according to Thomas B. Gale, American Vice Consul at Naples, who returned with his wife and daughter yesterday on the Duca d'Abruzzi. He said that in the hotels of Naples two fried eggs cost twelve francs, while the average price of eggs in the retail stores was six francs apiece. Sugar was selling at two and a half francs a pound, he said.

Mr. Gale said the Italian people were desirous of reaching an amicable solution of the Fiume dispute. He believed this and similar questions affecting Italy which were brought up at the Peace Conference would be successfully adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Chester W. Cuthill, secretary to Secretary of War Baker, was a passenger on the transport Agamemnon, which arrived yesterday with more than 5,000 members of the A. E. F. The returning units abroad the Agamemnon included the 14th Infantry, 64th Infantry, 1,596 members of the 1st Regiment Air Service Mechanics, 662 members of the 2d Regiment Air Service Mechanics and a number of convalescent soldiers.

"WE were 'up in the air' when it came to buying a car! Then we called on Schoonmaker & Jacod. It wasn't a question of choice any longer—for they purchase only cars of the better makes—their Service Engineers overhaul them from tail light to bumper. Above all, they gave us the facts first—then showed us a model that had lines and power. We purchased that car on the strength of Schoonmaker & Jacod's 'say-so'—and we are mighty glad we did."

TOLERATED BY GOVERNMENT

Nuorteva Much Sought After by Revolutionary Bodies—Why Mexico Was Ignored.

A secret agent of the Soviet Russia Mission, in a confidential report made on April 19, which was seized in the raid on the Soviet "embassy" a week ago and received in evidence yesterday at a hearing before the legislative committee investigating seditious activities, reported to L. A. C. K. Martens, head of the Soviet Mission, that the State Department at Washington "tolerates our bureau, although it knows that we communicate with Moscow and receive large sums of money from there."

From the testimony it appeared that the secret report on the attitude of the State Department was prepared by Professor G. V. Lomonesoff, at one time Professor of Mining in a Russian college, later was attached to the Russian Embassy under the Lvoff and Kerensky Governments, and after the Bolsheviki came into power manager of the railroad branch of the Commissariat of the Interior in the Soviet Government. According to his report Acting Secretary of State Frank L. Polk had expressed dissatisfaction with "the Czarist officials" representing the Kolchak Government. The report also indicated that, chafing under inability to get possession of Russian funds in this country controlled by Ambassador Bakhmetoff, the Soviet envoy was contemplating an exposé, which his agent discouraged.

The committee yesterday went into the finances of the Soviet Bureau. The account books were received in evidence and will be examined by accountants before the committee meets again next Thursday. So far the secret depository for large funds received from Moscow, alluded to in the report of the secret agent has not been found. The average daily bank balance of the bureau varied from $5,000 to $9,000, replenished as need arose by Martens in amounts varying from $1,000 to $4,000, always in currency.

Archibald E. Stevenson, associate counsel of the committee, occupied the witness chair all day. He read into the record a considerable lot of correspondence between radical organizations and Santari Nuorteva, the Finnish Secretary of the Soviet "embassy," showing that he was in much demand as a speaker and radical propagandist.

The mailing list of the Soviet Bureau containing the names of hundreds of persons in every State and the District of Columbia was also produced before the committee. The list relating to this State contained 500 names which Mr. Stevenson said represented the "cream of Reds and apologists for radical propaganda" in this country.

Reason for Ignoring Mexico.

Some light was shed in evidence introduced yesterday on the proposal for Bolshevik propaganda in Mexico which was hinted at in newspaper articles after the papers in the Soviet Bureau had been seized last week. Secretary Nuirteva at that time declared that an examination of the papers would show that an offer to launch Bolshevist propaganda in Mexico under a retainer of $10,000 had been turned down. But he did not at the time state the reason for not accepting the offer.

This was brought out at the hearing yesterday in a letter from Linn A. Gale, a former Albany newspaper man, who went to Mexico soon after the draft law went into effect and who now is publishing, in the City of Mexico, Gale's Magazine-Journal of the New Civilization. Gale threw out a feeler for financial aid toward Bolshevist propaganda in Mexico. The letter was addressed to Martens, who made a notation on it referring it to Secretary Nuorteva. The latter urged that the proposal be ignored in the following blue pencil note on the letter:

"We should have nothing to do with this writer. Impression letter makes is that he is an 'agent provocateur' [a Government agent that is trying to trap them and get them into a hole] or simply an adventurer."

The confidential report of the Soviet's secret agent, written in Russian, was translated by George J. Starr as follows:

"From two independent sources I have been informed that there is being organized now in New York a syndicate for trading with Soviet Russia. Originally it was evidently intended to operate principally through the Baltic Sea, but later, in connection with the formation of the Nansen Commission, the centre of effort has been transferred to the Black Sea.

"In connection with this, the initiators are striving to obtain the participation of persons close to the British interests. At present they are apparently principally interested in the diplomatic possibility of trading with Soviet Russia.

French Prisoners in Germany 60,000 More Than Reported

PARIS, June 19.—German figures on the number of French prisoners held in Germany were found to be incorrect, Leon Abrami, Under Secretary in the Ministry of War, announced in the Chamber of Deputies today. More than 60,000 French prisoners in excess of the German figures were found in Germany.

The number of French soldiers missing in action has reached 314,000, the Under Secretary said. The bodies of the majority of the missing, he added, it would be impossible to find. Interallied missions were scouring Germany to ascertain if any prisoners still remained there.

25 FIRMS INVOLVED IN TAX FRAUD CASE

Collector Edwards Asserts Government Will Recover $50,000,000 Which Is Unpaid.

TWO MORE UNDER ARREST

Accused Federal Agent Says He Accepted Bribes but "Double Crossed" the Bribers.

Abraham Lincoln Samuelson of 1,807 Clinton Avenue, the Bronx, a partner in the Sterling Accounting and Audit Company, and Bernhard M. Joffe of 1,384 Prospect Avenue, the Bronx, a public accountant, were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Hitchcock and held under bail of $15,000 and $5,000, respectively, as alleged conspirators in a plot to defraud the Government by false tax returns.

They were accused of acting with Morris S. Rachmill, a partner of Samuelson, and Morris Rosenblum, an Internal Revenue agent, who were arrested Wednesday. Assistant United States District Attorney Benjamin P. De Witt said that Rosenblum in a statement said he had arranged, in connection with the Sterling Company, to reduce the tax of more than twenty-five firms by certifying returns for only a fraction of the earnings which the companies actually were receiving.

William H. Edwards, Internal Revenue Collector for the Second District, said the discovery of the alleged plot would result in recovering $50,000,000 in taxes for the Government. Mr. De Witt, while not so optimistic, said at least several hundred thousand dollars in taxes would be recovered.

The books of the Sterling concern were obtained yesterday with the aid of search warrants, and from these, it is said, Rosenblum's statement as to the number of firms that had agreed to pay bribes for the reduction of their tax returns was confirmed.

"Some of these firms are very large," said Mr. De Witt, "and the amounts involved in individual cases are considerable. There will be twenty-five warrants or more within a short time. We are obtaining full confessions. At least one man from each firm which conspired to defraud the Government will be arrested." Mr. De Witt, in reply to questions, said none of the firms was in Wall Street.

"Rosenblum told us," he said, "that he had been 'double crossed,' and had not received the amounts which had been promised him for agreeing to certify fraudulent returns. He also said he had 'double crossed' the firms which conspired with him. He said that in each case he made out one dishonest statement, showing a small return to be taxed. This he turned over to his fellow-conspirators, he said, telling them he would turn it in to the Government.

"He declares that what he really did was to make out an honest return and file it officially, so that these concerns would be taxed for the full amount to which they were liable. In some cases, he said, the firms were shocked to get bills from the Government for the amount of the tax which was really due, and they applied to him for advice. He recommended, he said, that they write to the Internal Revenue Collector, asking for further information. When these letters were received they were turned over to him, he said, and he quietly ignored them. This is his story, and there are some signs that it may be true.

"According to Rosenblum, the auditing firm sought his services to go over the accounts of every client who was seeking to dodge paying an honest tax. In some cases he managed to have himself assigned to work on the books of these firms, but in other cases could not make this arrangement."

Paris Sees Fiume Shelved; Asks Who Will Sign for Italy

PARIS, June 19, (Associated Press.)—The resignation of Premier Orlando's Cabinet, should the King of Italy decide to accept it, would, according to conference circles, result in the indefinite postponement of the settlement of the Adriatic question, as it would involve the appointment of a new set of Italian delegates to the Peace Conference.

This raises an additional question as to who will sign the German treaty for Italy on Monday.

ORLANDO IS OVERTHROWN

WANTED A SECRET SESSION

Urged That Questions of Government's Foreign Policy Be Not Discussed in Public.

DEFENDED HIS COURSE

And Said He Felt Satisfied in General with Results Obtained at Paris.

ROME, June 19.—The Italian Government resigned this evening, following an adverse vote against it in the Chamber of Deputies.

Premier Orlando in announcing his resignation and that of the Cabinet said King Victor Emmanuel had reserved decision as to acceptance.

The Chamber of Deputies had, by a vote of 259 to 78, rejected Premier Orlando's motion in favor of discussing in secret session a question of confidence that related to the foreign policy of the Government.

Before the vote Premier Orlando said, in addressing the Chamber:

"Italy's peace with Germany and Austria has been solved in a manner with which, on the whole, I feel satisfied."

Insisting on the necessity of a secret session, the Premier declared that the Government needed greater confidence and would treat his motion for a secret session as a question of confidence. The Socialists opposed this.

Signor Orlando said in his speech that Italy's position had been considerably aggravated by international events during the second fortnight of April. This referred to President Wilson's message regarding the Adriatic question.

First—Maintain with firmness all the essential points of the Italian claims, without which Italy is convinced peace will be neither just nor adequate to the immense sacrifices suffered.

Second—Remain faithful in your duties toward the Allies.

Third—Avoid any blind form of obstinate intransigeance. Indeed, facilitate conciliatory suggestions capable of producing accord in the conference over the problems concerning Italian frontiers.

Signor Orlando urged Parliament to separate the discussion of foreign affairs from the internal policy of the country, the latter being virtually absorbed in the grave question of the high cost of living. Past history showed, he said, that internal perturbations were

Chinese Are Ready to Sign, With Shantung Reservations

PARIS, June 19, (Associated Press.)—The Chinese delegation to Peace Conference remains firm in its resolve to sign the German Peace Treaty, with reservations. When the German rights in Shantung were awarded to Japan, instructions were received by the delegation from the President of China and the Chinese Cabinet not to accept this settlement. These instructions have not been altered.

In fact, members of the Chinese mission say they are constantly receiving messages from China which show that the feeling is so bitter against the Shantung clause in the treaty that the delegation could not sign the document unreservedly, even if their Government had not taken a positive stand in the matter.

The resignations of Tsao Yu-Lin, Minister of Communications; Chang Tsung, and Hsiang Iu Tsungyu are taken by the Chinese mission as an indication that anti-Japanese feeling in China is becoming much more intense, as the three officials named are among the most prominent of the pro-Japanese party in China.

TRIAL OF EX-KAISER TO SET PRECEDENT

PROMISES A JUST HEARING

Prepared to Accept the Verdict of History as to Its Impartiality.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—The Allied Governments do not attempt to justify their demand for the trial of the ex-Kaiser and the surrender of the Germans accused of violation of the laws of war on any strictly legal grounds. This accords with Secretary Lansing's views expressed in his minority report as a member of the Reparations Commission of the Peace Conference, that in order to justify the trial of the accused Germans legally it would be necessary to charge them with specific crimes.

The Council of the Great Powers decided to adopt the view that international safety justified them in establishing a new practice in dealing with those of high estate who had been responsible for causing the war. They support this new order of things on the ground that it is essential as an example for the future heads and ministers of a Government whose ambitions lead them to bring on war and for those who are guilty of cruel practices in the conduct of a war. Under the caption "Penalties" the allied Governments, after reiterating their conviction that they "regard the punishment of those responsible for bringing these calamities on the human race as essential on the score of justice," go on to say:

Treaty Sets New Precedents.

"Also they think it not less necessary as a deterrent to others who at some later date may be tempted to follow their example. The present treaty is intended to mark a departure from the traditions and practices of earlier settlements which have been singularly inadequate in preventing the renewal of war. The allied and associated powers, indeed, consider that the trial and punishment of those proved most responsible for the crimes and inhuman acts committed in connection with the war of aggression is inseparable from the establishment of that reign of law among nations which it is the agreed object of the peace to set up.

"As regards the German contention that the trial of the accused by tribunals appointed by the allied and associated powers would be a one-sided and inequitable proceeding, the allied and associated powers consider that it is impossible to intrust in any way the trial of those directly responsible for the offensive against humanity and international right to their accomplices in their crimes. Almost the whole world has banded itself together in order to bring to naught the German plan of conquest and dominion. The tribunals they will establish will therefore represent the deliberate judgment of the greater part of the civilized world. They cannot entertain the proposal to admit to the tribunal representatives of countries which have taken no part in the war. The allied and associated powers are prepared to stand by the verdict of history as to the impartiality and justice with which the accused will be tried.

"Finally, they wish to make it clear that the public arraignment under Article 227, framed against the German ex-Emperor, has not a judicial character as regards its substance, but only in its form. The ex-Emperor is arraigned as a matter of international policy for a supreme offense against international morality, the sanctity of treaties, and the essential rules of justice.

"The allied and associated powers have desired that a judicial form, a judicial procedure, and a regularly con-

PEACE GROUP GAINS FAST

Noske, Three Other Ministers, and Assembly Majority Said to Favor Signing.

BUT ALL DODGE THE SIGNING

Even Those Favoring Acceptance Object to Putting Names to Document.

BERLIN, June 19, (Associated Press.)—The German National Assembly will make its final decision on the Peace Treaty Saturday, according to private advices received from Weimar. In all probability, it is said, the Assembly will decide to order that a plebiscite be taken.

The semi-official Vorwärts, which now openly argues that if the Allies will not give time for a plebiscite there is nothing to do but sign, says that the National Assembly must have the deciding voice, but if accord is lacking between the Government and the majority of the Assembly, the Cabinet must decide.

[If the German National Assembly orders a plebiscite on the Peace Treaty Saturday, the voting will have to be done so that the German answer can reach the Allies in Paris by 6:45 P. M. Monday, Paris time, unless the Germans should request, and the Allies grant, a further extension of time in which to act on the amended treaty. . . . On April 11 it was reported from Berlin that the German Government had all the appurtenances of an election in readiness for a plebiscite on the peace terms. At that time persons close to the Government said that such an election could be completed throughout Germany in forty-eight hours. Since the revolution in November all important elections in Germany have been held on Sunday.]

Report Heavy Drift to Peace.

A dispatch to the Neue Berliner Tageblatt from Weimar reports that Mathias Erzberger, head of the Armistice Commission; Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense; Herr Wissell, Minister of Economics; Herr Schmidt, Food Minister, and Herr Bauer, Minister of Labor, are all in favor of signing the treaty, while 90 per cent. of the majority Socialists, 75 per cent. of the Clericals, 80 per cent. of the Democrats, and the entire Independent faction are ready to yield.

The correspondent predicts that the Cabinet will resign, and says that Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, is likely to succeed Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau as envoy to Versailles.

The Cabinet met this morning at Weimar with the party leaders, and the Peace Commission was to hold a session this afternoon. It is probable that the question of signing or not signing the allied Peace Treaty will be decided by one group or the other, and that the recommendations of either will be sufficient for the Assembly when it meets.

The situation is changing rapidly. It does not remain the same for two hours in succession. The latest reports, however, which seem reliable, indicate the appointment of Gustav Noske as Premier, which, it is considered, would be equivalent to setting up a dictatorship.

Many other rumors are prevalent. The political parties are so split on the question at issue that the Assembly is almost equally divided.

The Spartacides are seizing the occasion to tie up many railroads with the purpose of imprisoning the Government at Weimar.

According to the Berliner Tageblatt's correspondent at Weimar, groups of the Centre and Democratic Parties which advocate signing the treaty are steadily gaining ground. Should the decision in favor of such action prevail, a new peace delegation must be sent to Versailles, as the present one is solidly against signing, the correspondent says.

A memorial prepared by the delegates on the train from Versailles demands rejection of the terms. The "hostile" tenor of the reply, it is argued in the memorial, simplifies such action and, it is said, unless Count Brockdorff-Rantzau succeeds in persuading the Cabinet to accept any terms, he and the entire delegation will withdraw and he will resign from the Cabinet as Foreign Minister.

The memorial goes into details of the situation which would result from not signing and comes to the conclusion that the effects would not be so bad as those that would result from yielding. It says that invasion and occupation by the allied forces would be bound to have an instantaneous effect in quickening the national spirit.

A large number of the less important members of the delegation which accompanied the Foreign Minister to Versailles have returned to Berlin and are conferring with the experts who have been in consultation with Count von Bernstorff's peace bureau during the last few months. They have organized into sub-committees and are making a thorough canvass of all the economic questions involved in the altered terms. A comprehensive report will then be submitted to the Cabinet.

The correspondent of the Lokal-Anzeiger at Weimar says President Ebert and Premier Scheidemann would, rather

Paris Hears Berlin Will Ask Extension of Time And Send New Peace Delegation to Sign Treaty

PARIS, June 19, (Associated Press.)—Advices received in American Peace Conference circles in Paris from Weimar indicate that there may be a change in the personnel of the German peace delegation, and that a short extension of the time limit for signing the Peace Treaty may be requested by the Germans, but that they will sign the treaty.

The American delegation is optimistic in its view of the situation. In common with those in Peace Conference circles generally, the delegates are not disturbed by newspaper reports from Germany of an unfriendly nature toward the revised terms.

MUST SIGN TREATY, MAKINO DECLARES

"Incomprehensible" That the Germans Should Refuse Allies' Offer of Peace.

NATION IS NOW ON TRIAL

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

PARIS, June 18.—I asked Baron Makino, Japan's representative on the Council of Five, for an opinion as to whether the Germans would sign the treaty. "You are in a better position to hazard a guess than I am," he replied. "Speaking entirely unofficially," he continued, when I pressed him, "it is incomprehensible [illegible] they should refuse. They cannot refuse without further widening the breach that separates them in thought and action from the rest of the world."

"They have said that the terms are harsh. I do not admit it, but if they are harsh it is their doing, not ours. It was they who brought about conditions with which it is utterly impossible to deal in terms of brotherly kindness.

"It would seem to me that broad statesmanship in Germany would rather welcome a treaty that left no material upon which the fires of resentment and passion could feed in the future. It is not the past or present that Germany is chiefly concerned with, but its future, and a condition precedent to a future for Germany as a partner of other nations is the wiping out of the moral wrong of the war in so far as that is possible.

"Absolute and sincere repentence—published repentence—without reserve and without any attempt to save Germany's face is the cornerstone upon which must rest any restoration of confidence. And these processes of redemption and regeneration are necessary to Germany. She cannot rise until she has purged herself of that love of power and disregard of her neighbors' rights which brought ruin upon her.

"These things are for Germany to accomplish for herself. No treaty can do them for her.

"The treaty terms can only be brought to an approximation of the final settlement. Acceptance or rejection by Germany will be the first act in the new arbitration before the bar of public opinion.

"The whole case now goes up from us, who have tried to render judgment, to a higher court—to that common sense of justice in the breast of mankind which abhors and will not long tolerate any great wrong. To these moral forces, too long despised by her, Germany must now trust herself. If there were, indeed, injustices, as the Germans contend, in the treaty terms as they stand, such injustice would tend to arouse a more generous spirit toward the defeated nation once peace was established.

"On the other hand, her refusal to accept with frankness and sincerity the consequences of the course of action that willingly brought complete destruction upon the world—a course inspired by power loving and greed and carried out with appalling contempt for civilized custom and opinion—could mean but one thing. Prussianism is still unbroken, and must be broken at all costs. Perverse or obstinate resistance by the Germans or any action by them that would prolong the state of war would delay, and perhaps prevent, the healing effect which is so much to be desired and to which submission by Germany promptly and with grace would contribute.

"Germany now has the opportunity—her last opportunity—to meet the Allies in a way to get the maximum benefit to herself and to give satisfaction and relief to the whole world. If she acts in that spirit I, for one, would be happy to see the German people then work out their new salvation."

PRESIDENT COMING HOME TO FIGHT

ALLIES CRITICISE SENATE

Observers Say Amendments to Treaty Would Exclude Us from Its Execution.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 18.—No member of the American peace contingent is more anxious to return home than President Wilson. Under the peculiar conditions that have come about the President appears from this distance to have no adequate spokesman in America to defend his course in arranging the German peace terms and the provisions of the League of Nations Covenant. A rather general disposition exists in American circles here to blame the President for permitting this situation to exist, but the fact that it does exist leads to the general conclusion that the President will be obliged to take up the burden of defending the treaty and covenant when he returns home.

That is what the President appears to have made up his mind to do. He is not in the best physical condition for undertaking a fatiguing swing around the circle. His labors in the Peace Conference have been arduous, and he has begun to show the effects of the strain. But it is the opinion here, which apparently reflects what the President has in his own mind, that the opposition to the treaty and covenant has become so pronounced that it will be necessary for him to start his speechmaking tour soon after he reaches America.

The President will leave Europe, however, with better wishes for his success and more cordial feeling for him personally than he would have had if he had departed a few weeks ago. There seems to be a greater disposition in Europe now (certainly in France) to give him credit for having been actuated by sincere motives in the course he has followed in the peace negotiations. He is still a subject of criticism, but with the removal of the tension that existed while the conditions to be imposed upon Germany were under discussion by the Council of Four, the President appears in the light of a man who attempted to bring about a peace that would be best for all the world.

Few even among the admirers of the President in Paris seek to make it appear that he has followed the most tactful course in dealing with the Senate. Some are disposed to blame him for creating a situation at home that might have been avoided. At the same time there is a feeling that the President is being accused of actions for which he is in no way responsible.

Criticised by English Liberals.

A case in point is the mild criticism in English Liberal circles of his supposed opposition to Lloyd George's efforts to have the German treaty modified. It is well known in these circles that the President advocated substantially the same changes which Lloyd George, after the treaty was perfected and handed to the German delegation at Versailles, sought to have made. The English Liberals, therefore, contended that the President was inconsistent in refusing to stand by Lloyd George.

Just what the President's attitude was when Lloyd George's proposals for the treaty modifications were brought forward has already been explained in these dispatches. He did not oppose the changes, but took the position that as practically the same modifications were combated by Lloyd George and Clemenceau when the treaty was being formulated, it was for them to arrive at harmonious conclusions before seeking his assistance. When the recent exchanges between the French and British Premiers reached a point where the President's arbitration was helpful he gave his support to the understandings which ultimately resulted in the modifications communicated to the German plenipotentiaries on Monday.

Main Interest in Senate's Action.

But the main interest on this side of the Atlantic centres in what the Senate is likely to do when it gets the German treaty from the President. Has the American opposition gone so far, it is asked, that it cannot be counteracted

RAW MATERIALS FOR WORK

PAYS VISITS TO MERCIER

His visit to the Belgian Parliament this afternoon was the most momentous happening in a crowded day, the program of which included as outstanding features a visit in company of King Albert to the wrecked mines at Charleroi, a reception at the City Hall, a luncheon at the American Legation, his reception by Cardinal Mercier at Malines, a visit to Louvain University, where in the ruins of the library, destroyed by the Germans in 1914, the degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred on him, a reception in the Diplomatic Corps, and a gala dinner given by the King and Queen at the Palace.

The Chamber of Deputies was beautifully decorated, and the colors of all the Belgian regiments were massed in front of the rostrum from which President Wilson delivered his address.

When they arrived Mrs. Wilson and Queen Elisabeth were received by high officials of the Senate. They were greeted with prolonged applause, and the band played the American anthem. Herbert Hoover, head of the Interallied Relief Organization, also was received with a burst of applause when he entered the chamber. Then came President Wilson and King Albert. They received an ovation, and the regimental colors were lowered in salute.

Wilson Voices America's Feeling.

President Wilson, in responding to an address of welcome by the President of the Chamber and by Foreign Minister Paul Hymans, said:

"Your Majesty and Gentlemen: It is with such profound emotion that I express my deepest appreciation of the generous welcome you have given me that I am not at all sure that I can find the words to say what it is in my heart to say.

"Mr. Hymans has repeated to you some of the things which America tried to do to show her profound friendship and sympathy with Belgium, but Mr. Hymans was not able to testify, as I am, to the heart of America that was back of her efforts. For America did not do these things merely because she conceived it her duty to do them, but because she rejoiced in this way to show her real humanity and her real knowledge of the needs of an old and faithful friend. And these things, I hope, will be the dearer in your memory because of the spirit which was behind them.

"They were small in themselves. We often had the feeling that we were not doing as much as we could do. We knew all the time we were not doing as much as we wanted to do. And it is this spirit, and not what was done, which deserves, I hope, to be remembered.

"It is very delightful to find myself at last in Belgium. I have come at the first moment that I was relieved from imperative duty. I could not come for my own pleasure, and in neglect of duty, to a country where I knew that I should meet men who had done their duty; where I knew I should meet a Sovereign who had constantly identified himself with the interests and the life of his people at every sacrifice to himself; where I should be greeted by a Burgomaster who never allowed the enemy to thrust aside and always asserted the majority and authority of the municipality which he represented; where I should have the privilege of meeting a Cardinal who was the true shepherd of his flock, the majesty of whose spiritual authority awed even the unscrupulous enemy himself, who knew that they did not dare lay hand upon this servant of God, and where I should have the privilege of grasping the hand of a General who never surrendered, and on every hand should meet men who had known their duty and have done it.

"I could not come to Belgium until I felt that I was released from my duty. I sought in this way to honor you by recognizing the spirit which I knew I should meet with here. When I realize that at my back are the fighting standards of Belgium, it pleases me to think that I am in the presence of those who knew how to shed their blood as well as do their duty, for their country. They need no encomiums from me.

"I would rather turn for a moment with you to the significance of the place which Belgium bears in this contest, which, thank God, is ended. I came here because I wished to associate myself in counsel with the men who I knew had felt so deeply the pulse of

Although officials of the State Guard denied that the mobilization of the guard in this city last night was being prepared in anticipation of a radical uprising, and stated it was merely a routine military drill, the orders issued showed that such a situation was presumed to exist. A copy of an order obtained at one of the armories read as follows:

A civil uprising in this city has occurred. All transportation lines have ceased to function. Telephone and telegraph service is still affected. Power and light plants are still working and guarded by a few special police hired by the various companies. Public buildings, bridges, tunnels, reservoirs, railroad stations and power and lighting plants are all in danger. Your regiment has been rapidly assembled at its armory. You have received no orders further than to assemble.

BRIG. GEN. JAMES ROBB,
In command 24 Brigade.

The hour set for the mobilization was generally 8 o'clock, and reports received by the officials of the State Guard showed that the guardsmen in full equipment were out of the armories within ten minutes and on their way to guard points designated in orders sent to their commanders. The 47th Regiment, at Marcy Avenue and Hayward Street, Brooklyn, commanded by Colonel Walter Jeffreys Carlin, which mobilized at 7 o'clock, was out of the building five minutes later. Colonel Carlin reported that the guard details reached their furthest points within forty minutes.

Every important place on Manhattan Island was guarded by the troopers within one hour after the various units left their armories, according to reports received by Brig. Gen. Robb. All forms of transportation were utilized in getting to the designated places, and the appearance of the troopers caused not a little excitement among those who did not know what it was all about. Big crowds gathered around all of the armories when the news spread that the troops were assembling. All sorts of rumors were current, such as the rejection of the peace terms by the Germans, the resumption of the world war, and the declaration of war against us by Mexico. All inquiries were referred to General Robb, who said:

"We want the public to know that our work tonight has nothing to do with the Bolshevist movement in this country, nor the present situation on the Mexican border. We are drilling our men just as we have done on similar occasions for several years."

this terrible struggle, and I wanted to come also because I realized, I believe, that Belgium and her part in the war is in one sense the key of the whole struggle, because the violation of Belgium was the call to duty which aroused the nations.

"The enemy committed many outrages in this war, gentlemen, but the initial outrage was the fundamental outrage of all. They, with that insolent indifference, violated the sacredness of treaties. They showed that they did not care for the honor of any pledge. They showed that they did not care for the independence of any nation, whether it had raised its hand against them or not; that they were ruthless in their determination to have their whim at their pleasure. Therefore it was the violation of Belgium that awakened the world to the realization of the character of the struggle.

"A very interesting thing came out of that struggle, which seems almost like an illogical consequence. One of the first things that the representatives of Belgium said to me after the war began was that they did not want their neutrality guaranteed. They did not want any neutrality. They wanted equality, not because, as I understood them, their neutrality was insecure, but because their neutrality put them upon a different basis of action from other peoples. In their natural and proper pride they desired to occupy a place that was not exceptional, but in the ranks of free peoples under all Governments.

"I honored this instinct in them, and it was for that reason that the first time I had occasion to speak of what the war might accomplish for Belgium, I spoke of her winning a place of equality among the nations. So Belgium has, so to say, once more come into her own through this deep valley of suffering through which she has gone.

"Not only that, but her cause has linked the Governments of the civilized world together. They have realized their common duty. They have drawn together as if instinctively into a league of right. They have put the whole power of organized manhood behind this conception of justice, which is common to mankind.

"That is the significance, gentlemen, of the League of Nations. The League of Nations is an inevitable consequence of this war. It was a league of rights, and no thoughtful statesman who let his thought run into the future could wish for a moment to slacken those bonds. His first thought would be to strengthen them and to perpetuate this combination of the great Governments of the world for the maintenance of justice.

"The League of Nations is the child of this great war, for it is the expression of those permanent resolutions which grew out of the temporary necessities of this great struggle, and any nation which declines to adhere to this covenant deliberately turns away from the most telling appeal that has ever been made to its conscience and to its manhood.

"The nation that wishes to use the League of Nations for its convenience and not for the service of the rest of the world deliberately chooses to turn back to those bad days of selfish contest, when every nation thought first and always of itself and not of its neighbors thought of its rights, and forgot its duties; thought of its power, and overlooked its responsibility.

"Those bad days, I hope, are gone, and the great moral power backed, if need be, by the great physical power of the civilized nations of the world, will now stand firm for the maintenance of the fine partisanship which we have thus inaugurated.

"It cannot be otherwise. Perhaps the conscience of some chancelleries was asleep, and the outrage of Germany awakened it. You cannot see one great nation violate every principle of right without beginning to know what the principles of right are and to love them, to despise those who violate them and to form the firm resolve that such a violation shall now be punished, and in the future be prevented.

To Propose Embassy for Belgium.

"These are the feelings with which I have come to Belgium, and it has been my thought to propose to the Congress of the United States, as a recognition and as a welcome of Belgium into her new status of complete independence, to raise the mission of the United States of America to Belgium to the rank of an embassy and send an Ambassador. This is the rank which Belgium enjoys in our esteem, why should she not enjoy it in form and in fact?

"So, gentlemen, we turn to the future. Mr. Hymans has spoken in true terms of the necessities that lie ahead of Belgium and of many another nation that has come through this war with suffering and with loss. We have shown Belgium, in the forms which he has been generous enough to recite, our friendship in the past. It is now our duty to organize our friendship along new lines.

"The Belgian people and the Belgian leaders need only the tools to restore their life. Their thoughts are not crushed. Their purposes are not obscured. Their plans are complete and their knowledge of what is involved in industrial revival is complete.

"What their friends must do is to see to it that Belgium gets the necessary priority with regard to obtaining raw materials, the necessary priority in obtaining the means to restore the machinery by which she can use these raw materials, and the credit by which she can bridge over the years which it will be necessary for her to wait to begin again.

"These are not so much tasks for Governments as they are tasks for thoughtful business men and financiers and those who are producers in other countries. It is a question of the world also. But the shipping of the world will be relieved of its burdens of troops in a comparatively near future, and there will be new bottoms in which to carry the cargoes, and the cargoes ought readily to impel the master of the ship to steer for Belgian ports.

"I believe, after having consulted many times with my very competent advisers in the matter, that an organized method of accomplishing these things can be found. It is a matter of almost daily discussion in Paris, and I believe that as we discuss from day to day we come nearer and nearer to a workable solution and a probable plan. I hope not only, but I believe, that such a plan will be found, and you may be sure that America will be pleased, I will not say more than any other friend of Belgium, but as much as any other friend of Belgium, if these plans are perfected and carried out.

Friendship a Practical Matter.

"Friendship, gentlemen, is a very practical matter. One thing that I think I have grown weary of is sentiment that does not express itself in action. How real the world has been made by this war! How actual all its facts seem! How terrible the circumstances of its life! And if we be friends we must think of each other not only, but we must act for each other; we must not only have a sentimental regard, but we must put that regard into actual deeds.

"There is an old proverb which has no literary beauty, but has a great deal of significance: 'The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof.' It is by that maxim that all friendships are to be judged. It is when a friendship is put to the proof that its quality is found. So, our business now is not to talk, but to act. It is not so much to debate, as to resolve. It is not so much to hesitate upon the plan, as to perfect the details of the plan and at every turn to be sure that we think not only of ourselves, but of humanity. For, gentlemen, the realities of this world are not discussed around dinner tables.

"Do you realize for how small a percentage of mankind it is possible to get anything for tomorrow if you do not work today; how small a percentage of mankind can slacken their physical and thoughtful effort for a moment, and not find the means of subsistence fail them?

"Some men can take holidays, some men can relieve themselves from the burden of work. But most men cannot, most women cannot, and the children wait upon the men and women who work, work every day, work from the dawn until the evening. These are the people we must think about. They constitute the rank and file of mankind. They are the constituents of statesmen, and statesmen must see to it that policies are not now run along the lines of national pride, but along the lines of humanity, along the lines of service, along those lines which we have been taught are the real links by the deep suffering of this war.

"This is the healing peace of which Mr. Hymans eloquently spoke. You heal the nations by serving the nations, and you serve them by thinking of mankind."

At the conclusion of the address the whole Chamber rose and cheered for several minutes.

Paul Hymans, the Foreign Minister, in his address to President Wilson recalled proofs of America's friendship for Belgium which were given him when he was a member of the Belgian Commission which inquired into German atrocities.

"Since then," he said, "Americans have proved their sentiments toward our country by acts of generosity, especially by the establishment of the Belgian Relief Commission."

M. Hymans paid a tribute to Herbert Hoover, Brand Whitlock, the American press, and American women.

"The result of these efforts of Americans," he continued, "was that the Belgian cause became the symbol of right. It won such partisans of weight as Cardinal Gibbons, Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University; Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, and Theodore Roosevelt. Finally, the American Army, crusading to Europe, took a glorious part in the common victory.

"Thanks to our liberal democratic Constitution, the Belgian people, under the leadership of our beloved dynasty, resisted the formidable attack of the invader. Belgium, after four years of occupation, bruised and weakened, is deprived of its means of production, but is not discouraged, and is confident of the future. Workers, business men, scientists, and artists will co-operate in the work of reconstituting Belgium's moral and intellectual life. They are convinced they may rely on American aid and friendship."

M. Hymans spoke of the good-will toward Belgium shown by the American delegates to the Peace Conference, and said that Belgium desired "a peace of justice and reparation."

"Certain problems of vital importance for Belgium's future are not yet solved," he said. "Belgium needs efficacious guarantees for her economic development and security. She has decided to pursue them with perseverance and vigor, and relies upon the assistance of the Allies to obtain these indispensable guarantees. Belgium will ardently co-operate with the League of Nations, having the moral authority of a people that has suffered for the right."

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests were conducted through the historic rooms, including the Senate chamber, where the English nurse, Edith Cavell, was tried and sentenced by the Germans. Before leaving Mr. Wilson

While the luncheon in the chamber was the most important feature of the day's program, it was rivaled by the reception of Burgomaster Max at the Hotel de Ville later. The Burgomaster, whose defiances of the Germans made him famous, welcomed the guests before a gathering of the capital's most prominent citizens, saying:

"You represent a noble people, whose generous aid preserved millions of human beings from famine and whose prodigious work made the United States the great storehouse and arsenal of the Entente."

At the American Legation.

During the luncheon at the American Legation, where the guests, in addition to the President and Mrs. Wilson, included the King and Queen, Mr. Wilson said:

"I want to express my pleasure not only to be in Belgium, but to be personally associated with the King and the Queen. We have found them what all the world has told us that they were—perfectly genuine, perfectly delightful, and perfectly devoted to the interests of the people, and not only so, but I wish to record for the entertainment of tourists.

"I could not help expressing the opinion which I did yesterday, that this must arise from the fact that they had intimately associated themselves in life with their people. If you live with the talkers you get an impression. If you live with the doers you get another impression. You come into contact with the realities, and only realities make you wise and just.

"I want within this very brief space in which I am speaking from my heart to propose the health and long life of his Majesty the King, and her Majesty the Queen.

Then followed a reception to the American colony and to delegates of the Socialist Party and newspaper writers, to which the President said:

"I regret to tell you how profoundly I was interested in the factories in the Charleroi district, whereby I was able to learn with what method of completeness your powerful industries were destroyed. I was strongly and painfully impressed by this experience."

When he stepped out of the palace with the King this morning for the trip to Charleroi the President found several thousand persons assembled there who clamored for a speech. He responded with his first public talk, which was confined to a few words.

"My friends," said the President, "in coming here personally I have merely followed my own heart and the heart of the American people toward Belgium."

In the palace the President had met all the members of the Belgian Cabinet and Cardinal Mercier. By calling first the Cardinal offered a diplomatic route for the President's call upon him at Malines.

In the course of the day's informal functions a delegation from the Committee on National Policy handed to President Wilson an address urging the revision of the treaty of 1839 (the covenant which established modern Belgium) in accordance with President Wilson's principles. The delegation laid stress upon the desire of Belgian public opinion to have a free plebescite instituted in Dutch Limburg under the supervision of the League of Nations.

The General Council of the Belgian Labor Party has addressed a message to President Wilson, in which it says:

"The Labor Party repudiates any peace of violence and awaits the reign of a definite peace assuring the sovereignty of labor and the triumph of President Wilson's principles."

The Socialist organ, Le Peuple, in discussing the efforts of the President at the Peace Conference, says that the working people are aware that there is merit in effort as well as in success. It adds:

"The working people wish to render homage to him who, in this tragedy, incarnates the idea of the new Socialist right emanating from the conscience and will of the people."

All the newspapers publish articles welcoming the President.

WILSON DEEPLY MOVED BY BELGIUM'S RUINS

BRUSSELS, June 18, (Associated Press).—President and Mrs. Wilson, with King Albert and Queen Elizabeth as their guides, saw today the devastation visited upon Belgium by the Germans. The first part of their visit deeply affected the Americans, not only Mr. Wilson, but those accompanying him. The second phase was of an entirely different character.

In the forenoon almost no residents were encountered. In the afternoon the appearance of the President at Ypres, Ostend, Zeebrugge, and, finally, Brussels, was made the occasion of demonstrations that might have been accorded a conquering hero. With the President and Mrs. Wilson were Miss Margaret Wilson, B. M. Baruch, Norman Davis, General W. W. Harts, Herbert Hoover, Chairman of the Inter-Allied Food Commission, and Commander Baker.

The night run from Paris ended at Adinkerke, just across the Franco-Belgian frontier, where King Albert, Queen Elizabeth, and a party of Belgian officers waited to receive the President. The Americans had breakfast on their train and stepped out of it prepared for their long drive.

King Albert wore his officer's suit of khaki, in which Americans in Paris have come to know him better than in any other dress. Queen Elizabeth wore a simple white dress, with a dark blue motoring coat. Beneath the President's long duster he wore a frock coat, and during the trip he wore a golfing cap. Mrs. Wilson was dressed in dark blue, with a silk autoing coat.

Brand Whitlock, American Minister to Belgium, accompanied the King and Queen and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson throughout the trip, and explained conditions along the way.

There were no ceremonies on the train other than the ordinary greetings and introductions. Through the little station building, which had been elaborately decorated, the party moved in a long line of cars and began its trip into the shell-torn and as yet abandoned country.

What Once Was Nieuport.

From time to time the cavalcade halted to permit the visitors to study at close range some bit of fortification or some piece of destruction that was unusually thorough. Nieuport was the first halt. President Wilson, who was riding with King Albert, followed Queen Elizabeth and Mrs Wilson, who descended from the next car, and walked to the point where had been the city of Nieuport to the ruins of the canal. The only houses that were intact or even habitable were one or two frame shacks which were recently erected for the entertainment of tourists.

From Nieuport eastward along the old line of trenches to Dixmude, where the lines at one time almost touched each other, the party alighted at one of the places to examine the nature of the trenches. It then went on toward Ypres. All that part of the ride was in an almost deserted country. There were very few refugees and there could be seen little attempt toward reclaiming the soil.

It was like a dead country. Here and there a civilian was encountered, but always his face expressed seeming hopelessness. Ypres, however, showed a somewhat greater display of animation. Notwithstanding the terrible destruction wrought there, a few former residents have found their way back and a dozen or more frame buildings have been erected to serve as hotels, restaurants, drinking places and small shops. They reflect the only industry in the place, catering to tourists, both official and unofficial.

A semblance of civil government has been restored in this district, and the burgomaster appeared before the President, thanking him for what America did for Belgium. The British garrison and a number of British nurses added to the crowd that gathered to welcome the party. The work of salvaging war material on the Ypres battlefield is almost completed, but enough remained to add to the depression of the King and his guests. Scores of battered and broken tanks on both sides of Ypres served to justify its characterization as "the tank graveyard."

The party lunched in picnic style in the Holthoust Forest. This piece of woods, like all others in that zone, is but the skeleton of a forest. It was well back of the old German lines.

First Real Greeting of the Day.

In Menin, where the work of destruction was less marked, the people gave the party the first real greeting of the day. The town was decorated and apparently all the inhabitants were in the streets. The word had gone out that the King's guests were President Wilson and his wife, and after this time whenever the party passed through a town it seemed that every man, woman, and child was in the streets. Schools were either dismissed or the pupils were brought in a body to join in the demonstrations. If seemed there were at least eight children for every adult, and, although Mr. Wilson failed to respond to all the cheers, it was only rarely that he failed to answer the cries of "Vive l'Amérique!" and "Vive President Wilson!" from the youngsters.

From Roulers, the scene of much hard fighting because of its strategic importance, the route turned northward toward Ostend, untouched by the war except through the visits of bombing airplanes, of which there was abundant evidence. Through crowded streets and along the seawall alive with pleasure seekers, the President was taken on a tour of the buildings wrecked by airmen. At the City Hall the President signed his name at the request of the Burgomaster, in a book filled with the names of notables who had visited Ostend.

Leaving Ostend, the party went through Blankenbergh to Zeebrugge. The motor ride ended at Zeebrugge, the tourists boarding a train there for Brussels.

The visit to the former U-boat base at Zeebrugge was most interesting. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were taken out to the mole, which was broken in April, 1918, by the British, and from there saw the rusting parts of the hulls of vessels which were sunk in the channel to the sea. At Zeebrugge, Captain Carpenter, former commander of the British battleship Vindictive, which figured in the attack on that U-boat base and which was later sunk at Ostend, met the party, and with Captain Nevins, senior officer, accompanied Mr. Wilson, at the request of the King, explaining how the attack was made.

Brussels was reached at 9:15 o'clock tonight. Through the cheering crowds in the streets and past buildings bright with the flags of Belgium and the United States the President was taken to the palace, where he was presented to members of the household. He was tired with much driving at necessarily high speed over rather bad roads and retired comparatively early.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

seen by the personal appeals of the President to the American people? It would be a great blow to allied Europe to have the treaty or the League covenant embedded by the Senate, as any amendment, according to the belief here, would keep America out of participation in the administration of the treaty provisions and out of membership in the League.

Without any attempt to question the right of the Senate to amend the treaty and covenant as it sees fit, the opinion which prevails rather generally in Europe at present quarters and is shared by the Americans who have been participating in the peace negotiations, and all of them are not political supporters of the President, is that calamity would come to the world if the United States failed to give its powerful support to the effort to preserve permanent peace.

How the amendments made by the Senate could be incorporated in the treaty is something that has not been figured out in Paris. It is realized that it would be impossible to call another general Peace Conference, and the effort to bring an agreement on the American changes through the required unanimous consent of the nations signatory to the treaty would be a long and tedious diplomatic proceeding. Even if it were possible of accomplishment, which many doubt, it would probably consume years, during which time the United States would not be a party to the general peace with Germany and would probably be obliged to resort to the unsatisfactory method of making a separate peace.

Any amendments that might be made by the Senate to the League covenant might be accepted through the operation of the executive and legislative machinery of the League; but at the best this would also be a long process, and during the period of consideration America would remain out of the league.

Nor does such a procedure overcome the fact that, as the covenant is part of the treaty, and each contains provisions that make it impossible to separate the two documents, any change by the Senate in the covenant would defer the participation of the United States in the administration of the treaty until all the nations concerned had accepted the Senate's dictum.

Therefore, the feeling here is that, whatever rights the Senate possesses and whatever justification it has for feeling aggrieved, whatever conviction exists in its membership that the treaty or the covenant should be amended, all these weighty considerations must be contrasted with the great danger that would come to the world if the United States should fail to join in executing the arrangements for keeping the world out of war embodied in the terms that were the outcome of the protracted negotiations of the leaders of the allied powers.

Why Wilson Made Concessions.

That appears to be the sentiment that actuated the President in his exchanges with the great men of France, Great Britain, Italy, and Japan and the chief representatives of the smaller nationalities. There were several occasions when he protested against what he regarded as a display of national selfishness. There were other occasions when he stood out against proposals which seemed to him inconsistent with the principles that should actuate the allied peacemakers.

But it is claimed on his behalf that he kept constantly in mind that the main object to be attained was holding the great powers together in order that peace might be secure, and where he assented to agreements that failed to accord with his point of view he did so in the belief that acquiescence on his part was necessary to keep the most powerful nations in unity for the common good. The President is expected to take this position when he is called upon at home to explain certain features of the German treaty—the international arrangement, for example. Should the anti-British sentiment said to prevail in America take the direction of criticism of the President's close association with Lloyd George and other British statesmen in Paris, he would be in an excellent position to explain his relationship with them in the formulation of the peace terms.

Anglo-American Co-operation.

Whatever else may be said, the fact stands out that, in spite of friction over particular features of the peace treaty and side adjustments growing out of the war, the American and British delegations have appeared to be actuated by a strong belief that it was necessary for the good not only of themselves but of the whole world, that the two great English-speaking nations stand together in support of the measures taken for the preservation of peace. The superior position of the United States and Great Britain in this respect was recognized by France in seeking—as Clemenceau did successfully—a separate undertaking from Wilson and Lloyd George to ask their respective legislative bodies to confirm the arrangement by which, on the recommendation of the Council of the League of Nations, both Governments would come immediately to the aid of France in the event of sudden aggression by Germany.

There was a disposition in American circles to criticise Lloyd George for his eleventh-hour proposal that the peace treaty be changed; and there was friction between the American and British experts over the disposition of the German warships and the unwillingness of the American representatives to agree to surrender all the German merchant vessels in American possession to a common pool for distribution among the allied Governments. There probably was no other cause of disagreement that at the time caused feeling between the American and British representatives in Paris. But in most of the larger questions involving an effort to arrange a peace that would give the world permanent security the American and British peace delegations were found standing together firmly.

Out of that display of a common purpose and common ideals grew the combination that, however imperfect the terms of the German peace may be, succeeded in making them less imperfect than they would have been if both America and Great Britain had not been members of the Peace Conference.

COPENHAGEN, June 18.—At Weimar, where the German National Assembly and the Cabinet are, all is bustle amid pessimism. When the decision has been taken regarding the Government's attitude on the Peace Treaty, the National Assembly will devote a sitting to hearing a statement of this attitude and discussion of it.

The air is full of rumors regarding the position of the Government, and it seems generally agreed that the days of the Scheidemann Cabinet are numbered. There is talk of a Noske-Dernburg Cabinet, which would mean a refusal to sign, while others are carefully watching Erzberger, who is leading that wing of the Government which favors acceptance and who is quite capable of springing a surprise.

Loss of Coal Region Blow to Reds.

LONDON, June 19.—The reported loss of the important Donetz coal basin by the Bolsheviki is viewed in London as a heavy blow to the maintenance of the Soviet Government.

The Bolsheviki depended on the coal from the Donetz region to effect improvements on the railways and to speed ate factories.

VIENNA, June 18.—A Cabinet Council was called tonight to confer about safeguards to provide against a recurrence of Bolshevist disorders and to deal with the machinations of Hungarians, especially the Legation's part in yesterday's riots.

According to evidence published by the Arbeiterzeitung, the Hungarians spent millions for an agitation toward establishing a Soviet Republic in Vienna, even trying to bribe police officers with 100,000 crowns to neglect their duty.

A movement is developing to make the police accountable for the casualties, though only an energetic stand by the police prevented the Bolsheviki attacking their foes.

COMMUNIST OUTBREAKS FAIL.

BERLIN, June 18.—Failure by the Communists in attacks in force made in attempts to occupy the towns of Hamborn and Sterkrade and establish a Soviet republic is reported by the Essen correspondent of Zwonit uhr Blatt.

Both Hamborn and Sterkrade are in Prussia.

NEW BALTIC COMMISSIONER.

Major Tyler Chosen by Our Peace Delegation to Succeed Morrison.

PARIS, June 19.—The American peace delegation has designated Major Royall Tyler to replace Dr. S. E. Morrison, resigned, as a member of the Baltic Commission, which is meeting today in an effort to outline a policy toward the Russian Baltic States.

Dr. Morrison said to The Associated Press today in explaining his resignation:

"I am no Bolshevik. I did not favor recognizing the Bolsheviki, but neither did I favor Admiral Kolchak. I do not care to continue under a policy with which I am not in sympathy."

transitory, and that equilibrium soon would be regained.

The Government, the Premier continued, was determined to strengthen the defense of consumers against the cupidity of speculation, which had assumed almost the form of folly. The Government intended to suppress to the utmost extent possible the combinations of the middleman, and aid in bringing about co-operation among consumers. Having complete control of bread, rice, cereals, sugar, and petroleum, he added, the Government would sell them at low fixed prices. Meat would be imported, he said, and distributed at the cost price, without profit and without tax.

"Having thus provided the necessities of life," the Premier said, "the Government intends to return to liberty all commerce, except perhaps alcohol and wines, in consequence there will be an immediate lowering in prices.

"The dearness of living has caused deep trouble and is threatening agitation throughout the civilized world. While in Italy there have been such conflicts, we can affirm that, although they have been grave, they have not been as grave as elsewhere."

Signor Orlando in enumerating the measures the Government had adopted for the betterment of the social classes indicated that insurance against incapacity and old age, benefiting 10,000,000 workmen, was supported by the Government, involving $30,000,000 yearly.

The Premier proposed the establishment of commissions to arbitrate between employers and workmen for the adjustment of wages and to study labor conditions, aiming with them to solve the question of capital and labor through friendly discussion. He ended by recalling the victories of Italy during the last year and expressing faith in a better future.

In summing up the situation, Signor Orlando said:

"The deep unrest throughout the world leads to pessimism such as was never experienced during the war. Immediately after the armistice was signed the peoples in general, Italy in particular, never went through such dark days as now. This is the most acute phase of the immense crisis arising from the war. Nevertheless I am not discouraged, believing as I do that the situation will gradually ameliorate."

Dealing with the situation of Italy in regard to peace with Germany and Austria, Signor Orlando said:

"Those have been solved in a manner such as we can, on the whole, feel satisfied with. Besides, we have obtained the determination of our northern frontier formed by the magnificent barrier which nature placed as Italy's bulwark.

"Regarding the Eastern Adriatic frontiers, Italy has not refused to discuss such solutions as are capable of insuring an agreement of all the great powers, but failing which Italy remains firm in demanding those territories granted her by a solemn pledge of validity which was acknowledged by our allies, who declared that these same territories were to be assigned to Italy as a reward for her entering the great struggle.

"The statement of the Premier was made before a packed house. The diplomatic tribune was crowded. Among those present were Thomas Nelson Page, the American Ambassador.

On April 28 Premier Orlando received a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies of 382 to 40, the 40 being only the Intransigeant Socialists led by Deputy Turati. On this occasion he had appealed to Parliament against President Wilson's memorandum of April 23 on the Adriatic question, which declared that the Treaty of London was inoperative at the conference, and that Fiume should go to Jugoslavia. Premier Orlando had been trying to have the treaty prevail at the conference and also secure Fiume for Italy on the ground of self-determination, although the treaty gave Fiume to Crotia—one of the integral parts of Jugoslavia.

With the indorsement of April 28 Orlando went back to the conference. Meanwhile the political forces were arranging themselves on new lines in Italy and attempting through the press to have him maintain his original position, although these very factions, led by the veteran non-interventionist bose, Giolitti, and Signori Nitti and Bissolati, who resigned from the Cabinet last January, were personally known to be ready to make concessions in regard to the Treaty of London and even to have Fiume a free port under the mandate of Italy.

DEMOCRATS ATTACK FOES OF LEAGUE

WORK OF "INFERNAL GANG"

KNOX SUPPORTERS WAVER

Some Want His Resolution Dropped —Spencer Puts In Declaration to Qualify League.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Senate was thrown into violent debate today when Senator Thomas, Democrat, of Colorado, accused the Republican majority of playing a desperate game of politics in an attempt to defeat the League of Nations covenant. The Knox resolution asking the Peace Conference to provide that nations might join the League after the treaty of peace was signed, he said, was only another evidence of partisanship.

Senator Thomas denounced the Republicans for, as he alleged, packing the Foreign Relations Committee with Republican opponents of the league covenant so as to "stack the cards" against President Wilson. He characterized the Knox resolution as a "shrewd attempt" to harass the President in the negotiations pending at Paris, embracing the promulgation of the League of Nations as a part of the treaty of peace.

Republican Senators took up Senator Thomas's challenge, insisting that the Democrats themselves had evidenced a spirit of partisanship in "persistently attempting" to create sentiment for the League of Nations. Senator Moses observed that the Democrats in the Foreign Relations Committee had stood solidly together for the league covenant as a matter of party exigency.

Senator McCormick of Illinois interjected that if the Republicans had "stacked the cards" against the President, the latter had "stacked the Peace Conference with Democrats."

Propriety of Knox Resolution

Senator Thomas attacked the Knox resolution as invading the proprieties, saying the argument in its preamble that the Senate had "co-equal power with the Executive" in treaty-making was fallacious. The Senate, Mr. Thomas argued, has power to exercise its function as to treaties only after they come before it for ratification, the President, in the meantime, being in no way bound to "advise with" the upper body.

Manifestly, Mr. Thomas insisted, the Knox resolution is "improper," in that it seeks, not even to "advise with" the President, but with the Peace Conference. This, he said, was an entirely revolutionary idea, with no parliamentary precedent. From every viewpoint, he argued, the resolution was in bad taste and an intrusion upon the prerogative of the President.

Before the debate on the Knox resolution—which remained on the calendar, with no effort to bring it up for a vote—Senator Spencer of Missouri offered a qualifying resolution to emphasize points of objection raised against the League of Nations covenant by its opponents. Mr. Spencer, while advocating changes in the league covenant, is opposed to the Knox resolution and will vote against it.

In his own resolution Mr. Spencer seeks to put the Senate on record as declaring that under any league project adopted the Monroe Doctrine must not be turned over to the League of Nations for interpretation, and that purely domestic questions affecting America, such as immigration, race matters, and tariff, must be left to the unrestricted determination of this country.

Under Senator Spencer's resolution the right of Congress to declare war and fix the extent of its military and naval forces necessary to carry on war is reaffirmed, regardless of any obligation imposed by the League of Nations. If the League should decree that the United States engage in warfare coming up between other nations, Congress, the resolution declares, is to be the final judge whether the country shall send its soldiers.

Impatient Over Knox's Delay.

Impatience among Republican Senators was evidenced today over Senator Knox's delay in bringing his resolution up for a vote. Opponents of the League of Nations covenant plainly told the Pennsylvanian that, if he expected to gain any advantage through the resolution, he ought to have a vote on it immediately. They pointed out that Germany had only until Monday to sign the treaty of peace and that the delay of a day might defeat any possible effect that the passage of his resolution could achieve.

Some Republican Senators expressed the opinion that the time had passed when the Knox resolution could accomplish anything. They favored letting it drop. Others insisted that Mr. Knox should go ahead with his effort to obtain a vote upon it, so as to "confound" the Democrats in their challenge that the Republicans are afraid to let it come to a test on the floor of the Senate.

The Republican advocates of the Knox resolution realize now that they cannot hope to get a majority vote in favor of it, and some of them were saying today that they regarded the introduction of the Knox resolution as a tactical mistake. They argue that, while the opponents of the League of Nations appeared to have an advantage in their fight, the defeat of the Knox resolution might have a disastrous effect.

Mr. Knox placidly declined to indicate to Senators when he might ask for a vote. To Senators who importuned him to bring it up at once, Mr. Knox replied that he was undecided what to do. Two alternatives, he said, were: 1. To await developments and ask for a vote at what might seem an opportune moment.

2. To ask for a vote tomorrow.

As to the arrival of an opportune moment, Senators urged Mr. Knox that none might come if by "opportune moment" he meant one when it would seem that the resolution could be adopted.

From all that Mr. Knox said, it appeared that he was awaiting the return to the Capitol of Senators Lodge and Penrose, who are expected tomorrow, and also Senator Gore, Democrat, who is delayed in getting to the Capitol as the result of an automobile accident at Sioux City yesterday. The Oklahoma Senator, who is counted upon to vote for the Knox resolution, may not get to the Capitol, it was said tonight, in time for the vote.

Democrats Confident.

Administration Democrats enjoyed today what they regarded as the discomfiture of the Republican supporters of the Knox measure.

They counted at least fifty Senators, including five from the Republican ranks, as sure to vote against the resolution, or considerably more than enough to defeat it. Senator Hitchcock observed that the Republicans needed an undertaker for the Knox resolution.

"It's dead," was his comment.

Just after Senator Thomas had finished his three-hour speech against the Knox resolution, Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois, announced that he would speak tomorrow upon the "influence of the Vatican in the League of Nations." Mr. Sherman will contend that the Vatican, through representatives of Catholic nations, will have a dominating influence in the League.

Senator Thomas argued in his speech that to pass judgment on the League of Nations now would be premature. The Senate should wait, he said, until the treaty of peace was signed by Germany.

"It is improper for the Senate either to adopt or reject the Peace Treaty in advance," said Senator Thomas. "We should not attempt at this time to advise the Peace Conference as to what the treaty should contain. It not only is improper, but unwise."

Senator Thomas read from an interview given by Senator Knox in which he was credited as saying that his resolution was "colorless."

"If the resolution is 'colorless,'" insisted Senator Thomas, "the time of the Senate should not be wasted in discussing it. If 'colorless,' it should now be withdrawn, as it could not accomplish any purpose whatever.

Partisanship and the League.

"It appears to me that this is a shrewd attempt on the part of an able Senator to shift the burden of partisanship to the other side of the chamber. The man who votes upon such a question from a partisan viewpoint has no conception of the duties placed upon his shoulders. He would drag in the mire of partisan politics the mightiest question ever presented for the consideration of an American Congress.

"I fully agree that this shoould not be a partisan question. If it has assumed, or is assuming, a partisan character, I contend that the Republican opponents of the treaty—not entirely, but almost entirely—must share the blame and burden. One distinguished opponent of the treaty (Mr. Borah) has from the beginning insisted it was the duty of his party to make this a question of a partisan character and that the Republican Party should array itself against the League of Nations.

"Now the Chairman of the National Committee insists, and I think, most wisely, that an international problem affecting not only our own but the peoples of the world should be divorced as far as possible from all partisan consideration and determined upon its merits as a mighty national and international issue. But almost immediately after the return of Mr. Wilson from Paris and upon the eve of the adjournment of the last Congress more than one-third of the Senators in this body placed their signatures to what is popularly known as a 'round robin' and inserted it in the Congressional Record, thus giving a manifestation of the attitude they assumed on the treaty and particularly the League of Nations."

"It was inserted in the Congressional Record by the leader of the Republican Party, (Mr. Lodge,)" interpolated Senator Williams.

"Oh, yes," assented Mr. Thomas, "and, like Abou Ben Adhem, he led all the rest. If that round robin was presented to a single Democratic Senator for his consideration I am not aware of it."

"Not even 'Jim' Reed?" interjected Mr. Williams, meaning the Missouri Senator.

"I am not aware that it was presented to anybody," Mr. Thomas went on. "There must have been some reason for it, and I contend that it was a partisan one. That, of itself, was a manifestation to me of the assumption of a partisanship which justifies me in resenting the attempt of the Senator from Pennsylvania to shift the burden and threaten us with dire consequences should we so far forget our duties as Senators and Americans as to make this a party question.

"Stacking" of the Committee.

"The Republicans have control of this body now. They recently reorganized the Senate and, among other things, thoroughly reorganized the Committee on Foreign Relations; and it is an open secret that none but an enemy of the League of Nations was eligible to membership on that committee in Congress, that is, among the new members. If that is not an evidence of partisanship with regard to a great national question, what is it?"

"I should like to ask any Republican Senator," Mr. Williams interjected, "to dare deny that the Foreign Relations Committee was stacked against the President of the United States by the will and power of the Senator from Massachusetts."

"I have no hesitation in denying that," interjected Senator Moses of New Hampshire, "being a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and as such, stating that it was stacked against the President only in the sense that he is a Democrat and I am a Republican."

"It was not only stacked, as a deck of cards might have been, against the President, because he was President and because he was a Democrat, as the Senator confesses," returned Mr. Williams, "but it was stacked against him because he was the leader of the movement in favor of a covenant of peace for the world."

Senator Moses wanted to know if the Senator from Mississippi thought the Republicans ought to have organized the Senate with Democratic majorities on the committees.

"I never said that," rejoined Senator Williams. "I am a partisan."

"And so am I," said Mr. Moses.

"What I say is that you have stacked an international committee, which is not a partisan committee, against the hope of the world for peace and against the covenant of the League of Nations as well as against the Democratic President," insisted Senator Williams. "There is but one Republican on the committee in favor of the League of Peace, and the only reason he was left there was because you dared not remove him."

Senator Moses said it was significant that on every vote taken in committee when the League of Nations was considered the Democrats themselves "lined up solidly on one side."

Senator Williams retorted that partisanship was manifest in every move of the Republicans. The resolution of Senator Knox, he said, was not intended actually to gain time in which to consider the League of Nations covenant, but to defeat it.

"This Whole Infernal Gang."

"That is all there is behind it," exclaimed Senator Williams. "Any man who says you are merely pleading for further time to think when, if you had any capacity to think at all, you would have thought long ago, is simply untruthful and insincere and dishonest. You are trying to defeat the League of Nations. That is what you are trying to do, and you know it. I mean this whole infernal gang."

"The Senator has charged," interrupted Senator McCormick, "that the Foreign Relations Committee was stacked with Republicans against the League of Nations covenant. It might be replied that the conference at Paris was stacked with Democrats, excluding all Republicans, ready to bow to the will of the chief American representative over there."

Senator Thomas hoped, he said, that in his allusions to Mr. Knox and his advocacy of his resolution he had not reflected upon the Pennsylvanian's integrity.

"I merely am protesting against what seems to be an effort to shift the burden of partisanship, doubtless for partisan purposes," pursued Senator Thomas. "When the Senator says he has no partisan motives himself in introducing this resolution, I am bound to accept that statement, but I must nevertheless insist that the action of his colleagues speaks louder than protestations upon the floor and indicates a partisanship which I regret to see in any international question.

"Now, I want to be entirely fair about this. The Chairman of the Democratic National Committee has himself insisted that it should be made a partisan question. I deplore that attitude."

Senator Williams hastened to state that Senator Thomas had done Chairman Cummings an injustice, and that the latter had said that the Republican Party chose to make the League of Nations a partisan matter, he would welcome the issue.

Senator Thomas went into an analysis of the Knox resolution, which he declared, challenged "the treaty-making powers of the Executive by asserting the co-equality of the Senate."

The Irish Resolution.

"The Senator's resolution was preceded here by what I may term the Irish resolution, receiving the unanimous vote of the Senate, with one exception. This Irish resolution can have no other effect than embarrassing still further the deliberations of our delegation in the Peace Conference. And let me say that it is in direct conflict with the principles embodied in the Knox resolution.

"The one feature, and the principal one, of the Knox resolution is that, since war was declared for certain purposes by our country, the Peace Congress, now that we have won the victory, should devote itself to the accomplishment of those purposes, and those alone, leaving other questions to be considered later and after fuller deliberation. We certainly did not go into this war with the object of securing the independence of the Irish Sinn Fein.

"The Senator from Pennsylvania gave the reason indirectly for the Irish resolution when he said that the Irish were the political dynamite of the Anglo-Saxon race. That being the case, both sides of this chamber, anxious either for the dynamite or to prevent its explosion, for political purposes only intruded this resolution into the council of the Peace Conference, knowing at the time that it had no place there."

Senator Thomas asserted that those interested in the Irish resolution and "the cause it urges" did not represent the Ireland of Parnell, O'Connor, Redmond, and Davitt. They represented the Ireland of the Senator said, which showed "but little devotion to the great principles of democracy when fighting for its life in the recent crisis of the world war."

"They were found consorting with the enemy," declared Senator Thomas, "giving him aid and comfort and taking him into their own domain for the undoing of the British Empire. I do not believe we went into this war, among other things, for the purpose of inhisting upon a hearing to a certain element of people, knowing that we were taking a position which was no concern of ours and that we were intruding ourselves into the affairs of some of our Allies.

"Korea has been knocking at the doors of the Senate, asking that we pass some resolution; they have been appealing to the American people to recognise and sympathise with their cause. Has anyone introduced a Korean resolution here?"

"There are no Korean-Americans, hyphenated Americans from Korea, with votes to re-elect Senators and representatives," suggested Senator Williams.

"No, and no hyphenated Chinese either," Senator Thomas agreed.

Responsibility in Treaty-Making.

Going into the enunciation embraced in the Knox resolution that the United States Senate is a co-equal part of the treaty-making power and therfore coequally responsible for any treaty, Senator Thomas asked:

"If the Senate is co-equal with the President, why has it not also selected delegates, either from its own members or elsewhere, and sent them to Paris? It may advise, if it sees fit, but it is an established fact that the President may accept or reject that advice as he may think best for the country. It is entirely a matter of discretion. Our function begins only after negotiation, when the treaty is laid before us. The President's functions are suspended while the Senate has the treaty under consideration. They are resumed after the Senate shall have ratified it.

"It would be monstrous if a body composed of ninety-six men upon such a slender foundation as this should assert, much less assume, to exercise such an extraordinary authority. If this co-equality exists, why has not the Senator from Pennsylvania been active long ago? Why did he not assert at the time the President appointed his commissioners that this body either should be consulted in the appointment of our commissioners or be permitted to appoint commissioners of its own?"

Senator Thomas pointed out that the Knox resolution, instead of being directed to the President, was directed to the Peace Conference, which it assumed to advise.

"Of course," he said, "if we are co-equal in power with the President, we have authority to advise him. But who ever before assumed that the Senate had the right to tender its counsel to a world Peace Conference? I assert without fear of successful contradiction that the Executive of the United States is the sole treaty-negotiating power and that the Senate's power to 'advise and consent' is confined to its consideration of treaties already negotiated and submitted to the Senate for action."

Senator Thomas quoted from opinions by American statesmen, including Hamilton, Webster, Jefferson, John Quincy Adams and others, to substantiate his argument. All of these, he said, had enunciated the theory that, while the Senate could "advise and consent" in the making of treaties, this function lay only as to ratification, after a treaty had been negotiated.

Text of Spencer Resolution.

The resolution of Senator Spencer follows:

"Resolved, That the Senate approaches the consideration of the League of Nations with entire sympathy and in the earnest desire to cooperate as fully as it may in thus establishing and preserving the peace of the world.

"That, in the interest of a frank and full understanding with the other nations of the world, and particularly with the signatory nations to the covenant itself, candor and friendship alike require that the danger of future misunderstanding should as far as possible be eliminated, and to that end the following declaration should be clearly and definitely made:

"First, that the Monroe Doctrine is an essential national policy of the United States, and that the necessity and extent of its application and enforcement are matters to be determined by the United States alone as the occasion for interpretation may from time to time arise, and without interference, direct or indirect, on the part of any other nation.

"Second, that internal questions entirely domestic in character, such as immigration and tariff, are, notwithstanding any possible international results that may from time to time naturally be connected therewith, matters to be determined entirely by the country in which they arise and are under no circumstances questions for settlement under the provisions of the League of Nations.

"Third, that, inasmuch as the United States is governed by a written Constitution, whose provisions are supreme and controlling in the Republic over every act, legislative, executive, and judicial, and as such Constitution it is expressly provided that the power either to declare war or to continue war for more than two years is vested exclusively in the Congress of the United States, it is apparent that the United States cannot bind itself in advance to either make war in the future or to send its army or navy into other lands for purposes of control, which is an act of war, without the express authorization of Congress at the time; and, therefore, whether the United States, as the necessity for such action in the future may arise, shall by any military or naval force co-operate in maintaining any of the provisions of the League of Nations is a matter which the Congress, under the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, is and must be entirely free to determine by what in its judgment is at the time consistent with the honor and interest and duty of the American people."

The resolution went to the Foreign Relations Committee. In explaining the resolution later Senator Spencer said it it "merely seeks to make certain that none of the constitutional rights of America would be violated through joining the League of Nations." Senator Spencer stands with other opponents of the League of Nations, who insist that the only practical way to amend the covenant will be through qualifying reservations rather than through direct amendment.

stituted tribunal should be set up in order to assure to [illegible] accused his full rights and liberties in regard to his defense, and in order that the judgment should be of the most solemn judicial

"The allied and associated powers add that they are prepared to submit a final list of those who must be handed over to justice within one month of the coming into force of the treaty."

While the authorized summary of the allied response to the German memorandum of objections and counter-proposals gave a general idea of the character and scope of the allied views, it is necessary to read the complete document to obtain the fullest understanding of the motives which actuated the Council of the Great Powers in modifying the peace terms in some particulars and refusing to change them in others.

In combatting the German contentions as to allied accusations concerning responsibility for the war the Allies in their note to the German peace delegation indict Germany in the severest terms, and the text of this portion of the note forms a notable contribution to the history of the great struggle that convulsed the world for more than four years.

The intention of the allied peacemakers is that this chapter shall be the answer of the allied Governments to any future efforts on the part of the German Government or pro-German historians to attempt to show that the Kaiser and his autocratic advisers were not guilty of having brought on the conflict. It is the united utterance of the great nations which were at war with Germany on the subject of what set the world on fire in 1914.

This chapter of the voluminous document, handed to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles on Monday, is entitled "The Responsibility of Germany for the War." After a brief reference to the long memorandum from the German delegation in which it "is sought to show that in the pre-war crisis Germany tried to induce moderation on the part of Austria, the allied spokesmen say that there is nothing in the memorandum which shakes their conviction that the immediate cause of the war was the decision deliberately taken by those responsible for the German policy in Berlin and their confederates in Vienna and Budapest to impose a solution of a European question upon the nations of Europe by the threat of war, and, if the other members of the concert refused this dictation, by war itself, instantly declared."

Serbia a European Question.

With that statement as a basis, the allied note proceeds to indict Germany in scathing terms. In part the allied Governments say:

"All the German memorandum, indeed, admits without reserve the accuracy of this view. The Serbian question was not, and never could have been, purely an Austro-Hungarian question. It affected Germany; it affected all the great powers; it was essentially a European question, for it involved control of the Balkans, and, therefore, concerned the peace not only of the Balkans but of the whole of Europe. It was impossible to isolate it, and the authors of the ultimatum of July 23 knew that it could not be isolated.

"If, therefore, Germany and Austria had desired a pacific settlement they would have consulted with the other powers whose interests were vitally affected, and only taken action after making the utmost endeavor to arrive at an agreed solution. Yet the memorandum of the German delegation explicitly admits that the German Government authorized its ally to endeavor to solve the Austro-Serbian question on its own initiative and by war.

"On the strength, it says, of statements received from the Cabinet in Vienna the German Government considered an Austrian military expedition against Serbia essential for the preservation of peace. The German Government considered itself obliged to take the risk of Russian intervention, with the resultant casus foederis. She gave her ally, Austria, a completely free hand as to the nature of the demands to be made by her on Serbia. When the ultimatum was followed by an answer which appeared to Germany herself sufficient to justify the abandonment of the expedition after all, she indicated this view to Vienna.

"The later action of the German Government was perfectly consistent with this initial policy. It supported the rejection, without consideration, of the extraordinary concessions made by Serbia in response to the insolent and intolerable demands of the Austro-Hungarian Government. It supported the mobilization of the Austro-Hungarian Army and the initiation of hostilities, and steadily rejected every proposal for conference, conciliation, or mediation, though it knew that once mobilization and military action were undertaken by any of the great powers it inevitably compelled a response from all the rest, and so hourly reduced the chances. Only at the eleventh hour, when all chance of avoiding war had practically vanished, did the German Government counsel moderation on her ally.

"Even on this single point in Germany's favor the memorandum of the German delegates is forced to admit doubt. 'The reason,' it says, 'for the delay in the reply of the Cabinet at Vienna to this request is not known to us,' and they go on to say, in words which are underlined: 'This is one of the most vital points which still require elucidation.' May it not be that, as was not uncommon with the German Foreign office, unofficial communications or previous understandings between those who had the real power differed somewhat from the messages which traveled over the official wires?

Guilt of German Statesmen.

"The German Government would now throw the blame for the failure of the attempts to procure peace on the mobilization of the Russian Army. They ignore that this was the immediate and necessary consequence of the mobilization of the Austrian Army and the declaration of war on Serbia—both authorized by Germany. These were the fatal acts by which the decision was taken out of the hands of statesmen and control transferred to the military. It is on this statement of fact that equally rests the responsibility for the hasty declaration of war on Russia, when Austria herself was apparently hesitating, and for the declaration of war on France.

"So great was the haste of the German Government that when no plausible reason could be found allegations were invented, the complete falsity of which had long ago been demonstrated. The German delegation now admits that the German Government 'did not take the trouble to verify' reported facts which they published as justifying them in a declaration of war.

"After receiving what the German delegation has to say in self-defense, the allied and associated powers are satisfied that the series of events which caused the outbreak of the war was deliberately plotted and executed by those who wielded supreme power in Vienna, Budapest, and Berlin.

"The history of the critical days of July, 1914, however, is not the sole ground upon which the allied and associated powers consider that the responsibility of Germany for the war must be tried. The authors of the war were no sudden decision taken in a difficult crisis; it was the logical outcome of a policy which had been pursued for decades by Germany under the inspiration of the Prussian system.

"It is said that Germany developed her armaments in order to save herself from Russian aggression. Yet it is a significant fact that no soon was Russia defeated by Japan in the Far East than the German Government immediately redoubled its attempts to increase its armaments and to dominate over its neighbors under the threat of war. To them the collapse of Russia was not an occasion to try to reduce armaments and bring peace to the world in concert with the western powers. It was an opportunity to extend their own power.

Settled Policy of Aggression.

"Further, the whole point of German organization was aggressive. Their scheme of railways, both East and West, their order of mobilization, their long-conceived plan to turn the flank of France by invading Belgium, the elaborate preparation and equipment, both within and beyond her borders, as revealed on the outbreak of the war—all had aggression and not defense in view. The whole military doctrine that Germany could only be defended by striking first upon her neighbors was the excuse for demanding a military organization and

RHINE-DANUBE FRONT IS PLANNED BY FOCH

PARIS, June 19.—Marshal Foch is forming one front against the Germans from the Rhine to the Danube, L'Intransigeant says it is informed. The allied Commander in Chief, it is added, will henceforth extend his command over the Czechoslovak, Rumanian, and Polish armies.

COBLENZ, June 18.—The concentration of American, British, French and Belgian troops, begun by order of Marshal Foch preparatory to advancing further into Germany, will be completed on Saturday, when several hundred thousand allied soldiers will stand ready to march toward Berlin if the Germans do not sign the peace terms.

Artillery and great trucks carrying various kinds of war material are being moved across the Rhine at Cologne, Coblenz, Mayence, and other points within the occupied area.

In the American area there was marked activity today, particularly among the 1st and 2d Divisions, which are holding the bridgehead. On the left bank of the Rhine the 3d and 4th Divisions completed minor details for advancing if the word comes to go ahead.

The 4th Division, which has been ordered home several weeks ago and had turned in all its equipment, is being reequipped for possible action.

Should an allied advance be decided on, the Americans will cover a strip of sixty kilometers in width the first few days of the advance, proceeding northeast in the general direction of Cassel, which is the largest town the Americans occupy. On the right the Americans will have within their sector the main line of railroad between Coblenz and Cassel, which they will use for supplies. Along the railway are Limburg, Alsfeld, and other towns.

Beyond the neutral zone there is considerable activity among the Germans. Newspapers from the unoccupied zone say that all army material within the Rhenish Westphalian industrial territory and other districts has been withdrawn, in most cases more than 150 kilos.

There have been some German troop movements opposite the Americans, but these have not been in large numbers. The Americans do not expect opposition, but will go forward prepared for real war.

retire than affix their signatures to the treaty. The Berliner Zeitung correspondent telegraphs that Professor Schiedeing, one of the principal German delegates, was impatient at the mere suggestion that the question of signing was still debatable.

The question as to who is to sign the treaty is being urgently discussed. Even the party leaders, favoring signing, do not wish the responsibility of subscribing to the document. It has been suggested that Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, is the man to bear the onus "as a sort of justice for his misdeeds in America that led to his recall and the entry of the United States into the war." Bernstorff, however, does not wish to sign the treaty and thereby, perhaps, make himself the best hated man in Germany, whereas now he is one of the most popular.

The Freiheit and the Vossische Zeitung are the only Berlin newspapers which fully favor the signing of the treaty. The Freiheit, the organ of the Independent Socialists, warns the Government against continuing its policy of provocation and trifling with the idea of a military dictatorship. It says that the Independents disclaim all responsibility for the results at home and abroad which might grow out of a refusal to sign.

To only comment of the Pan German Deutsche Zeitung is: "Let them come."

BERLIN, via COPENHAGEN, June 19.—Of all the big papers in Germany so far as known only the Cologne Gazette and the Frankfurter Zeitung favor signing treaty.

It is noteworthy, however, that since the Government received the translation of the Versailles notes intimations have come from Weimar to some authorities in Berlin that the concessions made by the Entente must be carefully considered and that probably another extension of time would be asked to prepare for a referendum on the treaty.

Envoys Bitter Over Attack.

WEIMAR, June 18, (Associated Press.)—The special train bringing Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and his colleagues from Versailles reached Weimar and was run into a siding shortly after midnight this morning.

Government troops which were arriving to strengthen the city's protection were marching through the dark streets to their quarters when the train rolled in. Suddenly the silence was broken by the chatter of machine guns. The origin of the firing was not known until it was learned that Spartacide and Communist prisoners had attacked the castle where members of the Government are quartered.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau remained on his train until after breakfast. The delegation was grimly angry at the hostile attack made upon it at Versailles, in which a considerable number, instead of three as at first reported, were more or less seriously injured.

The Italian and French officers who accompanied the German delegation as far as Cologne were profuse in their apologies for the incident, and said that the police at Versailles had been unreliable since the strike, but the German delegates suspected that the attack had been deliberately planned.

Sees Peace Demand Growing.

COBLENZ, June 18. (Associated Press.)—In an article headed "Forced to Sign," republished in Coblenz from newspapers printed in unoccupied Germany, Representative Vollman, a leading Social Democratic member of the National Assembly, says he believes that Germany will accept the peace conditions.

Herr Vollman asserts that the sentiment in favor of signing the treaty is increasing hour by hour in all ranks of the people but those of the German Nationalists. He contends that forces against which Germany is powerless will compel her to accept peace which she can never admit to be just."

FIND SOVIET ENVOY DEALT WITH REDS

and the possibility of the passage of vessels through the Bosporus and the Dardanelles. To explain the first question a deputation was ordered to Washington, which had conversation with the Acting Secretary of State. Those who made the trip made a report on this conversation at a special luncheon of the persons interested.

"The gist of the instructions received by them are such: Recognition cannot be expected in the near future, but upon the declaration of peace the Federal Government will not prevent private persons trading with Soviet Russia at their own risk.

"From this viewpoint it also tolerates our bureau, although it knows that we communicate with Moscow and receive large sums from there. For the present, however, the Government would not recommend entering into direct intercourse with us, as at present trading is not possible and our conduct is not quite defined.

"In connection with this event and other conversations which I have had occasion to carry on with Americans, I ask your instructions: Is it possible in private conversations, once one is asked about it, to state directly that we are not only not engaged in the propaganda but have such instructions from Moscow?

"The fact is interesting also that the Acting Secretary of State expressed dissatisfaction with the newspapers for the excessive attention given to our bureau, but at the same time expressed himself as very dissatisfied with the Czarist officials representing at present Kolchak-Denpkin.

"Nevertheless, in his opinion, our affairs and their affairs are not permissible, and our letter to Bakhmeteff was insolent. I cannot but express my opinion in this respect that the Federal Government has gone too far in their patronage of Bakhmeteff & Co. Their exposé will involuntarily affect the State Department, and the Treasury; therefore I am convinced that all our efforts in this direction will be fruitless, and no matter how much I would like to see Bakhmeteff and others of my friends in the docket I cannot but admit that, compared with the problem of renewal of trade relations, this exposé is petty and foul smelling. It is not worth while to provoke the American rulers."

Large Sums from Russia.

"I offer this in evidence," said Mr. Stevenson, "because of the interesting admission of receiving large sums of money from Russia. It appears to me there would be no reason for one of Mr. Martens's own men referring to the fact that they were receiving large sums of money from Moscow if that were not true."

"In connection with the financial situation here, I want to call the attention of the members of the committee who were not here the other day to the fact that it appeared in the evidence of Mr. Martens and Mr. Heller, (Commercial Attaché of the Soviet Bureau,) that they have not paid any money whatever in any commercial transactions, so what money they have used must necessarily have been used for something besides commercial purposes," broke in Chairman Lusk. "I think that is information that ought to be before all the members of the committee."

At this point Mr. Stevenson offered in evidence account books and documents related to the finances of the Soviet "embassy." These included pass books of the Public National Bank, the Madison Square Branch of the State Bank, and the Guaranty Trust Company, together with eight check books and several bundles of canceled checks.

Mr. Stevenson testified that an examination of the books and accounts showed that the amount of money placed to the credit of the bureau was not extremely large, the daily balance varying from $5,000 to $9,000.

"This was replenished from time to time, was it not?" asked Senator John A. Mullen of Monroe, a member of the committee.

"This was replenished, and the curious feature is that all of the substantial sums were deposited by L. Martens, meaning Ludwig Martens, in currency, so that there is no evidence as to the source of the funds in the bank books."

Deposits, according to testimony given by Mr. Stevenson, were made by Mr. Martens as follows: March 22, $1,000; April 15, $1,000; April 30, $1,500; May 24, $1,000; May 14, $4,675; June 4, $1,000; June 11, $1,024, and June 12, the day of the raid, $3,000.

"Have you found anything to indicate the source of this currency," asked Chairman Lusk.

"No, we have not except that it is always entered in the books in the name of L. Martens. He apparently puts in the money, and it is put in always to replenish the balance in the bank. The disbursement side simply shows the payment of salaries and printing bills."

Bureau's Radical Mailing List.

A considerable part of the forenoon session was occupied by Mr. Stevenson reading into the record, with running comment, names from the Soviet Bureau mailing list.

"The first name on the list is that of Leonard Abbott," said Mr. Stevenson.

"Do you know whether he is engaged in selling goods?" asked Chairman Lusk.

"No," said Mr. Stevenson; "he is connected with the Ferrer Association of Anarchists in New Jersey. I believe he is a magazine writer. Then there is the name of Robert W. Bruere."

"Who is he?" asked Senator Lusk. "Does he conduct any commercial business?"

"No," said the witness. "He is a writer. He writes for a number of papers and magazines. He has been reporting the I. W. W. cases, and in the June 2 issue of The New Republic he signed an appeal to American Liberals for funds to defend the I. W. W. The next name on the list is B. W. Huebsch, a publisher, who has issued a large number of books on anti-war subjects. The Commonwealth, a radical Socialist publication issued from the Rand School of Social Science, is down on the list. And here I notice the name of John Lovejoy Elliott."

"Who is he?" asked Senator Lusk.

"He appears in 'Who's Who' as an educator, and was active on the Board of Directors of the Civil Liberties Bureau, which was formed for the alleged purpose of protecting persons in this country whose rights had been infringed by Government agents during the war, and also to protect conscientious objectors."

Carleton Hayes, Associate Professor at Columbia University, and a signer of the appeal for I. W. W. defense funds, according to Mr. Stevenson; Morris Hillquit, the Intercollegiate Socialist Society; Paul U. Kellogg, editor of The Survey; George W. Kirchwey, former Dean of the Columbia Law School and now head of the Federal Employment Service in this city; Miss Foia La Follette, daughter of Senator La Follette; Louis P. Lochner, erstwhile Secretary of the Ford Peace Mission; Rabbi Judah Magnes; Darwin K. Mersereole; The Messenger, a negro paper; Professor Scott Nearing; Professor Overstreet of City College; Mary White Ovington, Amos Pinchot; Max Pyne of the United Hebrew Trades; Raymond Robins; John Reed, magazine writer; Gilbert E. Roe, a lawyer; Thomas D. Thacher, former member of the Russian Red Cross Mission, and William B. Thompson, head of that mission; Miss Lillian D. Wald a settlement worker on the East Side; Walker Weyl of The New Republic; Dr. James Warbasse; Albert Rhys Williams, and Norman M. Thomas, former editor of The World Tomorrow, were among the persons and publications or organizations whose names were read into the record from the mailing list.

"This is simply the New York list; there is a similar list for each State and the District of Columbia," said Mr. Stevenson. "The names are of the leaders of radicals, of liberals and apologists for radicals."

Radicals Invite Nuorteva.

Mr. Stevenson said there was an immense amount of documentary evidence to show propaganda activity. A large number of requests for Secretary Nuorteva to address radical meetings, Mr. Stevenson said, had been found in the files. One of these, from the East Side Socialist Party of Cleveland, Ohio, was put in evidence, together with the reply sent by Mr. Nuorteva. The letters follow:

Cleveland, Ohio, March 7, 1919.

Santeri Nuorteva.

Dear Comrade: We understand the Scheidemann local here has arranged a meeting for you in Cleveland for March 24. In the name of the left wing, we want you to cancel meeting and we will arrange meeting for you.

The E. S. S. P. Com. is the Soviet of 10 Bolshevik organizations in Cleveland, and since the board is doing their damnedest to sabotage our John Reed meeting, we want to sabotage them as fast as you are concerned. They have asked him to cancel same, explaining that we are anarchists, &c.; you understand their dirty game. We are commanding Reed to stick to his agreement, and if he don't stick with us he will of course have our own speaker.

The integrity of the Reds is concerned in this matter, for if they succeed in getting Reed away from us they will have won a victory. We must balk them, and not only that, we must take you away from them.

They got Frasini (a Social Democratist) here for three meetings, and he was sabotaged by those who ran the meetings. They'll do the same to you. You must therefore cancel their meeting.

E. S. S. P. COM.

March 12, 1919.

Mr. Charles Samolar,
2,200 East Ninety-seventh Street,
Cleveland, Ohio.

Dear Comrade Samolar:—I have your letter of March 7 in which you say that you want me to cancel the meeting which Local Cleveland has arranged for me on March 24. You state as a reason for this strange request that you want to sabotage the Scheidemann Local "because they have been sabotaging some of your meetings. Now, dear Comrade, the arrangement for the meeting has been agreed upon by me and Comrade Ruthenberg. I have known Comrade Ruthenberg for years and I know he is a radical Socialist who certainly cannot have anything in common with "Scheidemann's people."

As to the alleged sabotage perpetrated against you and as to your desire to retaliate by sabotaging on your part, I do not think it is fair to ask me to be a party to your house quarrels, which I know nothing about, and I think it is very unfair on your part to make such squabbles a hindrance to Socialist propaganda work.

I am interested in presenting the case of the Russian Soviets and in nothing else. I must therefore decline to heed your request. If you would on some other date, which we could agree on, arrange a meeting for the same purpose for which the meeting March 24 is arranged, I shall be glad to speak there, and I suggest that we should agree on some date when I come to Cleveland. Fraternally yours,

S. NUORTEVA.

Find Common Basis.

Members of the committee found the fact that so many of the radical organizations in Cleveland, including the I. W. W., had joined in the request to the Secretary of the Bolshevist "embassy" interesting as well as corroborative of testimony given to show that through the Soviet Bureau these bodies after being at each other's throats for years had found a common platform on which they all could work together. The fact that the Scheidemann Branch was a thorn in the side of the radicals Chairman Lusk also regarded as impressive, after having been informed by the witness of the Scheidemann Socialists in Germany were exponents of evolution rather than revolution, while the left wingers were believers in "direct action."

An unsigned letter dug out of the files, which was addressed to Director Heller of the Commercial Department of the Soviet Bureau, was introduced in evidence to show that Envoy Martens and those who went his errands were believers in secrecy.

"When I return from Washington," wrote the anonymous correspondent, "I will write you as to conditions down there which will be of moment to you. If you should have occasion to write me, send it always to my home address in plain envelope and write on plain paper. You need not sign the letter, as I never do mine. This is done, as you know, for obvious reasons. With kindest regards to Comrade Martens and S. N., I am fraternally yours."

"The letter in itself is interesting, but it is doubly interesting to find correspondence of this character in commercial enterprises," commented Mr. Stevenson.

Another invitation to speak came from Secretary Louis P. Lochner of Henry Ford's peace mission. The letter was written on the letterhead of the Socialist organization of the Fifth and Tenth Assembly Districts, in Manhattan. In the letter Mr. Lochner informed Nuorteva that Scott Nearing, Rose Pastor Stokes, Louise Bryant, James Larkin age act, Kate Richards O'Hare is now addresses before the organization. Mr. Nuorteva accepted the invitation and spoke on the Finnish revolution.

"It might be interesting to recall that Scott Nearing has been twice indicted but acquitted of violation of the Espionage act, and that the publishing company which published what he wrote was convicted and fined $3,000," said Mr. Stevenson. "Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes was convicted under the Espionage act. Kate Richards O'Hare is now serving a sentence for violating the Espionage act. Jim Larkin has been an extreme agitator here, though not a citizen."

"I had the pleasure of hearing him myself at a public meeting advocating the overthrow of the Government institutions by force," broke in Chairman Lusk.

According to Mr. Stevenson there were hundreds of invitations for Nuorteva to speak in the Bolshevist files. Only a selected few were introduced, but the extent of Nuorteva activities will be presented to the committee in tabular form at some future hearing, according to Mr. Stevenson. One of the letters, from a Socialist organization in Buffalo, contained this statement:

Mr. Stevenson introduced a complete list of the "embassy" staff, twenty-eight in all.

There are two names there that are particularly interesting," he said. "Theodore Fedotoff and Anton Taitsen have both been convicted under a sedition law in New Jersey and are now out under $5,000 bail, pending appeal. They were employed by the Soviet Bureau after they had been convicted of seditious activities against our Government."

The committee adjourned until next Thursday.

FORD A WITNESS IN HIS LIBEL SUIT

BLAMED BANKERS FOR WAR

Said He Would Not Contribute to Defense of Own Country, Asserts Witness.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., June 19.—Henry Ford, who is suing The Chicago Daily Tribune for $1,000,000 libel damages, was in court today for the first time in six weeks. With his cheek resting on his hand, he seemed almost oblivious to the witness who was placing him in the category of "rotten Americans." He testified to a minor point.

The accusing witness was Henry A. Wise Wood of New York, who testified at length yesterday. Mr. Lucking, representing Mr. Ford, examined the witness regarding a conversation which the latter had with Mr. Ford in 1916. They argued preparedness and talked much about manufacturing problems, particularly the $5 a day wage minimum.

"He did not express horror at war," said Mr. Wood. "It seemed to me more antagonism to bankers than anything else. What ran through his conversation was that the bankers did it, that is brought on the world war, all wars. 'I, Henry Ford, am going to drive war out of the world; watch me do it,' Mr. Ford said, according to one witness. I asked him how and I asked him when, but he would not tell me either."

"He told you he would not contribute to war in any way," suggested Mr. Lucking.

"Yes, neither in defense of his own country nor any other country."

"Why, I felt that a complete absence of patriotism was the cause of what he was saying," said the witness in reply to another question. "He seemed to have no knowledge that he owed a duty to his country, or to the national group, or to keep it together, or protect it from danger."

"Your own feelings made you call people who did not agree with you rotten Americans?"

"Not often."

"You used the term two or three times yesterday."

"Yes, but I was dealing with a man who had done more to poison the public mind against proper preparation for war than almost any other individual in the country. I consider the few men who led the campaign of the pacifists, without any sense of patriotism whatever, as rotten Americans."

Mr. Ford occupied the stand long enough to identify Theodore Delavigne as a man who had been on his publicity staff and who wrote letters at times in Mr. Ford's name.

HANLON IS SUSPENDED.

Superintendent of Ferries Will Face Charges Monday.

Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures, yesterday suspended, pending his trial on charges, Lawrence Hanlon, Superintendent of Ferries. A hearing on the charges will be held before the Commissioner next Monday. Calvin I. Crocker, engineer in charge of maintenance of the Staten Island ferries, was assigned Acting Superintendent.

The charges against Hanlon are preferred by Deputy Commissioner John Mara. They specify conduct unbecoming a Superintendent of Ferries and prejudicial to good order, efficiency, and discipline, misbehavior, neglect of duty, violation of regulations for the government of municipal ferry employes and incompetence. The charges follow suggestions in a report made by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield to Mayor Hylan several months ago.

REPORTS ENGLISH RADICALS ACTIVE

ARE AIDED BY FOREIGNERS

Leaders Capitalize Grievances of All Discontented Classes, Including Soldiers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—In view of current reports of the growth of the revolutionary movement in England, A. M. Drysdale, an experienced London journalist and student of sociological questions, has been making a series of inquiries, with the results summed up as follows:

"Though I am of the opinion that the number of revolutionaries in Great Britain has been grossly and dangerously exaggerated, I am convinced their number is sufficient to be a menace, if conditions give them their opportunity. The political revolutionary is a spearpoint. The shaft of the spear, without which the point cannot wound, is economic discontent of the multitude. If you keep point and shaft apart there can be no revolution.

"There are comparatively few British revolutionaries, and they are well-known, a stage army assembling in the same places week after week. Their number has been swelled of late by the release of conscientious objectors, not all of whom, of course, nor even a majority, are revolutionaries in the general sense, though their resistance to the act of Parliament was the conduct of revolutionaries.

"But beyond the number, great or small, of British revolutionaries there are in this country many non-British revolutionaries—Irish Sinn Feiners, East Indians, Egyptians, Russians. I don't mean, of course, that the advocates of a republic in Ireland or elsewhere are necessarily revolutionaries. The men whom I have in mind place force, as distinguished from parliamentary methods, in the forefront of their propaganda and undoubtedly are revolutionaries. They even include suspected terrorists.

Deportation Weapon Weak.

"It is conceivable that these men might promote their several causes in Ireland, India, Egypt, and Russia by joint or even separate violence here. Since the deportation of so many undesirables from the Russian colony in London a few weeks ago, the remaining Russian revolutionaries have taken little or no part in revolutionary propaganda in Great Britain. But this preventive weapon of deportation cannot be used against Irishmen, Indians or other British subjects, and Defense of the Realm acts are already almost obsolete.

"Our revolutionaries make no secret of their intention at a favorable conjuncture to seize the Government offices and food depots and to institute what they speak of as a dictatorship of the proletariat. They are in alliance with the Industrial Workers of the World, who, on their part, are openly allied with the Russian Soviet Government and the German Spartacides. They are now engineering a general strike against the Peace Treaty and are urging the Labor Party to declare at once that the peace terms will be repudiated on behalf of Great Britain by the first British Labor Government.

"Their influence was manifested in crude form at the time of the police revolt in provocative talk about tanks and machine guns which the Government were alleged to have assembled in order to terrify the police, and in the allegation that the authorities were careless of the spilling of a little blood. They made great efforts to bring about a general mutiny of the British Army on May 11 on the pretence that all Derby-enlisted soldiers ceased on that date to be soldiers. As a matter of fact, there were at that time, and there have been since, disturbances in the army in every part of the world, which, however, can be traced to reasonable grievances originating in official stupidity at home.

"Of these and all other grievances the revolutionaries are ever on the alert to make little or great gain. There are thousands of demobilized and incapacitated soldiers who are unable to get work, thousands whose claims to pension or disability allowance, as they think, are being unjustly held up, and thousands who are unable to find houses for themselves and their families. The revolutionaries are interested in them and in bringing them together into an army of discontent and desperation.

Have a Genius in London.

They have a veritable genius in London, who knows how to coordinate all grievances—the grievances of soldiers, demobilized and undemobilized, the grievances of trade unionists, the grievances of ejected women, the grievances of the police, the grievances of Ireland, the grievances of England, the grievances of Europe. At the same time a large German party are working in their own efficient way to bring about a world revolution in, as they calculate, about two years time, in which the hated Peace Treaty would go down and from which Germany, with its instinct for order would recover first and come to the top, delivered from the old man of the sea, sunk without trace.

"Our ex-soldiers, by their very training, will follow the leader. They are always looking out for a leader, waiting for a leader, and, if a revolutionary leader puts himself at their head with a plausible assumption of authority, many of them will follow him with all too admirable discipline. There are three vacant positions of dazzling potentialities waiting for men who would stride into the front rank of the great—leadership of the Jewish race, leadership of the Irish race and leadership of the disbanded conquerors of Germany.

"I do not think it matters much that our revolutionaries are small in number, for even successful revolutionaries in other countries have never been in a majority until after the event. Their surrounding conditions are really the decisive considerations, and with these I will deal in another dispatch. For the moment I would only add an expression of regret that so many people have fallen into a habit of carrying concealed firearms who before the war would as soon have thought of walking down Piccadilly on their heads."

BUY FARM FOR 77TH MEN.

Prominent New Yorkers Get Estate to Care for Wounded.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—The Charles G. Cutler farm, consisting of 560 acres and known as one of the most beautiful spots in Dutchess County, has been purchased by the Community Development Corporation of New York City and will be used as a place for the care of wounded members of the 77th Division—the Metropolitan Division.

The corporation consists of several prominent New Yorkers, including William Church Osborne, who have raised the money and will start at once the construction of bungalows for the purpose of giving the members of that division who are suffering from illness or effects of wounds opportunity of open-air treatment. The place is not under the control of the Government in any way, but is entirely owned by a private corporation. Mr. Osborne is one of the leaders in the project.

It is said the backers are prepared to spend a vast sum of money. The community will be known as the Dover Farms, with main office at 2 West Forty-fifth Street, New York. Edward O. Holter is the attorney for the company that purchased the property. The farm is situated on both sides of the Harlem Railroad tracks and on the banks of the Swamp River, which empties into Ten-Mile River a short distance from the property. The property cost $35,000.

DR. HAISELDEN DEAD IN CUBA

CHICAGO, June 19.—Dr. Harry J. Haiselden, whose decision not to operate in an effort to save the life of a child known as the "Bollinger baby," caused widespread comment, is dead at Havana, Cuba. Word of his death was received by relatives here tonight.

Dr. Haiselden had gone to Cuba several weeks ago on a vacation. According to the information received here, death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

The Baby Bollinger case, which attracted attention to Dr. Haiselden was that of a defective child brought to him for an operation. This he refused to perform, on the ground that the child would only be temporarily benefited and had better die.

PIGEONS BRAVE UNDER FIRE.

Feathered heroes of the war, carrier pigeons who have won citations as the result of their services, were the centre of interest on the Great Northern, one of five transports that docked here yesterday. There were twenty-nine homing pigeons, twenty-two of which had been captured from the enemy, on board, in charge of Sergeant Frederick Herrmann, of Youngstown, Ohio, an expert on pigeon training. Every one of the seven American birds wore wound stripes and had been officially cited for bravery under fire.

The Sergeant York of the feathered heroes was General Muir, who, distinguished himself by delivering an important message to a point 33 kilometers distant. According to Sergeant Herrmann, the pigeon flew through a barrage and sustained injuries consisting of a broken wishbone, a torn breast and badly singed feathers. Before General Muir completed the journey he was attacked by a group of trained German hawks but managed to outfly them and deliver the message 33 minutes after starting.

The Great Northern brought back 3,381 troops, the majority of whom belonged to the 113th Engineers. General Pershing's old command, the 15th Cavalry, returned yesterday on the Panaman. The contingent, which numbered 16 officers and 1,267 men, will go to Camp Mills. Major Thomas H. Green, its commanding officer, said the 15th did not get into action, but was stationed at Hendaye, on the Spanish border, examining mules and horses coming from the United States and Spain. He said they examined 25,000 mules and 110,000 horses. The Panaman had 2,167 soldiers on board.

BOY SCOUTS GAIN ALL AIMS IN DRIVE

CAMPAIGN GREAT SUCCESS

All Immediate Objects Attained—Efforts to be Continued Quietly All Summer.

James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, announced yesterday at the final luncheon of the leaders of the Boy Scout campaign, at the Railroad Club, that the "drive" had been a complete success and that New York City had accomplished its full share.

He said the city's fund had passed its quota of $300,000, although returns in hand so far amounted to $283,000. Complete returns have not been received from any of the boroughs. Some of the optimistic campaigners believed the final total for the city would be nearly $500,000.

"The campaign has been a success throughout the nation," Mr. West said. "Reports by letter and telegraph show the country has responded to the movement without hesitation.

"In rural and suburban communities particularly we have obtained flattering results. We started out to get 1,000,000 adult members. We got more than that. Our hardest job has been in the large cities. We expected that, because the cities have been the chief centres of attack all during the war. We have in every instance obtained our objectives, and the Boy Scouts are now known from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico.

"We had the following objectives: First, we desired to place before the country the boy question. We did it. Second, we wished to raise money, that the movement might not languish. If we had not held the campaign now, the Boy Scouts organization could not have lasted through the Summer. It had been suggested that the drive be put off until Fall. If that had been done, there would have been no organization left to run a campaign.

"Our third objective was to build up an adult membership, to obtain scout masters and workers to back up the boys morally and sentimentally. Fourth, we wanted to get the boys interested and to place the organization on a firm and lasting foundation.

"We will continue the campaign in a quiet way in New York all Summer. We intend to send out receipt books to those who will help us, and by Fall we expect to have a large percentage of the 400,000 boys of scout age in the city, and also more adult members, than we would have believed before it was possible to get."

Josephine Muller, who died on May 30 last, left her savings of $3,000 to Mrs. Margarita S. McLellan of 1,752 West Tenth Street, Brooklyn, in whose home she was employed as a servant for nine years. She told her employer she had no relative in this country except a cousin, of whom she had lost trace.

In Letter to Enright, Mayor Tells How Crime Could Be Prevented.

WOULD WATCH EVERYBODY

Says Sharp Eye Should Be Kept on "Movies" and "Coffee Houses"—Accuses Patrol Agencies.

Mayor Hylan yesterday made public a letter to Police Commissioner Enright, in which he gave his ideas of the duties of a policeman in this city. The Mayor wrote that crime prevention was the first business of a policeman, and added that "honest business men should not be annoyed and the police should give their attention to the perpetrators of vicious crimes such as burglary, murder, holdups and speed maniacs." The letter reads:

Richard E. Enright, Esq., Police Commissioner, City of New York.

Dear Commissioner: Crime prevention is the most important duty that the uniformed police of this city have to deal with. The duties of inspectors, Captains, Lieutenants, Sergeants, and patrolmen are to keep order and to prevent crime, and they should be held strictly responsible for conditions in their district, precinct, or post.

The duty of the detective force is to ferret out and apprehend violators of the law and holdups are planned. The police should investigate these places more frequently and more thoroughly, and no doubt they will be able to break up many of the gangs that plan crimes and arrest those who are carrying revolvers.

Gambling and vice is well in hand, but you should pursue these evils, which will prevent other crimes being committed.

The business of pawnbrokers, junk dealers, and second-hand dealers in all kinds of personal property, should be carefully scrutinized. The thief who steals jewelry, clothing, brass, copper, lead, and other personal property disposes of it at the pawnshop or at the second-hand dealer's. In many instances these dealers are nothing more than a fence for thieves, and should be driven out of business.

Very often the solicitors or agents for burglary insurance companies are instrumental in having glowing accounts of burglaries written in the press, and these articles are often used to frighten the people into taking out burglary insurance.

There are also so-called patrol agencies operated by private parties under high-sounding names, for instance, the Special Patrol and Protective Association. The members of these organizations secure Deputy Sheriff badges and other badges showing authority. If they are not employed to watch certain houses, these houses are burglarized, and then the owner is impressed with the necessity of having one of their men employed to watch the house.

The moving-picture houses display films which makes the young man not inclined to work for an honest living believe it is easy to pick pockets and hold up and rob people. Such films should be discontinued.

Drugs are being sold to persons who become addicts and in order to secure money to purchase these drugs they resort to burglary and thieving of all kinds.

Vicious and irresponsible persons secure chemicals and explosives for improper and illegal purposes which should be prohibited.

Motor vehicles, particularly United States mail and army trucks and motor cycles, run through the streets regardless of traffic rules and regulations, or life, limb, or property.

In many precincts there are corner loafers who insult women as they pass by. The police officer should familiarize himself with conditions on his post and with the habits of the idlers who never work and make a living by their wits.

The honest business man should not be annoyed and the police should give their attention to the perpetrators of vicious crimes such as burglary, murder, holdups and speed maniacs.

Very truly yours,

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

The Mayor recently has written several letters dealing with the work of the Police Department. In March he wrote to Commissioner Enright, congratulating him on the work of his department in breaking up the gambling fraternity in New York." He also wrote to Louis G. Kaufman, president of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank, declaring that the newspapers, by publishing accounts of crimes committed here, were responsible in showing criminals how easy it was to steal and rob.

AUTOIST TO SING SING.

First of Such Sentences Since Establishment of Safety Zones.

The first State prison sentence for an automobilist since the establishment of the safety zones as part of the traffic regulations was given yesterday to Louis Kaufer, 27 years old, immediately after a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court had convicted him of manslaughter for causing the death of a pedestrian. While speeding his car at thirty-five miles an hour through the safety zone at Eighty-sixth Street and Central Park West on April 22, Kaufer ran over and killed Edward McDevitt of 500 Grand Street. Justice Davis sentenced Kaufer to Sing Sing Prison for three years and six months.

Mrs. Katherine Connolly and John McGovern, friends of McDevitt, all of whom were standing within the police lines of the zone of safety waiting for a trolley car, were knocked down and injured and were taken to a hospital. Kaufer's previous record was considered by the court. Chief Assistant District Attorney Talley said it included a charge for reckless driving on March 30, 1919, which caused the death of John H. Lehning at Nineteenth Street and Lexington Avenue, but was dismissed for lack of identification.

Applying Merchandising Principles to Real Estate

TWO men became retail merchants in a certain city at the same time. One sold clothing, let us assume, and the other sold meat. Both enterprises were blessed with initial success with the result that two bank accounts developed restive yearning for new worlds to conquer.

The clothier, blind to the opportunities in his own line, opened a garage and then a restaurant. For a time these prospered, but when competition became keen the divided attention of the owner was not sufficient to keep them from disaster. The clothing venture nearly suffered the same fate and is hanging on from day to day living on the crumbs dropped by those who grasped the opportunities it overlooked.

The butcher put his money back in his meat market; he enlarged his store and advertised. As customers kept coming and his profits increased, he improved his equipment and his service. Today he has the most successful retail meat market in the city, a constantly growing business.

Which of these examples are you, as a property owner, following? Are you investing the rent from your holdings in enterprises much less lucrative? Are you neglecting to make any improvements which will increase the real estate value of your property and the income it brings you?

Electric service is the greatest improvement. It makes a dwelling more comfortable, reduces maintenance cost and improves the tone of the building. And it has the very tangible effect of making it easier to rent.

A postal-card or telephone request (Stuyesant 4980) will bring our representative to you. He will tell you how inexpensively and easily your property can be electrified. And if the investment involves a greater immediate expenditure than is convenient, we may perhaps be able to arrange terms.

Serve on the Rhine—NOW in the A. E. F.

Here is Opportunity—Are YOU the Man?

My boy—your Uncle Sam is sending 50,000 men like you, right now, to serve in France and on the Rhine. The flag floats in many parts of the world, and Uncle Sam will maintain an efficient, patriotic army to guard it. So besides the contingents for Europe, many other red-blooded men are invited to volunteer and choose what part of the world they will serve in.

Will You Go?

In Panama, Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, China, as well as France and the Rhine, opportunity is offered clean, ambitious, intelligent young men. The choice is yours!

Thousands of Americans would gladly pay for this experience—you will get paid. And while you serve, you learn.

Read every word of this advertisement and see why service in the United States Army is the best preparation you could have for success in life!

Good Pay, Enjoyable, Inspiring Work, Recreation and Man-Building

Food, clothing, living quarters, medical and dental attention—all of the very best—absolutely FREE. The present rate of pay is $30 a month or more. In other words, the soldier now has a net profit of about a dollar a day.

Can you pay all your living expenses from your present income and have a dollar a day left over? Probably not.

Military Life is Outdoor Life

It inculcates self-control, quick-thinking, alertness, regularity, exactness, bodily fitness. It makes you hard as nails; a trained, co-ordinated unit of clean bone and muscle. Most men gain weight as a result of army life!

Free Vocational Training in the Army Fits You for Success

Suppose you are a young man looking about you for a trade as a stepping stone to success in life—Uncle Sam offers many educational opportunities, and pays you while you study.

Uncle Sam gives you your living, gives you the opportunity to learn a skilled trade and pays you real money at the same time. And when you complete your enlistment and obtain your discharge, if you have taken full advantage of your chances, your services will be in demand wherever skilled men are employed. Among these skilled trades are Land Surveying, Auto Repairing, Telephone Repairing, Road Construction, Wireless Telegraphy, Steamfitting, Telegraphy, Switchboard Installation, Motor Mechanics (air or ground), Baking and Cooking, Carpentry, Photography, Electrical Work, Lithography, Bricklaying, Blacksmithing, Drafting, Masonry, Welding (acetylene and electric), Airplane Mechanics, Plumbing, and a great many others.

Liberty and Recreation

The soldier off duty writes letters, smokes, plays baseball, pool, football or most any other game he likes; goes to the movies, or theatres; in fact, does about as he pleases. He has no difficulty in obtaining permission to leave the camp or post at proper times. He meets agreeable people, including lots of nice girls, at Hostess Houses, etc. He goes to dances, if he wants to. In fact, he usually has a better time than a civilian.

Now, Men, What Do You Want?

Where do you want to go? France and the Rhine? (50,000 going right away). Panama? Hawaiian Islands? Philippine Islands? China? Alaska? Men are wanted for certain branches of the Service in all of the above places.

Profits of Army Newspaper in France May Go to French War Orphan Fund.

PLAN TEMPORARILY HELD UP

Staff of Newspaper Which Suspended Last Friday Leaves Paris on Way Home.

PARIS, June 19.—After sixteen months of constant service the personnel of The Stars and Stripes, the official newspaper of the American Expeditionary Force, comprising 145 enlisted men and two officers, left Paris this morning on the way home. A small force remains behind to liquidate straggling accounts.

A check for approximately 3,500,000 francs, it is announced, will soon be on its way to the United States Treasury at Washington, representing the net profit of the publication at the time of its suspension Friday. This surplus was originally planned to be turned over to the French War Orphans, for whom a fund had been started by The Stars and Stripes, the contributors being individual members and units of the A. E. F.

By a ruling of the Judge-Advocate last February it was decided that the profit of the paper, in view of it being the product of men receiving Government pay, must not be put to this use. Recent recommendations to Congress raise the hope that the amount will eventually be devoted to its original purpose.

The War Orphan Fund, which was administered until recently under the direction of The Stars and Stripes for the benefit of 3,567 children, will amount to 1,085,000 francs, which includes the residue of the profits accruing from the circulation of the Paris edition of The Chicago Tribune. This profit was turned over by that paper to General Pershing, to be utilized as he advised. General Pershing ordered that it be devoted to the care of the war orphans.

The Stars and Stripes, the personnel of which came from all parts of the United States and was drawn from nearly all branches of the service, published its first issue on Feb. 8, 1918. The copy for the first number was written in the back room of a little converted shop at Neufchatel, then field press headquarters of the A. E. F.

LODGE SEES PEACE IN CURBING GERMANY

HE ATTACKS BOLSHEVISM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 19.—At the annual commencement of Harvard university today, when 1,224 degrees were conferred, including 280 honoris causa on account of the war, the chief address was made at the dinner by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Lessons for America in Germany's military aggression following years of effort toward world peace and in Russia's Bolshevist rule were emphasized in his address.

Destruction of Germanys' war power, he declared, was now the best guarantee of world peace. Misery wrought by Bolshevism in Russia, he asserted, proved that reforms must come slowly, by evolution, and that present conditions might be endangered " by vainly striving for a glittering impossibility."

No direct reference was made by Mr. Lodge to the Peace Treaty or the League of Nations, but in discussing peace efforts and Germany's course he said:

" At the close of the last century there was a quite general belief that serious wars would not come again. Some doubted and for their skepticism were called 'jingoes,' 'war lovers,' and 'pessimists.'

" But almost every one felt sure that if war should again break upon us its horrors would be reduced to the lowest point, and that by the conventions of Geneva and The Hague the sufferings and cruelties of past wars would be largely eliminated.

" Suddenly the great war came. Germany, esteemed by all a highly civilized nation, entered deliberately upon a course of savage cruelty worse than any ever imagined because it was carefully organized. The world had known barbarism before, but never had anything fallen upon men comparatible to the scientific, wholesale atrocities carried on by Germany, by which not merely individuals but entire communities were subjected to the most hideous sufferings and the most utter ruin which highly trained minds entirely destitute of humanity could devise.

" As for treaties and laws, they went in the fierce flame of war as quickly as the dry leaves of Autumn when a spark falls among them.

" The beautiful scheme of making mankind suddenly virtuous by a statute or a written convention was once more exhibited in all its weakness.

" It is a melancholy reflection that the best assurance of the future peace of the world lies in the destruction of the German war power, which is worth all it cost.

" Once again comes the harsh lesson that all the advances of man in morals and in altruism, in charity and gentler manners and purer laws, all that really remain with us, come slowly, never in a moment."

Experience of the past, Senator Lodge declared, must be a guide to future action.

" I fervently hope," he said to the graduates, " that you will have visions and dream dreams, but do not forget that having visions is one thing, while being a visionary, especially a visionary whose visions and ideals are stage properties, is quite another.

" What troubles me most about the books and articles and speeches by our most advanced thinkers setting forth new panaceas and systems for all the evils is that they are generally so very old, a fact apparently disregarded by their authors, who very properly despise a past which only rises up to be troublesome."

Rear Admiral William S. Sims, Maj. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, Henry P. Davidson, Chairman of the War Council of the American Red Cross, and the late Robert Bacon, former Secretary of State and Ambassador to France, were awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Russian Bolshevism, Mr. Lodge said in conclusion, presented a warning to America in its " awful results of a scheme which its authors pretended and their dupes believed would make all men happy, in a moment."

" In letters of fire," said Mr. Lodge, " this Russian scene says to us ' this way lies ruin.'

" Does the United States tell us trumpet-tongued that the country for which this younger generation has died is still the best hope for mankind and that it must be preserved as their fathers preserved and saved it in the days that are gone? Be Americans first, Americans last and Americans always. From that firm foundation you can march on. Abandon it and chaos will come as when the civilization of Rome crashed down in irremediable ruin."

" I do not fear Bolshevism," he said, " but what I do fear is the reaction which, if it were undisputed, would play into the hands of the Bolshevists and Soviet their purpose with the same effect as the universal spread of their doctrine.

" I regard Bolsheviats, red flag Socialists, and I. W. W.'s as simple criminals, and think that the same methods should be used in dealing with them, as you cannot deal with them on reason with them academically."

After discussing the need of greater facilities for the Naval War College, of which he is President, Rear Admiral Sims turned to the censorship, declaring that England made a mistake in not taking the public into her confidence concerning the brilliant results achieved by her army and navy.

" This censorship," he said, " made it possible for German agents to convert America into a great field for propaganda, and so today Americans do not fully appreciate the wonderful service rendered by the British fleet during the war."

Other honorary degrees were:

Master of Arts—Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey of Pittsfield, commander of the " Lost Battalion "; Major George G. McMurtry, who served under Colonel Whittlesey; Major Walter W. Manton of Detroit, a medical officer; Captain Charles D. Morgan of New York, who served in the British army; Captain Arthur G. Cable of Chicago, former Secretary of the Aircraft Production Board; Colonel Albert T. Perkins of St. Louis, an American engineer; Major George C. Shattuck of Boston, Director of Light Railways Overseas; Herbert M. White of Cambridge, in charge of the Harvard Surgical Unit with the British forces.

Thirty-two of the men honorsed gave their lives in the war. Many members of the senior class are still in service and were not able to be present today.

The Alumni Association elected three Directors for terms of three years each as follows:

Jeremiah Smith, Jr., Boston; John D. Merrill, Cambridge, and Samuel S. Drury, Concord, N. H.

The election of the following as members of the Harvard Board of Overseers for terms of six years was announced: Owen Wister, Philadelphia; Thomas W. Lamont, New York; Edward H. Bradford, Boston; Ellery Sedgwick, Boston; Judge Julian W. Mack, Chicago.

TRIBUTE TO REV. McMAHON.

Parish Gives $65,000 Toward Church Debt on Anniversary.

More than 8,000 parishioners of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes, 142d Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, gathered in the Great Hall of the College of the City of New York last night at a testimonial reception to the Rev. Joseph H. McMahon, Ph. D., pastor of the church. The occasion was the thirty-third anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

A few weeks ago a committee of parishioners visited their pastor and told him that they wanted to make him a gift of money on the day of his anniversary. He told them that he would rather they would start a drive to pay off the debt of $350,000 on the church. As a result of Father McMahon's suggestion a fund of $65,000 was raised and presented to him last night by Nicholas J. Hayes, Jr., in behalf of the church. He was also presented with a check for $2,500 as a personal gift from the various societies of the church. Addresses were made by the Rev. John L. Belford, Father J. O'Beirne, and Dr. McMahon.

ADVERTISEMENT.

DEAR FOLKS:

LET me tell you about a Wilson & Company party given by the members of the Fellowship Club of the New York plant at the Waldorf Hotel last Wednesday night. It was given in honor of Thomas E. Wilson, president of the company, who recently returned from Europe, where he visited his branch offices there. He made a special trip from Chicago to fraternize with his fellow-workers in New York.

The New York Fellowship Club has an active membership and the members are very proud of it, so they wanted to show Mr. Wilson how it measures up alongside of the other Fellowship Clubs that exist in other plants around the country.

But most of all, they wanted to show Mr. Wilson how much they appreciate his efforts in grouping his 25,000 workers into one big, happy family where all share in the generous distribution of good-will, rewards and privileges. I think it is great that one man has the power and ability to lead so many people into pleasant paths and make them proud in his leadership.

The evening party opened with a performance by a minstrel troupe composed of workers, whose singing and acting and conversation delighted the members and their wives who were present. After this part of the program had been carried out Mr. Wilson was introduced and the cheers that greeted him certified to his popularity among his fellow-workers.

It is easy enough to detect the difference between a genuine and a forced ovation; one is spontaneous; the other shows it is given because it is expected.

When, however, hundreds of men and women stand and cheer and applaud and wave handkerchiefs—and do so impulsively and heartfully—then there is no doubt about the spontaneity of it, nor is there any doubt about their liking and honoring the man.

Mr. Wilson talked to them very briefly, but he said what was in his heart to say, and he said it so sincerely that his fellow-workers knew that he meant every word.

The secret of Mr. Wilson's success in his great business of supplying people with his company's CERTIFIED FOOD PRODUCTS—such as hams and bacon, canned meats, vegetables and table delicacies—all backed up also by the slogan "THE WILSON LABEL PROTECTS YOUR TABLE"—is due to the faith he has in his fellow-workers and to their faith in him. He says so—they say so—and that's all there is to it—except, of course, that all feel their responsibility in the preparation of the Wilson & Co. products just the same as they feel bound in honor to play on the level with one another.

It is out of the question for people living in the same household to act true-blue in one direction and false in another—and in this particular household, don't forget, there is absolute harmony as affecting the spirit, the thoughts and the action of every member thereof.

Mr. Wilson remained with his fellow-workers as one of the liveliest and most agreeable members of the party until the evening's gaities ended.

Is your wife a partner or just a highgrade housekeeper?

Does she know what you own and owe?

Is there money in the bank for the things you both want, and for the house too?

Where does the money go?

Why not sell your wife a partnership?

And then when she is a partner in the company, show her the balance sheet.

For no family income, even in the multi-millionaire class, was ever large enough to supply everything everybody in the family would like to have.

The main thing, then, is to get out of the dollars of income more of the things you want.

First you must know the amount of your income.

And then of course you must determine the things you both want, and then arrange your expenditures so that money will be available.

It's not the big, occasional expenditures that eat up the family money, it's the spending of small amounts day by day for non-essentials.

"Getting Your Money's Worth" in the July Woman's Home Companion is not a theory. It is a detailed sum-up of the successful experiences of families whose incomes vary in amount as their wants vary in character.

Not the usual "ideal" budget, with the usual 20% for rent, 25% for food, and so on, but a plan built out of the knowledge that living conditions, needs and desires differ so much that percentage divisions have no real meaning.

And with a thoroughness characteristic of Woman's Home Companion special articles, there is in "Getting Your Money's Worth" a proved plan for putting this idea into immediate and successful execution.

REPARATION TO COLOMBIA.

There will be profound satisfaction throughout the United States if the Senate shall promptly complete and ratify the treaty, now in charge of the Foreign Relations Committee, providing for the payment of a sum, not yet definitely fixed but expected to be $25,000,000, to Colombia for the rights over the Isthmus of Panama which we have enjoyed as a consequence of the revolution of Nov. 2, 1903. This act of reparation has been too long delayed; it has been strenuously opposed by those who were participants in and defenders of the proceedings by which the Panama Zone came into our control. The remark, well justified and properly descriptive, that those proceedings were "not tainted with legality" has been attributed to a high authority. The conscience of the American people has never been easy about the matter; it will be relieved of a burden when justice has been done to Colombia.

The history of the transaction dates back to our treaty of 1846 with New Granada, as the country which included Colombia was then called. By that treaty we guaranteed "perfect neutrality" of the Isthmus, "with "the view that the free transit from "the one to the other sea may not "be interrupted or embarrassed in "any future time"; and we guaranteed "the rights of sovereignty and "property which New Granada has and "possesses over the same territory." In the Spring of 1903, in pursuance of the provisions of the Spooner act, we submitted to Colombia a treaty which would have permitted the construction of the Panama Canal by the United States. The Congress of Colombia, after long delay, voted against the ratification of the treaty. Much ill-feeling was thereby caused and the conduct of the Colombian Government was severely criticised in this country. In behalf of Colombia, on the other hand, it was shown that our Government had warned the Government of that country that there must be no modification of the treaty as presented; that it must be ratified "without amendment whatsoever," and that the rejection of the convention or undue delay might seriously compromise the friendly feeling between the two countries, insomuch "that action might be taken by the Congress next Winter which every "friend of Colombia would regret."

Immediately thereafter came the revolution of November, 1903. That our Government had advance notice of the uprising was made evident by orders issued to naval vessels to put themselves "within easy reach of the "Isthmus in the event of need arising"; and by the instruction on Nov. 2 to the commanders of three of our naval vessels to "maintain free and uninterrupted transit, * * * and to prevent landing "of armed forces, either Government "or insurgent, within fifty miles of "Panama." This order effectually prevented any effort of the Bogota Government to put down the uprising. As to the character of the "revolution," we have the testimony of JAMES T. DUBOIS, who was appointed as Minister to Colombia in the Administration of President TAFT. In a statement published five years ago, Mr. DUBOIS quotes President ROOSEVELT as declaring "the people of "Panama were a unit in demanding "the revolution." Upon this he made the following comment:

> I say, and can prove it, that a handful of men, who were to be the direct beneficiaries of the revolution, conceived it, and not a hundredth part of the inhabitants of the Isthmus knew of the revolt until an American officer, in the uniform of the United States Army, raised the flag of the new republic.

Recognition of the new republic by our Government followed in four days, and we were then in a position to treat with the new State of Panama for the Zone and canal rights which permitted us to construct the canal.

These are the reasons why we are now preparing to enter into a new treaty by which we make compensation to Colombia for the loss of her most valuable province. These events are not recalled for stirring up of old animosities, but to make plain that the proposed payment to Colombia is in reality the discharge of an obligation too long deferred. The treaty marks the re-establishment of friendly relations between the two countries; it is, indeed, the outgrowth of the better feeling that has sprung up in recent years. In the treaty prepared in 1917 the United States expressed "sincere regret that anything should "have occurred to interrupt or mar "the relations of cordial friendship "that had so long existed between "the two nations." This was felt to be too apologetic and the treaty failed. There is no apology in the new treaty; none is demanded. Prominent publicists of Colombia have regretted that the Hay-Herran Treaty was not ratified by their Congress; they have declared that Colombia took unwise and mistaken action in rejecting it. Both countries are willing to forget the past, the one to do, the other to accept, simple justice.

The effect of this treaty, if accepted by both countries, will extend far beyond the sphere of our relations with Colombia. It will exert a timely and fortunate influence upon all the peoples of Central and South America. The Panama transaction has troubled them, it has made them apprehensive. We were put in the unfortunate position of profiting by our own tort; and the acquisition of our rights in the Isthmus in such a manner went far to offset our wholly unselfish treatment of the people of Cuba, whom we set free and helped to establish a Government of their own choice. We shall think better of ourselves, and our sister republics will think better of us, when we have made this just reparation to Colombia.

MR. WILSON IN BELGIUM.

President WILSON has done a wise thing by going to Belgium to see for himself the frightful devastations caused in that country by the Germans. Of course, there is much that he cannot see in the motor trip that he and King ALBERT have taken. He can see the silent ruins, and here and there he can hear the story of some victim. It must be sufficiently moving, but the real victims of outrage and robbery have long ago disappeared.

Nevertheless, the President is not ignorant of their story. Soon after the beginning of the war King ALBERT's Government sent over to him the authenticated record of the earliest and worst of these crimes. It was brought over by accredited representatives of the Belgian Government, some of them members of the Ministry, and all officially representing King ALBERT. This was the horrible story of the first massacres, killings, burnings, levies, and other violations of the laws of war. It was before the days of the deportations, but otherwise the record was not different from the later record made by Germany. Therefore the picture of ruin which the King has presented to him can only reinforce by ocular demonstration what the President, as a man of imagination and feeling, must have already seen in his mind's eye.

"In coming here personally," the President said, "I have merely followed my own heart and the heart "of the American people toward Belgium." It was Belgium, it is often said, that brought England into the war, but after all it was Belgium that brought America into the war. We did not enter until our own rights and safety had been assailed, but from the moment when the destruction of Belgium was attempted there arose that solidarity of sympathy which made us so ready and so willing to insist on our own rights at any moment that the freebooters who had tried to improve on the methods of TILLY, in a peaceful country which they had bound themselves to protect, dared to brandish a fist at us.

BRITISH AIRSHIP PLANS.

It is an ambitious program of air service that comes from England. A kind of trust composed of international companies, "heavily subsidized "by the Governments of the various "European Powers," is to be formed, and travelers are to be carried from London to New York in two and a half days, to San Francisco in four and a half, to Cairo in one and a half, to Cape Town in five and a half, to Rio de Janeiro in four, and to Australia in seven days, and, of course, all over Europe. Three types of airships will be built—those of moderate size to transport passengers, mails, and express on local routes; liners for fast long-distance flights, and great dirigibles of comparatively slow speed for general transport.

One enterprising company is planning an airship of 3,500,000 cubic feet capacity, with a speed of sixty miles an hour and a range of 4,500 miles. This leviathan would be able to cross the Pacific, 2,418 miles to Honolulu and thence 4,200 miles to Tokio. By making calls at the Marquesas Islands, the Society Islands, and the Tonga group, it could carry fifteen tons of passengers and mails to Sydney, Australia. It would link Rio de Janeiro and Cape Town, (3,825 miles,) with plenty of petrol left in its tanks. A girdle could be put around the earth in little more than a fortnight. The price of an air ticket to New York has already been fixed by a British firm at $240. A start could be made from Liverpool Saturday morning, and Monday night the passenger would find himself in a taxi speeding toward the hotel of his choice in the Forty-second Street district. With such celerity of transportation it would be difficult to know in what part of the world an energetic business man would be at any given time. Some other name than globe-trotting would have to be found for the wanderings of restless tourists. JULES VERNE's journey around the world in eighty days would become a curiosity of the archaic; yet in the day the story was told people regarded it as a tour de force of the imagination.

Does the British prospectus seem inflated, the dream of a Colonel Sellers, a promoter's romance? Well, the Atlantic has just been flown by ALCOCK and BROWN, who left St. John's Saturday afternoon and dropped down in Galway Sunday morning in time to go to church. New York expects the British dirigible R-34 to make a call soon after the Peace Treaty is signed. No one will be surprised to see it circling over the city, because everybody knows that the trip across would be no problem in aeronautics. Air mail services are being established in Europe and America as a matter of course. Passengers are already being carried. Aviators flit from New York to Washington and return with mail without a hitch. There is a regular route from Cleveland to Chicago; in one week 161,800 letters were carried. There is a service between Marseille and Cologne, 225 miles, on which a record of 1 hour and 40 minutes has been made. Planes also fly from Paris to Geneva carrying mails. For several weeks Chilean pilots have been delivering postal matter in Santiago and Valparaiso. The London Evening News sends its papers to the east coast every day by biplane. An offer of $50,000 has been made by the Australian Government for a flight by seaplane from England to the Commonwealth, the distance varying from 15,000 to 17,000 miles, according to the route taken via Asia.

All this means that the problem of commercial aviation is to be worked out in a practical way, that planes and dirigibles will be as common a sight in the sky as ships are on the sea, in fact that the ships of the air will be more numerous, perhaps very soon. The British have faith in their program, although it may be stated in what seems like terms of hyperbole. John Bull is hard-headed and businesslike. He is set on being master of the air. What is Uncle Sam going to do about it?

GERMANY WILL SIGN.

Of course, Germany may not sign within the seven days allotted to her. Our dispatches yesterday indicated the interesting possibility that she may wait eight days; that she may wait until the march of FOCH's armies into her territory begins, and then throw up her hands and say that she yields to force. But sign she must. The nation which made that abject surrender of her whole fleet, that boasted fleet which had run from the Skagerrak after a short fight which it pretended to have won, and which afterward came under the British flag without even a revolver shot to show that it did not like the idea, is not going to teach us any new lessons in the matter of heroic resistance to the invader in the last ditch. She will sign with we know not what pretense of injured dignity and of unwilling submission. The Allies have shown extraordinary forbearance toward Germany's peculiar way of making a good front before the world.

Furthermore, the German people are themselves evidently in no mood for any more pretense than is necessary for the purpose of keeping up the German self-esteem. The delegates seem to be doing all the pretending. The Cabinet may back them up or may not, but is evidently distracted between the insistence of the delegates on one side and that of the people on the other. The people have no stomach for fighting. "Rather the end with terror than terror without end," a small merchant in Berlin is quoted as saying. FOCH is ready to begin his march, and the British Grand Fleet is ready to sail for German waters at a moment's notice. Why keep up the game of blind man's buff any longer? It will not be kept up. Germany may pretend to the last, but she will sign.

STATE INCOME TAX DEFECTS.

Every effort to better the tax laws of this State is marked by imperfections, but none to equal those previously existing. Governor SMITH is unable to defend the income tax law in the face of New Jersey's complaints of discriminations against non-residents, and endeavors to forestall retaliation by promising to favor removal of the cause of complaint. New York law should not tax New Jerseyites on income not earned in New York, nor at a higher rate than New Yorkers pay, nor refuse deductions conceded to others under the law. These errors are inadvertent, not malicious, and they can be corrected before the tax is due.

The fact remains that New York laws taxing those who profit by opportunities here have been astonishingly lax and have been abused beyond patience. When the Mills committee was investigating this point it sent 250 inquiries to important corporations known to have taxable personal property here, and just four answered the questions. The reason was that the New York tax on property of non-residents could be collected only by procedure against the property, not against the owner. The tax, therefore, was practically non-collectible, and the law was held in contempt. The committee believed that not one-tenth of the tax due was collected, and showed that collections were decreasing while the dues were increasing. That was among the reasons why the income tax was passed.

More serious is the disclosure that the tax is to be attacked on the ground of its unconstitutionality. The Governor of New Jersey has instructed the Attorney General to consider the point, and the former counsel of the Mills committee has said in advance that the point is well taken. Mr. POWELL argues that income taxes and property taxes should be assessed as taxes always have been assessed, that is by local officials, whereas the income tax is administered by the Controller, a State official. The courts upheld the State assessment of the special franchise tax because it was a new form of tax, theretofore unknown to the law. But the New York income tax of 1778 was assessed by local officials, and the people in 1915 rejected an amendment of the Constitution designed to empower the Legislature to enact the method of assessment. That points to a structural, fundamental defect in the law, for it could not be administered by local officials in its present form, nor amended to conform to the Constitution while retaining centralized assessment.

The disability of the State to centralize its tax assessments is more serious than the defect of the income tax law for that reason. The defects of the New York method of assessment ought to be incredible and unendurable, but they withstand all exposure and all hardships which result. There is the same trouble in many States, but in none so severe as in New York. The reason is that in no other State is there such a city as New York, and therefore none has the opportunity to relieve the State by overburdening the city. It is true that we have a process of equalization to correct known inequalities in local assessments. MARTIN SAXE, when State Tax Commissioner, said: "Equalization will never cure defective local administration in taxation; the vice of bad local assessments is in the making, and that "can only be remedied at the "source." Therefore it is that the badness of New York tax methods is the reason for their existing long after other States have found another way. We might do without an income tax if we had a just system of direct taxation, and we have an income tax because it has been so impossible to collect a general property tax generally and fairly.

A possible way out would be co-operation in the laying of taxes by the several States, and between them and the nation. They poach on one another's preserves and reduplicate taxation in a manner which grows worse with the necessity for constantly more taxes. The National Tax Association has drafted a model bill, so called, which has considered these points and which would remedy them better than any one State acting alone could remedy them.

GUARDING THE EASTERN FRONT.

However much the Germans may rage against the treaty, they will not dare for a long time to try to recover their losses in the west; for the immediate future France is safe. But the stress laid by all German protests on the provisions affecting the eastern frontier shows the direction of present German interest. Alsace-Lorraine has been given up, at least for the time; but not without a struggle will Germany resign control of German Poland, nor the foothold which her armies and her kinship with the ruling class have gained her in the Baltic provinces of old Russia.

The Conference gave way to the Germans to the extent of making some changes in the proposed Polish-German frontier, changes not very great, though in the wrong direction. It made the more serious concession of a plebiscite in Upper Silesia. Though the Poles, according to German statistics, are in a two-thirds majority in the territory here under dispute, there can be no doubt that if the present German authorities are in charge when the vote is taken citizens of Polish propensities will have small chance to express themselves. This means that the Allies must exercise an effective control over the elections, a control extending into every part of the territory. That will not be easy; it offers a thousand possibilities for friction, violence, actual warfare. Without question the Germans hope that this plebiscite can be delayed until the chief allied Powers are on the way back to a peace footing, militarily and industrially, and that perhaps war-weary peoples will not see the necessity of throwing all the powers of the alliance to the defense of Poland.

A few days ago we read that American aviators were considering proposals to join the aviation forces of the Polish Army, since this offered a probability of almost immediate service against the same enemy. Hostilities here will come only from one side; the Poles are getting about all that they want, they are not going to invade Germany in the hope of annexing Stettin or Frankfurt-an-der-Oder. The Poles undoubtedly feel that a German attack on Poland is a possibility if not a probability of the immediate future. Perhaps the Kosciuszko Escadrille might acquire a renown that would reflect as much honor on America as did the Lafayette Escadrille; but we watched too long the spectacle of a few volunteer flying men paying back our debt to LAFAYETTE, and we are in greater danger of doing the same thing on the more distant eastern border. An attack on Poland ought to mean the same as an attack on France; for it will be another move in the Drang nach Osten, a step toward the German absorption of Russia, the recovery from the defeat of 1918.

The German troops in the Baltic provinces have been told to get out; their compliance must be enforced. An American observer tells us of the cruelties and outrages perpetrated by the Germans in Riga and elsewhere; under the pretense of restraining Bolshevist plots the Germans have been killing or imprisoning nationalist patriots who were the worst enemies of the Bolsheviki. The same observer says that it will do little good to turn out the German armies unless we also expel the German barons of the Baltic provinces and their mercenary armies. It may be doubted if these could long hold out without German troops to support them, but so long as the landed aristocracy and its troops hold the field there will be disorder which can react only to the benefit of Germany.

The eastern border is far away—as far as the Balkans in 1914. It took us a long time to realize that war in the Balkans could affect us; we should not be so slow to realize that the Germans in Warsaw and Riga would be as great a menace as the Germans in Belgrade and Sofia. The enemy has been beaten, but we must see that he stays beaten until he has a change of heart.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Wisdom Will Not Die With Us.

Major Gen. Sir FREDERICK MAURICE, unlike not a few other foreigners who have come over here and, after returning home, have told what they saw and what they think of it, seems to have been an observer always kindly and usually accurate. At any rate, the pictures he paints of Americans and their ways are easily recognizable, which is more than can be said for the work of some other artists, done after as much or more preparatory study of the same subjects.

Sir FREDERICK, however, has not always avoided the danger of reasoning from the specific to the general, which, though an excellent—perhaps the best—way to reason, gets into trouble those who base their conclusions on insufficiently numerous data. Thus it was that he was led to declare the discovery of a new difference between Americans and Britons.

We, he declares, when we hear that somebody is going to talk about something of which we are uninformed, are interested and go to hear him. In England, the response to a like announcement, he says, is exactly the reverse: "This is something I don't know about; it doesn't interest me."

Unfortunately, there are in this country, too, people of the second sort—people who not only are content with their present stock of information, but resent efforts to increase it. Whether we have as many of them as England has—that is a question which no census reports help to answer.

Daylight Saving Is Doomed!

When a correspondent of THE TIMES attacked the daylight saving law as an impious violation of Divine law and sure to draw heavy penalties and disasters on the nation thus offending, it was natural and pleasing to assume that he spoke for a class of thinkers now become minute, if, indeed, he did not stand alone. Alone he does not stand, however, for a personage no less eminent than a United States Senator made this week, in the stately chamber where he and his revered colleagues perform their momentous duties, precisely the same argument that was used by our correspondent, and so far as reported he—Senator WILLIAMS—was heard with gravity and respect by his fellow lawmakers.

"I am opposed," he said, "to Congress undertaking to usurp not only the powers of the Executive and States, but those of God Almighty, and seeking to fix the time when the sun shall rise and set."

Another Wise One, in the other house—Representative CAMPBELL of Kansas—said that the law should be repealed because it took the farmers out into the fields while the dew was on them, and "everybody knows that when dew gets on the body it makes sores."

After hearing, from such high sources, such statements as these, bold will be he who continues to express an affection for an added hour of day-lighted leisure. The mere fact that a great majority of the country's inhabitants want it is no reason why they should have it—can't be.

ROMANCE.

I found a gypsy in our wood,
With imps around—a skinny brood
Of partridges on edge to slink.
Her hair ran over her like ink.
She had a silver samovar
(They must have robbed a Russian bar)
And sat beside it on the grass,
Stirring her tea-brew in a glass
With peeled white stick instead of spoon.
She looked the princess-in-the-moon;
Three strings of moons below her throat
All shining, yellow gold (I think!)
Red handkerchief, and petticoat
Light purple, and her bodice pink.
A fairy-tale—when would it fade?
Next minute! "Lady, won't you trade?
I got a handsome little roan!"
The scamp—his canting gypsy tone
Fastened like leeches on my ear,
"No thanks! I live a ways up here.
Come and buy bread. Your boys look thin."
My princess paid me with a grin.

DOROTHY LEONARD.

TWO AMENDMENTS.

South, Up in Arms Against Suffrage, Raises Prohibition Question.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have read with interest your editorial article on June 11, entitled "State Rights in Alabama." If, as stated by you, "the Queens regent of feminism expect that this (Alabama, July,) Legislature will ratify the Anthony amendment," they are facing certain disappointment. If their political prophecies as to other States are as unreliable as their venture on the situation in Alabama, then the Anthony amendment will be hopelessly defeated, for you may be sure that it will never be adopted in Alabama. At the risk of contradiction I make bold to say that lunacy is not the prevailing mental state of the people of Alabama, or of other States suffering from social conditions similar to ours. These conditions are realized by our sister States, and we look to them for help. We have lived down sectionalism, and every good American should gladly co-operate with the intelligent element of a sister State in preserving that order of things that speaks for good government and the happiness and welfare of the people in that State.

It is inconceivable that, in this united country, any sane man would willingly run the risk of fastening on any State or portion of a State a Government little better, if any, than that of Haiti. Ninety per cent. of the men and women of Alabama, both white and colored, are content with our present suffrage laws. Why should we be handed the apple of discord and be forced to live over again those terrible days of the reconstruction?

The refusal of a State Legislature to ratify the Anthony amendment is not a refutation of the principle of woman suffrage, but merely of the method of forcing it on States against their will.

"The ratification of the suffrage amendment would not mean that Alabama was giving the vote to her women. To the contrary, it would mean that our legislators, blind to the terrible experience of the reconstruction, unappreciative of the sacrifices of our forefathers, and with reckless disregard of the welfare and happiness of the wives and daughters of the South, had given their sanction to the placing of at least one-half of the territory in each of our Southern States under possible negro domination. What white man, regardless of where he lives, is willing to take a chance like that? And the tragedy of the thing is that our women, true to the traditions of the South, do not want the vote. Why should it be thrust upon them? The life aim of the intelligent manhood of Alabama is the happiness and welfare of our women, and if the vote pointed in that direction they would cheerfully give it. At the same time our men have accepted the commission that God gave them to protect womanhood, and, faithful to this duty, they will not, in order to gratify the few, subject the women of Alabama to the dangers and humiliation that would follow the adoption of the Anthony amendment."

If the Anthony amendment is adopted it opens anew the question of registration of voters, with grave danger that the State will have no control over the registration of women voters, in which event it means ultimately the registration of every negro woman in Alabama. It is the most dangerous blow that has been aimed at intelligent government and the rights of the States since the civil war.

Certainly a country that has eradicated sectionalism should hold to the doctrine that each State is best able to determine whether the general happiness and welfare of the State would be advanced by conferring the vote on women, and it should be left for each State to decide for itself. If we are to place in the Federal Constitution everything that a majority of the States approve of, then the day is already here when State Constitutions should be wiped out and State lines abandoned.

For either political party to make capital of this matter for the advantage it hopes may accrue to it in the next Presidential campaign is as tragical as Esau selling his birthright for a mess of pottage.

And the Prohibition Amendment?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Southern press is bitterly assailing Congress for passing for ratification to the States the woman's suffrage amendment. One and all are saying that the amendment takes away the police power of the States, and that it is a gross infringement upon the States' relation to the Federal compact.

The Charleston News and Courier may be cited as collectively voicing the editorial views of the Southern press on this question. It says:

"We do not believe that the operation of such a law in this State [South Carolina] would be profitable now, if ever. We are sure that it would be a misfortune for such a law to be forced on us here by Federal amendment and against our wish."

Here we have an instance of a Southern newspaper crying out against the injustice of having a law imposed upon the Southern people to which they are opposed. Many of the Northern and Eastern States appealed to their Southern neighbors to turn down prohibition chiefly upon the principle that it destroyed the police powers of the States, but the South would not listen. With them it was "to hades with the Constitution, we want prohibition." Now that the South is threatened with the same kind of medicine they prepared for the North and the East, it whines pitifully.

Of all the sections of the Union that might have been depended upon to preserve States' rights the Southern section was considered the most impregnable. But it has proved false to the faith of the Fathers; false to the nation's time-honored traditions, and through the most ignoble of motives. The position of the South today reflects the moral in the story of the ass that brayed too late when his forefeet struck a bog. The old saying, "Chickens come home to roost," fittingly describes the pall hanging over the South today. One cannot disregard the rights and conventions of one's neighbors without suffering thereby.

British and American Artists.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of James Montgomery Flagg, re Mr. Nevinson's speech on American artists, contains certain truths and as many falsehoods.

If Mr. Flagg has never been to England or Paris, and seen the intimate friendships between American and English artists, I should advise him to travel and thereby get a little first-hand education on the subject.

Of a surety, American artists will not be depressed by Mr. Flagg's letter, because they know too well that the popular mind in England is not concerned by anti-Americanism. We know them too well and love them too much, artists, poets, writers, all of them, and may they endeavor to bring about the great comradeship that should be forever between the two nations.

TO AID FRENCH CATHOLICS.

Archbishop Hayes Designates a Day for a General Collection.

Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes of this city, in a letter addressed to all the priests of the archdiocese, designates Sunday, June 29, for the collection of a fund to establish temporary places of worship for Catholics in the devastated regions of France. The letter, which was made public yesterday, reads as follows:

"I hereby designate Sunday, June 29, for a general envelope collection in all the churches of the archdiocese for the purpose of providing in the devastated regions of France temporary places of Catholic worship. This envelope collection is ordered in lieu of a drive or campaign on a large scale.

"I am confident that our good Catholic people, prompted by a spirit of faith, will be more than usually generous for obvious reasons.

"First of all, the churches of a large section of Northern France, a land of desolation, have been literally flattened to the ground. Over four thousand churches, schools, orphanages, and convents have been either totally destroyed or are so ruined as to put them beyond possible service. Priests have nowhere to offer the holy sacrifice of the mass, and the faithful have no place for the reception of the sacraments.

"Secondly, Protestant religious bodies boldly announce their appeals for hundreds of millions of dollars for the very object of spending a large portion of these immense funds in Northern France for missionary work. Certainly there is no need for such religious activity, unless it be for the avowed purpose of supplanting our holy religion by Protestantism among the war-stricken Catholic poor of France.

"Thirdly, the Catholics of France have been in times past most generous to America in sending zealous missionaries, holy nuns, and large funds to the struggling Catholic Church in this country and particularly in New York.

"Fourthly, the appeal to help the devastated churches in France will be nation-wide and the sum of some three to five million dollars is needed. New York must not fail to bear gladly its portion of the burden of a great Catholic charity.

"Fifthly, let it be understood clearly that it is not a movement to rebuild the noble monumental cathedrals of France. Our project is to erect simple, inexpensive, and temporary places of worship with the essentials as to sacred vessels and vestments.

"No matter what may be our opinions, our prejudices either in favor of or against any particular people, race, nation or government, we surely would cease to be truly Catholic to deny aid to Catholics in spiritual need, whoever and wherever they might be.

"Please read this letter at all the masses on Sunday, June 22, and impress upon your flock that those who hearken to this appeal are listening to the voice of Christ himself, of his holy church and of our holy father, Pope Benedict XV."

SAYS ITALY NEEDS FIUME.

Capt. Sapelli of Italian Mission Addresses Rotary Club Members.

Speaking before the Rotary Club at its luncheon at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday, Captain Alessandro Sapelli of the Italian mission to the United States, and former Governor of Somaliland, declared that the possession of Fiume was absolutely necessary for the protection of Italy on the side of the Adriatic. He expressed lack of confidence in the theory that the League of Nations would do away with the necessity of taking pective measures.

Captain Sapelli said the peace delegates must have forgotten that the neutrality of Italy made possible Joffre's victory at the Marne, by releasing 500,000 French soldiers from the Italian frontier, that after the defeat at Caporetto the Italian soldiers, unaided, made a living shield of their bleeding bodies and stemmed the advance of the Germans, Austrians, Turks, and Bulgarians who had hoped to attack France from the south.

"They must have forgotten," he continued, "that Italian boys of 18 drove the Austrians across the Piave last Spring, giving time for the arrival of the American lads who won the battle of Château-Thierry. They must also have forgotten that while about 200,000 Italians were gallantly fighting on the French front the Italian armies, with the aid of but three French and two English divisions and one regiment of Americans, forever crushed the Austrian autocracy with a victory which will last in history as one of the most wonderful exploits of human determination.

"It is true that with the lands claimed by Italy she will have a 3 per cent. foreign population," said the speaker. "France will have a 10 per cent. foreign population with the Rhine provinces given to her by the Peace Conference, and Jugoslavia will incorporate 11 per cent. of foreign population into the territory assigned to her."

FLAY EMPLOYMENT AGENTS.

Selfishness Said to Animate Workers Against Federal Service.

"The private fee charging employment agencies, which in New York State alone, during the year 1917, took more than $6,000,000 from the pockets of workers, backed by certain employers, who, to suit their own selfish ends, desire congestion of employment in their own locality so as to better control the labor market, have furnished practically the only opposition to the measure calling for the creation of a permanent Federal employment agency.

"The soldiers and sailors, now being returned to civil life at the rate of 100,000 a week, who are being told before they are discharged that the Federal Employment Service will find jobs for them, the rank and file of workers, skilled, unskilled, organized and unorganized, the farmers to a man, the church, social and economic organizations, practically every women's organization, and the majority of employers have recorded themselves as enthusiastically in favor of the continuance of the present Federal employment service.

"The opponents of the U. S. Employment Service, particularly the groups mentioned above, are assuring the public and its representatives that the Department of Labor is asking Congress for $4,000,000 to maintain the employment service for the next fiscal year, and that a permanent service will require extravagant sums.

"What the Secretary of Labor has asked for the service in the Sundry Civil bill for the next fiscal year is actually $4,600,000, while the plan for the permanent public employment system provides that the States shall bear their share, Federal aid being given them on a "50-50" basis. This will keep the national annual appropriation at a comparatively low figure, especially since the machinery for the needed permanent service is already in existence."

CITY INSURED SCULPTOR.

At the meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday, it developed that for the last ten years the city has been paying premiums on the life insurance policy it took out for the sculptor, Frederick C. MacMonnies, who is author of the plans for a new fountain in City Hall Park. The policy is for $20,000, and the premium paid yearly is $883.

Controller Craig explained that this was done to insure the city against the loss of money which it has been expending for the new fountain, in case the sculptor might have met with a mishap before finishing his work. The plans for the fountain have been practically completed for some time now, but the Art Commission is withholding its approval to its being installed in City Hall Park until "a few finishing touches" are added to the work.

DANIELS PLEADS FOR AVIATION GRANT

Secretary Tells Senators $35,000,000 Is Needed to Maintain Progress.

OPPOSES SHIFT OF CONTROL

Urges Government Control of All Wireless Stations to Safeguard Messages Now Intercepted.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Urging the Senate Naval Affairs Committee today not to acquiesce in the action of the House in cutting the naval aviation appropriation from $45,000,000 to $15,000,000, Secretary Daniels declared that the amount asked was essential if America was to attempt to hold her place in naval aviation progress with European nations. He pointed out that Great Britain was preparing for a huge aviation program and that Italy, France, and Germany, too, had plans for the substantial development of the "aerial arm."

"It would be a calamity," he said, "if, after being the first to cross the Atlantic by air, Congress should now say to us 'Mark time for a year or so' while other nations are spending more money than ever on aircraft development."

Secretary Daniels said if the Senate committee would grant an appropriation of $35,000,000, instead of the $45,000,000 originally asked for, it would enable the department to go forward with development work. He advised that concentration be made on tests rather than upon quantity production.

"We can conquer the air as we have every other element," the Secretary continued. "But we can make no large contribution to the development of aviation in the next twelve months unless we are given an adequate appropriation. Aviation may in the not distant future take the place of fast water craft. It will become the eyes of the fleet. Aviation is as necessary to the fleet as are destroyers. With proper aviation forces it would be absolutely impossible for any fleet to come anywhere near American shores without our knowing it for a long time in advance."

Secretary Daniels opposed creating an independent arm to control all branches of the air service. The inadvisability of this, he said, was evidenced in the recent transatlantic flight of American naval officers with the NC-4. Commander Read's success, he said, was due to his knowledge of navigation, which navy aviators must have as a part of their training.

"Dependence cannot be put," said the Secretary, "upon aviators who are commercially trained. There must be special training in naval air service requirements if naval aviation is to succeed to the point of perfection."

Mr. Daniels told the committee that his recent trip abroad had convinced him that naval service should not be co-ordinated with others. England, he said, has been compelled to make modifications and give the navy more freedom of action.

"My observation convinced me," said the Secretary, "that co-ordination of all air activities was not feasible, so far as it applied to the navy."

Mr. Daniels urged Government control of all wireless stations.

"All wireless messages from and to America are being intercepted and read by officials of other countries," he said. "It is impossible to send a message to our ships in foreign nations without having the contents made known to foreign nations. The wireless ought to be owned by the Government and no other agency should be allowed to touch it."

DR. PESSOA DUE TODAY.

Delayed at sea by a mishap to the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, which necessitated the transfer of his party to the transport Imperator, Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, President-elect of Brazil, is expected to arrive in New York this afternoon. The Imperator will be met at Sandy Hook by a squadron of American warships, which will escort her up the river.

The committee appointed to receive Dr. Pessoa includes Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State; Rear Admiral W. E. Caperton, Major Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, Hallett Johnson, Acting Chief of the Division of Latin-American Affairs of the State Department; G. Cornell Tarler, Secretary of Embassy; John Barrett, Director General of the Pan-American Union, and representatives of the Mayor's Committee.

On his arrival, Dr. Pessoa will be taken to a hotel. This evening he will be a guest on the Brazilian warship Sao Paulo. He will go to Washington tomorrow, where he will remain several days as the guest of the Government. Returning to New York, he and his party will be entertained before starting on a tour of the country.

CHALONER SEEKS HEARING.

Asks for Order Declaring Him Sane and for Return of Property.

The attorneys for John Armstrong Chaloner yesterday drew up his petition for an application to be heard in the Supreme Court on July 8 for an order declaring him sane, and directing Thomas T. Sherman, the committee of his property, to turn over the $1,500,000 to him. The petitioner points out that he was adjudged sane in Virginia in 1901 and has since been regarded as sane by members of social and religious organizations with which he has been connected.

Chaloner says further "that your petitioner is on friendly relations with men of the highest standing in the community in the States of Virginia and North Carolina; that he has visited the homes of various Judges in both States, as a guest on personal invitations; that he is an intimate friend of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and that he has been and is considered sane and competent by all his friends and neighbors."

The list of assets of the estate of $1,500,000 shows that the bulk is in securities, and that his interest in the real estate left by his aunt, Laura A. Delano, is $198,562. His real estate in New York City is valued at nearly $500,000, and his farm at Rhinebeck is worth $35,000.

LINES UP WITH DUMMIES.

New Patrolman Mistakes Clothing Models for Real Policemen.

A patrolman who has only recently been appointed came yesterday to the Bureau of Uniforms and Equipment at Police Headquarters in his new uniform to get some minor articles of apparel. As he entered the room he saw what he took to be five other members of the force standing rigidly at attention, and took his place at the end of the line.

Minutes went by and the line did not advance, while the policeman did not notice a blink of an eye from any of the other five. Turning his head slightly, he whispered into the ear of a neighbor, and finally in desperation nudged him in the side and leaned forward to speak. The Lieutenant and the men on duty, who had been wondering how long the rookie would continue to stand in line, laughed at this. The patrolman blushed, and after taking a close view of one of the supposed policemen, got his equipment and left the room hurriedly. The five dummies are used as models for uniforms. They have a remarkably lifelike appearance, but yesterday was the first time they were taken for real patrolmen.

STAND BY ALLIES, URGES GEN. WOOD

Square Deal for Soldiers, for Labor, for Teachers, to be Next Duty, He Says.

NO ROOM FOR RED FLAG

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—General Leonard Wood talked on national policies at today's 163d annual commencement exercises of the University of Pennsylvania held in the Metropolitan Opera House of this city today. Eight hundred and eleven students were graduated. In addition, the university awarded degrees "post obitum" to twenty of the class of 1919, who gave their lives in the war. Provost Edgar F. Smith announced that Pennsylvania had contributed over 8,000 alumni or students to the service, of whom 180 are now dead.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred upon Brig. Gen. William W. Atterbury, Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, for eminent services in France; Colonel Edward Martin, Commissioner of Public Health for Pennsylvania, and Judge J. Willis Martin; Doctor of Science, upon Charles Lee Reese of the du Pont Company, for services in supplying military explosives for the United States and its allies; Harlan Sherman Miner, for his services in chemistry, and Arthur Hopewell Smith of England, for contributions to dental surgery; Doctor of Letters upon the historian, Charles Penrose Keith, and Doctor of Sacred Theology upon the Rev. Richard Montgomery.

The war, as well as the university's contributions to it, formed the theme of the exercises. General Wood, in his address, touched on the country's duty to the returning soldiers, its attitude toward labor, toward schools, immigration, Bolshevism, and the preparedness of army and navy. He said in part:

"Our men fought splendid courage. They lived up to the highest traditions of our military service, and in their performance of duty gained the admiration of Europe. They never failed; they always took their objective. Their courage was resistless.

"If we do the right thing by these men, we shall have in the home of each one of them a centre of patriotism and a spirit of service. A great part of the world is very much upset, and dangerous ideas are abroad. We want to keep our feet on the ground and hold on to the ideals and policies which have made us great. We must do all we can to build up a sound national spirit; an intense spirit of Americanism.

"We have had in our armies representatives of all the fighting groups in Europe, and right here I want to say a word of appreciation of the loyalty of these new citizens—of these Americans of alien descent. We were a bit uncertain as to what some of them would do, for some of them came from the blood strains of our enemies, but we have only to read the lists of our dead to realize that these Americans of German and other descents have as a class been loyal. They have written anew their oath of allegiance. This time it has been written in their own blood.

"We must do all we can in this period of readjustment to maintain the best possible relations between labor and capital, for they are interdependent. United they stand, separated they fall. We must do everything we can to help on good business, for on it depends national prosperity. Labor and capital in this country must work together in order to meet the problems which are going to follow this world's war. We do not wish an autocracy of either capital or labor, but a real democracy in both, characterized by a spirit of co-operation and helpfulness.

Sees Room Here for but One Flag.

"There is room in this country for but one flag, and that is the American flag. Put down the red flag! It stands for nothing which our Government stands for. It is against everything we have struggled for. The experience of the training camps brought out very forcibly the desirability of having but one language in our grade public schools, and that language should be the language of the Declaration of Independence, of the Constitution, of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, Cleveland, and Roosevelt.

"We must provide for the better physical development of our youth, for the draft has shown the existence of physical conditions which are alarming, conditions which incapacitated half of our men of military age for hard military service.

"If we are to build up and keep alive the American we visualize, we must pay more attention to our schools. We must begin by paying those who are charged with the instruction of our youth much better salaries than they are at present receiving.

"We must do all we can to maintain that fine feeling which exists between ourselves and the Allies, the kind which makes treaties and understandings enduring.

"Strong propaganda will eventually be brought to bear on our people with a view to driving a wedge between us and the Allies, especially between ourselves on the one sode and England and France and Italy on the other. The enemy does not want an enduring understanding between us. If he can separate us and sow discord and hate he may yet win the war.

"While we welcome desirable immigration and extend a helping hand to those immigrants who come to us with the intention of adopting our customs and living up to our ideals we should turn our faces against those who come to us with ideas repugnant to our civilization and with purposes and ideals hostile to our form of government.

"We must also look ahead to the establishment of a sound system of national preparedness; not a preparedness for war, but a preparedness which will be an assurance against war.

"We want a good navy, always ready, and a regular army sufficient for the peace needs of the nation and adequate as a training force for our citizen soldiers, and, as I see it, a system not unlike the Swiss in its general character, but embodying much of industrial and vocational training."

MORRIS R. VOLCK'S WEDDING A SURPRISE

CEREMONY AT LONG BRANCH

Court Recently Refused to Reduce Alimony of Bridegroom's Former Wife, Who Was Elise Holmes.

Morris Roderick Volck, son of Mme. de Gama, wife of the former Brazilian Ambassador, and Mrs. Mildred L. Everett of Brooklyn were married last Saturday at Heron Hall, the home of Mme. de Gama, at Long Branch, N. J. No announcement was made of the marriage and it will come as a surprise to many of the friends of the bride and bridegroom.

The ceremony was performed on Saturday afternoon by the Mayor of Monmouth Beach on the porch of Heron Hall, with a small group of relatives and intimate friends in attendance. The couple remained there until Monday, when they came to New York, and are now staying at the Hotel Chatham.

Mme. de Gama, Mr. Volck's mother, is sailing today for Brazil to join her husband for an indefinite stay in that country.

The bride is the daughter of Victor Withstandley of Brooklyn. Mr. Volck's first wife was Miss Elise M. Holmes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jabish Holmes of 114 East 78th Street, and they were divorced several years ago. Their marriage took place on Oct. 5, 1911, by which they had two children, Morris R. Volck, Jr., and Elise H. B. Volck.

About three weeks ago Supreme Court Justice Tierney denied an application by Mr. Volck to reduce his alimony of $100 a month, payable to his former wife under the divorce decree of 1917. At that time Mr. Volck stated that he was chief clerk in the office of the United States Shipping Board.

His mother, Mme. de Gama, was the widow of Arthur Hearn, son of James A. Hearn, the dry goods merchant, when she married the Brazilian Ambassador to the United States, and he and Adelbert Volck were the sons by a former marriage of Mme. de Gama. His first wife's sister, Miss Emeline Holmes, who was married to Gustave F. Touchard, the tennis player, was a close friend of Miss Vivien Gould and was one of the bridesmaids when Miss Gould married Lord Decies in October, 1911. She died in May, 1914. His son, by his first marriage, who is now about 8 years old, was placed in the custody of Mme. de Gama and is to remain under her guardianship until he is 21.

More than its nearness is its fulness of the things that make summer joyous—five hundred miles of shining beaches, still or rough water bathing; smooth or deep-sea fishing; deep, wooded inlets or stretches of smooth white sands and foaming breakers! Between the shores—splendid roads, pleasant hospitable farms—delightful retreats for real rests.
LONG ISLAND offers every known sport, both water and land, for men and women. In many sports it is the seat of National championships. Tennis, Polo, Golf, Fishing, Shooting, Swimming, Dancing, Automobiling, Flying! If one of these is your hobby—Long Island is the place.

HANNAH'S THROWS COSTLY TO YANKS

BODIE EMULATES CASEY

Has Chance to Win Game in Eighth, but Strikes Out—Coveleskie Master of Situation.

Eight members of the Yankees fought tooth and nail yesterday on the Polo Grounds in an endeavor to take a game from the Cleveland Indians. The miscreant ninth member of the team was Truck Hannah, who reigned as Yankee catcher long enough to give the Redskins the game. The big, lumbering Yankee backstop, with Stanley Coveleskie, the Indians' right-hand server, proved too great a combination to overcome, and the Yanks succumbed at last by a score of 4 to 3.

Hannah made himself conspicuous with a couple of unmerciful heaves in the second inning, and paved the way for a brace of Cleveland runs. This was all the encouragement the visitors needed to carry on their nefarious assault on Huggins's pets, and shunt the stricken Yankees further down the championship ladder. As it happened, however, the Redskins did not gain in their race for the American League pennant. They are still tied with the White Sox, who beat the Senators.

Jack Quinn opposed Coveleskie on the mound, and, but for Hannah's lapses might have had success. The veteran Yankee twirler, had other things to contend with, in addition to Hannah and Coveleskie. Not the least of them was a withering verbal barrage which emanated continuously from the Cleveland dugout up to the eighth inning. Jack shed this latter like a duck sheds water, but he never did seem to get over Hannah's misdemeanors of the second canto.

Coveleskie in Form.

Stanley Coveleskie was complete master of the situation before him except in the sixth and eighth innings. Peckinpaugh plumped a home-run drive into the left field bleachers in the sixth session, giving the Yankees their first run and their third hit of the game. In the eighth the Huggins's clan bunched three more wallops, one of them a double, by J. Franklin Baker, and made their other runs.

Ping Bodie had the chance of a lifetime to earn the undying gratitude of every Yankee admirer in this eighth-inning uprising. He came to bat with the Yankees within one run of their oppressors. Two were down, Duffy Lewis was on second, and Derrill Pratt on first. A single would have tied up the game, while an extra-base blow would have resulted in a Yankee triumph. Ping seemed to feel the weight of responsibility and took a firm grip on the bludgeon. He passed up one, missed one, and had one called on him. He only needed one to hit it. Coveleskie wound up with torturing slowness, it seemed, and then heaved toward the plate. The ball was a little wide, but Ping lashed out at it, and missed. And the hopes for a Yankee victory vanished into thin air.

Graney Starts With Double.

The Redskins from Cleveland threatened early to continue where they had left off Wednesday. Graney greeted Quinn with a double to left which caused a little worriment, but nothing resulted. In their half of the same stanza the Yankees hopped on Coveleskie. Vick singled to left and was safe at second when Coveleskie slipped a cog in fielding Peckinpaugh's sacrifice. Baker hit into a double play, Wambsganss to Chapman to Johnston, Vick reaching third, and then Gardner threw out Lewis.

Truck Hannah got in his bad throws in the second. Gardner lashed a single over second. Wambsganss dropped a bunt down toward third, and Baker made the play for Gardner at second. The latter, however, beat the throw. While Johnston was at the plate Hannah, trying to get Gardner napping at second, heaved the horsehide into centre field, Gardner racing to third before Bodie recovered the toss. Johnston scored Gardner with a single to left, which also sent Wambsganss to second. When Steve O'Neill hit into a double play Wambsganss raced to third.

The Cleveland second baseman danced and pranced around the corner a lot, and at one time, while Quinn was in the midst of a long wind-up, got almost half way to the plate. Hannah, trying to cut Wambsganss down before he could return to third, threw wretchedly to Baker, and Wambsganss dashed across the rubber with the second run. Coveleskie then fanned.

Another marker was added to the Indians' total in the fifth. O'Neill doubled over first base. Coveleskie fanned, and Graney followed with a single to centre, which scored O'Neill. Graney promptly stole second and took third while Pratt was tossing out Lunte, who replaced Chapman at short in the fourth. Quinn passed Speaker, and Gardner slid to Vick.

Peck Hits Home Run.

Peckinpaugh's circuit clout gave the Yankees a start in the sixth. In the seventh Manager Huggins revised his lineup. With two down, Hannah singled to left and was immediately yanked so that Halas could dash around the corners. Wickland was here summoned to bat for Quinn, but was thrown out on a rap to Coveleskie.

Another Cleveland run trickled over the pan in the eighth. With Mogridge serving them and Muddy Ruel backstopping, Speaker got his second pass of the day. Joe Wood, batting for Smith, dropped a sacrifice down toward first and Speaker beat Pipp's throw to second. On Gardner's sacrifice Mogridge threw wide and high to Baker, trying for Speaker, and the sacks were crowded. Wambsganss fouled out to Pipp, and Doc Johnston followed with a sacrifice fly to Bodie, which registered Speaker. Wood got himself into trouble by rounding second on high, and before he could recover Bodie shot the pellet back to the infield and nailed the runner.

Armstrong to Captain Nine.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., June 19.—Norman M. Armstrong, of Pittsburgh, second baseman for three years on the West Virginia nine, was today elected to Captain the Mountaineers in 1920. Armstrong is a junior and prepared at Shadyside Academy.

CURVES AND BINGLES

The carnage can't last much longer. Cleveland departs after tomorrow's game. This is fortunate, for the Yankees will then entertain the Braves and Athletics, who don't sound as ominous as the Indians.

Balls rapped, fair or foul, into the stands must be included in the Yankees' expense account. They never come back. Of all those hit out of the field yesterday only one was returned. A rotund police sergeant, watching the pastime from an upper tier, became conscience-stricken in the seventh, when Ping Bodie fouled off one of Coveleskie's shoots, and returned the horsehide to the field after a short deliberation with himself.

Ray Chapman isn't quite up to his best yet. The Cleveland shortstop had to be relieved in the third, when Jamieson ran for him. Lunte played the short field brilliantly thereafter, making a difficult catch of Pipp's twisting pop to short left in the eighth.

Hannah didn't lose any time in making himself objectionable to the home rooters.

Jack Quinn had his usual luck. Jack's record thus far this season is marked with many heart-breaking setbacks, yesterday's being an addition.

On the bench the Cleveland reinforcements yelled and carried on like a band of Comanches trying to rattle Quinn.

The two smallest men concerned in the game, Umpire Ollie Chill and Manager Huggins, engaged in a verbal clash in the sixth. Pipp fanned, but claimed he didn't strike at the third one. So did Huggins, who brushed his long first baseman to one side and took up the cudgels. Nobody knows what passed 'tween manager and umpire, but the frigid one had the final word.

There were lots of cheers when Baker came up to start the fourth, with Lewis in the background. Also a lot of noise from the first base coacher's box, inhabited by Manager Huggins. All the excitement was wasted, however.

Employes of the I. R. T. saw the greater part of the game from stalled trains overlooking the field back of third base. There's quite a lot of interest among the railroad employes in the Polo Grounds struggles, judging from the crowd up on the huge stilts.

An imposing array of Yankees climbed out of the dugout swinging bats in the sixth, after Peckingpaugh's home run drive. The beaten path to the bench was occupied in order by Lewis, Pipp, Pratt and Bodie, while Baker was at bat. Coveleskie didn't like the display of potential artillery. Neither did Mr. Chill, who ordered all but Lewis back to the bench.

The Yankees jumbled up their bats in disorder for luck, but the overtures to Dame Fortune weren't heard.

ST. LOUIS, June 19.—The Giants got back into their stride today and fittingly avenged their defeat in the first game of the series here by trouncing the Cardinals to the tune of 7 to 1. There was a general recovery of batting eyes despite the more or less humid atmosphere and the league leaders pounded Tuero for thirteen hits. Johnny Lavan aided their cause by contributing two errors at critical moments in the game.

Big Fred Toney drew the pitching assignment for the Giants today, and while he was not at his best by any means, he managed to hold the Cardinals in check whenever they seemed to have a chance to score. He was hit hard, but he kept the hits scattered, and did his best pitching when there were men on the bases.

Chase, Burns, and Doyle stood out for the batting honors, each getting two blows, while Benny Kauff made a home run.

The Giants had the game clinched in the first inning, when they scored four runs. Burns started the trouble for Tuero with a single and Young was safe when Hornsby failed to get to his grounder in time for a putout. Fletcher forced Young and Doyle singled, scoring Burns. Fletcher took third on the play and Doyle went to second. Having advanced to this position, Kauff sent a single to right, which scored both runners. Zimmerman sent Benny to third with a safe hit, but a moment later he was caught napping off first base and was run down. But meantime Kauff took advantage of the excitement to sneak home with another run. Chase finally closed the inning with a fly to McHenry.

The Cardinals came back with a run in their half of the second. For a moment it looked as if Toney was going to wabble under the heat, but as he had a fairly safe lead McGraw did not interfere with him. After one was out McHenry doubled to left. Lavan popped to Doyle, and Snyder followed with a sharp single, which sent McHenry home. Tuero walked after that, but Smith flied out.

The Giants made victory certain in their half of the third. After Fletcher had been retired Doyle singled to right. Kauff took hold of one for a long, low drive into centre field. Under ordinary circumstances the ball might have been caught. But Heathcote fell as he turned to go for the drive, and the ball rolled to the fence for a home run, Doyle scoring ahead of Kauff. Chase added a single to this inning, but it went for naught, as McCarty forced him at second.

With one out in the fourth, Burns hit to Lavan, who made a wild throw over first base, and Burns took third on the error. Young beat out a hit to third and Burns tallied. Fletcher forced Young, and in attempting to make a double play Lavan made another wild heave over first and Fletcher went to second. Tuero had had enough by this time and was taken out. Sherdell replaced him and caught Fletcher off second for the third out.

Sherdell proved to be much more effective than Tuero had been, and the Giants took no liberties with him. Toney also improved as he went along, and though the Cardinals made a threat in the seventh he was equal to the occasion. Smith and Hornsby each beat out bunts in this frame, but a force play prevented a run from getting home.

ROBINS GET SECOND FEAST OFF BRUINS

CHICAGO, Ill., June 19.—The Robins made it two straight over the Cubs this afternoon when they collected fifteen hits off Claude Hendrix while Leon Cadore held the champions in check. The score was 4 to 1. Bad base running by the Robins prevented them from winning by a wider margin.

The Dodgers scored their first tally in the fifth inning. It was the result of singles by Schmandt, Cadore, and Olsen. The Cubs evened the count in the following round when they bunched two of their eight hits. Flack doubled to right and went to third when Pick singled to centre. As Schmandt was tossing out Kilduff, Flack registered.

In the seventh session the Robins scored another run when Griffith singled to centre and continued to second as Paskert fumbled the ball. He took third on Wheat's single. Johnston batted for Magee and lifted a sacrifice fly to Flack.

Harold Reilly joined the Cubs today and covered left field. He failed to get a hit in his first three times at bat, and in the ninth inning he was removed from the game to make way for a pinch hitter.

YALE VS. TIGERS TOMORROW

Will Decide Baseball Supremacy at Ebbet's Field.

The question of baseball supremacy between Yale and Princeton will be determined tomorrow at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, when the two teams clash in the deciding game of their series. Kirkland, who relieved Margetts in Saturday's game, will probably receive the pitching assignment for the Tigers. Yale's pitching burden will probably fall on the shoulder of Sellick, the New Haven right hander who beat Harvard. Sheehan will catch while Pramm will play at third base instead of Gates.

KORTLANG BATS FOR 162.

New York Cricketer Helps Team Score Third Straight Victory.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., June 19.—New York's visiting cricketers added another victory to their credit in the Halifax Cup series here today when they defeated the Merion Cricket Club on the grounds at Haverford by the overwhelming margin of 184 runs, with 7 wickets to spare.

The outstanding feature of the match was the batting performance of B. Kortlang, who defended his wicket for over three hours and made the exceptional score of 162. He and R. Comacho, who scored 77, put on 201 runs for the second wicket. When stumps were drawn for the day S. R. Beresford and J. Poyer were in partnership, with respective scores of 31, not out, and 20, not out. Poyer and L. R. Miller again proved most effective with the ball for New York, while Kortlang made four catches. For Merion the best batting was done by S. Thayer, who scored 40; N. Kauffman, Jr., with 31, and J. R. Vetterlein, with 20, not out.

New York and Germantown are now tied for the lead in the Halifax Cup series, each team having three wins and no losses for their records. The teams will meet Saturday on the grounds of the Richmond County Club at West New Brighton, S. I.

WHITEWASH FOR ROCHESTER

Donovan's Skeeters Win by Score of 2 to 0.

Pitcher Al Schacht's effectiveness, combined with some timely hitting, enabled Bill Donovan's Jersey City Skeeters to hang another defeat on Arthur Irwin's Rochester players in their farewell lineup in Jersey City yesterday afternoon by a score of 2 to 0.

Schacht left the Empire State representatives down with two hits, each of which counted for two bases. Acosta, who beat the Skeeters in the first half of Wednesday's double header, was sent in against the home team again yesterday, but failed to repeat, Jersey City finding him for seven safe raps.

Wigelsworth's three-bagger in the fifth, followed by Hudgins's sacrifice fly, sewed the game up for the Skeeters, while Schweitzer's single in the seventh his stolen base and Wigelsworth's second hit further clinched it by sending Schweitzer over with the final count.

REQUEST GOVERNOR TO PREVENT FIGHT

Lower House Adopts Antagonistic Resolution, but Adverse Action Is Unlikely.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 19.—With Governor Cox confined to his bed at his home, near Dayton, by illness, no official at the State Capitol would express himself authoritatively as to the Governor's probable action in response to the resolution adopted today by the lower house of the General Assembly requesting the Chief Executive to take steps to prevent the Willard-Dempsey prizefight in Toledo, July 4. The general impression, however, is that Governor Cox will not interfere.

Lieutenant Governor Brown stated that he had no legal authority to act.

The matter rests in the hands of the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor said. Though no similar resolution was offered in the upper house, Lieutenant Governor Brown stated that he was certain it would have been defeated had one been presented.

At the Executive Office it was stated that the policy followed would be pushed and that Governor Cox would have no statement to make even though he were here.

Attorney General Price would make no statement on the question of the Governor's authority to stop the fight. "I positively decline to discuss the matter," the Attorney General said.

The resolution declares that the fight promoters have failed to obtain permission for the exhibition in "all of North America, except Ohio and Old Mexico," and asks the Governor to "follow precedents of former Governors in upholding the fair name of the State of Ohio and to take proper steps to prevent the taking place of the proposed prizefight within the confines of the State of Ohio." The resolution also declares such exhibitions as the proposed Toledo bout "are brutal in their nature and not conducive to good morals."

The Dunn bill, which was defeated in the lower house, and the Pearson resolution of today, divided the Legislature along sharp political lines. Democratic members declared the purpose of both the bill and the resolution was solely to bring political embarrassment to Governor Cox. This accusation was denied by Republicans. A joint resolution that would have required Senate concurrence was introduced first. This failed on a strict party vote—56 for to 23 against. The resolution then was re-offered as a House resolution, and was adopted without a record vote.

FEAR WILLARD IS TOO FAT.

Champion's Obesity Subject of Much Comment.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 19.—The obesity of Champion Jess Willard still continues a matter of worry to his friends. That Willard has not got his wind was apparent to many of the close observers. The champion, however, went through eight sessions today in rapid style, but those who had seen him and then witnessed Dempsey declared that the latter's condition was more in evidence than that of Willard.

Willard had the usual large following at his camp, and the spectators showed much enthusiasm over his work. The weather was intensely hot, and the champion perspired copiously. Notwithstanding this workout, it was apparent that he still had much work to do to get in condition for the title match on July 4.

Willard's first work was with Jack Hempel, who confined his work to punching the champion on the stomach. They went two rounds, Willard's blocking of Hempel's punches to the upper regions was favorably commented on.

Jack Heinen then was taken on for two rounds, and his work was somewhat similar to that of Hempel. Willard between rounds showed the effect of the work thus far, and in the interim strode about the ring shadow boxing.

HARVARD AND YALE CREWS TRAINED TO THE MINUTE FOR TODAY'S TRIO OF RACES ON THAMES

YALE CREW IS MADE FAVORITE FOR RACE

Odds Are 5 to 4 It Will Defeat Harvard, Based on Fast Time Made in Trials.

CROWDS BEGIN TO ARRIVE

PROGRAM OF YALE-HARVARD RACES.
Freshman Eights	10:30 A. M.
Second Eights	11:00 A. M.
Varsity Eights	4:30 P. M.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 19.—Fortune smiled on Harvard this evening in the first class of the annual regatta, for the Crimson gentlemen's eight showed the way to the Yale gentlemen's eight over a half-mile course on the choppy Thames. Both crews were made up of former rowing stars, and they sent the shells over the short course with old-time speed. Harvard won the race by a length and a half, and the time was 2:32.

The Harvard cohorts who have been coming in from Cambridge and Boston took this opening skirmish as a good omen for tomorrow's big rowing spectacle, and although Yale is a 5 to 4 favorite, it is believed that when the 'Varsity crews go to the mark tomorrow evening the betting will be even.

The winning Harvard eight this afternoon was made up as follows: Stroke, C. C. Lund, '16; No. 7, J. Waid, '09; No. 6, Lothrop Withington, '11; No. 5, J. W. Middendorff, '16; No. 4, Louis Mills, '11; No. 3, H. A. Murray, '15; No. 2, Robert Emmett, '19; bow, L. Saltonstall, '14, and coxswain, C. Abeles, '13.

The Yale crew was boated as follows: Stroke, A. R. Hyatt, '17; No. 7, Seth Low, 2d, '16; No. 6, J. B. Fitzpatrick, '16; No. 5, Warren Oakes, '16; No. 4, James R. Sheldon, Jr., '16; No. 3, Cord Myer, '16; No. 2, H. L. Whitney, '05; bow, W. Averill Harriman, '13, and coxswain, J. F. Byers, '04.

Final Test for Crews.

Both the Yale and Harvard crews, 'Varsity second eights and freshmen went out on the rough water this evening for the final test tomorrow. The crews practiced racing starts and all the men looked fit for the gruelling four-mile pull. None of the oarsmen in either shell has ever taken part in a four-mile race, so the outcome of the test has an element of uncertainty. Although rowing authorities have frowned on the four-mile course, Harvard and Yale have adhered to the long race. It will be a test of stamina just as much as one of oarsmanship and while the crowds which are strolling about town tonight are divided on the merits of the eights, there is a general suspicion among the old-time oarsmen that both crews are better than they are given credit for being.

Since coming to the Thames, both eights have shown great improvement. The reason that Yale is a 5 to 4 favorite tonight is because the Eli boat was pulled over the course the other evening 35 seconds faster than Harvard made the course half an hour later.

Old-time rowing sharps do not put much confidence in time trials. In this race there is the professional equation, Harvard has been coached by Bill Haines, a professional, while Dr. Mather Abbott has coached the Yale boat. The rowing sharps believe that in a severe test of this kind, the rowing instruction of a professional turns out to be of greater value than that of an amateur coach.

Not since 1916 has this old whaling town given itself over to holiday gayety. The shops are decorated with the dark blue of the Elis and the crimson of Harvard. While there are not as many yachts in the harbor as there have been on former years, there are a number of craft anchored below the new draw bridge.

Crowds Are Gathering.

Special trains from New Haven and Cambridge are due tomorrow, and several of them will arrive in time for the freshman race, which will be rowed upstream from the draw bridge, beginning at 10:30 A. M. The Harvard freshmen are favored in this test, and the boys from Cambridge are giving odds of 5 to 4 on the Crimson. The race of the second eights will start at the two-mile mark opposite the submarine base at 11 o'clock, and will finish at Moulton Point, just opposite Red Top, the Harvard rowing camp.

Thousands of automobiles streamed into town tonight. Over at the Griswold, on Eastern Point, and at the Mohegan, everybody was in gay mood, and there is sure to be revival of the old time scenes which have attended the Harvard-Yale regattas for so many years. This is the fifty-second annual regatta. In that time Harvard has won 26 races and Yale has won 25. Yale is more than anxious to win tomorrow to even up the tally of rowing victories.

It was reported tonight that a crowd of Harvard men had made a pool of $2,500, which had been covered by Yale at even money. This is taken as the logical estimate of the crews. While in the preliminary betting Harvard asked odds from Yale, because the Crimson crew has not been especially strong this Spring, the Elis have not been disposed to bet much money at 5 to 4. Harvard has improved enough during the last week to lead their followers to believe that the Crimson boat has a better chance than they had hoped for.

As the Crimson 'Varsity took the water this evening for their last spin before the big race they sent their shell through the water with perfect action. A finer-looking, more confident bunch of youths would be hard to find. Their excellent spirits and smiles was a fine indication that the oarsmen are not worrying about tomorrow's race. They are not restless youths, tossing on their cots in the Harvard camp. Every bit of action about the rowing camp at Red Top fairly breathes and speaks confidence.

Yale Is Confident.

Up at Gales Ferry, where the Yale 'Varsity took their final, there is not lack of confidence either. The Yale crew on its final brush looked fit as a fiddle, and before the race the gentlemen's eight and 'Varsity oarsmen came down the river to Red Top at a long, easy swing, and turned the shell over to the graduate eight. Then they climbed aboard the launch and went down the river to see the race. They were a happy lot until the Harvard crew ran away from the Yale grads, and then they were not quite so jubilant.

When Jim Rice, the old Columbia coach, heard about Yale being favorite on the strength of her time trial the other day, he gave a word of warning not to place too much confidence in time trials. Rice recalled the time back in 1914 when Pennsylvania in a time trial at Poughkeepsie broke the course record and was made a 10 to 8 favorite in the big race. The Quakers were a poor fifth in that race, so the time trial counted for nothing.

The regatta this year has attracted more old timers than gathered before the war. One of the old boys said tonight that he was anxious to see this race because it was probably the last four-mile race that would ever be rowed between college eights in this country. As the Poughkeepsie course, when it is resumed next year, will be at three miles, it is likely that the Harvard-Yale regatta course may also be reduced. Most rowing authorities agree that the four-mile grind is too severe a test on the strength of the oarsmen.

The varsity race is scheduled to start at 4:30 P. M., tomorrow afternoon, but tonight the weather sharps predicted that the river would be kicking up at that time and it may be necessary to wait until 6 o'clock before the race gets under way. If the water is choppy the officials will wait as long as daylight holds out for the wind to die down with the sun and leave the river smooth.

Referee Meikleham went over the course this afternoon and decided on a change in the start so that the 150 yards which has been taken off the finish of the course by the new drawbridge will be equalized by the change at the starting point. The Chairman of the Regatta Committee is F. V. Chappell and the Judge at the finish is Levering Tyson of Columbia.

WOMEN RIDERS WIN PRAISE

Goodly Crowd Sees Judging at Westchester Horse Show.

The second day's program of the twenty-sixth annual Westchester County Horse Show was run off yesterday under ideal conditions. Clear skies and light breezes drew a large crowd, including many well-known persons of Westchester, New York, and surrounding communities, to Gedney Farms. The events were exciting, and many of them were closely contested. There were more automobile parties than on the first day of the show, and a larger number of persons attended.

The only accident that marred a perfect day of riding was when John Sullivan, riding Louis K. Liggett's Melchester in the jumping race, was thrown at the third hurdle, and Miss Lorraine Liggett, the 10-year-old daughter of Louis K. Liggett, who was riding Play Boy, was thrown at the first hurdle of the same race. She was uninjured, but was not permitted to ride again.

In the ladies' hunters class Miss Becky Lanier, daughter of Charles D. Lanier, rode three mounts entered by her father. She won a first on Down East and a third on Dixie.

In Class 24, for saddle horses, the riding of Miss Margaret Tompkins, winning on Lightning, was praised by the judges and received great applause from the crowd. Among the other women riders who received plaudits for their skill were Miss Alice Beaver Webb, on Hurry; Miss Emily Antony, on Coronet; Miss Jennett Liggett, on Tradesman; Miss Edith Eva Webb, on Choie Malone; Miss May Webb, on Hurry; Miss Corinne Poth, on Lady Bounce, and Mrs. Maude Daniels Smidt, daughter of Frank Daniels, the actor, on Bit o' Glory.

In Class 73, troopers' mounts, there was only one entry, the award going to Captain Madison of the English artillery.

VOSHELL IN SEMI-FINALS.

Overcomes Kashio, 6—2, 6—2, on the Terrace Club Courts.

S. Howard Voshell, former indoor tennis champion, earned a place as a semi-finalist yesterday in the Brooklyn championship tournament being conducted on the courts of the Terrace Club, Flatbush. Voshell advanced at the expense of S. Kashio, a Japanese player, who fell in their fifth round match, by 6—2, 6—2.

Voshell completely overwhelmed his rival. The Oriental player could not fathom the net attack of his opponent, and the cross court shots which furnished Kashio's chief offensive stroke failed to bother Voshell to any great extent.

The summaries:

MISS BJURSTEDT IS FORTUNATE TO WIN

National Tennis Champion Barely Averts Defeat in Match with Miss Wagner.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—The semi-final quartet, as developed today in the women's national tennis championship tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, consists of Mrs. George W. Wightman of Boston, Mrs. Gilbert Harvey of the Home Club, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the present title holder, and Miss Marion Zinderstein, another Bostonian. They will meet tomorrow, bracketed in that order, for the honor of entrance into the final round.

Of this morning's matches, two were nip-and-tuck affairs and the other two disappointingly one-sided. Miss Marie Wagner of New York, playing the champion on the clubhouse court, gave her her first real battle of the tournament and looked like a probable winner throughout much of the latter half of the match.

In fact, if Miss Wagner had played in the first set as she did in the other two a sensational abdication scene would have been staged. Although winning the opener at 6—2, Miss Bjurstedt gave little indication of the super tennis of which she is capable, returning the ball gently instead of swinging with her customary power and becoming breathless after an ordinary rally which demanded only the conventional court covering.

With opportunity shrieking aloud at her, however, Miss Wagner seemed unable to respond with any aggressive or confident play on her own side. She refused to take the chances that might have brought a speedy victory, and her cautiousness was her undoing.

It was late in the second set when Miss Wagner suddenly became aware of the true weakness of the titleholder. With defeat staring her in the face she rallied strongly, brought the games to deuce and by shooting for the corners and driving the Norse girl into errors, she eventually squared the match at 8—6.

When the rubber began both players were very tired, but the champion stood up a little more strongly in the pinch. She went after everything with superb courage, trusting to sheer grit where endurance and strength were no longer available.

Miss Wagner was not sufficiently keen at the start of the set to prevent Miss Bjurstedt from assuming a lead of 3—1, but with 4—2 against her, after service had alternated, she pulled up to even games in magnificent style, breaking through the champion's delivery with a series of hard shots that just clipped the lines. Errors again spoiled her golden opportunity, however, a netted volley proving especially costly. With the games at 5—4 in Miss Bjurstedt's favor, and the players pounding away at each other's backhand on the decisive point, the champion just managed to keep going until Miss Wagner drove one into the alley, and the match was over.

Miss Zinderstein's overwhelming defeat of Miss Clare Cassel at 6—1, 6—1, was something of a surprise, although the Boston girl had been picked to win and is generally regarded as a national titleholder of the near future, if not this season. The Pennsylvania champion seemed far less steady than usual, but this was partly because her opponent gave her more difficult shots to handle than she had experienced in her earlier matches.

In the first set Miss Zinderstein used everything she had, following her well-placed drives to the net when necessary and scoring with clean volleys, but after establishing a safe lead she was content to stay back and exchange ground strokes, experimenting successfully with both her forehand and backhand shots, which gathered speed without any apparent sacrifice of steadiness or accuracy. On the final game Miss Cassel led at 40—0, but her brief rally was nipped in the bud when she again fell into errors, including a double fault, and dropped five straight points for the match.

Mrs. Gilbert Harvey had to work hard to dispose of another local player, Miss Leslie Bancroft, and her place in the semi-finals was well earned at 6-2, 4-6, 6-4. The winner's deceptively awkward style proved effective largely because of the stubbornness of her defense, which conceded nothing until the points were actually scored.

Mrs. Harvey's opponent tomorrow will be the redoubtable Mrs. Wightman, who today hypnotized Miss Anne Townsend into speedy defeat at 6-0, 6-1. It was only toward the close of the second set that the Philadelphian acquired confidence in her strokes, and by that time it was too late to make a real impression on the well-founded game of the former champion.

One semi-final match was played today in the girls' championship. Miss Katherine Gardner of New York defeated Miss Martha Bayard in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, and thus became the finalist in the upper half. The lower bracket could not be completed owing to an injury to Miss Adelaide Hooker's ankle, which will necessitate a postponement and perhaps a default to Miss Elizabeth Warren of Richmond, the only other contender remaining in the girls' event.

The big doubles match of the afternoon brought together the national champions, Miss Eleanor Goss and Miss Marion Zinderstein, and the singles titleholder, Miss Molla Bjurstedt, and her partner, Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, in the semi-final round, both having come through their previous matches in straight sets. The champions won after a terrific three-set struggle, 6—3, 1—6, 6—4.

So long as they rushed the net, in support of forcing ground strokes, the winners were consistently successful, but for some inexplicable reason they temporarily abandoned these tactics for a back court driving game, and were almost deprived of victory in consequence.

After two sets had been divided, Miss Goss and Miss Zinderstein came from behind in the rubber, lobbing and driving deep for the openings, and then volleying for the winning points. The accurate backhand cross-court shots of Miss Zinderstein were the most spectacular features of this uphill fight.

In the lower half Miss Sears and Mrs. Wightman pulled out a victory over Mrs. Barger Wallach and Miss Phyllis Walsh, but shortly before the finish Miss Sears strained a tendon in her ankle, and may be incapacitated for the rest of the tournament. The Boston players are scheduled to play Miss Wagner and Miss Cassel in the semi-finals, the latter team disposing of Mrs. De Forest Candee and Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer in two close sets today.

PURCHASE FLASHES HOME FIRST AGAIN

Samuel C. Hildreth's Purchase proved his racing quality beyond cavil yesterday, and in the opinion of a majority of the 15,000 persons at Jamaica qualified as a real rival of Commander Ross's champion three-year-old, Sir Barton. Carefully nursed through the early part of the season, while Sir Barton was making the turf world ring with his praises, Purchase made his third appearance in the Stuyvesant Handicap for three-year-olds and, as in his two previous outings under colors, he won with ease.

No easy task was set the new star in the turf world, which gained the respect of the experts by his victory over Billy Kelly in the Southampton Handicap on the opening day of the meeting. That victory had placed him second to Sir Barton in the opinion of the official handicapper, and in the Stuyvesant Purchase was asked to carry 129 pounds, three pounds over the scale, and to concede four pounds to J. W. McClelland's Eternal, which was believed to be admirably suited by the distance of one mile.

With Loftus in the saddle, Purchase performed his task in a workmanlike manner, and though his margin of victory was but half a length he was being eased at the finish and undoubtedly could have scored by a far greater margin. The time of 1:38 4-5 constituted a track mark, as the Stuyvesant was the first race at a mile ever held on the track.

There was so much interest in the meeting of these crack three-year-olds that a crowd far in excess of the usual midweek attendance was on hand. Sentiment was about equally divided between the chief rivals, for Hildreth was brimful of confidence, while James McClelland was just as sanguine.

There were nine entries in all, but as soon as it became clear that both Purchase and Eternal would start most of them ran to cover. Six of those named overnight were scratched, including Cirrus, a stable mate of Purchase. R. H. McCarter Potter's Blairgowrie remained to do battle with the cracks, and Joseph E. Davis added Ophelia to add interest to the struggle for third money. Purchase opened favorite and remained so in spite of the fact that so much support was accorded Eternal that he closed at 6 to 5 after his early backers had obtained 8 to 5 for their money.

When Purchase headed the quartet on parade he elicited unbounded admiration from the critics. His massive frame overshadowed Eternal, and made the McClelland crack look almost like a pony in comparison, while his lithe limbs furnished evidence of speed and his glossy chestnut coat showed that he was in top condition. In the matter of fitness, Eternal, the brown son of Sweep, was his equal, showing life in every movement and a fire and dash in his warming-up spin that converted many to his side.

Ophelia, the added starter, had the rail, with Eternal next and then Purchase. It was realized that with the start taking place almost on the edge of the turn a good deal depended on the way they got in motion. Here Loftus was an invaluable aid to Purchase, for, though he actually broke behind Eternal, Loftus had him on his toes, and he dashed at the barrier with such a burst of speed that Eternal was forced to pull in behind as Ophelia shot out into the lead. When they settled down, Purchase was being rated along a length and a half back of Ophelia, with Eternal a length further back.

At the far turn Purchase had drawn a little nearer to Ophelia and a shade further from Eternal, but Shuttinger set out to make a horse race of it in the backstretch, and rushed his mount up so that at the half mile the two cracks were on practically even terms, and both had swept by the pacemaker. Loftus was quick to accept Shuttinger's challenge, and was determined not to give away the inside position. He shook up Purchase, and the chestnut responded, so that he led by less than a length as they raced to the far turn and around the bend.

Under the skillful guidance of Loftus Purchase showed no disposition to run out, as in previous races, but instead skinned the rail, so as to take every advantage of his position. Eternal kept close to the flanks of the chestnut, and as they straightened out in the stretch Shuttinger sat down to ride the McClelland hope, waking him up with a touch of the whip.

As soon as Eternal leaped forward to dispute the leadership Loftus called on Purchase, but without resorting to the whip, and the chestnut increased his speed without apparent effort so that he retained his advantage. Shuttinger began to ride with more vigor at the eighth pole and plied the whip with all his strength. Eternal was game and did his best, but try as he would there was no matching the frictionless strides of Purchase, which moved along as though in an exercise gallop and gained ground instead of losing it.

Eternal was spent after his frantic effort, and at the sixteenth pole Loftus began to restrain his mount, looking around to see that no real danger lurked behind. One glance was sufficient and Loftus eased his mount so that when he passed the judges Purchase had half a length to spare.

The other races were well contested, but it was another unfortunate day for the public choices, Purchase and Ral Parr's Oceanna, winner of the first race, being the only winning favorites.

HOOFBEATS OF RACERS.

It was Cuban Day at the track. Ivry, which raced at Havana, winning the second race with Jockey Fator, a boy who rode his first race at that track, in the saddle, and Wida, another development of Cuba, piloting Soldat de Verdun, which finished second. Fator scored again with Tapageur in the fifth race, while in the last the Cuban owner, A. H. Diaz, registered his first success with the two-year-old Grayssian.

Sweepment and Gath, two three-year-olds in the Loft string, are to take jumping education with Papp. Mr. Loft says it seems popular to have steeplechasers, and he is going to join the movement.

Owner H. B. Dailey was at the track for, the first time in four days after a slight illness. His pleasure at seeing his colors in front for the first time here was lessened when Joseph Marrone claimed the victorious Ivry for $1,200.

Little Callahan was a proud boy when he got R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Thunderstorm up in time to beat Arrah Go On, ridden by Loftus, in the Flight Handicap. Loftus rode his usual perfect race, but Thunderstorm, a brother to Campfire, was too good at the weights.

Trainer Karrick will ship Elfin Queen to Saratoga, as the fleet filly is unable to do consistent work on the hard tracks here. The soft going at the Spa is expected to suit the daughter of Disguise.

After the victory of Purchase, Owner Hildreth was asked whether he would go after Sir Barton next. "I suppose I'll have to," was the reply. Both are engaged in the Dwyer Stakes of a mile and an eighth at Aqueduct, the race that has replaced the Brooklyn Derby.

Large fields are expected to go to the post today as the overnight purses have been greatly increased by the run-ups of Wednesday.

KAMMER IS LEADER IN FOX HILLS GOLF

With everything in their favor, ideal conditions, clear skies and firm turf, golfers to the number of 100 took part in the qualifying round of the invitation tournament at the Fox Hills Golf Club yesterday. A. F. Kammer, now representing Baltusrol, led the field with a card of 75, one stroke better than A. L. Walker, Jr., of Richmond County.

Kammer and Walker played together, and the latter had the better of it to the turn, reaching that point in 38, the other getting 40. Coming home, however, Kammer was going like a champion, making the inward half in 35, Walker getting 38.

Kammer had his first really bad hole at the fifth, where he topped his drive and needed 5, whereas Walker, who had reached the green on his tee shot, ran down the putt for a 2. The hole is 157 yards long. Again at the sixth, 357 yards, Walker was home in 2, and after taking two putts, got the hole in 4 to Kammer's 5. At that stage, Walker was four strokes better than the Staten Island champion, but the last named helped matters by making the seventh in 4 to his partner's 6.

One of the brightest spots of the round came at the seventeenth. There Walker was off the edge of the green on his second, and Kammer on the like was twenty-five feet from the pin. Walker, with a beautiful mashie shot, chipped in for a 3, and Kammer rose to the occasion by running down his long putt for a half.

Those with scores of 83 tied at the bottom of the first sixteen and on the draw W. W. Van Loan and H. S. Ivanson dropped into the second division. Contestants with scores of 97 made the fifth sixteen. The committee has arranged for those in the last division to get away in the first match round this morning at 8:30. The first pair in the fourth sixteen, will start forty minutes later, and when that set is out of the way the third will tee up. The first sixteen starts next and the second division last.

The luck of the draw has placed Kammer and Walker in opposite halves, as may be seen by the following: Kammer vs. Bowman, Courtland Van Clief vs. Bessire, Follett vs. Milliken, Allen vs. W. C. Van Clief, Spindler vs. Hunt, Newman vs. E. H. Kendall, Mitchell vs. Gardiner, Brender vs. Walker.

The scores were as follows:

First sixteen—A. F. Kammer, Baltusrol, 40, 35—75; A. L. Walker, Jr., Richmond County, 38, 38—76; L. G. Spindler, Fox Hills, 40, 39—79; W. H. Follett, Fox Hills, 40, 39—79; W. C. Van Clief, Richmond County, 40, 39—79; Courtland Van Clief, Fox Hills, 39, 41—80; W. H. Gardner, Buffalo, 42, 38—80; J. M. Brender, Fox Hills, 38, 43—81; George Bowman, Plainfield, 41, 40—81; J. D. Newman, Fox Hills, 40, 41—81; S. M. Milliken, Scarsdale, 43, 39—82; E. F. Hunt, Fox Hills, 41, 41—82; B. T. Allen, Fox Hills, 41, 41—82; E. H. Kendall, Fox Hills, 41, 42—83; F. How Packard Balance Reduces Transportation Cost

The basic design of the Packard Twin Six motor has been wonderfully justified during the past few years of both peace and war work. So that any changes that may be made from time to time will be merely in the nature of refinements.

WHEN the average motor car buyer looks for "balance," he thinks he has found it so long as the car rests squarely on its wheels, gives a feeling of strength and power, and pleases his sense of proportion.

The trouble is generally that he stops right there.

Some people never do reach the point of reckoning balance in terms of operating cost, or in what they receive for their transportation dollar.

They miss the true relationship between the first cost of a car and its final cost—its running charges, upkeep and repairs through the life of the car.

Right balance is found when the cost of maintenance is low enough to offset a higher initial expenditure; when the used-value is sufficient to count materially towards the purchase of a new car; when the quality of the transportation is such that it delivers you at your destination fresh in nerves and body.

It does not take long for high upkeep and unreliability to out-weigh low purchase price.

And this is the secret of that well known fact that a compromise car always proves more costly in the long run than the Packard.

Because of the perfect balance of the Packard Twin Six, it is less expensive to maintain than automobiles costing two-thirds or one-half as much.

Its ease of motion, its freedom from vibration, its tremendous reserve of power, combine to give it the longest life of any car in America.

In fact, motor car investment is like any other investment—in the end the seasoned security pays better than the speculative stock.

The Packard people are transportation experts. They have more to tell you on this subject than any other organization in the world. You can ask them to discuss your car problem without obligation. It is to your interest and profit to do so.

EKATERINODAR, June 3, (via London, June 18.)—Ekaterinodar is unique. Imagine half the War Office, half of Westminster and Fleet Street huddled together, say, in Taunton, sleeping three in a room, wearing all sorts of costumes and uniforms, working for the liberation of England. That is the general effect of this rough-and-ready provincial town in sight of the blue outspurs of the Caucasus. Superficially, it suggests for a moment the muddled epitome of Petrograd and Moscow on Cossack ground. In reality, it is the centre of a crusade.

Many acquaintances I meet are greatly changed, financially ruined, with no knowledge of the whereabouts of their wives and little children, broken by the loss of gallant sons in this terrible conflict. Man after man I meet who has lost one, two, three, or four sons in this patriotic endeavor, and now schoolboys are going out to take the places of those who have fallen.

The spirit of the place is extraordinary. Despite the overcrowding and discomfort it is a campaigning, or, rather, a crusading, spirit. There are drawbacks, but they are rather physical than moral, and not worth mentioning. Party differences are slight. The three groups of the Right, Centre, and Left work in great harmony, and all ardently support the volunteer army. General Denikin is revered, and hope is dawning at last, after a long night of desperate struggle. How they dream here and long for the sound of the Moscow church bells!

Troops in British Uniform.

It is good to see Russian soldiers in British uniforms kicking the football on the Cathedral green, and to hear a company of Chevaliers of St. George or a squadron of Cossacks singing the old marching songs. The heroic period is not yet past. The memory of the great adventure of the heroic little band under Alexieff, Korniloff, and Denikin is vividly present.

There is more space now, more organization, above all, more supplies flowing from England in a steady stream. To Englishmen here it is a matter of pride that they have a share in this enterprise, and the Russians are touchingly grateful. At Rostoff, nearer the front, the sad events in Odessa and the involved British policy in Trans-Caucasia had created a grave misgiving as to the intentions of the Allies, but that is all past now. The pro-Germans have certainly not relaxed their efforts, but public opinion has swung right around.

The passage to the front of the splendid Iron Brigade having 50 per cent. of officers in its ranks and of two cavalry regiments dressed in British uniform were the first evidence of British aid. And then came stories of the miraculous effect of the tanks and of generous British supplies of munitions and equipment. Public opinion has become enthusiastically pro-British. The note running through all press comments is "This is real help and done without advertisement."

The effect on the tired troops of being well and uniformly clothed is marvelous. The "New Englishmen," as they are called, clip their mustaches, smoke pipes and try to look as English as possible. As to the tanks, the Bolsheviki never stop to meet them and the cavalry commanders complain that their horses are worn out in the attempt to overtake the flying enemy. The Donetz Basin coal region, close to a network of railways, part of which has been held for four months by 6,000 men, mostly officers, against the Bolsheviki, was freed in less than a week.

The gallant Kuban Cossacks of General Shquro, the Stewart of Kugan, as the Russians call him, simply fell in love with the "whippets." They flung themselves from their horses and kissed the sides of the baby tanks. The enthusiasm is spreading all along the front and bringing fruit in victory after victory.

The speed of the advance is bewildering. The Cossacks and mountaineer cavalry are absolutely reckless in their attacks, and brilliant young generals of the volunteer army have devised for this novel kind of warfare daring maneuvers that take one's breath away. The Bolsheviki are strong in numbers and often fight stubbornly, but they are overmatched by the force of this onset.

Fall of Tsaritsin Near.

In the northeast the troops commanded by General Wrangel are advancing by long strides along the railway to Tsaritsin on the Volga, the fall of which is now a matter of a week or two. In view of the imminent capture of Tsaritsin, the Bolsheviki are hastily evacuating the town and also Astrakhan, at the mouth of the Volga, and the prospect opens of a speedy junction with the irregular forces of Ural Cossacks who constitute Kolchak's extreme left wing.

On the Don front along the Vorgoneah Railway the capture of Millerova after a fierce struggle brought the volunteer army in touch with the Cossacks of the Upper Don who lost heart in January after the Prinkipo proposal, yielded to the Bolsheviki, and now, as the result of experience of the abominations of Bolshevist rule, have risen in fierce revolt. The Donetz Basin, including Bakhmut, has been captured with the help of the tanks, and a steady advance is being maintained beyond Mariupol along the shore of the Sea of Azov, Kertch being gallantly held against the pressure of a Bolshevist band from the Crimea. Beyond the front South Russia is in a state of chaos and reduced almost to the conditions of the seventeenth century. The Bolsheviki hold the railways and a little more, the steppes are overrun by bandit forces under various leaders (Guzorieff, Makhno, Zeliony, Trepoff and a person named Angel.) The activities of these plundering bands are directed partly against the Bolshevikl and partly against the peace population, and the chief sufferers are Jews. All the bands, whether nominally Bolshevist or Ukrainian, seem to unite in carrying through pogroms on a large scale.

The so-called North Caucasian republic has been satisfactorily liquidated and the mountain tribes of Kabardines and Osselines are fighting wholly in Denikine's army.

The danger of Georgian aggression in the rear of the volunteer army has been checked and conditions are now wholly favorable for a steady advance.

Wisconsin Assembly Kills Bill for Big Income Tax Rates

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—Senator Arnold's bill to radically increase the tax rates on individual and corporation income was defeated in the Assembly today. The vote was 52 to 27 and no amendments were offered. Immediately after the bill was killed Assemblyman Killa moved a reconsideration of the vote so that the entire matter might be closed for good.

The House was in an uproar, and a call was ordered and all doors were locked.

Members remained under lock and key only a few minutes, when the call of the House was raised by a vote of 60 to 18. An attempt to suspend the rules that the Assembly might vote on Mr. Killa's motion failed, and the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Arnold bill was killed went over until the next calendar day, which may be Saturday or Tuesday.

From the moment the bill was taken up until it was killed it was apparent that the House was in no mood to listen to long speeches. The members were all set on killing the Arnold bill, and they wanted to get to the vote with the least possible delay.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO TURN OVER WIRES

PHONE RATES CONTINUED

Amendment Authorizing Increased Telegraph Charges for Six Months Is Voted Down.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The House today passed without roll call the bill to restore the telegraph and telephone systems to their owners at the end of the month in which President Wilson signs a proclamation returning the properties taken over after the armistice was signed.

The motion of Representative Merritt of Connecticut to continue the increased telegraph rates for a period of six months after the lines had been given back to their owners was lost by a vote of 42 to 152. Opposition was made to this because it was asserted that the Postal Telegraph Company had offered to restore the old rates when the system was returned.

The bill as presented to the House would permit the continuation of the present telephone rates for a period of months after the lines are restored.

The bill as it passed the House provides that the present telephone and toll rates shall apply for six months, with the idea that during that time the telephone companies may apply to State utility bodies for such increase as may be necessary. This extension does not apply to the telegraph rates and it is supposed that the pre-war telegraph rates will be restored following the return of the telegraph systems to the private owners. The wires are to be restored in the month the President signs the proclamation.

The bill as passed by the Senate provided that the wires should be returned to their owners immediately and extended the telephone rates for a period of ninety days, instead of six months. These differences, it is believed, will be adjusted and the period of increased telephone rates be made four months.

REDUCES CABLE RATES.

President Mackay Announces New Tariffs to the Far East.

Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Commercial Cable-Postal Telegraph Lines, announced yesterday that, beginning Sept. 1, the rate on cable messages from San Francisco to Manila would be reduced from $1 to 80 cents a word; from San Francisco to China, from $1.10 to 88 cents a word, and from San Francisco to Japan, from $1.21 to 88 cents a word. These last two reductions, he said, were contingent on proportionate reductions in terminal charges in Japan and China, which were expected. Mr. Mackay said:

"It is the policy of our system to reduce rates whenever possible. Prior to the laying of our cable across the Pacific Ocean the rate from San Francisco to Manila was $2.47 a word. It will now be 80 cents a word. Likewise the rates from San Francisco to China and Japan were respectively $1.72 and $1.88 a word. These rates will now be 88 cents a word.

"In view of the fact that the Pacific cable is a long and costly cable to maintain and operate, we think the public will appreciate these liberal reductions. These reduced rates will not yield more than a reasonable return, especially when the traffic gets back to normal conditions. We believe that trade between America and the Far East will develop sufficiently to justify these reductions. Delays on the Pacific cable have been heavy, but not as heavy as the delays on lines between Europe and the Far East, which in consequence of interruptions and congestions and the closing of telegraph routes via Germany and Russia cause delays often amounting to from two weeks to a month.

"We are confident that the delays on our Pacific cable will disappear upon the return of normal conditions. If it turns out that the traffic warrants a second cable we shall promptly lay it."

GALLIVAN DEMANDS BURLESON BE OUSTED

WASHINGTON, June 19.—In a speech in the House today, Representative James A. Gallivan, Democrat, of Massachusetts, demanded the resignation of Postmaster General Burleson, and characterized him as "one of the worst autocrats in the country." This arraignment was made during debate on the item in the sundry civil bill apportioning money to the Department of Justice for the detection of crime against the Government.

Mr. Gallivan said Mr. Burleson was credited with having received his appointment "because of his great political acumen."

"If he is such a political wonder, let him get out of the Cabinet," added Mr. Gallivan, "take hold of the affairs of the dying Democratic Party and try if he can to restore it to life."

"It would be a great relief to the country if the President would hurry home and clean house in his official family. If he will do this I believe it will do more than any one other thing to check radicalism and anarchy.

"It is the unanimous sentiment of the people of the entire country that Postmaster-General Burleson is the biggest and most complete failure as a public official that the country has ever produced."

Representative Sisson, Democrat, of Mississippi, answering Mr. Gallivan, declared that the people loved the Postmaster General for the enemies he had made in an honest endeavor to give the country a proper mail service at an economical cost. There have been no charges of fraud against his administration, Mr. Sisson added, but only an attack based on the opinion of certain persons and interests anxious to destroy Mr. Burleson.

SAY LLOYD GEORGE ASKED IRISH INQUIRY

WANT COMMISSION NAMED

Write President They Can Prove Atrocities—Ask Letter Be Sent to Congress.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 18.—Frank P. Walsh and Edward F. Dunne, members of the American Commission on Irish Independence, have issued a statement saying it was not their original intention upon visiting Ireland "to make an intensive investigation, although we afterward did," and indicating that the investigation was undertaken at the request of Premier Lloyd George. They say:

"When Lloyd George made the request through Sir William Wiseman for us to study conditions in all parts of Ireland, and particularly Belfast, and his request was assented to by Messrs. O'Ceallaigh and Gavan Duffy, representatives of the Irish Republic at Paris, we felt it our duty to comply therewith. Naturally we are somewhat surprised at the torrent of vituperation and abuse with which we are being assailed by portions of the English press, and certain officials implicated in the atrocities, without a word of protest from the Prime Minister."

They say also that the good faith of the English officials is under deeper suspicion because the English censor forbade publication of their report on conditions in Ireland in Irish papers, and suppressed all comment on it.

Say They Can Prove Charges.

Frank P. Walsh and Edward F. Dunne, members of the "American Commission on Irish Independence," have sent a written request to Secretary Lansing to transmit to the Senate and House the letter they delivered to President Wilson today offering to furnish additional evidence to support their charges made in a prior communication to the President concerning atrocities in Ireland. The first communication was sent by Mr. Lansing to the State Department for transmission to Congress.

Messrs. Walsh and Dunne also asked the American Peace Commission what action had been taken by the Peace Conference on the Senate resolution requesting a hearing by the conference for De Valera, Griffith and Plunkett, delegates from the Irish Republic Convention. In a letter to the American commission Walsh and Dunne say:

"We wish respectfully to call your attention to the fact that unless action is taken very shortly the delay itself will amount to a denial of the request."

In their letter to the President the American Commission on Irish Independence mention their request of June 6 for an investigation of the charges of atrocities in Ireland contained in the report submitted by them. This investigation, they suggested, should be conducted by an impartial body appointed by the Peace Conference and excluding from membership interested countries, or a committee equally selected by the Prime Minister of England and the elected representatives of Ireland, with a chairman to be agreed upon by both parties, or, if they fail to agree, by the Supreme Court of the United States.

"We now beg leave," continues the Irish-American delegation, "to point out that in the report heretofore forwarded to you the most revolting acts committed against the people of Ireland were not included, for the reason that many details of the evidence covering the same are in the exclusive possession of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Mr. Ian Macpherson, and military and other officials directly under his authority.

Allege British Reprisals.

"The substantial accuracy of our report has been attested by some of the more progressive and independent newspapers of England, but in view of certain public statements by English officials and certain newspapers we beg leave to make the following addition to our report:

1. Since the submission thereof, through the use of army spies and agents provocateurs, reprisals have been begun against the persons and property of those who are to bear witness to the truth of the many atrocities reported, and men and women are being arrested upon trumped-up charges and transported to places distant from their homes and friends so as to be deprived of assistance or defense.

2. The only charge in the report heretofore submitted to you which has, so far as we know, received specific denial at the hands of any English authority, is the following:

"Police and soldiers are habitually permitted to enter the cells here of political prisoners confined and beat them with their clubs."

(A) By the production of large numbers of witnesses who have been thus beaten.

(B) By the proof of witnesses of the highest standing, including American citizens, who examined the cells of the prisoners shortly after the beatings and found fresh blood still covering the walls of the cells.

(C) By the production of prisoners whose injuries did not prove fatal, but who have been maimed and disfigured for life by the beatings of soldiers and police.

"In view of the condition in Ireland, as herein and heretofore set forth, which we earnestly insist cannot be ignored if the peace of the world is to be accomplished; as well as the fact that if prompt action be not taken many more innocent lives will be lost and further brutalities committed with the apparent sanction of other nations; that evidence now in existence may be destroyed and witnesses placed beyond the reach of the Commission of Inquiry, we respectfully request you to be good enough at once to place these additional facts before the Peace Conference and urge upon it the necessity and justice of prompt acquiescence in the demand for a hearing before an impartial tribunal such as heretofore described."

PAPERS BLAME LLOYD GEORGE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 19.—The London Times complains of the Government's delay in issuing a reply to the Irish-American delegates. It says:

"A really efficient Irish Government would have had the truth in hot pursuit, ventre à terre, two hours after the lies. But this delay is all of a piece with the whole story of the delegation. Government of Ireland from London is bad enough, but government from Paris is crazy.

"At the moment when the Sinn Fein is beginning to pay the inevitable penalty of success in Ireland, namely, to provoke reaction amongst a people whose instinct for being in the minority is infallible, Mr. Lloyd George, presumably without making inquiries, treats three frothy rhetoricians from America as though they were painstaking students of the truth. His weak indolence is immediately twisted into recognition by the Paris Conference of the Irish question as a subject for international legislation, which it is not and cannot be.

"The delegates go to Ireland and there stretch the permits which the Prime Minister, a good and easy man, has given them into a license to preach rebellion, and then refer the results to Paris. Our Irish correspondent has several times enlarged on the mischief that was done in Ireland, and the news from New York and Washington shows how it has extended in the United States. Meanwhile Dublin Castle is seen helplessly wringing its hands at this complication of its tasks, and after wrapping itself in the mantle of injured innocence for a week, now stammers out its explanation."

The Morning Post says:

"The culprit in this sorry business is, from the British point of view, the Prime Minister, who, knowing the record of these Irish-American mischief-makers, went out of his way to facilitate their visit to Ireland. It was an act of weakness and folly comparable only to that of Mr. Asquith in holding friendly converse with the Sinn Fein prisoners after the Easter rebellion. If any strain is imposed on the good feeling between England and America by this incident, Mr. Lloyd George will have the consolation of knowing that he is largely responsible for it.

"Our Paris correspondent has reported that the American peace delegation is now formally asking the Peace Conference to receive the delegation of the Irish Republic and to investigate the alleged 'atrocities' in Ireland. After all that has happened it is difficult to believe that this amazing report may not be well founded. It is equally difficult to be sure Mr. Lloyd George will meet such a request in the only way that a British Minister ought to receive a deliberate and gratuitous affront to the national dignity and honor. The rules of the American party game are peculiar, but there is no obligation on us to respect them."

The Chronicle hopes MacPherson's refutation of the allegations made by the Irish-American delegates will be studied carefully in America. It says:

"Whatever else may be thought of the authors of this tissue of exposed falsehoods, their reputation as persons of ordinary veracity and honor deserves simply to disappear among sane and unprejudiced men. It is, of course, perfectly true that Ireland is governed at present under a system which nobody believes in or regards as permanent. British opinion is overwhelmingly alive to the need for change. The difficulty is to discover any new system upon which Irishmen themselves are even approximately prepared to agree. The obstacles are in Ireland, not in England."

PLYMOUTH, June 19.—A resolution protesting against the system of government at present in operation in Ireland was adopted today by the National Union of Railwaymen in convention here. The Government in Ireland was described as "not in accordance with the principles professed to be held by the members of the Government when appealing to our countrymen to kill Prussians," and demand is made for the immediate withdrawal of martial law.

Army of 400,000 Proposed by Committee; $6,700,000 for Vocational Training

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Provision in the Army Appropriation Bill for maintenance of an army of 400,000 officers and men during the next fiscal year was tentatively agreed on today by the Senate Military Sub-Committee.

Consideration of the bill was virtually completed tonight. Chairman Wadsworth said he planned to report it tomorrow to the full committee, which is expected to consider it at once so that the measure can be sent to the Senate without delay and an effort made to expedite its passage before July 1, when some appropriations will be needed.

Chairman Wadsworth said tonight that numerous changes were made in the House bill owing to the fact that the appropriations carried in that measure had been worked out on a basis of an average army of 300,000 for the coming fiscal year, while the Senate Committee increased this to 400,000.

In appearing before the Senate Committee both Secretary Baker and General March were emphatic in their recommendation that the average size of the army should be fixed at 500,000 as originally recommended, pending the determination of a definite military policy.

The Senate Committee increased appropriations for the army air service and Ordnance Department, although no estimate was made tonight of the exact amount. It also allowed $30,000,000 for barracks and quarters in place of $23,000,000 recommended by Secretary Baker, and $2,000,000 provided by the House bill. An appropriation of $6,700,000 also was agreed on for vocational training and welfare work in the army camps. The War Department asked $8,000,000 for this work, but the House reduced it to $150,000.

HOLD R-34 TO AWAIT GERMANS' DECISION

LONDON, June 19.—The flight of the British dirigible R-34 to America is definitely postponed until Germany decides what she intends to do regarding the peace terms.

Should Germany refuse to sign, according to one officer, the flight of the R-34 will be eastward instead of westward.

The airships, which have been engaged in a demonstrative flight over Germany, will return to their bases and remain there until the German decision is announced.

"Bombs and machine guns were unnecessary in the present flight," said the officer. "Should we have to go eastward again, however, these things may be needed."

EDINBURGH, June 19, (Associated Press.)—Unless the wind abates today the British dirigible R-34, which is out on an extended flight, will not return to her base here until Friday morning.

At 11 o'clock this morning her commander reported that he was 190 miles off the Scotch coast, in a strong wind, but with his craft behaving admirably. The commander was ordered to cruise over the North Sea until conditions for landing became better.

EAST FORTUNE, Scotland, June 19, (Associated Press.)—The dirigible R-34 carried no bombs or ammunition when she left Tuesday for an extended cruise over the North Sea.

Colonel Hunt, commanding the camp at East Fortune, said today that if the airship returned Friday morning it would require until Monday to get her in shape to start on a long flight even if no repairs were needed on the engine. The Colonel added:

"By Monday we should be ready to start either way—east to aid the fleet if the Germans do not sign, or west to America if they do."

"If the R-34 has been ordered to Berlin or the Baltic and is attempting that voyage on this trip we know nothing of it. Our orders here are sure that she is taking a long trial flight over the North Sea. She is not far out, and could come in if the weather permitted. At times she has been out of wireless communication, and regarding that I can say nothing. The wind is too strong for a landing, but if it abates she may come in tomorrow."

Officers at the aerodrome declined to affirm or deny the report that the R-34 had been sighted over Copenhagen, which prompted the suggestion here that possibly the craft had been ordered to fly over the Baltic on orders not imparted to the officers at the aerodrome.

2 SENATES FOR SUFFRAGE.

Massachusetts and Pennsylvania Act on Amendment.

BOSTON, June 19.—The State Senate by a vote of 34 to 5 today adopted resolutions ratifying the Federal Woman Suffrage Amendment. The House has not yet acted upon the resolutions.

HARRISBURG, June 19.—The Pennsylvania Senate today passed finally, 31 to 6, the joint resolution ratifying the woman suffrage amendment to the Federal Constitution. The resolution was sent to the House, where it will be acted upon before final adjournment of the Legislature next Thursday.

HANDLEY MACHINE FUELED FOR START

PLAN TO COME HERE VETOED

And the Big Bomber Will Probably Start Speedily for the Other Side.

Special to The New York Times.

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 19.—The wires between here and New York, and here and London, have been kept busy with discussion of a plan for the Handley-Page machine to fly to New York instead of England or Ireland, now that the Vickers-Vimy has won the transatlantic prize, but the members of the expedition feel that they should complete the job they set out to do, and there is little prospect that there will be any change in the plan.

Individually, some of the crew feel there would be a lot more fun and novelty in pioneering in a new direction rather than in trying to improve upon Alcock and Brown's feat in the Vickers-Vimy. They are unable to rid themselves, however, of the idea that choosing the somewhat safer course would be rather in the nature of "funking," and so they are bent upon carrying out the original and bending every effort to better the Vimy's Newfoundland-Ireland journey.

Mr. Workman, the New York Handley-Page's American representative, is most anxious that the American people should have a look at this giant, which is larger than any aeroplane they ever have ever seen. Handley-Page himself, without disclosing his own views, cabled to inquire how the members of the expedition felt.

Admiral Kerr today sent a cable message advising against any change in the plans. He explains that it would be a case of "giving the American people a chance to look at a machine that had not done its job." It is highly probable that the firm will accept Kerr's decision. The Admiral is keen for the idea of a Handley-Page American flight at some other time, but is convinced that the proper present course is to stick to the work in hand.

The slow job of filtering 1,700 gallons of petrol into the plane's tank was begun early this morning and should be completed by dark. In the meantime F. Platford, the Rolls-Royce engineer, is giving the four engines their final inspection and the wireless men are doing the last tuning up on the triple wireless system, devoting their particular attention to the direction finding apparatus.

There is no air of hurry about the present preparations, for today's weather report is not good. There is a high pressure all over America just now, however, which may move to the ocean very rapidly, and the general indications are that there will be very few days more of delay before the start.

Though no longer regarding the crossing as a race now that the Vimy has "packed up" The Daily Mail prize, the Handley-Page men are anxious to be away before F. P. Raynham in his Martinsyde, which is nearly ready for a trial flight after being rebuilt following the crash during the attempted start of a month ago yesterday. While Major Tryggve Gran is making his final navigation plans, Admiral Kerr is devoting himself largely to planning for "research" work in the air, for he believes that with the greater leisure on account of a large crew, more room to move about and better means of communication, the voyage should disclose much about transatlantic travel in the air which smaller machines have not had an opportunity to observe and record.

Word was received by the Handley-Page expedition today that Boulton and Paul, who had engaged their aerodrome here and planned sending three machines here and planned sending three machines to be flown across, had abandoned the project. "Adverse public sentiment," it was said, was their reason for withdrawing.

BURGLARS GET $30,000.

Burglars may have taken $30,000 in Liberty bonds, cash and jewelry, by breaking open a safe a week ago in the sales office of I. Newman & Sons, manufacturers of corsets, at 222 Fourth Avenue. Because of the police request to say nothing about the robbery the firm declined to mention the exact amount of their loss, which is said to approximate $20,000 in bonds and $10,000, mostly jewelry.

The building is not guarded by a night watchman. The thieves concealed themselves in the building before closing time and got into Newman & Sons' office on the fourth floor by cutting a hole in the glass panel of a corridor door, through which they reached the knob on the lock. The door cannot be opened without a key from the outside, but works keyless from the inside. This indicates that the burglars had intimate knowledge of the office and information as to where to look for loot, as several safes were left untouched by chisel.

With steel tools and by the use of small charges of explosives, they got the safe open. When they left they found the street door locked against them. They forced the lock and pried the double doors apart sufficiently to squeeze through. A patrolman from the East Twenty-second Street Station, who had found the doors securely fastened just before midnight, discovered the burglary an hour later. Chisels and other tools used were found in the hall.

Morris Steuer, 115 West 126th Street, a collector for the National Accident Society, reported yesterday that he was held up and robbed of $30 Wednesday afternoon in the hall of the house at 20 West 137th Street. He said he was attacked by five men and was choked and gagged until he ceased to resist.

MACHINE GUNS OUT IN WATERBURY RIOT

34 ALIENS ARE ARRESTED

WATERBURY, Conn., June 19.—Pitched battles occurred here tonight, lasting for nearly an hour, between the police and the strikers of several brass factories. Pickets interfering with workers precipitated the riot. The city guards, deputy sheriffs, and all police and reserves, reinforced by war veterans, who volunteered, are patrolling the streets of the Brooklyn district tonight, where most of the strikers reside. The riot call was sounded at 5:10 P. M. Twelve police were injured, three seriously. Patrolman John Moore is not expected to live. Firemen, pouring several streams on the masses of strikers, were stoned. Three were seriously hurt.

Machine guns are mounted on the roofs of buildings in the section where the rioting occurred. Thirty-four strikers were arrested up to midnight, many of whom were women. One woman is held at Police Headquarters charged with inciting the riot. Patrolman Peter Rice was stabbed twice and beaten over the head with his own club, which a striker took away from him.

The other police were beaten with clubs and baseball bats and were struck down by large cobblestones and chunks of coal.

The police quelled the rioters after nearly an hour's fighting.

Thousands collected in front of the City Hall, in which building the jail is located, and cheered the police wildly as they brought the strike agitators and strikers into the station in patrols.

Fearing for the safety of the prisoners at the hands of the public, so great was the indignation, the police placed a machine gun at the entrance to the City Hall and one in the rear wing of the City Hall, where the police station is located. Nurses from the factory's infirmaries volunteered to dress the injuries of those who were arrested, and who were in many cases seriously injured.

Orders were issued when the rioting started to close the saloons in the district.

Of those arrested, all were either Lithuanians, Russians, Poles, and Italians. Shortly after the police gained control, women and men held two mass meetings, one in a hall and the other in an open lot. Thousands attended and refused to disperse until clubbed by police.

Police Commissioner Ralphiday led a charge against the strikers who formed in solid masses in the street. While the entire Police Department was battling with rioters, 200 strikers held a meeting in North Square. It was also dispersed by the police.

It is estimated that 6,000 employes are on strike, 2,000 joining the strikers today.

The strikers were employed at the plants of the Scovill Manufacturing Company, the Chase Rolling Mill Company, the Chase Metal Works, the Waterbury Rolling Mill Company, the Plume & Atwood Manufacturing Company, and the Waterbury Manufacturing Company. About 3,000 of the 5,000 men and women on strike walked out yesterday and 2,500 of this number are employes of the local branches of the American Brass Company.

At the plant of the Plume & Atwood Manufacturing Company about 200 women gathered outside the factory early in the day and shouted to the men in the factory to join the strikers, calling them slackers for refusing to join the cause. The police dispersed the women without trouble. Three men were arrested at the plant of the Chase Metal Works for minor offenses.

A petition for permission to hold meetings presented to Mayor Sandland by the strikers was referred to Superintendent of Police Beach, who decided to let the strikers hold their meetings, provided they hold them in an open lot; that the police are notified before all meetings so that they might have protection on hand, and that no speakers are brought here from other cities without the permission of the head of the Police Department. The Police Department head denied the strikers the privilege of parading with a banner through the city to advertise the meetings.

ANSONIA, Conn., June 19.—The American Brass Company strikers voted today not to return to work under the terms of the agreement obtained by Mayor Mead. It was stated that the Mayor was not authorized to negotiate with the company in behalf of the strikers. While some of the concessions obtained by the Mayor were satisfactory, the strikers would not return until the terms were put into writing and signed by the company.

Following the action of the strikers, the company announced that it would reopen its mills tomorrow. Adequate protection has been promised the company by Mayor Mead and Sheriff Reilly. Joseph Ettor, an organizer of the Industrial Workers of the World, who has been a figure in various labor troubles in New England, was detained by the police this afternoon.

Ansonia Mills Delay Reopening.

ANSONIA, Conn., June 19.—Following a conference between Mayor John C. Mead of this city and officials of the American Brass Company, the Mayor addressed a crowd of strikers in front of the City Hall late tonight and announced that the local mills of the American Brass Company would not reopen tomorrow morning as had been planned, but would open next Monday.

The Mayor's announcement came after a day of restlessness among the strikers. The Strike Committee of the brass company had announced that the strikers still opposed the Mayor's efforts at arbitration, and that they would not return to work. The committee then called a meeting of English-speaking strikers for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, which would have prevented any men who wished to attend from going back to the mills.

Early in the evening Mayor Mead spoke to a crowd of Brass Company strikers. He warned all agitators that they would be dealt with sternly by the authorities if they caused any disturbance or interfered with the police. He assured the strikers that ample protection would be provided when they go back to work and said that 90 per cent. of the strikers' demands would be granted.

Policemen from Waterbury tonight said that the man arrested today as Joseph Ettor, an I. W. W. leader, was not Ettor. The prisoner has not been identified, although he is thought to be connected with the I. W. W.

TO TAKE BACK WIREMEN.

Western Union Will Have Working Employes Pass on Applications by Strikers.

Although the telegraph strike remains practically unchanged in this city, it was asserted at the headquarters of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America yesterday that the Western Union had placed placards in its offices announcing that the employes who had struck would be reinstated as if they had never left their posts. This, however, was denied last night at the offices of the Western Union.

What the company had done, it was explained, was to send notices to its agents in charge of employment requesting them to submit all applications from the strikers to a committee of employes which would report its decision to the divisional superintendent. He would then decide whether the striking employe should or should not be taken back. This would give the loyal employes, it was said, the opportunity of accepting the applications for employment or rejecting them.

Ohio Court Backs Referendum on Suffrage and Prohibition

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 19.—In the Common Pleas Court today Judge E. B. Dillon sustained the right of the State to provide for a referendum on the ratification by the Ohio General Assembly of the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution. The Liberals have already filed their petition and the people will decide the question in the November election.

The ratification of the suffrage amendment also will be carried to the voters by those opposed to suffrage at the same time.

The voters will have an opportunity to pass upon a repeal of Statewide prohibition and on an amendment legalizing 2¾ per cent. beer and wine.

Prohibitionists and suffragists will carry today's decision to higher courts, probably to the Supreme Court of the United States for final decision. Judge Dillon held that ratification by the Legislature means any form which the State may decide upon, following a precedent from a former Ohio case.

CARRANZA OFFERS ASSURANCES TO POLK

Mexican Government Agrees to Guard Border and End Rebel Murders There.

AGUILAR SEES CASE CLOSED

Mexican Newspaper Comment on Our Action Is Regarded as Favorable.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Assurances that the Carranza Government had begun concentration of troops in Northern Mexico for an intensive campaign against the Villistas, and that steps had been taken to protect American citizens in Chihuahua, were given to the State Department today by General Candido Aguilar, who has been in Washington more than a week in a confidential diplomatic capacity, representing the Carranza Government.

The firm policy of the Administration in dealing with the border situation has been approved in Congressional circles here, and resulted today in the introduction of several resolutions of approval in the House of Representatives.

With the army better prepared than at any other time in American history to enter Mexico on a large scale, with seasoned overseas veterans, in the event that armed intervention should become an absolute necessity, and with Congress ready to approve a continuation of the present border policy of the Administration, it is believed that Carranza will not wish to make a test of strength, but will rather endeavor to deal with the local situation more effectively in Northern Mexico.

Sentiment in Mexico City in support of this Government's position was reflected in utterances in the Mexico City newspapers touched upon in today's official announcement by Secretary Polk, which read:

"General Aguilar has informed the Department of State that President Carranza has taken immediate steps to protect American citizens in the State of Chichuahua and to provide them safe transportation to the United States in case they desire to leave.

"Mexico City papers yesterday published a telegram from President Carranza to General Aguilar at Washington advising the latter to consider the Juarez incident closed. El Heraldo pointed out editorially that the action of the United States troops was magnanimous and entirely justified. El Universal said editorially that the conduct of the garrison at El Paso could not be considered an offense to Mexico and that the United States does not have to consent to the killing of a single American by Mexican rebels.

"Conditions are almost normal in Juarez. The Carranzistas say they killed 123 Villistas, wounded 200, and took seventy-five prisoners. They believe the Villistas still number several hundred. Villa is said to have gone toward the Mormon colonies, and the Mexican authorities have been urged by this Government to send an adequate force of troops to protect those colonies."

Express Mexico's Satisfaction.

General Aguilar, accompanied by Dr. Juan D. Rojo, Chargé d'Affaires of the Mexican Embassy, called at the State Department today to express official satisfaction at the manner in which the Juarez incident was managed. General Aguilar bade farewell to Acting Secretary of State Polk and Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher, as he leaves Washington tomorrow for New York, where he will spend a week before sailing for Europe. He will visit Spain, France, and probably England.

MEXICO CITY KEEPS COOL.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 18.—The Juarez incident has caused little excitement here. The local papers agree that the American authorities acted with good reason. One says editorially:

"For several years the Hearst papers carried on a constant campaign against Mexico, particularly against the Government of Carranza. The friction of the Columbus and Carrizal incidents, with the talk of Mexican leanings toward Germany, the high price of sisal, and other causes that from a Mexican viewpoint looked small, were made to look large. Expatriated Mexicans attributed to the Government blind hatred for the United States. A newspaper sustained by Germans issued daily virulent insults to the United States, appealing to the ignorance of the lower classes, who were easily influenced."

AIRPLANES PATROL BORDER.

FABENS, Texas, June 19.—An airplane patrol of the border has been established by Major Tobin, commander of the 11th Aero Squadron, of De Haviland bombing planes, which flew here from Fort Sam Houston.

Major Adolphus Roffe, commanding the Fabens patrol base, said he expected no raid by the Villistas, although he was prepared for any eventuality.

EL PASO, June 19.—Villa is heading for the Santa Clara canyon, where he will retire with his column until he can reorganize his campaign against the Federal Government, the Villa agents declared here today.

Santa Clara canyon is 175 miles south of the border and 35 miles west of Namiquipa. It is a great valley between mountains, having a narrow entrance and exit, and has often been the hiding place of the Villa forces when closely pursued by the Federals.

JUAREZ, June 19.—Following an official protest by Consul Dow to General Gonzales against the lack of military protection furnished to Americans and their property, General Gonzales announced today that he had ordered a column of cavalry to Casas Grandes, near the Mormon colonies.

LABOR ATTACKS COURT DECISIONS

WILL DEFY INJUNCTIONS

WOULD STOP IMMIGRATION

Favors Excluding Foreign Labor for Term of Years—Adopts Reconstruction Program.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 19.—An attack upon the courts for "usurpation of authority" in declaring enacted laws unconstitutional and an announced intention to defy court injunctions marked today's session of the American Federation of Labor. The convention also went on record in favor of excluding for a fixed term of years immigration from Europe and Mexico.

In its report on "judicial construction of law," which the convention adopted, the Committee on Executive Councils report referred to the opinion submitted by Jackson H. Ralston, counsel to the federation, in which Mr. Ralston made the following suggestions: "Coupled with the foregoing, I think there should go hand in hand the initiative and the referendum, proportional representation, and the preferential ballot."

The committee, after remarking that the governmental authority has been so divided and designed as to prevent the "usurping of authority and power by any one department of the Government not fairly and freely delegated to it by the expressed will of the people," made the following declaration:

"Despite all precautions to safeguard individual liberty and freedom of action, our courts and judges have been slowly and surely disregarding these restrictions and limitations, and now freely and uninterruptedly exercise powers which even the monarchs and kaisers dared not exercise with all their claims to power by inherent divinity.

"The power of our courts to declare legislation enacted unconstitutional and void is a most flagrant usurpation of power and authority by our courts, and is a repudiation and denial of the principle of self-government recognized now as a world doctrine. The continued exercise of this unwarranted power is a blasphemy on the rights and claims of free men of America.

Wants Judges Impeached.

"This usurpation of power by our courts to subordinate the legislative and executive departments to their will and compel the activities of a free people to their whims and dictates, is paralleled and equalled only by the further usurpation of authority by our courts to legislate and punish people, in direct defiance of constitutional safeguards to personal liberty and freedom of action.

"By the issuance of injunctive decrees by our courts, by the restraint they place upon the normal and rightful activities of a free people, by the punishing of free men in the exercise of their constitutional rights without opportunity of a trial by jury, by the removal of safeguards thrown around the individual against extreme and excessive punishments and the denial of an opportunity of executive clemency, our courts have vested themselves with a power greater than any despot ever heretofore possessed.

"The fate of the sovereignty of the American people again hangs in the balance. It is inconceivable that such an autocratic, despotic, and tyrannical power can long remain in a democracy. One or the other must ultimately give way, and your committee believes that this convention should declare that as wage earners, citizens of a free and democratic people, we shall stand fairly and conscientiously on our rights as free men and treat all injunctive decrees that invade our personal liberties as unwarranted, in fact unjustified, in law and illegal, as being in violation of our constitutional safeguards, and accept whatever consequences may follow.

"Your committee further recommends that immediate steps be taken by the Executive Council and by all State organizations for the early enactment of adequate laws to deny further usurpation of these unwarranted powers by our courts, and that Congress be petitioned to impeach all judges from office who may hereafter exercise governmental functions and authority not expressly delegated to them."

The action on the immigration question was taken shortly after credentials had been awarded to the fraternal delegates from Mexico. Commenting on it, Louis N. Morones, secretary general of the Central Committee of the Regional Federation of Mexican Workers, one of the fraternal delegates, said: "The action will have a bad effect on and create suspicion among the workers of Mexico and Latin America. The principle is wrong. It will isolate the American labor movement from the labor movement of Europe and Latin America. The effect on the forthcoming convention of the Pan-American Federation of Labor in New York, July 7, will be disastrous."

Argue on Immigration.

The Committee on Executive Committee report, urging prohibition of immigration, said that years must elapse before the industries of the country will reabsorb the men who went into army or navy service.

Andrew Furuseth, President of the Seamen's Union, supporting the report, said that the labor section of the League of Nations covenant contained a clause that in no case shall any of the contracting powers be required by the adoption of the covenant to diminish any "existing legislation" regarding the working people. He hoped that the delegates would see the wisdom of having a law passed prohibiting immigration before the League of Nations covenant was adopted. He said there was a serious doubt whether such a law could be passed after the League of Nations comes into being.

As a way to reabsorb service men and do away with unemployment, Max Gorenstein, of the Ladies' Garment Workers, suggested the establishment of a six-hour day. President Sweeney, of the Journeymen Tailors, opposed "closing the doors on the sufferers from tyrannical Europe." He attacked the proposal as smacking of "civic federation influence."

Frank Morrison, the Federation Secretary, said it was not the duty of the Federation to assist the "Steel Trust and the timber barons" to bring about pre-war conditions where there were three men for every job.

The delegates approved the construction program of the Executive Council, which included the following subjects:

Remedies against unemployment, adequate wage for workers, the fixing of hours, the curbing of the powers of the courts, the curbing of corporate powers, freedom of speech, assemblage and of the press, and welfare laws for women and children.

The expected fight on the resolution favoring the establishment of a separate Labor Party did not develop. The committee reported itself as opposed to the idea. John Daly of New York asked to speak on it, but he was not recognized by Frank Duffy, who was in the chair, and the delegates sustained the committee report.

The convention favored the principles of the Kelley and Crosser bills and of Secretary of the Interior Lane's bill regarding the settlement of former soldiers and sailors on the land. The extension of the Soldiers and Sailors Insurance act to the civilian population was demanded in a resolution which was adopted.

SAYS U. S. CAN HOLD AUSTRALIAN TRADE

H. Y. Braddon, Retiring Commissioner, Thinks Volume of War Commerce Will Go On.

THINKS CANAL WILL ASSIST

Predicts Ships from Atlantic Ports Will Make Profitable Trips for Many Commodities.

Trade between Australia and the United States bears promise of large growth, according to Henry Y. Braddon, Commissioner for Australia, who announced yesterday that he was leaving for England tomorrow. Mark Sheldon, the new Commissioner, probably will arrive here early in August. Mr. Braddon will return home after a short visit in England.

Mr. Braddon said that the increase was due partly to Australia's desire to have Germany's place in her markets taken by allied traders. Owing to the exclusion of other exporters, he said, Australia had been to some extent dependent upon one or two countries for certain articles. To that extent some of the recent America-Australia trade might be regarded as war business, he added, but might become permanent.

He pointed out also that the possibilities of trade through the Panama Canal from eastern American ports, or from New Orleans, as representing the Mississippi Basin, had not been fully tested. Referring to the possibilities offered by Australian markets to American purchasers, Mr. Braddon said:

"At the moment the Australian export trade is, to some extent, subject to Government purchases, as, for instance, wool and wheat, &c., but presently these special conditions, due to the war, will, no doubt, be lifted. As regards wool, American wool buyers in recent years have been unable to get into the Australian market for that product because the country's entire output had been sold to the British Government until July, 1920.

"After that date I hope that American buyers will figure as big bidders in the four or five principal Australian selling markets. If duties on the import of wool in this country should be reimposed, I hope that such will be on a reasonable ad valorem scale, rather than the old specific duties, as the latter hampered American purchases of Australian wools, except for a few of the finer grades."

The Commissioner added that Australia could offer many articles for purchase by Americans, such as meats, hides, skins, tallows, furniture, timber, and wheat. Mr. Braddon also called attention to the activities of the Commonwealth in shipbuilding.

"The Australian Government, about the middle of June, 1917, announced its policy of embarking on the industry of constructing steel and wooden ships in Australia," he said. "The first part of the program provided for the building in Government yards of six steel vessels of 5,500 tons deadweight capacity each. Three of these vessels have already been launched, while the other three are still in construction. The engines, of 2,500-horse power, were constructed in Australia. Some of the plates and most of the deck equipment were manufactured there.

"Contracts have also been let for the building of eight additional vessels of 8,000 tons capacity. For the most part everything except the plates will be obtained in Australia. Contracts were also let, at the time I left Australia, for the construction of twenty-four wooden vessels. I understand that two of these contracts have since been cancelled and probably the others will be also.

"An expert engaged in England for the handling of the Commonwealth shipbuilding, and who arrived in Australia in December, 1917, is reported to have said that if labor would give a fair output and wages were not increased materially, Australia would be able to compete as a shipbuilder with all countries, except Great Britain."

Mr. Braddon was the guest of the Circumnavigators' Club at a dinner at the Commodore last night. The speaker was Colonel Thomas B. Felder and the toastmaster was Newton Gilbert, President of the club.

In response to words of praise for Australia, Mr. Bradden said that he would always remember the nine months that he spent in this country. He said that the Australians who fought alongside the Americans could never find words to express their regard for their American comrades.

WILKINS AIDS A WITNESS.

MINEOLA, L. I., June 19.—District Attorney Charles R. Weeks introduced testimony today at the trial of Dr. Walter Keene Wilkins, of Long Beach, for the murder of his wife, to prove that the hammer with which the woman was slain was wrapped in a piece of torn newspaper, the other sections of which were found in the Wilkins house.

The newspaper was the Lynbrook Era. A detective testified that he had found a part of the torn paper in the pocket of a pair of trousers at the Wilkins home.

The defendant, who disappeared in March when suspicion was first directed toward him and returned to give himself up after a trip to Baltimore, aided one of the witnesses for the prosecution who hesitated about identifying him today. The witness was Louis Baumgarten, clerk in the Hotel Joyce at Baltimore, where Dr. Wilkins registered under an assumed name. Baumgarten identified the name "R. C. Howe, Petersburg, W. Va.," as having been signed on the register in his presence on March 14.

"Yes, there is some resemblance."

"There is a strong resemblance."

"He's perfectly right," spoke up Dr. Wilkins.

Charles Klein, a furnace tender of Long Beach, was called to upset the contention of the defense that flashing lights about the Wilkins premises on the night of the murder indicated that burglars were there, and that they killed the woman, as Dr. Wilkins asserted. Klein said that he always used a flash-night in tending furnaces, and that he had used one at the Wilkins home at about 9:20 o'clock on the night of the murder when he put coal in the furnace.

Detective Carman Plant told of a conversation before the arrest, at which Dr. Wilkins asserted that he was astonished to find that people suspected him of the murder, and that it was clear that he was innocent, because he had no motive. Dr. Wilkins went on, according to Plant, to say that he would be better off if his wife had lived, because he had an income from taking charge of her affairs, whereas he would get nothing by her death. According to Plant, Dr. Wilkins said that he thought his wife left no will, because she had said that it was her intention to follow the example of her brother and leave her estate to be disposed of by courts.

"Gyp for Short," a play by Charles Bradley, has been accepted for production by a syndicate formed by the American Theatrical Exchange, Inc., and will be seen here next season. It will be produced out of town about Sept. 20.

MARILYNN MILLER MARRIED.

"Follies" Actress Secretly Wed to Frank Carter, Actor, May 24.

It became known yesterday that Marilynn Miller of the Ziegfeld "Follies" was secretly married on May 24 to Frank Carter, an actor and dancer, who has appeared in New York in a number of musical productions. The ceremony was performed at the Church of the Ascension, and the couple have since been living at the Idaho apartments, 860 Seventh Avenue.

Miss Miller has been appearing before New York audiences for a number of years, but has come to the fore in the last two editions of the "Follies." She had previously been seen in a number of Winter Garden shows, and it was while appearing with Clifton Crawford in "Fancy Free" last season that she was engaged for the "Follies." In the 1918 Follies, which opened at the New Amsterdam Theatre last May night she has the leading role.

Mr. Carter has also appeared in several Winter Garden shows, and with Miss Miller was a member of the "Follies" company last season.

"WHY I AM GOING TO EXCHANGE MY PIANO FOR A DUO-ART PIANOLA PIANO"

"MY daughter is studying and plays very well—but I believe she will enjoy her musical study more and play still better under the inspiration that will come from hearing the Duo-Art's perfect reproduction of the playing of such masters as Paderewski, Hofmann and Ganz, in her own home.

"I find that I can sit down at the piano myself and, using the instrument as a Pianola, play any and all of my favorite music with my own expression and taste—although I cannot play a note by hand.

"The Duo-Art is a fine piano too, among the very finest the music industry offers, and the Aeolian Company will make me a liberal exchange offer on my present piano. The balance I am to pay in convenient monthly installments."

Prices from $975.

You are invited to hear this wonderful instrument. Demonstrations at any time convenient to you, without obligation.

TODAY there is a great home buying and home building movement in the Boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens. It deserves to be encouraged. Lending money on mortgages will do this.

WE have loaned $16,000,000 on mortgages since January first and are prepared to lend more as fast as investors take these mortgages off our hands.

They are good mortgages, all of them guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company to net 5% to the investor.

We have sold $692,000,000 of such mortgages and no investor has ever lost a single penny. No other investment offered to the public has any such record.

We have on hand a number of small mortgages as shown below to meet the usual July first demand from investors.

United States.

The commission announces that as it is found that the needs of the service do not require the holding of the following examinations on the dates indicated, for which they are scheduled, such examinations will not be held on those dates: Statistical clerk, Aug. 20; coder, Aug. 6, Sept. 3, and Oct. 8; veterinarian and lay inspector, July 23, Aug. 20, and Sept. 17. These examinations will, however, be held on the dates indicated below, for which they are also scheduled. If the needs of the service require them to be held after these dates they will be duly announced: Statistical clerk, July 23; coder, July 9.

The commission announces that both men and women will be admitted to the examination for clerk, scheduled to be held throughout the United States on July 19 for filling vacancies in the departmental service at Washington, D. C. The provision that women would not be admitted to this examination has been rescinded. Instead of the groups of eligibles provided for, eligibles will be placed in the following groups:

Those who have been graduated from a college or university of recognized standing.

Those who have graduated from a standard high school or completed a course of study equivalent to that required for such graduation and who have had one year's business experience.

Education Notes.

The Junior Public School Society of 108 Ludlow Street asked the Board of Education to grant it the use of P. S. 4, Manhattan, on Sunday, June 29, for its graduation exercises, an admission fee of 10 cents to be charged, and the exercises to be in Yiddish.

The Board recently adopted a resolution that all exercises in public schools should be in the English language. Permission was granted for the use of P. S. 4, provided that the exercises be held in English and that no admission fee be charged.

The Board of Superintendents, at the next meeting, will probably nominate a successor to William P. Kurtz, as principal of P. S. 158. Mr. Kurtz was recently transferred to P. S. 64 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of its principal. There was a prevocational department in P. S. 158, which was not well adapted for that branch of the school service. The pre-vocational department has therefore been transferred to P. S. 64. There are a number of candidates for the principalship of P. S. 158, including some women teachers.

A successor to Principal Anna McNulty of P. S. 50, Third Avenue and Twentieth Street, may be nominated at the same time. Miss McNulty will be retired on July 1.

The Alumni of the New York Training School for Teachers will hold an excursion to Bear Mountain tomorrow. The trip will be made by steamer Robert Fulton, leaving Desbrosses Street at 10 A. M. Tickets may be obtained from Miss Mary Canfield, who will meet the alumni on the pier at Desbrosses Street, and aboard the steamer. On June 26 the alumni will hold a reunion in the school building at 8:30 P. M., immediately after the graduation exercises. All graduates are invited to attend. The next business meeting of the Alumni Association will be held on October 8.

The tenth session of the Summer High School for Girls will open on July 7 at Washington Irving High School. Daily sessions will be held from 9 to 1, each student attending for recitation or laboratory work only. There will be no study periods. Courses in all academic and commercial subjects will be offered. Students who take a course to cancel a failure or remove a condition must attend one hour each day. Those who take advanced work in order to shorten their high school course must attend two hours each day. At the close of the eight weeks' sessions, certificates of attendance and scholarship will be awarded. A certificate of A and B grades will be accepted at all city high schools next September. Students who have earned these ratings will not be required to take examinations. Their failure or conditions will be cancelled or they will be allowed to skip a grade, according to the courses they have taken. An added feature will be the admission of elementary school graduates who wish to begin their high school work. They may take one or two subjects—elementary bookkeeping, commercial English, academic English, Latin, French, Spanish, algebra, stenography, typewriting, office practice. July 7, 8:30 A. M. is the time for registration, but in order to give those who can apply earlier a choice of hours and classes the director will meet the candidates at 4:30 in the auditorium of the high school. Classes will be limited to thirty.

The semi-annual commencement of Washington Irving High School will be held in the school auditorium on June 24, at 8:15 P. M. The program includes: Salute to the flag, "America," dramatic allegory, "Americanization"; song, "What Makes a Nation"; award of diplomas, response from class—Henrietta Miller, and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Will for Probate.

ALTSHELER, JOSEPH A., one of the editors of The New York World, leaves the income from his estate to his wife, Sallie B. Altsheler, and his son, Sydney B. Altsheler, equally. The will provides that when the son attains the age of 50 years he shall receive one-half of the principal and on his mother's death he is to receive the whole of the estate. He left $1,500 to his sister, Elizabeth Altsheler, but in a codicil written on a notehead of The New York World he revokes this provision, giving as a reason that his sister recently inherited a large sum of money from the estate of their brother, David Altsheler, sufficient to keep her in comfort for the rest of her life, but as this codicil was not witnessed it is of no effect.

ALLEN'S FOOT=EASE

The Antiseptic Powder. Shake it in your Shoes, Use it in your Foot-Bath

Use it in the Morning

And walk all day in comfort. At night, sprinkle it in the foot-bath, and soak and rub the feet. It freshens the feet, and takes the Friction from the Shoe.

IN PEACE AND WAR

For over 25 years Allen's Foot-Ease has been the STANDARD REMEDY for hot, swollen, smarting, tender, tired, perspiring, aching feet, corns, bunions, blisters and callouses. Nothing gives such relief.

Wherever men drill for military service they find the frequent use of Allen's Foot-Ease increases their efficiency and insures needed physical comfort. Over 1,500,000 lbs. of Powder for the Feet were used by the United States Army and Navy during 1918.

Sold by Drug and Department stores everywhere.

Tildsley Says School Test Was to Learn What Pupils Knew of the World War.

TO CORRECT WRONG VIEWS

Questions Used in Elementary Schools, It Is Said, Were Not the Same in All Districts.

A letter to the Principals of high schools from Associate Superintendent John L. Tildsley, in regard to questions to pupils about Bolshevism, was sent out yesterday by City Superintendent Ettinger. It will be recalled that the instructions to Principals on this subject included the following paragraph:

We are especially interested in the answers to Question 1 on Bolshevism. Ask the teachers to call the Principal's attention to any papers which show an especially intimate knowledge of this subject, those particularly which indicate that the pupils have been submitted to systematic training along this line. We are desirous of finding out to what extent Bolshevist ideas have been impressed upon the students of our high schools.

Mr. Tildsley's letter is as follows:

June 19, 1919.

To Principals of High Schools:

Ladies and Gentlemen—In response to certain inquiries made with reference to the recent test in war facts, Superintendent Ettinger wishes me to assure you and your teachers that the purpose of these questions was to find out what pupils knew about important facts relating to the world war rather than what they thought about Bolshevism. There is no belief on his part, nor on the part of any other official of the Board of Education, that any teachers alive to their obligations have been teaching with approval the principles underlying Bolshevism. On the contrary, the possession of a certain type of knowledge by pupils would simply prove that a limited number of pupils are in contact with Bolshevism in places and through activities remote from the school system.

The degree of ignorance or wrongful attitude disclosed will serve to fix the objective, and also measure the strength of our Americanization drive during the Fall term.

No pupil will be penalized in any way because of answers to the questions put. On the contrary, the disclosure of a wrong point of view should insure every pupil receiving such instruction as may be necessary.

Moreover, with reference to teachers, the data will be used only to indicate the measure of the teachers' opportunity and obligation to assist pupils with reference to facts and problems of such vital importance.

Between now and the closing session, please make use of every opportunity to supplement the pupils' knowledge with reference to the material used in the test.

Very truly yours,

JOHN L. TILDSLEY,
Associate Superintendent.

The questions put to the pupils in the elementary schools yesterday were prepared, under instruction of Dr. Ettinger, by the twenty-five district superintendents, after consultation with the school principals in their respective districts. In each district, therefore, the questions differed more or less from those in the other districts. In some districts, it was said, where the pupils in the schools were not suspected of any leaning toward Bolshevism the questions were not the same as in other districts where radicalism to a greater or lesser extent is supposed to exist. It was believed that the answers to the queries in some of these alleged radical districts would prove interesting.

Principal Paul of the De Witt Clinton High School was asked yesterday if any pupil in the graduation class on Thursday evening next would be deprived of his graduation diploma. This is the school where a member of the graduation class is said to have been talking free love, as he did at Morris High School, from which he was transferred to De Witt Clinton. Dr. Paul said that he had taken no action as yet in the matter. It was for Dr. Tildsley to decide, he said, and if he instructed Dr. Paul not to give the diploma to any pupil his wish in the matter would be carried out.

Teachers' Union Protests.

A protest meeting against the examination on war facts recently given to high school students was held last night by the Teachers' Union at the Civic Club, 14 West Twelfth Street. Resolutions were adopted and passed by the members of the union protesting against the character of the examination of the Great War and the inclusion of Question 1, "What is Bolshevism," and against the manner of conducting it.

The resolutions, eight in number, state that under the guise of testing information it represents the introduction of political propaganda into the schools, and that it appears to spy upon teachers, pupils, and the homes of the pupils. The resolutions state that the procedure is insulting, undignified, and unprofessional, inasmuch as it requires teachers to grade papers on the basis of officially prescribed answers that are not scientific and authentic.

It was announced at the meeting that these resolutions will be presented to the Board of Education. Henry R. Linville, President of the union, presided at the meeting.

Abraham Lefkowitz, a teacher in history in the DeWitt Clinton High School, said that the questions were in no way historical, but were given as a means of obtaining information.

SWANN DEFENDS MANCUSO.

District Attorney Swann made a personal investigation yesterday and then defended Magistrate Francis X. Mancuso in the conviction of Lillian Cohen, a saleswoman of 159 South Second Street, Brooklyn, and Sallie Kobin of 214 Henry Street, Manhattan, employed as a stenographer in the Army Quartermaster's Corps, who said they had been arrested without cause at Broadway and Forty-third Street on March 4 and charged with disorderly conduct by Detective John J. Gunson because he saw them talking with two army Lieutenants.

"I have read the record of the trial of the two girls," Mr. Swann said. "I am convinced that Magistrate Mancuso could have made, on the testimony according to the record, no other decision than he gave, and I believe that Magistrate Mancuso has been unjustly and harshly criticised. There was nothing whatever to indicate perjury, and consequently the Magistrate could make no other decision than he did. Miss Luther, the probation officer who had charge of the girls, has told me that nothing developed to warrant any other verdict than that made by the Magistrate."

MAY FIX PRICE FOR WHEAT.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 19.—There is a fair prospect of a minimum price for wheat this year being fixed by the Canadian Government.

A conference on the handling, financing, and marketing of the crop has been held here since yesterday. The suggestion is that a minimum price be prescribed for payment when the wheat is delivered to the elevator, and that when the final sale is made the farmers should get whatever extra amount may be coming to them.

Another proposal is that a board be created to go into the whole subject, and particularly to make arrangements to secure markets for the season's crops.

The conference will report to the Government on the subject.

Buyers from All Parts.

During the last month, according to a report from the jewelry and silverware section of the Bush Terminal Sales Building, buying for export to the four quarters of the globe has shown up unusually well. Sales have been made with representatives of firms in Cape Town, South Africa; Auckland and Christ Church, New Zealand; Batavia, Java; Patras, Greece; Montreal, Toronto, and Winnipeg, Canada; Calcutta, India, and from various cities in South America and the West Indies. One of the local buyers was especially interested in finding a reproduction of silver to match period furniture.

Action Against Returns.

The manufacturers of women's neckwear have decided that united action through their association is about the only thing that will bring relief from the unjustifiable returns which flood the trade when retail buying stops on a certain article. Last season one of the most popular styles was ordered in heavy quantities by the retailers. Then there was a sudden switch in the retail demand, orders were canceled and large stocks were shipped back to the manufacturers with the usual flimsy excuses. When the manufacturers compared notes on these returns it was found that the same stores were responsible in each case.

Gray Goods Trading Improves.

More snap to trading was evident in the local gray goods market yesterday than for quite a while. First hands were again in the market as sellers and let out much of the goods that were disposed of. They sold 38½-inch 64-60s in a large way during the morning at 15¾ cents, for delivery in July and August, and in the afternoon were firm in their demands for 15¾ cents. Sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made at 18, 18¼, and 18½ cents during the day, the deliveries in some instances running to the end of the year. At the close 18½ cents was the best that could be done for any shipment. A big business in 38½-inch 60-48s was reported early in the day at 13¼ cents for July-August delivery, but later these goods could not be had under 13½ cents. Among the sheetings business of the day were sales of 40-square four-yards at 15¾ cents and 5.50s at 12½ cents.

FLIGHT TO PACIFIC TO AID RECRUITING

TO 'BOMB' WITH LITERATURE

Balloon Detachment Also Will Attempt to Enlist Men for Service on Rhine.

The maintenance of a special Air Service detachment to stimulate recruiting has been approved by Secretary of War Baker, according to an announcement made yesterday at the recruiting headquarters at 461 Eighth Avenue. As a further stimulus in the campaign to enlist 50,000 recruits for service in France and on the Rhine the War Department has authorized recruiting officers to allow applicants to make their own choice of training camps or stations.

The date of the flight to aid recruiting has not been announced. The detachment is to consist of ten officers and thirty-six men, who will go with the planes as they fly to the Pacific Coast. They will establish camp, maintain headquarters and operate a small flying field. Aerial mail routes also will be mapped out.

The route chosen is from New York, via Uniontown and Pittsburgh, to Indianapolis and St. Louis, and thence to Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul. From St. Paul the course will be through the Dakotas, Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon to Seattle.

The equipment of the expedition will consist of a photographic lorry and trailer complete, which will be able to develop photographs throughout the trip; a machine shop truck and trailer with necessary machinery to keep the airplanes in repair, and several propaganda balloons with the proper personnel to stimulate interest in the lighter-than-air branch of the Air Service. The mechanical personnel will be competent to effect efficient trade-testing of recruits.

Major C. B. Howard of the Recruiting Service said yesterday that the War Department had authorized recruiting officers to accept applicants for enlistment in any organization, camp, post, or station within 500 miles of the main station through which application for enlistment is made.

Major Howard said that the Twenty-first Regiment, now stationed in Alaska, needed recruits immediately, and that special authority had been given by the Adjutant General to accept qualified applicants for infantry service for assignment to the Twenty-first.

"The enlistment must be for three years," he said. "Accepted applicants will be sent to Vancouver Barracks without delay. This is an opportunity for young men to join one of the old fighting regiments of the army. The Twenty-first had hard service in the Indian wars, the Spanish-American war, and the Philippine campaign."

494 Enlisted Yesterday.

The number of recruits accepted on Wednesday was 494 throughout the country, fifty-one having joined in this city. The three days of the campaign already have brought in 1,449 soldiers.

Commenting on the fact that only 18 per cent. of the applicants in this city were accepted, Captain Patterson said that many of the men were rejected on account of their eyes or heart trouble. In the east side recruiting district the number of applicants who were accepted was especially low.

Irving J. Bogoff, an assistant public accountant, told officers yesterday he wished to enlist so that he could get physical training. He said that his pay was good, but he wanted to escape from the office to which he had been confined for eight or nine hours every day. He is a college graduate.

A civil engineer can make more on one job than a chauffeur can in ten years," Louis Block, 19, of Monroe, N. Y., told officers yesterday when he applied for enlistment in the Engineer Corps. Albert Troge, 19, of West 116th Street, who has been a shipping clerk, quit his job to enlist in the Engineers. He wants to be a land surveyor. Edward J. Duffy, 40, who has been a plumber all his life, said that drainage engineering appealed to him, and he signed up for a three-year course in the Engineer Corps.

Ralph Lyons, 29, who has followed the sea and was recently employed as a laundry-clerk at $20 a week, enlisted for the second time. He was in the 30th Engineers from Aug. 29, 1917, to May 9, 1919, and reached the grade of Sergeant. He said he had found that the army was the best place for him.

Demands Names of Schirmer.

Gustav Schirmer, music publisher, was directed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Donnelly to file in five days the names of rich men under whose protection he alleges Miss Grace Fisher, musical comedy star, lived. Miss Fisher is suing Schirmer for $250,000 damages for breach of promise, and in his answer the defendant alleged that the suit should be dismissed because he paid Miss Fisher $1,000 "to purchase peace and prevent annoyance and scandal." He alleges he paid the money Feb. 24, 1917, the day he is alleged to have promised to marry the plaintiff.

REPORTS ARMY STOCKS WANTONLY DESTROYED

Sergt. Malcolm Tells House Committee He Saw Government Property Burned in France.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Congressional investigation of war-time expenditures of the War Department was opened today with Sergeant Charles B. Malcolm of Company L, 23d Engineers, who has just returned from France, testifying that he had seen large quantities of Government property, old and new, wantonly destroyed by fire.

"The only apparent explanation for burning this property," declared Malcolm, "was that the salvage officer did not care to sort the equipment."

Malcolm's testimony was given before the Foreign Expenditures Sub-Committee of the Special House Committee of Fifteen. The full committee decided today to begin its hearings next Monday with Brigadier Gen. Lord, Director of Finance in the War Department, as the first witness.

The fire was started last March and burned for about a month, Malcolm said, adding that in the last week of the month he personally saw about 700 pairs of new breeches, 500 rifles in good condition, 25 unopened boxes of small arms ammunition, 800 pairs of old and new rubber boots, 200 leather holsters, and 10 carloads of hay destroyed.

Malcolm said he and members of his squad reported the fire, which was on a road midway between Souilly and Ippecourt, to Captain W. L. Clark, commanding the 4th Battalion of the 23d Engineers.

"It stopped shortly after we made the report."

In concluding his testimony Malcolm presented a copy of the report which he said was addressed by him and four privates of his squad to Captain Clark, which said in part:

"During the past week, from March 24 to March 28, Private Charles W. Seymour, having had charge of road work at this point, has seen from five to ten trucks each day, backed into the edge of the fire at this point, and the goods with which they were loaded thrown into the fire. The other men, (Privates Thomas C. Johnson, L. A. Neuland, and W. T. Gardner,) have witnessed at various times this wholesale destruction of property. This destruction by fire has been going on for about a month."

Malcolm, whose home is in Perryman, Maryland, said he was employed by the Interstate Commerce Commission before his enlistment, and would return to work for the Commission after his discharge from the army tomorrow.

STRIKE PAPER IN CONTEMPT

Toledo Court Orders Arrest of The New Voice Publishers.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, June 19.—Federal Judge Killits in the United States District Court this afternoon ordered District Attorney Lynch to prepare affidavits for the arrest of members of the editorial staff of The New Voice, an alleged anarchistic paper, on the charge of contempt of court.

Judge Killits declared that those in control of the paper had printed articles which tended to incite riot and were designed to obstruct the administration of justice.

The articles in question were written in reference to the injunction granted by Judge Killits against members of the Machinists' Union and other workers of the Willys-Overland Company in the present labor trouble.

Judge Killits also declared that three members of the staff of The New Voice, whom he had ordered to leave the city on Monday, had not complied with his request. He ordered their arrest on a charge of contempt of court. Agents of the Department of Justice have been ordered to bring them into court.

It was said today that more than 500 additional workers had returned to the working force of the WillysOverland Company. Additional employes at the Auto-Lite plant also were reported.

FINDS TRUSTS IN BRITAIN.

Investigators Report Shipbuilding Only Industry Not Controlled.

LONDON, June 10, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Business rings, combines, and trusts, perfected during the war, are controlling Great Britain's industries, according to the findings of a Government committee appointed by Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister of Reconstruction.

The report, which is to be made public soon, was submitted to Sir Auckland and is now under consideration by the Government. The committee does not suggest what the Government's attitude toward trusts should be, the only proposal made in the report for dealing with the situation being that the Board of Trade should set up a tribunal to investigate cases of abuse caused by combines, and report to the President of that body.

How to deal with huge trade combinations is one of the big problems of the near future, it is said in Government circles. Almost every big industry in the country, with the exception of shipbuilding, is said to be controlled by a combine or ring.

BUSINESS WORLD

Matching Up Colors.

Some of the retail men's furnishing goods stores seem bent upon matching up colors on very nearly everything they carry in stock. The idea, as explained by a wholesale representative, is that the hat band must match the scarf, the scarf must harmonize with the shirt, the shirt with the belt, and the belt with the hosiery. This wholesaler expects the color trend to take in underwear in the near future. One of the reasons for this matching is ascribed to the desire for color harmony in dress, but another reason that the retailer has to offer is that if a store carries the same color through several different lines there is an opportunity to make more than one sale.

Will Extend Jaeger's Business.

With the sale of the Dr. Jaeger's Sanitary Woolen System Company to H. P. and M. H. Friedman of the Princely Knitting Mills, preparations are being made now to extend the business throughout the country, both in distributing to new agencies as well as opening new retail stores in addition to those now operated. Max Hirschbach, who has been with the Jaeger Company since its foundation in this country in 1886, will remain as Vice President, and in addition all the old staff has been retained by the new owners. The purchase included all trademarks and patents.

Ask Bids on Linen Thread.

The Boston District Ordnance Office, 19 Portland Street, Boston, has sent out requests for bids on 14,164 pounds of 25-2 ply gray linen thread, which was to be used for weaving machine gun belts. The thread is wound on tubes and packed in wooden cases having a total gross weight of 16,582 pounds. The material is located at the Mill Woven Cotton Belt Company, 154 Fremont Street, Worcester, Mass., and may be inspected there. The price is to be quoted on the entire lot free on board Worcester. A certified check for 10 per cent. of the amount should accompany the bid, which must be in not later than June 24. The check is to be made payable to Philip B. Campbell, Disbursing Officer.

Cassowary Has Come Back.

Not so very long ago the question was raised in local millinery circles as to whether cassowary plumage could come back as a trimming for women's hats. At that time it was stated that, while its importation had been prohibited for several years, there was enough available in this country to enable the trade to go ahead if it wanted to use it. The question has been answered by some of the concerns here that make model hats, which are showing them trimmed with cassowary in the natural hue. It is used on all-velvet models for early Fall wear. This plumage is branched somewhat like paradise, and it is regarded as an attractive trimming.

Spring Hosiery to Cost More.

While it is a little early to forecast much in regard to the Spring, 1920, hosiery situation, the impression prevails quite generally that its opening will be attended by prices even higher than those now asked. A number of buyers, among them many retailers, are said to be looking into next year, but so far as known nothing definite in that direction has yet been accomplished. Prices for next Spring are expected to show material advances in the case of the finer silk hose. This will be due to the higher production costs, in which the price of raw silk will be a prominent factor, as well as to the low supply and demand. With the basic grade of Japanese raw silk now more than $2 a pound higher than at this time last year, and still advancing, the manufacturers are facing their own problems. As for supply, it is said that not much before Fall, 1920, will it begin to catch up appreciably with the demand, and then only because of increased manufacturing and import facilities.

Raw Silk Prices Mounting.

The Yokohama raw silk market has advanced a full hundred yen, $50, a picul in the last week, putting Sinshiu No. 1 at the record figure of 2,080 yen. The advance was due to continued active trading there, principally for American consumption. Rumors are current that the Spring crops in Japan have been seriously reduced, but owing to the present state of the cable lines, it is difficult to get accurate information on that point. The Canton market is very firm, with the high silver exchange adding to the lay-down costs and the reelers are refusing to sell in anticipation of still higher prices. At Shanghai the situation is somewhat similar. Lyons reports an improved demand, with stocks short. From Milan comes word of active buying by Swiss interests at prices which have reached the high protective levels set some time ago by the Italian Government. The local market continues to rise, and the best Japanese silks are now over the $10-a-pound mark. The demand is increasing as prices rise, and deliveries to the end of the year are asked for.

PLEAD FOR WATER TRAFFIC.

Long and Short Haul Clause Discussed Before Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Hearings on legislation proposing rigid enforcement of the long and short haul clause of the Interstate Commerce act were completed today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Representatives of water carriers and of intermountain territory appeared in support of the measure, and Lincoln Green, Vice President of the Southern Railroad Company, in opposition.

"If Congress desires to have water competition in transportation," said Frank Lyons, representing the Luckenbach and American-Hawaiian Steamship Companies, "it must lay down a policy which will allow the carriers to exist. Under the present law, whenever water competition appears, railroads can go to the Commerce Commission and secure power to make rates which eliminate it."

J. B. Campbell, appearing for Spokane shippers and the Utility Commissions of Montana, Nevada, and Wyoming, asserted that the "law as it now stands is a crime."

"If you will look carefully into the interest of every witness who has appeared here opposing this legislation," he said, "you will find that he speaks for those who benefit from discriminations in rates as they are."

"There is no vice in departures from the long and short haul rule," Mr. Green said, closing the hearing, "so long as the intermediate rates are reasonable and the lower rate on the long hauls yield some profit for the carriers."

NEW BLACK SEA SERVICE.

Shipping Board Will Begin Sailings from New York This Month.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The approaching opening of a cargo steamship service between New York and Constantinople and Black Sea ports was announced today by the Shipping Board. The steamship Huachuca, of 7,800 deadweight tons, is booked for sailing this month and will be followed by the steamship Polybius, of 10,000 deadweight tons, in July.

Present plans contemplate at least one sailing a month, and the service will be developed as rapidly as trade demands justify the allocation of additional vessels. The regular ports of call will be Smyrna, Constantinople, Varna and Constanta, with the terminus at Odessa.

Eventually, the board's announcement said, vessels of 9,000 or greater deadweight tonnage, capable of maintaining a speed of eleven knots, would be utilized, furnishing the best direct service between American ports and the Black Sea under any flag.

New Fall Dresses Elaborate.

Buyers who have come to this city this week to attend the initial showings of Fall dresses say that not for some time, if ever before, have the offerings been more elaborate in character or in the range of fabrics used. Duvetyn and tricolette appear to top the list of popular cloths, and in some instances the use of the two in the same garment is shown. Other fabrics that appear to be well up in the running for the new season are tricotines, velours, serges, Paulettes, Poiret twills, &c. The silk dresses make use of satins, charmeuse, Georgette crepe, crepe meteor, taffetas, and similar cloths. Dresses of novel velvets are also included in the showings. While, like the poor, navy blue is always in evidence, the color vogue for the coming season tends strongly toward blacks and browns.

Army to Sell Great Cloth Supply.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The War Department, through its sales organization, is preparing to sell in the condition in which it was prepared for military use, 17,000,000 yards of cartridge cloth, which can be processed and offered to the public as silk fabric suitable for dress goods, suitings, tapestries, and other uses requiring a silk texture of heavy warp.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

There was not a great deal of consolation for those who have been following the upward side in the way yesterday's stock market acted. It opened firm, and for an hour or so it was fairly buoyant, with some of the popular industrial issues scoring good gains. But during the middle of the session the market became irregular, with many cross movements, and in the last hour it was heavy, and not a few of the stocks which had attracted attention because of their early strength fell to the low prices of the day at the close, prices which represented net losses on the day of a substantial fraction to more than a point.

This heaviness came without any apparent reason and is difficult to explain. Neither in the news budget nor in the action of the money market—recently a prime factor—was there justification for the decline at the close, for the news, such as it was, was mostly favorable and the money market gave its best performance of the week, opening and renewing at 6 per cent. and then easing to 5 per cent. in the late afternoon. And it could hardly be said that the technical position of the market warranted any downward movement, because any overbought condition which may have obtained last week surely should have been corrected by the break on Monday.

As a matter of fact, it is entirely likely that the trading element, both on the exchange and in the offices, has become somewhat more cautious than it was a week ago. Having had a rather unhappy experience it is not apt, for the time being at least, to lay itself open to another upheaval, especially when it is considered that there is more than a mere chance of another flurry in the money market next week, when the end of the month needs begin to be felt. Under these circumstances, it is natural to look for speedy profit-taking on the rallies, and as the market went up well on Wednesday and started well yesterday, realizing sales yesterday afternoon were quite in order. Declines brought about by such causes are nothing for the pronounced bull to worry over, yet in times like these even small and short-lived declines are disconcerting to many of the operators who never see any reason for even fractional downward reactions.

Publication of the May foreign trade figures yesterday supplied the financial community with a most interesting exhibit. Exports for the month were placed at $606,000,000, some $108,500,000 below the high record exports of April and only slightly above the March exports, while about $16,000,000 below those of January. This is a logical showing, for it may be presumed that the desire of European countries to curtail their imports from the United States, a desire which played a part in prompting them to remove support from the exchanges, is beginning to be realized. The so-called "rehabilitation demand" has not begun to evince itself, and probably will not for some little time, and until it does, which is to say until badly needed goods begin to move across the Atlantic as part of the program which international bankers are now working on, there probably will be no new high records made for the export of American merchandise.

The imports for May were the highest on record, totaling $329,000,000, $56,000,000 above those of the previous month and slightly higher than the former record made in May of last year. As the United States has been receiving the bulk of its imports from places other than Europe of late, this expansion can hardly reflect any great quickening in European business, but the fact that exports were falling off while imports were increasing may possibly furnish one reason why the European exchanges have firmed after their severe declines last month.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Irregular.

After a firm opening and rather buoyant trading for a time during the early morning, yesterday's market became somewhat dull in the early afternoon, and the recessions of the last hour particularly wiped out substantial gains in many issues. While the advance was under way brokers were inclined to the belief that the market was acting better than for some time, judged from conservative standards. There was less of the wild movement, even in the most speculative issues, and this was considered a favorable sign in view of the warning against rampant speculation put out recently by the Federal Reserve Board. The sagging tendency in the last hour was not so pronounced as to invite the putting out of extensive new short lines, and the decline was as orderly as had been the advance without confidence being shaken to any noticeable degree. Reports indicate that there is at present a rather large short interest compared to that which existed a few weeks ago. Adopting the long side is not now attended with as much certainty of success as when the market was completely out of hand before bullish enthusiasm. The division of sentiment is more pronounced, which makes for a better market condition.

Needs of the Carriers.

It is almost certain that the demands of the railroads for steel are actually far in excess of the orders that are being placed. Since the signing of the armistice the Railroad Administration has made only relatively small purchases, the largest item being 200,000 tons of steel rails. The acrimonious situation which exists between the steel manufacturers and the Railroad Administration over steel prices is probably one of the reasons for withholding railroad business. It stands to reason, however, that eventually the buying demand which is being held up will, from sheer necessity, have to assert itself, and when this comes to pass prices may be even higher than at present.

Texas & Pacific Gains.

Texas & Pacific moved up to a new high at 58 yesterday, with a reaction toward the close. This stock has been advanced from the low twenties on the fact of the close association of the railroad with the development of the oil properties in Texas and also because the railroad itself has undertaken drilling operations along the right of way as well as on other nearby land. The drilling operations started not long ago and yesterday the advance appeared to be predicated on the report that the first well put down was in oil bearing sand. At all events there was more spirited bidding for the shares than for some time.

Steel Prices.

Reports were in circulation yesterday that steel prices would be advanced on July 1. Little account seemed to be taken, in the spreading of such rumors, that this statement imputed concerted action in the matter of prices to the steel companies. As a matter of fact steel prices will, in all probability advance—the leaders in the industry have said that they would—but the fixing of a certain day for this to be undertaken implies a lack of good judgment to the heads of steel companies which it is certain cannot exist. There is no desire to flirt with the provisions of the Sherman law. Already there have been some increases by individual companies and the expectation is that higher prices will rule for all steel products before the Summer is over.

Food Stocks in Demand.

The popularity of the food stocks with the speculative public has been evidenced for a considerable time and many of them have made gains, which in their aggregate are on a par with those in some of the more sensational issues. The advance in the case of the food shares has, however, been more orderly. Yesterday Loose-Wiles and Corn Products were features, both touching a new high for all time. Each of these companies has been tried out under trade conditions. The same, however, cannot be said for some of the newer companies in the food products field and until a year has passed earnings will be largely a matter of speculation. Some of the most recent converts to the food lines are those companies which were not long ago engaged in the manufacture of alcoholic products.

While trading in the stock market is still running at the rate of more than 1,000,000 shares a day, the total turnover yesterday of 1,222,475 shares was the smallest since May 22, when total sales amounted to 1,213,490 shares. This shows that the present bull market has been running at well over 1,200,000 shares for more than two months, exclusive of Saturdays and holidays. It was also evident in yesterday's trading that the activity was more condensed than it has been for some time. There was a time when the number of issues traded in each five-hour session was more than 300, but this number has gradually decreased. Yesterday was the forty-third consecutive million-share day since the break in April, which is within one session of the previous record.

Paying Back $775,000,000.

While it has been several days since the Director General of Railroads intimated that the carriers would have to pay back to the sources from which the money was obtained some $775,000,000, advanced in the period of Federal control, this statement has not been forgotten by railroad operators and bankers. It is understood that the roads assumed, when the advances were made, that they would be funded by the Government over a fair period of years, and while no public statement has been made, it is also understood that most bankers feel that such repayment would be a physical impossibility.

Railroad Shares Ease Off.

The railroad shares as a group were inclined to be soft in yesterday's trading, with the turnover comparatively small and interest lacking, except in the case of some of the specialties. In fact, it seemed as if the old-line active issues were reverting to their dullness of the fore part of the current year. Reading was one of the standard issues which showed signs of activity, and Southern Pacific, which has led the high-priced rails for some weeks, lost more than a point. New York Central was very quiet, New Haven moved slowly, and Atchison sold off fractionally on scarcely more than a thousand-share turnover.

Lower Ocean Rates Acceptable.

The announcement by the United States Shipping Board of a further reduction in ocean freight rates was received in the quarters where the new rates will apply with considerable satisfaction. In other shipping quarters there was some criticism of the announcement, as there has been a growing feeling that the board should not touch the rate question. This has been suggested by many shipowners as one of the conditions which the Government ought to eliminate in framing its future shipping policy. Some of the shipowners have already suggested that the law of supply and demand should be permitted to rule in this instance.

WOOLLEY OPPOSES RETURN OF ROADS

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Predicts Higher Rates Under Private Control.

FEARS BAR TO BUSINESS

Says Increased Costs Would Tend to Prevent Competition for Foreign Trade.

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., June 19.—Return of the railroads to private operation during the readjustment period would cause a necessity for increased freight rates that would mean a rise in prices in this country "the apex of which no man could predict," Robert W. Woolley, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, said in an address here today before the annual convention of the Virginia Bankers' Association.

"Great Britain and other important industrial and maritime powers are confronted with high labor costs," said Mr. Woolley. "Out of the war has come a new day in which we bid fair no longer to be handicapped by the cheap man power of competitor nations, Japan and China possibly excepted.

"Yet we hear a demand going up all over the land that a step be taken which would inevitably start in this country a rise in prices the apex of which no man could truthfully predict. I refer to the proposed return of the railroads to their owners for operation and control.

"This increase would start, because Theodore Cuyler, testifying for the railroad executives before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, and Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, quoted at Boston recently, have stated that immediately upon the resumption of private operation the carriers would have to ask for higher freight rates. The measure of this increase was not indicated. Some traffic men have expressed the view informally that it may have to be as much as 30 per cent. Uncle Sam now guarantees approximately 5½ per cent. on the book value of the carriers' securities. The executives say the railroads should be allowed to earn 9 per cent. on their capital stock.

Sees Big Increase in Costs.

"I am sure I don't know the degree or kind of increase to be asked, but in view of the fact that in the present period of readjustment there is a condition of vanishing traffic, resulting from natural causes and easily explained, which would obtain no matter what earthly mortal was directing the railroads, the Interstate Commerce Commission, after due showing of loss easily made by the carriers, would have to grant a reasonable advance in rates.

"This advance would be reflected about four-fold—that is the usual ratio—in the finished product. Then the consumer, in the shape of labor, would complain that the purchasing power of the dollar having been further reduced, he cannot longer live on the wages he is receiving. Enter in due time more strikes; then an increase in raw material because of the higher cost of labor, and, lo, we are back again to the railroads.

"These would be forced to return to the Interstate Commerce Commission because not only would their labor have justly demanded more, but the 'vicious circle' or 'mounting triangle' that started with the increase of rates so recently granted would have come to plague us in the shape of higher fuel, higher steel, higher everything, and the showing they would make of need for more revenue would be just as convincing as the first one. Our great dailies and financial weeklies would then denounce the Interstate Commerce Commission as merrily as ever for pausing while in the interest of humanity it asked the time-honored question: 'Where do we go from here?'

Fears Cut in Exports.

"Now, as bankers, you know where we would be going. If this course is to be pursued it is inevitable that we shall get the cost of production so high, no matter how much invention may increase our productivity per man—Europe is preparing to install labor-saving machinery on a scale never dreamed of before this war—that we would be estopped from competing beyond our shores once our allies, not to speak of our present enemies, are on their feet again.

"Great Britain saw the danger of this sort of thing not only when she took over her railroads for the period of the war, but when she went into business on a large scale, buying raw materials from abroad at war prices, selling them at cost or less to manufacturers, and taking care of the deficit incurred out of the national treasury. For such foresight her statesmen were praised by the very critics that are now denouncing this Government for holding the railroads and refraining from increasing rates.

"Bearing in mind that the three principal elements in the cost of the finished product are the price of the raw material, the price of labor, and the price of transportation, aren't we, by retaining control of the roads and refraining from increasing freight rates, pegging down one corner of the vicious triangle?

Wants Taxes to Make Up Deficit.

"Isn't it far sounder economics to take care of any deficit from carrier operations out of the national Treasury, whose coffers are replenished through taxes levied where they can best be borne, than to make higher and higher than ever the 'high cost of living'? Moreover, isn't it our sacred duty to stricken Europe to do all in our power to keep down the cost of everything we are to sell to her in these days of depleted storehouses, inflated values, and woefully crippled credit?

"Mr. Willard is further quoted as having stated at Boston a few weeks ago that a ton of freight buys more transportation in the United States today than ever before in the history of the country. Of course, he meant that, whereas the Interstate Commerce Commission, beginning in June, 1917, had first increased class rates in official classification territory 15 per cent., had later granted a similar increase of commodity rates, and that in June, 1918, the Director General of Railroads had granted a general increase for the whole country of 25 per cent., making, in the most favored section, the net increase only about 43¾ per cent., the prices of other commodities, such as food, cloth, steel, fuel, &c., had gone up from 75 to 300 per cent. Yet the chief criticism that the average man offers against Federal control is the increase in freight rates.

"Let me say I do not consider that in advocating continued Federal control I am at all at variance with President Wilson, who served notice upon Congress recently that he would return the carriers to private control on Jan. 1. He has twice asked, through Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Hines, for an extension of the period of control to five years following the date of the proclamation of peace, but Congress has failed to act."

COTTON MARKET IS STRONG.

Prices Open 5 to 30 Points Up and Continue High During the Day.

All the pertinent factors at work in the cotton market yesterday combined to bring about a condition of the utmost strength. The Liverpool market was very strong before our opening, going up more than twice what it was due to have advanced to bring it in line with the New York closing on Wednesday. At Liverpool, as well as in New York trade circles, there was great confidence that Germany will shortly sign the Peace Treaty and will open the way for huge exports of cotton from this country to the Central European nations. The weather map, which had been favorable for several days, reported unusual rains yesterday, which inspired good buying by local interests and the South. And Wall Street houses, which had been pretty much out of the cotton market for more than a week, returned yesterday in great force.

The market was strong at the outset, with first prices up 5 points for July and 25 to 30 points advanced for the new crop months, and from then on, practically without interruption, the market continued to advance. By midday it was up 75 to 90 points and in the early afternoon, when it looked as if a reaction were imminent, the posting of the largest export clearances reported on any day in several weeks stimulated the bull trading and sent prices up as much more as they had gained in the morning.

The extreme advances ranged from 135 to 101 points. July, the last of the old crop months, sold up to 32.40, the highest it had been since the break the last week in May. December was up to 31.72, within 10 points of the best of the season, and the others were correspondingly strong.

The exports yesterday totalled 67,911 bales, the largest in some weeks. This brings the total for the week, with today's business yet to be reported, to 124,791 bales, as against last week's record of 138,330 bales for the full week. If today produces any activity at all at the ports, and there is reason to believe it will, the market should derive real comfort from the display.

At the close the market receded slightly from the extreme high figures, but July finished 103 points up on the day and the new crop months to March were up 126 to 132 points, net.

Chemical Stocks

Efforts are now being made to secure the passage of legislation looking to the protection of American-made chemicals and dyestuffs. A special Tariff Commission appointed by the President has recommended the passage of such legislation and hearings on the subject are now being held by the Ways and Means Committee. There can be no doubt that the passage of such an act would prove of great benefit to American chemical manufacturers.

We have prepared special reports on the following companies, any of which will be sent to prospective investors upon request.

BRITISH ORGANIZE FOR WORLD TRADE

PLAN COMMERCIAL CENTRES

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 18.—To capture the world for British trade is the program of the newly formed overseas organization of the Federation of British Industries, including in its membership something like 17,000 manufacturing and producing firms in Great Britain. The federation believes it is in a position to tackle the problem in a thoroughly comprehensive manner. The main outlines of the scheme were explained by S. Springer, head of the Overseas Department.

The most important feature in the program is the appointment of trade commissioners in every part of the world. The Trade Commissioners will be first-class men, versed in foreign customs, whose business it will be to constitute a "chain of commercial outposts throughout the world," and to put the special information they collect at the service of British firms.

"Our intention," said Mr. Springer, "is to provide a service which will afford information and assistance of every kind to manufacturers who wish to export goods or to import raw material. The activities of the centres in which the commissioners are placed will include the provision of libraries, embracing documents referring to trade and customs regulations, panels of legal advisers to help in protecting trademarks, patent rights, &c., and panels of interpreters for the use of members of the federation. At each of these centres there will be museums in which will be displayed goods supplied by foreign competitors, and which could be made in England, and with these will be full information as to price, packings, and total quantities needed to meet requirements."

With the ultimate object of possessing a commissioner in every market of the world, with sub-commissioners and expert advisers at important points, the federation making a start with twenty-one areas in which there will be resident commissioners, who will set up their own organizations. Already commissioners have been appointed in Greece, the centre of a group of markets formerly under German economic dominance, Spain, Portugal, and Northern Africa and the East Indies, and various temporary arrangements have been made in regard to South Africa, the west coast of South America, and several European countries.

GREAT NORTHERN ORE.

The twelfth annual report of the Great Northern Ore Properties shows total receipts of $4,594,725, against which are disbursements of $72,221 for the administration of the trust. The balance, $4,522,504, is the equivalent of $3.01 a share on the 1,500,000 outstanding certificates of beneficial interest. The total disbursements amounted to $6,000,000, the excess of disbursements over receipts for the year being $1,477,496. The undistributed receipts at the close of 1917 were $2,079,775. This is cut down to $602,278 in the 1918 report by the excess of disbursements over receipts during last year. In 1917 the total receipts of the company amounted to only $90,-958, and in 1916 they were $2,178,547.

Since Dec. 7, 1906, the total receipts of the Great Northern Ore Properties have been $22,186,504 and the total disbursements $21,556,305. Of the latter item the major portion is made up of payments to holders of certificates, the cost of administering the trust having been only $931,305.

RAILWAY EXECUTIVES MEET.

Discuss Accounting Under the Existing Conditions.

At a meeting of the Law Committee and the Standing Committee of the Association of Railway Executives yesterday accounting under existing conditions was discussed almost exclusively by the Presidents and Vice Presidents attending. After the meeting Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the association, made the following statement:

"The Standing Committee of the association held a meeting this afternoon. A. H. Harris, Vice President of the New York Central Lines, retired from the committee, and A. H. Smith, President, was elected in his place.

"The meeting was devoted to considering questions of accounting under the railroad contract. J. A. Taylor, Chairman of the Railroad Corporate Accounting Conference, and G. A. Harwood, Chairman of the Association of Railroad Corporate Engineers, were present by invitation.

"A conference was also held with a committee representing the American Short Line Railroad Association to consider the mutual relations of trunk and short lines."

The Standing Committee will probably meet again in two weeks.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Price movements on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday indicated that the market was largely confined to the trading element. The oil issues were unusually active, Sinclair, on exceptionally heavy early demand, being bid up 2⅜ to 65⅝ and falling back in the last hour to 62⅞, while Mexican Petroleum ranged between 184⅜ and 180⅜, and Royal Dutch of New York between 109 and 112. The steel issues were in the main reactionary. United States Steel, after an early advance to 107⅞, moved back to 106⅝ and ended at 106¾. Inspiration made the best showing of the coppers, gaining 1 point. Studebaker ranged between 102⅞ and 106⅞ and General Motors between 227 and 221, both ending near the low points. United Cigar Stores reached a new high at 160⅝.

The Company, whose business was established in 1854, is one of the largest tanners in its line in the United States, manufacturing a complete line of upper leather for shoes (except patent leather and kid) and some glove leathers.

Starting with an original capital of $20,000 the Company has grown to its present net worth as a result of accumulated earnings, and in addition has paid large cash dividends.

Average net profits for the years 1916, 1917 and 1918, before deducting interest charges and before providing for Federal Taxes for 1917 and 1918, were $522,257.46, or approximately three and one-half times the maximum annual interest requirements on these Notes.

Net assets as of December 31, 1918, available for the payment of these Notes were in excess of twice the total amount of this issue; net current assets as of the same date were $4,059,096.97.

The Trust Agreement provides that so long as any of these Notes are outstanding the Company will at all times maintain its current assets at an agregate amount equal to at least one and one-half times all its liabilities.

The Company shall not pay any dividends on its Common Stock without the consent of the bankers.

The Company has no mortgage or bonded indebtedness and, under the terms of the Trust Agreement, during the life of these Notes may not issue any.

First and Refunding 5% Bonds due 1956
Price 87½ and interest, yielding 5.80%

To secure the maximum advantage of the present attractive investment returns, we recommend the purchase of good, long term bonds, many of which are still available at prices substantially lower than normal levels. Through the purchase of such securities, investors are assured of a liberal income over a long period and are relieved of the necessity of frequent re-investment. As an example we recommend and offer Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, First and Refunding 5% bonds.

These bonds are secured by a mortgage covering as a direct lien all the fixed properties of the Company. Indicating the equity behind this issue may be cited the fact that the bonds are followed by $3,000,000 6% Debentures, $7,672,000 preferred stock on which 6% dividends have been paid continuously since 1912, and $12,075,000 common stock paying 7% dividends. The market value of the securities following this issue is approximately $20,000,000.

Earnings for the year ended December 31, 1918, were reported as follows: Gross $9,218,884; net $3,632,930; interest charges $1,784,797. Even under adverse war conditions, therefore, the Company earned net over twice interest requirements.

Full details regarding the issue are given in Circular NA-10, which will be sent upon request

Crude

While petroleums vary considerably in character, they fall chiefly into two classes, according to whether the residue yielded is predominantly paraffin wax or asphalt. This broad distinction is of great economic significance, because the paraffin petroleums, occurring chiefly in the eastern part of the country, came first into use, and therefore determined the current refining practice and the existing demand for petroleum products; while the asphaltic petroleums exploited later in the Gulf region and California found their immediate commercial outlet in the form of fuel.

THE ENTIRE GROUP OF BUILDINGS, WAREHOUSES

AND REAL ESTATE OF

The Monticello Distilling Co.

There are five outstanding reasons why this Public Auction will attract big manufacturing interests:

FIRST—The unusual size of the property comprising approximately 100,000 square feet of ground area.

THIRD—The unusually convenient railroad facilities.

FOURTH—The extraordinarily low fire hazard.

FIFTH—The unexcelled advantages of Baltimore's harbor and shipping facilities.

IF YOUR BUSINESS is light manufacturing—IF YOUR BUSINESS is heavy structural manufacturing—IF YOU MANUFACTURE automobiles or machinery of any character—IF YOURS is an industrial or canning business—or IF YOU REQUIRE OR DESIRE large warehouses for storage or other purposes—this unusual opportunity to acquire these properties INTERESTS YOU.

The buildings adjoin the tracks of the Penna. Railroad and the large and modern freight terminals of the Western Maryland Railroad. A railroad siding runs directly into the buildings.

The City Hall and Post Office are only three blocks from these buildings, the Courthouse four, and the Custom House, financial and wholesale districts within five blocks.

The waterfront and wharves are within five minutes' easy drive over the Fallsway Boulevard adjoining the property.

(6%) from the day of transfer and to be secured to the satisfaction of The Monticello Distilling Co. Taxes, ground rent and all other expenses to be adjusted to day of transfer. To Holders

The Court has announced that the interest due July 1, 1919, on the above-named bonds will not be paid. A large amount of bonds has already been deposited and the Committee urges all bondholders, who have not deposited, to do so immediately. United action is necessary in view of the certain default in the payment of interest.

The Committee wishes to call your attention to the fact that June 21, 1919, is the last date upon which the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, will receive bonds for deposit under the Deposit Agreement dated March 7, 1919. Bonds will not be received after that date, except upon such conditions as the Committee may decide to impose. Certificates of Deposit representing deposited bonds are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

TO SEE LUMBER CO. PAPERS.

Government to See Certain Evidence in Case Against Coastwise Concern.

The Government won a victory in the case of the officers and employes of the Coastwise Lumber and Supply Company, who are on trial in the Federal Court, Brooklyn, charged with conspiracy to defraud the Government, when Judge Thomas decided yesterday that papers subpoenaed under a writ of decem tecum should be produced. The defense had contended that the papers asked by the Government were among those which the Judge had decided were illegally seized.

The papers in question are those relating to the contracts with the Thompson-Starret Company, which had the contract for building the cantonments and which firm had objected to the bills presented by the Coastwise Company and had some of the bills submitted to the Committee on Arbitration.

Judge Thomas said he had gone very carefully into the matter in order to safeguard his previous ruling on the seizing of the papers. He had examined several hundred papers, he said, and decided what papers the Government could use. The defense agreed to bring the papers to court Monday next and the motion to punish John W. Van Gordon, Secretary and counsel of the Coastwise Company, for contempt of court in refusing to produce the papers was not pressed.

ARGUE 80-CENT GAS CASE.

Argument was heard yesterday by the United States Circuit Court on the appeal of Corporation Counsel Burr from the decision of Federal Judge Mayer, who refused to permit the city to intervene in the suit of the Consolidated Gas Company to have the eighty-cent gas law declared unconstitutional and void. The decision of Judge Mayer was that the interest of the city was being looked after by District Attorney Swann and the Public Service Commission, two of the defendants. The third defendant is Attorney General Newton.

John A. Garver, representing the complainant, argued that the city had no personal interest in the litigation, and that it was withou rsponsibiliy which would make intervention necessary. Corporation Counsel Burr declared that the city was vitally interested, because thousands of consumers of gas would be injured if the cost of gas were increased. Decision was reserved.

VANCOUVER
VICTORIA—SEATTLE

DO YOU KNOW "THE TRIANGLE RUN"?

NO. It isn't a play. It's a sea trip on the Canadian Pacific "Princess" steamers with Seattle at one corner of it, Vancouver at the second, and Victoria laughing beyond Juan de Fuca Strait, ready with tea and cakes—a trip included in your ticket without extra charge.

SEATTLE—the metropolis of the Pacific Northwest with 200 miles of beautiful motor roads within the city limits.

And VICTORIA—as English as clotted cream, with more roses than you ever saw at once, behind hedges glossier than anything in Devonshire. Victoria has time enough to play golf whenever you like it—or give you a spin on the Malahat Drive.

THE Own Your Home Campaign, in connection with the General Housing Movement is of such vital importance to the community that the General Committee, acting in an advisory capacity to the Exposition Management, has advocated the advancement of the dates. This extension in time will give every interest involved full opportunity to aid in the effort to revive the building industry.

SEPTEMBER 6th—SEPTEMBER 13th, 1919

Seventy-First Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and 34th St., New York

Comprehensive Government and Municipal Exhibits will be notable features in addition to exhibits of building materials, house furnishings and kindred displays.

Practical talks on home building, the housing situation and household economics by experts will be delivered daily.

The General Housing Movement will be visualized in a way that will go far towards solving the housing problem.

If You Want To OWN YOUR HOME Select the day you will visit the Exposition—send written request for the number of tickets required, writing name and address plainly. The tickets will be left in the box office, addressed for you and can be obtained without cost, on your arrival.

TAFT AGAINST CITY TROLLEY OWNERSHIP

BIG WAGES AN INCUBUS

Inclines Toward Cost-of-Service Plan to Help Solve Traction Financial Difficulties.

Ex-President William H. Taft, testifying yesterday before the Federal Electric Railways Commission, appointed to inquire into financial problems confronting the traction lines in the United States and to suggest a solution for them, discussed the subject from actual knowledge obtained during his service as Chairman of the War Labor Board. He expressed opposition to municipal ownership, and said the public would not be likely to view favorably an increase in fare unless it were based on the actual value of the plants, but declared a higher fare would be preferable to either municipal ownership or receiverships.

The commission met in the hearing room of the Public Service Commission. The meeting was held here because Mr. Taft could not go to Washington to testify, and the commission wanted his testimony as a guide for future action. Last night the commission went to Washington, where future hearings will be held. Charles E. Elmquist, the Chairman, who is President of the National Association of Street Railway and Utilities Commissioners, said of the commission's plans:

"We expect to complete the inquiry in time to submit to the President a report, with recommendations, by Nov. 1. The President gave $40,000 out of his contingent fund to pay our expenses, and the small amount will prevent us from investigating the value of plants, traveling about, or hiring experts in certain lines. Congress may make an appropriation for these purposes, but I believe the various State Public Service Commissions have appraisals of the value of traction lines, and these will be at our service.

"We have no power beyond that of recommending to cities and States methods of procedure to assist traction companies which need help to preserve their properties and make them of the greatest use to the public. The commission is composed of men representing various interests, and it has undertaken the work with open minds and a determination to do the best it can for all interests involved."

Little Watered Stock Now.

Members of the commission other than Mr. Elmquist are Edwin F. Sweet, Assistant Secretary of Commerce; Royal Meeker, Commissioner of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor; Philip H. Gadsden of the American Electric Railway Association; Louis B. Wehle, general counsel of the Finance Corporation; Charles W. Beall of the Investment Bankers' Association, and William D. Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes. All but the last two attended the hearing.

Mr. Taft told the commission that the street railways in the country represented an investment of $5,000,000,000; that if there had been much watered stock in the companies it probably had disappeared under modern financial conditions, and that any person who bought watered stock today would be subject to removal from any banking concern. Discussing wage increases, he said that these, together with the advance in the cost of materials, had depressed the financial strength of the railway companies, which had suffered additional losses as a result of the popularity of the automobile.

Misdeeds of companies in the past, he said, had created considerable hostility to them, and whatever sinister work had bene done by the corporations had been more than counterbalanced by injustices inflicted on the companies by the public.

Mr. Taft thought the general situation among public utility corporations was encouraging. He said that one reason he was opposed to municipal ownership was that it would tend to hamper the mobility of labor and interfere with economy of operation.

A middle ground between Government ownership and present conditions, he tion he said the zone fare system might suggested, could be found by awarding suitable franchises. In reply to a question prove satisfactory. He said the public would not be likely to favor fare raises unless they were based on actual investment. He did not think the situation would be helped by coining six-cent or seven-cent pieces.

He spoke of the maximum wage rate of 45 cents in some large cities, and compared it with the 60-cent rate being paid in Detroit. The judgment of the War Labor Board, he said, was that a five-cent fare would not stand such a wage increase. He thought that a cost-of-service plan would be preferable to Government ownership, and that the companies should be permitted to stop operating lines that are unprofitable without sacrificing their rights in other lines.

Favors Control of Corporation

Asked by Mr. Elmquist whether he thought the Commission should inquire into the histories of the companies, he replied that if it did it never would finish its work. Commissioner Wehle wanted to know if the companies should not be compelled to live up to their franchises. In reply Mr. Taft said:

"That is possible, but a bankrupt tenant in your house is of no profit to you. The public authorities can hold the company to the contract, and the company can hold the public, but the public cannot change it. There should be some way in which contractual relations could be modified. They should not be fixed and unchangeable. There should be some appellate authority which could relieve such a situation."

Asked his opinion on the methods of taxing street railroads, Mr. Taft said he saw no reason why such a corporation should be taxed by a rule other than that applied to other corporations. After discussing the question of stocks and bonds issued by railway companies, he suggested:

"I have always favored Federal control of incorporation. In my judgment this would tend to prevent corruption and the sale of stock and securities unduly inflated. There is no doubt that this evil has existed because the charter is issued by one State, while the activities of the corporation are conducted in another State."

Mr. Taft said he thought the present high costs were more or less fixed, and those who had deferred investing money in building and the like were beginning to let their money out.

John H. Pardee, President of the American Electric Railway Association, presented a statement in which the association offered to help obtain information about street railways. The statement said that at a recent meeting of the association, a committee of 100 of the leading owners, operators and bankers interested in electric railway securities was named to prepare a presentation of the situation from the railway company viewpoint. At the convenience of the Commission, the statement said, this committee would appear and present the situation, with suggestions which it might decide upon. A date will be set for its appearance.

Gaylord C. Cummin, of the Institute of Public Service, a consultant on municipal management, advocated a service-at-cost plan. He suggested that the railways be relieved of the cost of paving between the tracks and for a certain distance on each side of them. He said their liability should consist only of a fixed percentage of the cost of maintaining the pavement.

PALMER INQUIRY TODAY.

Open Hearing Will Be Held on His Confirmation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Inquiry into the charges in connection with opposition to the confirmation of the appointment of A. Mitchell Palmer as Attorney General will begin tomorrow before a sub-committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Members of the sub-committee said that they will permit any person who wishes to testify for or against the confirmation. The hearings will be open to the public.

Among witnesses who are prepared to oppose Mr. Palmer's confirmation is Harvey T. Andrews, who was counsel for the Bosch Magneto Company from 1906 until the German-controlled stock of the firm was seized by Mr. Palmer in May, 1918, sold to American interests, and the name of the firm changed to the American Bosch Magneto Company. Mr. Andrews asserts that, in his opinion, the negotiations which were carried on demand a thorough investigation.

Mr. Andrews said tonight that he was ready to appear in person to present the facts to the sub-committee. He has retained Merton E. Lewis, former Attorney General of New York State, as counsel.

Mr. Lewis presented a review of the charges made by Mr. Andrews before the Senate sub-committee on June 13, in urging that an inquiry be made, and tonight Mr. Andrews issued a long statement, which, he said, contained the principal points which Mr. Lewis had made before the sub-committee, but which were not made public by the committee.

In his statement Mr. Andrews sets forth, as he sees them, the financial deal in May, 1918, sold to American interests concern to the present owners, and the activities of the concern since its sale. He alleges that he suffered losses because of the developments which have taken place, and asks that the sub-committee make a thorough investigation.

Mr. Andrews asserts that Mr. Palmer sold the 250 shares of the capital stock of the company on Dec. 7, 1918, at Chicopee, Mass., for $4,150,000 to H. C. Griffith, 220 Fifth Avenue, New York City, "who in the New York City Directory is listed as a promoter."

SEE HOPE FOR WADSWORTH.

Women Republican Leaders Say They Will Support Party Ticket.

Republican leaders asserted last night that the argument used by opponents of James W. Wadsworth Jr., who want to see him superseded in the United States Senate by some other man, that his renomination would spell defeat because Republican women would not vote for him, was robbed of much of its force by speeches made by women leaders of the party at the meeting of the Republican County Committee in Bryant Hall last night.

Miss Mary Wood, an organizer for the Women's Division of the Republican county organization, in addressing the meeting, said:

"If we are opposed to any candidate, it is up to us women to make the fact known before the primaries. The candidates having been selected by the Republican Party, we propose to stand by them."

Miss Wood did not mention the name of Senator Wadsworth, but the reference was regarded as a plain allusion to him. She was followed by Miss Helen Varrick Bothwell, Chairman of the Woman's Division of the Republican County Committee.

"I endorse all that Miss Wood has told you," she said. "The party above all things should be the slogan of Republican women from now on. We should forget our personal inclinations and remember the party when we go to the polls."

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, who presided at the meeting, the last to be held before the Fall, talked on candidates and the duties confronting the county organization for which Miss Mary Garvin, which, though it is an "off year" in politics, a President of the Aldermanic Board is to be elected. "I think we will be able to select a candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen," he said, "who will appeal to a majority of the voters."

REPORT TWO NEW POGROMS.

Zionist Organization Gets Cable Saying Poles Killed 58.

Fifty-eight Jews were killed or wounded in two new pogroms in Poland, according to a cable message from Copenhagen received in this city yesterday by the Zionist Organization of America. The cable message asserted that one pogrom occurred in Sawierjenon June 6, while "the exact date of a subsequent pogrom in Cheim is not given."

In making public the message, the Zionist Organization charged that at Sawierje "the military protected the bandits and shot at the Jews, killing and wounding twenty," while in Cheim "eight Jews were killed by the mob, which it is charged was under the protection of the military, and thirty wounded."

MANHATTAN GIVES DEGREES

Manhattan College held its sixty-sixth annual commencement last night in Carnegie Hall. Twenty students received degrees, and the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Governor Alfred E. Smith, Justice William J. Kelly of the Appellate Division, and the Right Rev. Edward J. McGoldrick. Brother Jasper, President of the college, conferred the degrees, and the address to the graduates was delivered by Justice Kelly.

In behalf of the Alumni Association, Justice Luke D. Stapleton presented Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, who attended the ceremonies, with a silver cope. In a brief reply, Archbishop Hayes said:

"What the world needs is wisdom, the fruit of knowledge. We have enough knowledge, what we need is wisdom. The world has gone mad, knowledge is power and many men lie dead. As a non-read and many men lie dead. As a non-read and many men lie dead. As a non-read Catholic writer says, 'The world needs poverty, chastity, and obedience.' Let us all pray for America.

"The Catholic Church is greatly complimented that the enemies of America are the enemies of the Church and that the enemies of the church are the enemies of America."

Seven of the students who received degrees were veterans of the world war.

REDS IN GARDEN URGE REVOLUTION AND SOVIETS HERE

WON'T SAY HOW HE GOT IT

Federal Agents Declare They Will Question Him Today About Its Source.

SOVIETS' "ENVOY" ATTENDS

Martens Applauds Speeches — Two Arrests for Shouting for an American Soviet Republic.

The overthrow of the Government of the United States was openly agitated at a mass meeting held under the auspices of the Socialist Party in Madison Square Garden last night. Secret Service agents, police officials, Department of Justice investigators, and representatives of the Lusk Legislative Committee were unanimous in saying that they had never attended a meeting at which the speakers urged their audience so openly and defiantly to rise and overthrow the Government.

President Wilson was denounced for waging "a private war" on Soviet Russia, and finally Max Eastman, an American-born radical, read what he claimed he had every reason for believing was a correct copy of a confidential cablegram which acting Secretary of State Polk sent to Secretary of State Lansing in Paris, on Jan. 24 last, in which message, as read by Eastman, Mr. Polk asked Secretary Lansing to confer with the President regarding certain matters having to do with the operation of the Trans-Siberian Railway.

Attack on President.

Eastman argued that Mr. Polk's alleged request for money out of the fund appropriated by Congress for the President to spend as he saw fit was corroborative of his charge that "Woodrow Wilson is waging a private war against Soviet Russia." Eastman refused to say how the cablegram came into his possession. Beyond the statement that he had every reason to characterize it as a genuine copy of a message that passed between Mr. Polk and Mr. Lansing on the date named, he declined to make and explanation. Government agents who were present said they would ask him for this information today. The message given to reporters by Eastman read as follows:

Washington,
Jan. 24, 1919.

Ammission,
Paris.

301. Jan. 24, 3 P. M. Very confidential.

For the Secretary of State: Referring to my answer to 376, Jan. 21, regarding Siberian Railway plans, I take the liberty of calling your attention to the political situation here. Critical spirit today is being clearly manifested in regard to Russia.

1. By attack on War Trade Board Russian Bureau.

2. By attacks on personal conduct of Ambassador Francis. La Guardia apparently got his information from Consul Winship, now at Welland, and Lieut. Commander Crolley, formerly at St. Petersburg, and now Naval Attaché at Madrid.

3. By Senator Johnson's continually attacking Administration policy of keeping troops in Russia and Siberia.

There is no question but the Republicans are trying to force an extra session and leading Democrats seem to feel that the extra session should be considered inevitable. If successful, Republicans, resenting control of various committees, will make attacks on every phase of policy of administration in Russia

Alleged Request for Funds.

We are committed now to a proposition for the operation of the Siberian Railway, and I wish to lay stress on the fact that money must be supplied in large sums in order to carry through this plan. In view of the attitude of Congress on the food bill I should give up the possibility of seeking money through appropriation. The Russian Ambassador has no funds and has already exhausted sums set aside for maintaining Siberian Railway corps.

I am taking the liberty of stating the case so that the President or yourself may have all the facts before you before he commits himself to supplying money for this purpose from his private fund. I have not consulted Japanese Ambassador, and for this reason would like to have your views as soon as possible. POLK.

Lenin Opposed as Antichrist by Peasants in Old Russia

PARIS, June 20, (French Wireless Service.)—The Soviet Government in Russia is combatting a religious movement, mystical in character, which has spread through the Provinces of Moscow, Novgorod, and Vladimir.

One of the features of the movement, which is said to be strong among the peasants, according to advices received here, is that Premier Lenin is called the antichrist foretold in the Scriptures.

The Bolsheviki, it is said, are opposing the movement by means of an active propaganda.

'BIG BILL' DEVERY DIES OF APOPLEXY

FAMED FOR HIS PHILOSOPHY

First "Chief of Police" City Had —Van Wyck Called Him the Best—Later Ran for Mayor.

William S. Devery, "Big Bill" Devery, as he was generally known, who was the city's first titular Chief of Police after consolidation, and was called by Mayor Van Wyck "the best New York ever had," who worked his way from patrolman to Chief of the department and for a time served as First Deputy Commissioner, died at 4.15 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his Summer home at Far Rockaway, L. I. Apoplexy was the cause of death. He was stricken shortly after his midday meal, while talking with members of his family, and from the first it was realized that his condition was serious. Mr. Devery had influenza last Winter, but had apparently recovered, and it was said at the home last night that he had apparently been in the best of health recently. The funeral arrangements had not been made last night.

Mr. Devery returned yesterday morning from Washington, D. C., where he had been to visit his daughter, Mrs. Florence Oliver, who did not return with him. As soon as he was stricken Dean Herbert F. Farrell, pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea Church, Far Rockaway, was summoned to the house. He found the former Chief unconscious. Dean Farrell was expecting to receive word during the afternoon that Mr. Devery had regained consciousness, but instead learned of his death.

After his retirement from politics he was engaged in the real estate business in Far Rockaway, with an office on Mott Avenue, near the Long Island Railroad Station. In recent years, Mr. Devery had lived in Far Rockaway only during the Summer months, returning to Manhattan during the rest of the year.

Was Croker's Right-Hand Man.

Mr. Devery had a most picturesque and stormy career. He was Richard Croker's right-hand man and for years a district leader in Tammany. During his long service on the police force he was indicted several times, faced charges of extortion, blackmail, and oppression, and held his place against many protests.

Appointed to the police force as a patrolman June 19, 1873, Mr. Devery continued in this position until Sept. 16, 1881, when he was promoted to roundsman. On May 24, 1884, he was made Sergant, and in December, 1891, he was promoted to Captain. From March to December, in 1897, he was in command of the Eldridge Street Station, the precinct which had gained notoriety as the "Red Light District." In August of that year Dr. Parkhurst's vice society made written demand on him to suppress certain disorderly houses. He denied that they existed. In November the same notice was again served on Devery, fifty houses being specified. He again denied the existence of such places. The November Grand Jury brought four separate indictments against him for failure to proceed against the places. He was tried in one of the cases and acquitted.

Acquitted of Extortion Charge.

In an investigation in 1894 there was much evidence about Captain Devery's precinct, and witnesses testified to the extortion of his wardmen. The Police Board made charges against him and he was placed on trial at Police Headquarters on Aug. 1, 1894, on the charge of extortion. He was ill, but the board went on with the trial, and after hearing the evidence voted to dismiss him from the force. Captain Devery took his case into court, and in June, 1895, the Supreme Court reinstated him in the department on the ground that his constitutional rights had been transgressed in the trying of his case in his absence.

In March, 1896, he was again tried in criminal courts and again acquitted. In October, 1896, the reform Police Board formulated new charges against him and he was placed on trial, but when case came up in the following March Captain Devery had obtained a perma-

ALLIES READY FOR ACTION

BERLIN SEIZURE FIRST

CONFERENCE HELD IN PARIS

Foch and Other Military Officials Confirm the Arrangements Made.

LONDON, June 20, (Associated Press.)—No definite news was received in official quarters in London tonight that Germany intended to sign the treaty.

In the event of refusal to sign, it is learned, the occupation of Berlin and the reimposition of the blockade will almost certainly follow, and that these measures will surely increase the amount of indemnity to demanded from Germany.

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—The Supreme Council confirmed today the plans made by the military authorities for a resumption of the advance into Germany in the event of the failure of the Germans to sign the peace treaty within the allotted time.

Marshal Foch, Major Gen. Bliss, General Robertson of the British Army, and other military chiefs were before the council this afternoon and explained the details of the allied plans.

The reports of the fall of the Scheidemann Government had not reached the council when these plans were discussed.

It is not expected that the order for the allied armies to advance will be given exactly at the time of the expiration of the time limit of the Allies, but it was indicated today that there would be little if any delay in the manoeuvres.

Baron Sonnino was not present at the meeting of the council, but the fact that General Cavallero was called in was regarded as indicating that the Allies still regarded Italy's position as not materially changed by the overthrow of the Orlando Government.

All British Navy Leaves Stopped.

LONDON, June 20.—There is no mistake about Great Britain's readiness to renew the war. This afternoon the poster of The Evening News, a Northcliffe organ, reads:

"Britain Prepares for War."

The headlines in all the afternoon London papers justify the poster,

All leaves for British navy officers and men have been stopped and the London papers say that the Grand Fleet is being made ready for instant action.

Eight battleships and battle cruisers are ready for action in the Firth of Forth and flotillas of light cruisers and destroyers are also waiting.

The fleet of minelayers at Grimsby and Immingham have been refitted and equipped with the latest design of mines. Their destination is supposed to be the Baltic.

HAMBURG, June 18, via Paris, June 20.—British and French ships lying in the harbor of Hamburg are ready to send landing parties ashore if the German Government does not sign the treaty.

But there is the same indifference here as in the Ruhr district. I saw parties of French and British sailors wandering around Hamburg this afternoon, looking in the shop windows and drinking beer in the cafés.

WARNS DEVASTATED FRANCE.

Deputy Peret Says It Must Not Count on Rehabilitation by Germans

PARIS, June 19.—In discussing the proposed budget for the coming year in the Chamber of Deputies today, Raoul Peret, head of the Budget Committee, said that it was impossible to expect Germany to meet the cost of rehabilitating regions devastated during the war.

"We do not know now, and shall not know for a long time, the exact sum the enemy must pay to victorious France," he said. "The treaty of peace gives no precise information on that point. As it is, the Reparation Commission has the right even to remit part or all of Germany's debts."

Wilson to Name Morgenthau to Head a Pogrom Commission

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson, it was learned today, has decided to appoint a commission to investigate reported pogroms in Poland. It will consist of seven members, headed by Henry Morgenthau, former Ambassador to Turkey.

Two other members of the commission, in addition to Mr. Morgenthau, will be Jews.

The appointment of the commission is in accordance with requests from the Polish and Lithuanian Governments.

KNOX RESOLUTION CANNOT BE PASSED

Senators Doubt if It Ever Will Be Submitted to Test of Vote.

ROOT TALKS WITH LEADERS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Knox resolution, which would have the United States Senate go on record in favor of requesting the Peace Conference to separate the League covenant from the Peace Treaty, is doomed to defeat if a vote is ever taken on the proposition.

This was admitted tonight by many of its supporters. It was apparent from what was said by them that all hope had been abandoned for the success of the resolution. Some of the strongest friends of the Knox project admitted that they did not believe it would command more than thirty-five or thirty-six votes. No date has been fixed for a vote on the resolution. There is a possibility that one may be called for on Monday, but there is no certainty of this.

When the Senate adjourned tonight, the Republicans themselves did not know what procedure they would favor. This is to be decided at informal conferences which began tonight among influential leaders, in which Senators Lodge, Knox, and Brandegee participated. Ex-Senator Root was in Washington today, and when this became known the impression gained currency that he would take part in the conference. The ex-Senator denies that his visit at this time has any relation to the League controversy. He has, however, been in touch with Republican leaders the last few days, and it is understood that he is conferring with some of them tonight.

Mr. Root's visit to the Senate wing of the Capitol aroused great interest. When it was suggested to him by newspapermen that it was naturally inferred that he was here in connection with the League, Mr. Root replied that he "had come down to the Capitol in the expectation of getting an invitation to luncheon from some Senatorial friends." Mr. Root went to Senator Knox's committee room and was there most of the afternoon, awaiting the arrival of Senator Knox, who, however, failed to appear at the Capitol.

Hays Also Confers With Leaders.

Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, was busy in conference with Republican leaders today, but he also asserted that his business did not relate to the League of Nations.

No effort was made by Senator Knox to call up his resolution today and the debate proceeded of its own weight. Senator Sherman injected religion into the controversy over the League of Nations when he declared that 24 of the 40 votes included in the League could be "spiritually dominated by the Vatican."

There were numerous clashes between Senators during the afternoon, and the first of these came when John Sharp Williams tried to have one of ex-President Taft's statements in favor of the League printed in the Record. Senator Smoot objected, but had to yield when Senator Williams threatened to read the Taft statement unless permission was granted. It was a statement in which Mr. Taft asserted that the only effect abroad of the Knox resolution would be

PARIS EXPECTED SHAKEUP

GERMAN PARTIES ARE SPLIT

Only Independent Socialists Reported to be United for Accepting Terms.

CONSERVATIVE PRESS ANGRY

Echoes of the Furious Struggle Over Treaty Are Heard by Conference.

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—The news of the retirement of Philipp Scheidemann as Chancellor and of the re-forming of the coalition Government in Germany came as no surprise in Peace Conference circles, as it had been known for some time that Scheidemann, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, and several other Cabinet members were so thoroughly committed by past utterances to refuse to sign the treaty that a new Cabinet and, perhaps, a new President might have to be installed before the treaty was signed, unless it were modified materially.

The news of the political changes in Germany was made known to the American delegation while it was meeting with President Wilson. It caused considerable satisfaction, and was interpreted as an indication that Germany would accept the treaty.

Last night, before the Scheidemann Government handed in its resignation, a small majority of the Cabinet opposed signing, and a small majority of the National Assembly was in favor of it. All parties except the Independent Socialists apparently have split on the question, and the old lines of cleavage have disappeared.

Most of the Centrists, Democrats, and Majority Socialists are said to favor signing.

The general change in opinion is reflected in the German newspapers. The conservative press is declaring that it is wrong to sign and is inveighing against the cowardice of the Government. The extreme radical papers assert that the working people want peace at any price, while the middle group admits that there is nothing left but to sign.

Paris Believes Signing Assured.

Conference circles are cheerful over the outlook. It is believed that the signing of the treaty by Germany is n assured.

It is expected in Peace Conference circles that the new Government will make a request for additional time in which to reply to the allied terms.

The retirement of von Brockdorff-Rantzau and Herr Giesberts, and probably that of Dr. Dernburg, from the Cabinet is expected. It is believed that Mathias Erzberger will take the place of Giesberts as the Centrist leader in the Cabinet.

Peace delegates accept as a fact only the retirement of Scheidemann. They are still in doubt regarding the possible makeup of the new Government. A Noske-Erzberger combination is still most prominently mentioned, but the Socialists, Dr. Mueller and Dr. Eduard David, are also referred to as possibilities for the Chancellorship in a dispatch received late this afternoon.

The selection of Herr Noske to head the new Cabinet, if the report is confirmed, is a surprising factor, as he had been regarded as an opponent of signing. It is known, however, that there has been a considerable shift in the attitude of various German politicians, parties, and newspapers lately, and experts on the German situation think that Noske, as the "strong man" of the administration, may per-

BERLIN, June 20, (Associated Press.)—Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German Peace Delegation, has sent a note to Premier Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, citing twelve instances in which the covering note of the allied reply to the Germans on June 16 announced concessions which are not contained in the altered text of the Peace Treaty.

Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau asks how far the Allies bind themselver to these concessions, and requests written confirmation that the contents of the covering note and the memorandum on these points form part of the new peace offer.

The Count further points out several instances where, in addition to the hand-written alterations, the present printed copy of the treaty differs from the copy of May 7, and asks to be notified before the expiration of the time limit how far it is intended that these changes are to go.

Coblenz Hears Bernstorff May Be New Peace Envoy

PARIS, June 20.—An unconfirmed report from the Army Intelligence Bureau at Coblenz says that Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, has been named as German Minister of Foreign Affairs, and that he will come to Versailles to sign the Peace Treaty.

Le Temps says that it understands that Mathias Erzberger, if he assumes power in Germany, will ask for two modifications of the Peace Treaty.

The first will be the toning down of the clause concerning responsibility for the war, so as to spare German susceptibilities, and the second the abandonment of prosecution of the former Emperor.

SAYS ITALY AGREES TO DALMATIA TERMS

NEW PREMIER IS SOUGHT

Paris Wonders What Italy Will Do About Signing, Now Orlando Is Out.

PARIS, June 20.—The Italian delegation to the Peace Conference has been directed from Rome to accept the proposition for the settlement of the Dalmatian controversy made by Premiers Clemenceau, Lloyd George, and President Wilson, according to the Paris office of Reuter's, Limited.

Neither the Italian nor any of the other delegates to the Peace Conference has received news from Rome indicating whether a new peace delegation will be sent to Paris. Opinion in conference circles seems general that Signor Orlando and his associates may sign the German treaty in spite of the fall of the Orlando Government. The King appointed the peace delegation; consequently a change in the Government would not necessarily make the appointment of a new delegation imperative, although it would cause no surprise if a new head were designated to replace Signor Orlando.

As the Fiume and Adriatic questions, the handing of which by Signor Orlando had apparently been unsatisfactory to the majority of Italians, are not directly involved in the German treaty, many members of the Peace Conference believe that the new Italian Government may not insist upon a change in the delegation until after the German treaty is signed. It is not thought likely, however, that the present Italian delegation will be permitted to continue negotiations concerning the Austrian treaty, in which Italy's territorial interests are involved.

The Fiume question had reached a deadlock before the departure of Signor Orlando for Rome, and apparently it still stands in that position.

While the Italian delegation was apparently willing to accept the creation of the Fiume district into a buffer State, no decision could be reached as to the boundary between Istria and Italy which was satisfactory to both Italy and the Allies.

Tittoni May Become Premier.

ROME, June 20, (Associated Press.)—After an interview today with Premier Orlando, who resigned Thursday night, the King began a consultation with the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies and leading politicians concerning a solution of the political crisis.

The concensus of opinion in Rome is that a new Cabinet must be formed as soon as possible, because of the necessity for not interrupting Italy's negotiations in the Peace Conference at Paris.

The formation of a Government headed by former Premier Tittoni or Signor Nitti, former Minister of Finance, is thought most probable.

Pressure is being brought to induce Guglielmo Marconi to take part in the new Ministry, with the portfolio of Minister of Navy. It is suggested that Signor Luzzatti, former Premier, go to Paris especially for financial, economic and commercial negotiations.

"Remain faithful to our duties toward the Allies," was a passage in the address of Premier Orlando in the Chamber of Deputies that turned the tide against the Premier and resulted in the adverse vote, which had its sequel in the resignation of the Orlando Cabinet.

SAILING DATE UNCERTAIN

Developments in Germany and Italy Make It Impossible to Settle Departure.

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson and his party arrived here this morning at 9 o'clock after a two days' trip to Brussels and the war zone in Belgium. There was no formal reception and Mr. Wilson drove immediately to the Paris "White House." The President had a good night's rest and said that he was not tired. He expressed his enjoyment and interest in the trip he had taken.

At 11 o'clock the President went to the Hôtel de Crillon and held a conference with the entire personnel of the American delegation to the Peace Conference, including Colonel E. M. House, who returned last evening from his visit to England.

The effect upon the President's plans of the Cabinet changes in Germany and the further developments expected is uncertain. A German request for an extension of time to act on the treaty is looked for, and it is understood that the President told the delegation today that he had fixed no date for his departure for home.

The Council of Three, composed of Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau and President Wilson, met this afternoon and, it is understood, discussed the German situation and the Italian Cabinet crisis.

The Council was also expected to take up the uncompleted sections of the Austrian Peace Treaty.

BRUSSELS, June 19.—Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, had such a full program in Belgium today that there was no time for Woodrow Wilson, former historian, to more than glimpse the battlefield of Waterloo as he and King Albert were carried by a royal automobile at forty miles an hour to see the effects of the war that came a century after Waterloo.

When Secretary Daniels was in France recently he said the world would be on the right track toward a peace brotherhood when travelers to Paris cared more for seeing the tomb of Pasteur than the tomb of Napoleon.

There is surely something to recall that remark in the fact that the Belgians themselves and their guests from America gave no heed to the field of Napoleon's downfall on the day devoted to showing President Wilson not only what the world war had done to Belgium but what also this country was doing to recover. Yesterday, the day of his arrival, the President saw little but devastation. He saw that today, too, but, what is more important, he saw and heard much to convince him that the Belgians are not wasting time bemoaning the last five years, but are already finding themselves again. He saw it in many miles of

ASSEMBLY NOW FOR PEACE

Erzberger May Be Minister of Treaty Fulfillment.

PRESIDENT EBERT TO GO

Will Hold On Temporarily—Noske or Mueller Likely to be Premier.

Still Struggling at Weimar for Peace Cabinet Last Night

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—The latest reports received over the military wire from Weimar indicate that at 9 o'clock this evening Germany was still in the throes of a reconstitution of the administration in an endeavor to get a Government that was capable of signing the peace treaty.

BERLIN, June 20, (Associated Press.)—The Cabinet resigned at 2 o'clock this morning.

President Ebert will retain his office temporarily. It was stated on good authority that he decided to stand or fall with Chancellor Scheidemann because he felt that he must resign rather than sign the Peace Treaty.

Between Herr Noske, the Minister of Defense, and Dr. Müller, Under Secretary of the War Food Bureau, the race for the Premiership seems to be a strong one, although Müller seems to have the advantage on account of his greater adaptability in meeting the desires of the Independents.

An Independent leader told the correspondent today that it was a matter of indifference to the Independents who was chosen, as neither was liked, but that Noske was least liked because he would antagonize hundreds of thousands of persons who regarded him as a "bloodhound and oppressor."

The Democrats, still fighting against signing, today expelled Baron von Richthofen from the Peace Committee because he favored accepting the treaty.

Telephonic advices from Weimar indicate that up to noon today chaos prevailed in the city, with the National Assembly and the Cabinet endeavoring to thresh out the peace situation.

There is talk of a temporary directorate of five members to rule Germany in case President Ebert fails to form Cabinet, but this plan is unpopular as approximating a dictatorship and is unlikely to be adopted except as an emergency measure.

According to the German Constitution President Ebert is not required to resign, as he is not responsible for the Cabinet's acts. He will remain in office pending the formation of a Cabinet, which is the most difficult task imaginable, because nobody wants to shoulder the responsibility of signing the Peace Treaty.

Opposition to Gustav Noske, Minister of National Defense, as the successor of Chancelor Scheidemann, is reported increasing, while Dr. Mueller is on record as declining the Premiership, pleading illness.

It is understood that the National Assembly tomorrow may vote a referendum of the entire people for Sunday, June 29, at which signature of the terms will be submitted for ratification. It is asserted that this would result in a huge vote of approval, since the people are sick of war and want peace on any terms.

Up to noon Berlin was virtually without news of the retirement of the Cabinet. The morning newspapers were on the press when the flash came, announcing the resignation of the Cabinet.

The dominating impression in Berlin is that the terms of the Allies will be accepted. The resisting powers of the average Berliner are wittering under the unusual heat wave of the last few days, and the political shift at Weimar finds him in an acquiescent mood. He automatically links food with peace, and encourages

Wilson Will Delay Joining the League Until Treaty Is Ratified or Rejected

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—It is authoritatively stated that President Wilson intends to defer any action relative to American participation in the League of Nations until the Senate has ratified or rejected the Peace Treaty and the American position has been definitely established concerning the league.

There have been reports that the President has named Colonel Edward M. House as the American member of the League, and has designated several commissions, but it is now stated that no appointment of any kind will be made until the Senate finally acts.

Meantime, such work as is being done on the League is wholly tentative so far as the United States is concerned, and, while there is every hope and expectation that the covenant will be ratified as part of the treaty, it is said authoritatively that there is no purpose to anticipate this result or in any way commit the country to ratification.

Colonel House will return from London on the departure of President Wilson, acting as peace commissioner on the remaining treaty details until these are turned over to the American Ambassador.

the thought of the line of least resistance.

High Post for Erzberger.

WEIMAR, June 20, (Via Amsterdam to London,) (Associated Press.)—The German Cabinet, headed by Philipp Scheidemann, has resigned, but will continue in office temporarily until President Ebert has been able to form a new one.

The portfolio of Mathias Erzberger in the new Cabinet to be formed will be "Minister of Reconstruction and Fulfillment of the Treaty."

A poll of the members of the various parties in the National Assembly seems to show that the peace terms cannot fail to be accepted. The Majority Socialists gave a considerable majority in favor of signing.

Six members of the Cabinet declared in a meeting for an absolute rejection of the peace terms. The Ministers were said to have been Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, Herr Landsberg, Herr Geisberts, Dr. Dernburg, Herr Preuss, and Herr Gothein.

Gustav Noske, Minister of Defense, or Herman Müller, Majority Socialist leader, will be chosen Chancellor by President Ebert, it is said.

Noske is very popular, not only with the right wing of his own party, but with the Conservatives, since he was able to protect property during recent disorders in Berlin. He is unpopular, and even hated, by the Radicals of his party and the Independent Socialists because of the rigor with which he suppressed disturbances.

The new Cabinet will presumably settle promptly the question of signing the treaty. It is expected to accept the allied terms, although experts who have considered the treaty have unanimously rejected it as impossible. One of them, Fritz Thyssen, the coal magnate, said to The Associated Press:

"Germany cannot honestly sign and hope to fulfill her obligations. It would be far better to pay a larger indemnity, but leave coal and other economic possibilities of production by which alone the payment of the indemnity is possible."

Baron von Richthofen said that the new Cabinet would sign the treaty but "on condition." Although he did not state what conditions were meant, it is believed that they will be in the form of demands upon the Entente, the granting or refusal of which would not hinder the signing of the treaty.

Weimar was completely cut off from railway communication, with all sections of Germany last night because of a suddenly called railway strike. Airplanes and the telegraph are the only means of communication.

Government circles see in the strike a new Spartacide attempt against the Government. The reason given for the strike is a demand for an increase in wages.

In the meantime the Government and the various political leaders are held here until further notice. A majority of those here do not have sufficient clothes and fresh linen to last more than a day or two.

Hear Noske Will Be Chief.

COBLENZ, June 20, (Associated Press.)—Gustav Noske will succeed Philipp Scheidemann as head of the German Ministry, according to a Weimar dispatch received here today. Mathias Erzberger, the message says, will succeed Coun von Brockdorff-Rantzau as Foreign Secretary.

Four members of the old Cabinet favored acceptance of the revised peace terms, according to the correspondent of the Cologne Gazette, telegraphing from Weimar. Those who favored signing, the dispatch said, were Erzberger, Johannes Bell, Noske, and Edouard David.

The Frankfurter Zeitung editorially has taken a firm position in favor of the acceptance of the treaty. The newspaper says that the most desperate move of all would be to allow the Allies to force Germany to accept peace by further military advances into parts of Germany now unoccupied by them.

Reports Treaty Already Accepted.

LONDON, June 20.—The German National Assembly at Weimar has accepted the Peace Treaty, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Paris.

The signing of the treaty by Germany, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen, quoting advices from Weimar, says, is as certain as if the signatures had already been put to the document. The same dispatch says that a poll of the various States of Germany with regard to their attitude on the peace terms was taken yesterday at Weimar. Hamburg, Bremen, and Lübeck voted against signing, Württemberg and Baden were in favor of signing, and Bavaria and Saxony were undecided.

A Reuter dispatch from Weimar states that at a meeting on Thursday the Centrist members of the National Assembly decided, by a four-fifths majority, in favor of signing the treaty, with reservations regarding responsibility for the war and the honor of the German nation.

The German National Party, it is stated, is unanimously resolved against signing. Fifty-six members of the German Democratic Party voted against signing the allied terms, while eight others voted that the treaty be signed conditionally and one was in favor of signing without condition.

THINK GERMANS WON'T SIGN.

French Army Officials Believe the Leaders Would Welcome Invasion.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 19.—In French military circles it is thought very unlikely that Germany will sign the treaty voluntarily. In the opinion of a high officer of the War Office, she will prefer for two reasons to put the allied armies to the trouble and expense of at least beginning a military demonstration.

"In the first place," he said, "that would allow the German leaders to save their faces, so far as their own people were concerned, by the plea that they had done their utmost to get better terms, but were compelled to accept these by force majeure.

"Secondly, it would enable them subsequently, if the occasion offered, to raise the cry that they signed only with the knife at their throats, and were therefore entitled to reject the terms whenever they got a chance."

As may be seen from the last sentence, the French soldiers do not share the view that defeat has brought about a change of heart in the German people. To them the idea of "repentant" Germany being admitted this year into the League of Nations is frankly ridiculous. They hold with the old saying that the best boche is a dead boche and that a living boche will behave decently only if forced to do so.

No one here, however, expects prolonged military operations or even a show of armed resistance. So far as the general opinion of the country on the subject is concerned, it may be summed up in the casual remark which was overheard yesterday in the subway:

"Our politicians may talk as they please in Parliament, but don't tell me that any advance of French troops into Germany, past or present or future, will ever be unpopular in France."

GERMAN PARTY LEADERSHIP.

Retiring Cabinet and Lineup in the National Assembly.

There have been four departments of Government upon whose dictum Germany's fate has depended, so far as signing the treaty of peace is concerned. These are:

The peace delegation, led by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau, who was also Foreign Secretary.

The powerful political department known as "The German Propaganda Service," which is in the hands of the former leader of the old Catholic Centre and head of the armistice mission, Herr Erzberger, who is said to have taken over the archives of the political and military Intelligence Departments of the old régime, together with most of their well-trained personnel.

In the Cabinet, as reconstructed on Feb. 13, in anticipation of the reception of the treaty of peace, President Ebert distributed the portfolios as follows, with Dr. David, Herr Erzberger, and Herr Gothein holding Ministries without portfolios:

President of the State Ministry—SCHEIDEMANN.
Deputy President and Finance Minister—SCHIFFER, (later DR. DERNBURG.)
Minister for Foreign Affairs—BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU.
Interior—PREUSS.
Economics—WISSEL.
State Labor—BAUER.
Foodstuffs—ROBERT SCHMIDT.
Justice—LANDSBERG.
Defense—NOSKE.
Colonies—BELL.
Posts—GIESBERTS.
Demobilization—KOTH

The election of Jan. 19 had divided the national delegates into two groups: the Moderates, consisting of all the old parties, save the majority and Independent Socialists with 233 seats, and the Socialists with 188. Subsequent State elections, however, particularly in largely populated communities, showed that the voters for the National Assembly were less radical where local issues and politicians were concerned.

Meanwhile, the delegates presented the following lineup and will practically maintain it:

National People's Party (Conservative)	34
Christian People's Party (Centre)	88
German People's Party	23
German Democratic Party	77
Majority Socialists	164
Independent Socialists	24
Guelphs	4
Peasants and Workmen's League	1
Bavarian Peasants' League	4

AUSTRIA PROTESTS AGAIN.

Says She Is Made the Heir of All the Former Empire's Responsibilities.

ST. GERMAIN, June 20, (Associated Press.)—The Austrian delegation has sent a fourth note to the Peace Conference, protesting against the German Austrian Republic "being made the heir of all the responsibilities of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, of which it was but the smallest, poorest, most peaceful, and most liberal of States." It points out that at the time war was declared in 1914 the Foreign Minister, his two principal collaborators and almost all of Austria's Ambassadors were Hungarians and maintains that the "responsibility for the war is common to all the States forming the empire that has vanished."

The note expresses confidence that the "spirit of justice of the conference will not let the whole burden be thrown upon German Austria."

The Austrian counterproposals to the terms of peace are being completed by the transmission of notes daily to the Council through the French Mission.

Baron Rudolf von Slatin Pasha, a former high official in the Egyptian Government, who resigned his post in Egypt when England declared war on Austria, and who accompanied the Austrian delegation to France as an expert, left Paris today for Vienna. He was accompanied by Herr Epstein, another member of the Austrian delegation.

CLEMENCEAU TO TELL FACTS.

PARIS, June 20.—Whether the Germans sign or not, Premier Clemenceau, the Echo de Paris says, will make known to the Chamber of Deputies Tuesday the part taken by France in framing the peace terms.

The paper says that in case of a negative reply from the Germans, the allied troops will occupy Frankfort on the first day of the advance and the Ruhr industrial region the second day.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 18, (via Copenhagen.)—All the newspapers reappeared this morning after the strike, bearing such headlines as "The Death Sentence" and "The Entente's Ultimatum" in their largest type, extending across their first pages.

One paper called it "the blackest day in the history of the world." Most journals repeated the obstinate "No," with which they had already answered the Entente's peace conditions.

The most energetic in opposition to signing the treaty were, of course, the reactionary organs. The parties they represent, however, never left any doubt of their unwillingness to share the responsibility for any action regarding peace.

Count zu Reventlow, in the Deutsche Tageszeitung, excelled in vituperative language against the Versailles Council, calling the letter accompanying the treaty "a document of shameless lies," and calling up the German people never to forget this "most infamous example of refined lying and robbing." He thought that the Government must and would refuse to sign, since the present conditions, he insisted, were just as unacceptable and as incapable of execution as the original ones.

"The enemy is threatening warlike measures, which he will surely put into action," the Count wrote. "This we must bear in mind, and drop any illusions regarding differences among the Entente Powers. All we must remember is that to sign these conditions could by no means improve our situation, but would only make it worse, and murder Germany's honor altogether.

"It seems that the Entente is reckoning with some Independent Socialist Government which will sign, and French agents are said to be already in communication with the Independent leaders."

Distrust of Independents.

The Kreuz-Zeitung and the Tägliche Rundschau expressed much the same views, but the latter did not believe that the Entente would trust any Independent Socialist Cabinet, firstly, because the Rundschau declared, such a Cabinet would be incapable of fulfilling the peace conditions, and, secondly, because the Allies fear that their own laboring classes might be contaminated by the spirit of Bolshevism.

"A German National Government [meaning one of the Reactionary Party] would never accept the Entente's commission as a tax collector and extortioner," said the paper, "and Versailles knows that that is why they hope that the Cabinet formed by Erzberger, composed mainly of Centrists and some members of the other parties, might be more amenable. The Entente papers even report that Erzberger, through the English Minister at The Hague, has already signified his willingness."

The Tägliche Rundschau, however, doubted Erzberger's ability to form a Cabinet, and several Centrist papers, which quoted a dispatch to The New York Times from Paris as the origin of this rumor, flatly denied that Erzberger had any such intention. Indeed, all practical politicians have denied the feasability of an Erzberger Cabinet, holding that four-fifths of the German people, and even two-thirds of the Centrist Party, would oppose it.

Vorwärts this morning confessed that there were some members of the National Assembly, among the Socialists, who pleaded for signing.

"If the other notes contain no more concessions than are indicated by the accompanying letter, Vorwärts said, "the Scheidemann Government and the Brockdorff delegation will not sign. If, however, contrary to all expectations, the majority of the National Convention should be found willing to accept, then a new Government must be formed, which will appoint a new delegation for the conclusion of peace."

Editor Stampfer of Vorwärts believed that the convention would reject the terms by an overwhelming majority, in which case, to make sure of public opinion, a plebiscite might be arranged. Such exhaustion of all possible means to arrive at the German people's true will, he said, would place Germany in an advantageous position when the Entente resumed its warlike measures.

The Lokal-Anzeiger said:

"Premier Scheidemann said with regard to the original conditions that the hand should wither that dared sign them. May that also be the fate of the hand that signs the present Versailles conditions."

Theodor Wolff in the Tageblatt commented:

"Anybody having the future in mind can answer the question whether this present treaty should be signed only by repeating 'No.' But it depends on those who today wield power whether such an answer will have the hoped-for effect."

The Vossische Zeitung favored acceptance of the treaty, but the Democratic Party, whose interests it aimed to serve, proclaimed officially yesterday that the Vossische Zeitung could no longer regarded as the party organ, and it was urged that it should not be admitted in any Democratic meetings.

The paper called the new conditions "unspeakably brutal," adding:

"But despite all that it is hardly possible that any Government conscious of its responsibility will accept the awful consequences of rejection. If we accept, our burden will be intolerable, we admit; and it is impossible, if measured by means of antiquated statesmanship and economy. But even the hardest peace creates the possibility of reconstruction and saves the country from falling to pieces, while rejection would mean a terrible end of everything."

PICK 1ST DIVISION TO LEAD OUR ADVANCE

Our Forces Will Move Tuesday Morning Under the Orders, Unless Germany Signs.

COBLENZ, June 19.—The American Army of Occupation has received orders to make ready Monday for an advance into Germany, beginning early Tuesday morning.

This means that, barring a change in the plans, the soldiers of the 1st, 2d, and 3d Divisions will move from their barracks and billets on Monday and be placed in positions from which they will begin their movement eastward at daybreak on Tuesday should the Germans fail to sign the Peace Treaty.

To the 1st Division will go the honor of heading the march, if it takes place, [deleted by censor] with the 4th and 5th Divisions caring for the territory between the Rhine and the Luxemburg border as well as guarding the lines of communication.

There were scenes of activity today in the American sector, where the soldiers were cleaning their weapons. One heard from the hills but the "put put" of the machine guns being tested, and the rifle ranges were crowded with practice squads. Seventy-fives and 155's were being polished up and ammunition inspected.

A division of French cavalry is being moved through our sector to be placed at the disposal of the American army, which has no cavalry.

All is being made ready in the full sight of the Germans, who are manifesting the deepest interest, and are less vigorous in their loud assertions that Germany will not accept the treaty. The business-like movements of the Americans are bringing to the Germans a realization that the war may not be all over.

Permission has been granted for the Corpus Christi celebration today, and the German newspapers announce the plans for this afternoon. But the Americans have issued orders that anything outside of a religious program will end the whole celebration.

Reports received by the Army Headquarters say the Germans are removing all military material 150 miles away from the Rhine.

RENEWED ACTIVITY AT KAISER'S CASTLE

AMERONGEN, June 19, (Associated Press.)—There was a further addition to William Hohenzollern's list of visitors last night, when Friederich von Berg, formerly chief of his Civil Cabinet, dined at the Von Bentinck castle. Today there was seen a continual running of motor cars from and to the castle.

This morning the former Emperor was engaged in his usual task of sawing trees, of which he yesterday completed his five thousandth. This last tree has been cut into one-inch discs, many of which have been distributed among Hohenzollern's attendants and advisers. The tree was six inches in diameter and each disc was marked in the former ruler's own hand with his initial and the date.

After the sawing was finished, just before luncheon today, the former Emperor, von Berg, General von Gontard, Dr. Kriege of the German Foreign Office, and Colonel von Esebeck were observed in animated conversation in the grounds of the castle, but nothing could be gleaned as to the subject of conversation.

Outside the grounds Dutch gendarmes patrolled in stronger force than usually, possibly owing to the recent visits of parties of American soldiers and sailors from Rotterdam, whose arrival seems to have created some nervousness.

WILSON PROMISED HELP TO BELGIUM

Said He Hoped Americans and Belgians Would Be Generous Rivals in Trade.

PEOPLES ARE DEMOCRATIC

BRUSSELS, June 19.—At the dinner given tonight in honor of President and Mrs. Wilson by the King and Queen of Belgium, with Cardinal Mercier and other distinguished guests present, the President, addressing King Albert, spoke as follows:

"Let me express, Sir, the very deep appreciation with which I have heard your remarks. You truly say that I have come to Belgium to express my own deep personal interest and sympathy—sympathy with her sufferings and interest in her prosperity; but I would have no personal consequence if it were not my privilege for the time being to represent the people of the United States. What gives me confidence in expressing this sympathy and this interest is that I know in expressing those sentiments that I am expressing the feelings of the people of the United States.

"There has never been in the United States a more general and universal comprehension of sympathy with the affairs of another nation than that which the people of the United States have had for the affairs and the people of Belgium.

"I have had the very great advantage of seeing the little that I have had time to see of the experiences of Belgium under your guidance, and I know how true it is, Sir, that you speak for your people. One of the delightful experiences of these last days has been to hear the acclaim from the heart which everywhere greeted Le Roi. Their first cry was for their King, their second thought was the welcome of the stranger, and I was glad in my heart that it should be so, because I know that I was with a real statesman, and a real ruler. No man has any power, Sir, except that which is given him by the things and people he represents.

"I have felt many points of sympathy between the people whom I have the pleasure of representing and the people whom you represent. They are a very democratic people, and it has been very delightful to find, Sir, that you are a true democrat. All real masters of the sentiments of the people are parts of the people, and one of the things that give confidence in the future of Belgium is the consciousness that one has of the self-reliance, and indomitable spirit of her people. They need to have a friendly hand extended to them, but they do not need to have anybody take care of them.

"A people that is taken care of by its Government is a people that its Government will always have to take care of, but the people of Belgium, if I have caught any glimpse of their spirit and their character, do not need to have anybody take care of them. They need, because of the catastrophies of this war, temporary assistance to get the means to take care of themselves, but the moment they have these means, then the rest of us will have to take care to see that they do not do the work they are addicted to better than we do.

"The minute we cease to offer this assistance they will become our generous and dangerous rivals, and for my part I believe I can say truthfully that the people of the United States want the people of Belgium to recover their power, to be rivals, to be rivals in those fields in which they have for so long a time proved themselves masters.

"It is, therefore, with a peculiar feeling of being among a people that I understand that I have found myself under your guidance, Sir, touching shoulders with the people of Belgium today. When I went to the great destroyed plant of Charleroi, though most of the chimneys were smokeless, the whole region seemed like so many regions I am familiar with in my own country, and if the air had only been full of smoke I should have felt entirely at home. The air was too clear to be natural in such a region, and yet I had the feeling that smoke was going to come in its old abundance from those chimneys, and the world of industry was once more going to feel the pulse of Belgium, that vital pulse which no discouragement can restrain.

"So it is with a heart full of genuine sympathy, of comradeship, and of friendship that I beg to drink to your health, Sir, and the Queen's, and to the long and abounding prosperity of the kingdom over which you preside."

"Mr. Burgomaster: I feel highly honored to be received with such words from you, Sir, speaking as the representative of this ancient municipality, with so many distinguished events associated with its sturdy independence and self-government, and I feel the more honored, Sir, because the whole world recognizes in you a worthy representative of this great municipality.

"I think the reflection which comes uppermost in one's mind in thinking about this war is that no nation is conquered that is not conquered in its spirit; that an unconquerable spirit is the last word in politics and that the unconquerable spirit lives particularly in those nations which are self-governed. The one thing that is indestructible in our time is the spirit of self-governed people."

"I know something, sir, of the history, the independence, the self-confidence of the municipalities of Belgium. I know there has persisted into modern times something of that solidarity of the commune, something of that individuality of the municipality which was characteristic of the Middle Ages, and which brought the spirit of self-government through that dark period when nations had ceased to govern themselves but when localities continued to assert their right to self-government.

"So that I feel welcomed today by those whom I would fain believe to be my friends and the friends of the American people, as the American people are certainly your friends. They are your friends in a very deep and true sense. They understand what Belgian liberty signifies. They understand what Belgium's suffering signifies, and it is, I believe, one of their deepest ambitions to satisfy the duty of friendship as toward the Belgian people. They have tried to do so in the past.

"It has been one of my pleasures on this trip to be accompanied by my fellow countryman, Mr. Herbert Hoover, who I know has had Belgium written on his heart throughout this war, and whose pleasure has been touching to see as, in going about the country, we have seen healthy children and robust men and women whom he could properly believe were served by the food which came from America. I believe that I have the privilege of speaking his thoughts (one of the peculiarities of Mr. Hoover is that he is too modest to speak for himself), and therefore I am proud to share with him some of your welcome.

"I am accompanied by other colleagues with whom I have been in counsel throughout the war and whose thoughts I can tell you have been constantly upon the methods by which Belgium could be helped, whose thought is now upon that subject, whose hope is that some method will be worked out, as I had the privilege of saying to your Parliament today, by which systematic help can be rendered to Belgium.

"So, I feel peculiarly honored in this ancient building of this ancient city to be received at your hands, sir, and I bring you the warm greeting of the people of America. I am sure I express their wish when I say, 'Long live the prosperity of Brussels and of Belgium, and of her King and Queen.'"

WOULD END ECONOMIC BOARD.

American Experts Want to Go Home—British Favor Reorganizing.

PARIS, June 20, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson met the American members of the Supreme Economic Commission today to consider whether that body should be discontinued.

It is understood that Herbert Hoover, Director General of the Interallied Relief Organization; Vance McCormick, Chairman of the American War Trade Board, and Bernard M. Baruch, Vice President of the Sub-Committee of the Peace Conference, to study measures of control and guarantees, are in favor of a discontinuance of the commission and the return home of the American members, whereas the British favor its continuance with broader duties, including shipping and other branches formerly conducted by a separate committee in London.

The Economic Commission was created for the period of the armistice, which will expire with the signing of the Peace Treaty.

FOCH ORDERS GERMANS TO EVACUATE RUSSIA

Also Instructs Armistice Commission to Stop Advance Towards Esthonia.

BERLIN, June 20, (Associated Press.)—General Nudant, representative of Marshal Foch at Spa, in a note addressed to the German Armistice Commission on behalf of the Allied and Associated Powers, requested the German Government today to take the most speedy measures, first, to prevent any advance of German troops northward in the direction of Esthonia, and, second, to bring about the immediate evacuation of Windau and Libau, and the speediest possible evacuation of all territories which before the war were part of the Russian Empire.

PERSHING'S LONDON VISIT.

Will Go Next Tuesday if Germany Signs Treaty.

LONDON, June 20.—General Pershing, the American commander in chief, will come to London Tuesday for an unofficial visit, contingent upon the Germans signing the peace terms.

While he is in England he will go to Oxford to receive the degree of Doctor of Civil Law.

BIG TREATY CHANGES RELATE TO POLAND

Poles Must Sell Silesian Coal to Germans for Fifteen Years.

PART OF POMERANIA POLISH

Exchanged for Baltic Coast Strip Returned to Germany—Danzig and the Five Powers.

PARIS, June 19, (Associated Press.)—The alterations and amendments incorporated by the Council of Four in the revised treaty make it a somewhat longer document than the draft originally submitted to the Germans and published in the United States. It now comprises 214 pages, five more than the original, and even this was only effected by close paging. At various points the Drafting Committee sought to adhere as far as possible to the original numbering of the articles and contrived to make up for insertions or omissions by combining or splitting articles.

As at first arranged, the new instrument still contains the original 14 Parts and 440 Articles.

The article assuring Silesian coal and minerals to German industry now reads:

"Poland undertakes to permit for a period of fifteen years the exportation to Germany of the products of mines in any part of Upper Silesia transferred to Poland, in accordance with the present treaty, without export duties or restrictions, and to permit the Germans to purchase these products on the same terms as the Poles."

In the revised draft "the principal allied and associated powers" undertake to establish Danzig as a free city. This language, in which the responsibility of the five great powers for the creation of the new city and State is definitely assumed, is substituted for the original phraseology, declaring merely that "Danzig is established as a free city."

The new article which replaces the original provision for the disarmament of Germany, No. 165, providing for reduction to a specified point within two months, now reads in the English version:

"Up to the time at which Germany is admitted as a member of the League of Nations, the German Army shall not possess armament greater than that fixed in the table submitted in this treaty," and continues: "Germany agrees that after she has become a member of the League, the armaments fixed by the table shall remain in force until modified by the Council of the League. Furthermore, she hereby agrees strictly to observe the decisions of the Council in this respect."

The bulkiest, as well as the most important, changes revealed by a comparison of the old and new drafts are those relative to the new Polish frontiers and the Silesian plebiscite. The frontier changes correspond [illegible] with those outlined in recent dispatches, but bring the Polish frontier [illegible] Breslau, on the east, than was at first contemplated, and give Poland a [illegible] section of the Prussian province of Pomerania in exchange for the [illegible] strip of the same province returned to Germany, although the Council of Four planned for a time to make all Pomerania German on historical grounds.

Some of the changes in the treaty can be indicated only by reference to maps of the largest scale. The provision for a plebiscite in the Silesian regions [illegible] that the vote will be taken in virtually all of Upper Silesia except small areas in the southwestern and northern corners, which were awarded unconditionally to Czechoslovakia and Poland, respectively. The plebiscite must be held between the sixth and eighteenth months after the signature of the Peace Treaty. The same conditions as regards the withdrawal of German armies and officials and the disbandment of workmen's soviets which were included in the Schleswig-Holstein and East Prussia plebiscite provisions are found in [illegible] affecting Silesia.

A significant article of the treaty prohibits political prosecutions by either the Polish or German Governments for activities during the plebiscite in Silesia.

haps bring a favorable change in the German Government.

The greatest difficulty is to [illegible] how Noske, the chief exponent of force toward the Independent Socialists and the Spartacides, can work with the Independent Socialists, who are now the strongest advocates of signing the treaty. It is possible, however, that Hugo Haase, leader of the Independent Socialists and his party, will place the necessity of peace for Germany above their hatred and distrust of the Minister of National Defense.

The possibility must, however, be borne in mind that Noske may have been called to head the Government as the strongest man in a moment of national crisis, not necessarily to sign unpopular conditions of peace, but to constitute an administration capable of riding out the coming storm.

Early advices had indicated that four members of the Scheidemann Cabinet were insisting upon the signing of the treaty, and it is presumed here that this caused the fall of the Ministry.

Ebert Is Expected to Go, Too.

It is understood here that the fall of the Scheidemann Government involves that of President Ebert as well. The National Assembly will probably take measures to select the latter's successor.

French official information on the German situation is to the same general effect as that received by the American delegation. The French advices carry the impression that the National Assembly is favorable to the signing of the treaty.

A Havas dispatch from Basle today says that the Cabinet which has resigned persisted in looking upon the Peace Treaty as "impossible of execution and insupportable."

SAYS ITALY AGREES TO DALMATIA TERMS

ger of the Deputies, several shouting across the Chamber at the Government bench from which the Premier was speaking. There was a great tumult and cries of "The Allies have never been faithful to us. Why should we be faithful to them?"

Signor Orlando's utterance so stirred the Deputies that the rest of his speech received little attention. The intransigeant Socialists, led by Deputy Modegliani, were especially violent, while the discontent of others was voiced by Francesco Nitti, former Minister of the Treasury.

A majority of the Deputies clamored for discussion of the Government's foreign policy, and Premier Orlando proposed a secret session for this purpose. From many benches Deputies cried out: "No, no!" The excitement became intense.

Signor Nitti endeavored to bring about a compromise by proposing that the discussion begin in public, wth the understanding that the public sitting be transformed into a secret one, if such a step was thought necessary by the Premier and the Chamber approved it. Premier Orlando, however, insisted on a secret session. He pointed out that no Parliament of any of the victorious nations had yet discussed its international policy publicly, and he asked for a vote on his proposition, saying that it was not only a question of confidence, but also of dignity.

Among the members who voted against the Cabinet were ex-Premier Giolitti and ex-Ministers Nitti and Bissolati.

In the corridor of the Chamber after the vote, ex-Minister Gallenga thus expressed his view of the result:

"The Deputies and the people are tired of the situation. The delay and the uncertainty are affecting Italian prestige. Therefore has arisen the necessity for having new men in power better adapted to organization for facing the grave problems with which Italy is confronted."

Other views expressed by the Senators and Deputies were that the fall of the Cabinet was the result of several months of discontent with the Government's foreign policy, exemplified in the peace negotiations in Paris, culminating with President Wilson's refusal to accede to the Italian demands, and likewise threatening the internal situation. The home situation was attributed to many factors, including what was called "the lack of government," as both the leading figures in the Government, Premier Orlando and Baron Sonnino, the Foreign Minister, had been in Paris nearly the entire period since December.

On several occasions, it was pointed out by members, the Parliament had granted votes of confidence, notably the one following the triumphant entry into Rome of the Premier and Foreign Minister in last April, when they abandoned the Peace Conference to seek the indorsement of the legislative body. The former votes of confidence, it was declared, were meant to strengthen the hands of Italy's representatives in Paris in a deadlock of the most critical sort, but did not mean the approval of his home or foreign policies.

After Premier Orlando had announced his resignation Deputy Tufati proposed that the Chamber proceed to discuss the electoral reform bill, which aims to substitute the system of electing one representative from each electoral district for that by which Deputies are elected at large from the provinces. The proposal was adopted.

The Chamber also approved the proposal, made by Deputy Rosadi, for a discussion of the vote of credit on Saturday, after which the sitting will be declared ended, Premier Orlando and his Ministers remaining at their posts for ordinary administrative purposes.

WILSON ANSWERED HOPES OF BELGIANS

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

cultivated fields and in renewal of industries. He got it in the cheerfulness of the people and what they said to him.

His responses were in the same spirit. There was condemnation in his speeches for the vandalism of the Germans—at Louvain, he said, the Germans had taken themselves out of the brotherhood of scholarship—but there was no wasting words of pity on this nation, which asks for business co-operation, but for no pity now. He told the Belgian Parliament he purposed to recommend to Congress to elevate the American Legation in Belgium to an embassy, because that would more accurately measure America's esteem for this country's part in the war. So this second day was devoted by President Wilson among these people to sharing their hopes rather than discussing their woes.

Saw Dismantled Steel Plant.

The day began with a trip to the La Province Steel Works at Charleroi. Here his host was Baron Cartier, the Belgian Minister to the United States and chief owner of the steel plant, which is the largest industry of the kind in the country. There was no destruction here, but almost complete dismantlement by the Germans, who took the machinery away to their own country. Much has already been recovered, and the President saw today a long train loaded with restored parts. Much [illegible] is to be recovered, but already a beginning has been made toward resuming the industry.

It was on the road to Charleroi early this morning that the President passed the cross roads, the famous Quatre Bras, where Marshal Ney stationed his armies for the Battle of Waterloo. No doubt the King called his attention to it, but that was all.

Neither the Queen nor Mrs. Wilson accompanied their husbands on this factory journey.

This afternoon began with a reception at the American legation. Then came a historic session of Parliament, where speeches were made by President Wilson and M. Hymans, the Belgian delegate to the Peace Conference. The members of the Chamber were all in their seats when a file of soldiers marched in bearing the battle standards of Belgium, which they held aloft beside American flags over the tribune. Then the Queen and Mrs. Wilson entered and took their seats on a dias under a scarlet canopy at the left of the tribune. Finally the King and President came in and occupied the ministerial benches.

In his address of welcome M. Hymans paid a special tribute to Mrs. Wilson as one of the American women who had done so much for Belgium. Immediately the chamber was in an uproar of applause for the President's wife, with the ovation led by the Queen herself, who jumped up, turning her back on the King, the President, and Parliament as she faced the President's wife beside her in the genuineness of her own tribute. These two women, who had been cooped up in the same limousine for many hours of fast, dusty riding, evidently had become the best of friends.

In his speech, in the course of which he said that the American Legation in Belgium ought to be an embassy, President Wilson went at once to the heart of what have been the grievances of the Belgians. He said that he had come to see them at the first possible moment, and that he could not come before without neglecting his duties in Paris. He spoke of the country where he would find a King who had shown the world what personal sacrifice was, where he had met a Cardinal who had risked everything to do his duty to his people, and a Burgomaster who had never bowed to the enemy.

With the cheering that greeted these words there was an end of the Belgian grievances.

The President and King with their wives and staffs next made a long fast motor run to Malines, where they had tea with Cardinal Mercier in the roofless salon of his bombarded residence. Above them the chimes of the Malines Cathedral, famous for many centuries, were played by Jeanetyn, Belgium's great bell ringer. He played first "Hail Columbia" and then the songs with which the bells themselves were familiar before America was discovered.

From Malines the journey was to Louvain. Here in the roofless ancient library of the burned university, the King and President stood at a table in the centre of the ruins among priests, soldiers and children who ranged around them on the grass covered heaps of demolished masonry. It was among her ruins that Louvain conferred on the President a Doctorate of Laws.

In his response to Mgr. Ladeuse, Rector of the University, President Wilson glanced above where the roof had been and at the stark stone walls where once had been shelved one of the world's priceless collections of books. With an emotion that all his listeners shared he said:

"I think the nation that has done this has taken itself from the brotherhood of scholarship."

Everywhere, en route to Malines, Louvain, and back to the capital, the President received enthusiastic greetings from the population. Everywhere were school children massed to sing to him, and upon his return, late this afternoon, Brussels showed herself at the end of the Peace Conference capable of displaying as much emotion and gratitude toward the American President as had Paris, Rome, and London before the differences of the peacemakers began.

It was at the Hotel de Ville that Brussels paid its greatest tribute. After the formalities, conducted by Burgomaster Max, the President, the King, Mrs. Wilson, and the Queen went out on the balcony overlooking the beautiful Grande Place, which is today as it was in the time of the Spanish in the Netherlands.

Opposite was the King's house, and on each side of it and to the end of the square the famous guild houses built in those ancient days when the ambition of each guild was to build something more beautiful than its rival. It was the wonderful façades of these structures, with their gold leaf unmarred by time or German artillery, that made a frame for the picture upon which the President looked from the balcony.

The picture itself was the population of Belgium's capital singing its national songs led by a vast trained chorus of men accompanied by an army band in the place and echoing trumpets on the roofs of the guildhouses and the Hotel de Ville. They sang for him the "Star-Spangled Banner." They sang for him, for their King and for themselves the "Brabanconne," the national anthem of this people, who had so much more than ruins to show their friend from America.

Dinner was a gala affair in the King's palace, after which the President boarded a train for Paris.

President's First Day in Belgium.

June 20.—President Wilson broke bread today for the first time in the Kingdom of Belgium as the guest of King Albert on that long-delayed journey to Albert's country. The bread was broken under the trees in the Forest of Houtsulst, where the King, Queen, the President, Mrs. Wilson, and the members of their party had a picnic luncheon. Their only protection was a canvas stretched on four trees as a canopy above their heads to catch caterpillars, which will drop on a royal picnic as quickly as on that of a Sunday school.

But there was no other screen and no guards to prevent the peasants scattered among the trees from coming as close as they themselves thought respectful to watch the unusual spectacle of a King and an American President eating in the woods with their wives. So King Albert is as democratic today as was the ancient King Alfred who entered the peasant's cottage incognito and was scolded by her because he allowed the cakes to burn which he had offered to watch for her. The beauty of this simplicity in Houtsulst Forest was that there was nothing forced or affected about it. On the contrary, it was necessary. It was the only place to have luncheon in that particularly devastated part of Belgium, where no such thing as a château or hotel is left standing after the German bombardments.

It was at Adinkerke, a small village near the French frontier, that the President and Mrs. Wilson were first welcomed to Belgium by the King and Queen. When the special Presidential train from Paris arrived there at 9 o'clock this morning the royal party entered the private car where the greetings were delightfully informal.

"We don't have to be introduced," said the President, as he seized the King's hand, "for we've learned to know each other very well in Paris."

Journey Along Flanders Front.

An all-day automobile journey through the devastated regions began as soon as the train greetings were over. The King and the President rode by themselves in the first car, an open one, regardless of dust, wind, and sun. The Queen, Mrs. Wilson, and Miss Wilson in a closed limousine, drove next. Admiral Grayson and several others were in a third car, and then came a long string of Belgian and American army motors filled with guests brought from Paris. There were no speeches along the way, and very few stops.

The first stop was the one in the woods for luncheon. From there the party went to Ypres, where the King, the President, the Queen, and Mrs. Wilson left their cars and walked for a while about the unspeakable ruins of the Cloth Hall and cathedral. From there the run was to Menin along the fields in which had occurred the most bitter fighting in Flanders. King Albert was a good guide, for he knew from personal experience every inch of the ground covered, and pointed out this and that vital point to the President.

From Menin the ruin of war, led straight to the coast at Ostend, where the President signed the Book of Gold at the Hotel de Ville. From Ostend they motored along the sea to Zeebrugge, where the President went out to the Mole to see where the British had blocked the port.

Zeebrugge was the end of the automobile ride. From that port they all took a special train for Brussels, arriving at 9 this evening and going direct to the Royal Palace.

SAYS OPINION HERE TURNS TO LEAGUE

By MAJOR GEN. SIR FREDERICK MAURICE.

LONDON, June 20.—I have been at some pains in my previous articles to explain what appears to me to be the drift of public opinion in the United States in regard to the League of Nations and to dispel the illusion which prevails very generally in England that the Democratic Party as a whole is in favor of the League, and the Republican Party as a whole is opposed to it.

It is unquestionably the case that the Democratic Party has continued to lose ground since the last elections went against them, and even stalwart Democrats expect that the next President will be a Republican. These are not matters with which the British are concerned, except in so far as they affect the chances of acceptance by the United States of the treaty and the covenant, and, so far as I have been able to observe, such change in political feeling as has been taking place has been due mainly to causes quite unconnected with either.

In the time that elapsed between the entry of the United States into war and the signature of the armistice, the Administration was able to bring to fruition comparatively few of the vast schemes which it had inaugurated. It is now known that hardly an American-made gun or an American-built airplane was actually used in France before the fighting ceased, and that many of the Federal shipping yards had not become fully productive.

There has been a great deal of criticism of the absence of support in the air for the American troops who fought their way from Verdun to Sedan in the battle of the Meuse and of the Argonne, and much talk of defects in the administration services behind the army during that battle. There is a widespread feeling among the American people that they poured out money like water in order that their boys in France might have the best of everything, and that the boys did not get it.

The American public is naturally intensely proud of the achievements of its troops in France, but the feeling is that the troops won their way through the German trenches by their grit, valor, and enterprise, and without much help from the Government.

The Wilson Administration has not, therefore, gained sufficient kudos from the victory to counteract the criticisms which every Government accumulates against itself, particularly in times of crisis.

The Government control of industries has not been highly successful, and is very unpopular. Railways, the postal service, and the telephone, all suffered as the result of the war, and, rightly or wrongly, the Administration is blamed.

There are much the same complaints of profiteering and of departmental extravagance as there are with the British, while the anti-German feeling being now very high, the number of those who disagree with Mr. Wilson's policy of delay in entering the war has increased.

Probably if the delegates of the allied and associated powers had been able to complete peace quickly, the great position which Mr. Wilson established for himself when he first came to Europe would have reacted in America and rallied support to him, but America, like the rest of the world, is impatient of the delays in Paris and is worried just as the British are, though I believe with less reason, by the unrest which is the aftermath of war. Therefore, the Peace Treaty has done no more than the victory to increase the President's influence.

We naturally regard Mr. Wilson as the protagonist of the League of Nations and his "Fourteen Points" as the first attempt by practical statesmen to put the ideals which the League embodies into practical form. Consequently it is natural to asume that the opposition to Mr. Wilson means opposition to the League. I hope that what I have already said has made it clear that this assumption is not warranted.

If the approach of the Presidential election has introduced politics into the discussion of the League covenant, the general tendency during the last three months has been, I believe, in a contrary direction. Support for a League of Nations which will not endanger essential American interests has been widening rather than narrowing, and the result of this has been to make the question of the covenant less a party and more an American question.

I had many opportunities of discussing the covenant with Senators of both parties, and I found that there was much more agreement among them than would appear from the cabled reports of proceedings in the Senate which are coming here. Some Democrats were as strongly opposed to the first draft of the covenant as being incompatible with the Constitution of the United States as were leading Republicans. All recognized that acceptance of a covenant implied almost invariably some concession on the part of those who agreed to it, and that it was unreasonable to expect that a treaty to which thirty States were prepared to agree could accord completely with the hopes and wishes of every one of the signatories.

There was no reluctance except among a comparatively small party of out-and-out opponents of the League to make real concessions of traditional American policy for the good of the world, and, while the Senate is jealous of its rights and responsibilities in regard to treaties, there is no wish to delay by independent action the settlement of European affairs or to upset arrangements come to with other powers after the protracted negotiations.

There is, however, an almost unanimous wish to define exactly the extent of America's commitments and to let the world know beyond any possibility of misunderstanding how far America is prepared to go.

There has been far less criticism of the actual treaty with Germany in the United States than there has been in Great Britain. As I said, the intellectuals of the Democratic Party are disappointed with it, but on the whole it has been accepted as satisfactory. With reservations in certain quarters as regards the Sarre Valley and Silesia, the territorial clauses are regarded as compatible with the principles of the Fourteen Points, and are considered as satisfactory a solution of an extraordinarily complex problem as could reasonably be expected.

With the financial clauses America does not feel she is greatly concerned. She is anxious that Germany should be punished for her crimes and that France and Belgium should be compensated for their sufferings. She desired no monetary reward for her own services, and therefore was prepared to leave the question of restitution to those who are concerned with it. I have never heard it suggested in any quarter that the Senate would either reject or amend the treaty with Germany as apart from the covenant.

Since the insertion of the Monroe Doctrine clause in the covenant the outstanding difficulty in America as regards the League of Nations is Article X., which provides that members of the League shall undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all the members of the League.

There is no doubt that this article causes a great number of Americans very deep anxiety. America, as she has shown in the war, is prepared to intervene in Europe for a great cause, but she is no more ready today than she ever has been to intervene in what she regards as the petty squabbles of European powers.

I was continually asked this question: "Does Article X. mean that we shall have to send our boys to settle troubles in the Balkans or any other of the world's sore spots with which we have no concern? If it does, you may take it as quite certain that we won't."

Lord Robert Cecil's recent explanation of Article X., therefore, comes at a most opportune moment. He said at Albert Hall Friday that this article did not mean that the actual existing settlement and the actually existing boundaries of each country are to be unalterable, but that the intention of the drafters of the covenant was that when any change became necessary, it should not be by violence or war, but by discussion and debate.

This is exactly the interpretation which one of the leading Senators of the United States put to me as desirable from the American point of view, and I believe that such interpretation will go far to remove the remaining doubts and anxieties in regard to the League which many Americans still entertain.

It is unfortunate that this explanation could not have been made earlier, and the criticisms which this article aroused show the difficulties under which the Allies, and particularly America, who is furthest removed from the seat of action, are laboring in having all those who can speak with authority fully occupied in Paris and removed from direct touch with public opinion. In these circumstances it is easy, with the best intentions, to create imaginary difficulties.

This incident also shows what may be expected when President Wilson is free, as he will soon be, to return to the United States and explain fully exactly what has been in the minds of those who prepared the Constitution of the League.

For the reasons which I have given my experience in America has led me to the conclusion that the force of public opinion in the United States has been moving steadily in favor of the League, and not, as had been generally supposed here, against it.

I also believe that the Senate is perfectly aware of this, and that the desire of the great majority of the Senators is not to kill the League, but to remove any possible causes of misunderstanding in regard to America's attitude toward the League. The opinion of most of those best qualified to judge whom I was able to consult was that the Senate would accept both the covenant and the treaty as signed at Paris, but would add to the covenant a number of riders defining in clear terms what America understands by certain articles, as to the exact meaning of which there is at present doubt.

Before this end is reached, there may be many preliminary skirmishes, such as have lately taken place from various political motives, but I see no reason to doubt that America will enter the League which she has done so much to found.

ADVISES PROTECTION FOR BALTIC STATES

PARIS, June 19, (Associated Press.)—Colonel Warwick Green, chief of the American military mission to the Baltic States, who left Riga on June 13 and Libau on June 15 on his return to Paris, told the Baltic Commission today that the Allies should immediately extend food relief to the Baltic States, send officers to insure the enforcement of the allied ultimatum that German armies there be withdrawn and prevent the Bolsheviki from again overrunning the States after the Germans have left.

Colonel Green says there are probably 60,000 regularly organized German soldiers in Letvia and Lithuania, under the command of General von der Goltz. In addition, there are several thousand Germans and German Russians under Major Fletcher, military dictator of Riga, who are apparently not under orders from General von der Goltz. He declares that the present Lettish and Lithuanian Governments are "mere creations of Germany and dependent on her for money and organizers."

He reports that the reign of terror which the Bolsheviki instituted before withdrawing from Letvia was far worse than that begun by the Letts and Germans in retaliation. The Bolsheviki, he states, killed 1,700 men and women of all ages, many of whom the American mission saw lying in the streets when it visited Riga the first time, on May 23. Major Fletcher, who imprisoned 4,000 alleged agitators and executed 200, said that it would be probably necessary to shoot 400 more.

Colonel Green says that many of these prisoners are undoubtedly murderers, who would be executed by any Government, but fair trials were not given them, nor were they furnished with decent quarters until after the intervention of the allied missions.

Conditions in Riga were found to be improved when the Americans returned on June 13. They inspected the jails, which were found to be clean, and women prisoners had been segregated under the care of a matron. Trials were being conducted by mixed courts of Letts, Russians, and Germans.

The allied officers fear a recurrence of Bolshevist attacks as the result of their successes against the Kolchak forces, which will release troops that will be rushed to the Volga district.

The Provisional Government of Lithuania has decided to convoke a Constituent Assembly, according to advices received here. The Government has perfected its administrative organization.

TORPEDOES RED CRUISER.

British Submarine Sinks the Oleg in the Baltic Sea.

LONDON, June 20.—The Russian cruiser Oleg was sunk on Wednesday by a British submarine, it is announced in a Russian wireless dispatch received today.

The Oleg was a vessel of 6,770 tons.

The sinking occurred near the Tolbuchan lighthouse.

Tolbuchan, or Tolboukin, light is on an islet of that name at the westerly extremity of the shoal extending westward from Kotlin Island, on which the Russian fortress of Kronstadt is situated.

The cruiser Oleg was a sister ship of the Bogatyr, the latter having been built in 1901 and the Oleg in 1903. She was 433 feet in length on the waterline and 25 feet in draught. Her armament consisted of twelve 6-inch guns in the main battery, eight 11-pounders, and eight 3-pounders, with two torpedo tubes. She was protected by three-inch armor on deck, turrets and casements. Her speed was twenty-three knots and she carried a complement of 565 men.

The Oleg took part in the battle of the Sea of Japan in the Russo-Japanese war, on May 27-28, 1905. Admiral Rojestvensky transferred his flag during that engagement from the Kniaz Souvaroff to the Oleg. The Admiral was later found severely wounded on board a Russian destroyer. The Oleg, together with Rear Admiral Enquist's flagship, the Aurora, and the light cruiser Jemtchug, which in 1914 was torpedoed by the German cruiser Emden at Penang, later reached Manila. The Oleg had thirteen of her crew killed and eighteen wounded during the battle.

LABOR CONVENTION INDORSES LEAGUE

GETS CABLE FROM WILSON

Favors Repeal of Espionage Law, but Does Not Recommend General Pardons.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 20.—The support of organized labor in the United States as represented by the American Federation of Labor was pledged today to the proposed covenant of the League of Nations and the international labor charter. It was provided that nothing in the indorsement should be construed as to deny the right of self-determination to the people of Ireland.

Toward the close of the convention's debate, which lasted four hours, Samuel Gompers, President of the federation and Chairman of the International Labor Commission, produced cablegrams received by him today from President Wilson and the American Peace Mission in Paris. The messages raised a stir in the audience. There was an enthusiastic demonstration in favor of the League when Mr. Gompers closed the debate and the question was placed before the delegates. The vote stood 29,750 for and 420 against.

Andrew Furuseth, President of the International Seamen's Union, locked horns with Mr. Gompers, opposing the labor charter on the ground that it would write into the law of nations the declaration that labor was a commodity and that it did not contain the principal objects for which the American delegation had fought.

Earlier in the day the convention adopted a committee report which demanded that immediately when peace is signed all laws infringing on the rights of free speech, free assemblage, and free press be repealed. It was stated that no recommendations would be presented for a general pardon of all persons sentenced under the Espionage act or "in connection with industrial crimes." The reports said that there were instances where pardons were warranted and many cases where sentences imposed were fully justified.

Last Monday when it appeared that there would be objection to approval of the League of Nations and the labor charter recommendations, Mr. Gompers sent the following communication to acting Secretary of State Frank L. Polk:

> Because of its importance and urgency, will you please transmit the following message to the President:
>
> Upon my advice, Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor has recommended to the convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session the indorsement of the League of Nations, including the labor provisions.
>
> Reports published indicate that the labor provisions have been so changed and weakened as to practically nullify effectiveness.
>
> I cannot ask the convention or the rank and file of labor to indorse propositions which have been or may be made valueless.
>
> The convention must necessarily take up consideration of the matter on or before Friday, June 20, 1919, and I urgently request full and definite information upon this subject, together with copy of provisions affecting labor as now framed.
>
> SAMUEL GOMPERS.

President Wilson sent the following reply:

> Your message came while I was in Belgium and reached me too late to make a full reply, but, as I indicated in an earlier message, while the labor provisions are somewhat weakened, it is the opinion of friends of labor, and my own opinion, that they are not materially weakened, and that they will constitute a most serviceable magna charta. Will cable labor provisions, but fear I will be too late for the convention.
>
> WOODROW WILSON.

Here is the message of the American Peace Mission as received by Mr. Gompers through the State Department:

> Department of State, Washington.
>
> Your telegram from Gompers has been forwarded to the President at Brussels. Meanwhile the following is the only substantial change which has been made in the draft conformed by the International Labor Commission: Omit from Protocol 2, Article 7, the sentence which reads: "No high contracting party, together with its dominions and colonies, whether self-governing or not, shall be entitled to nominate more than one member." Refer also to commission telegrams of April 27 and of April 28 concerning the adoption of the articles which were submitted by Sir Robert Borden.
> Since changes of which you have already been fully informed no changes whatever has been introduced into the labor clauses, Part XIII. of the treaty. The only recommendation introduced by the Labor Commission in the final version of the treaty not found in the draft treaty was a provision for the more effective protection of beneficiaries of social insurance in ceded territory, (Article 312,) as follows: "In case these special conventions are not concluded in accordance with the above article within three months after the signature of the present treaty, conditions of transfer shall in each case be referred to a commission of five members, one of whom shall be appointed by the German Government, one by the other interested Governments, and three by the governing body of the International Labor Office, from the nationals of other States. This commission shall by majority vote, within three months after appointment, adopt recommendations for submission to the League of Nations and the decision of the council shall forthwith be accepted as final by Germany and the other Governments concerned."
> (Signed) AMERICAN MISSION.

In opening his attack on the recommendation of the Committee on International Labor Legislation, Mr. Furuseth said he felt it his duty no matter what the consequences might be to make his protest. He spoke of his gratitude to and admiration for President Wilson, but he was unable to follow blindly in the acceptance of a "diluted" labor charter that under pressure the President no doubt felt himself obliged to accept.

Under Section 20 of the League and Section 23 as amended, he declared: "The League takes jurisdiction over the daily lives of the working people throughout the world." He said the provision that the League would attempt to make the conditions of labor "humane and just" meant whatever was reasonable and just to the League, and that the workmen of the world will have to accept it as "humane and just."

Turning to the so-called "Borden Amendment," the speaker pointed out that in Section 2 of the Labor Charter it is stated "labor should not be regarded merely as a commodity or article of commerce." This change was made after the American delegates left, he added. The original article as adopted during the presence of the American delegates said that "Labor was not a commodity," the addition of "merely," continued Mr. Furuseth, changed an absolute negative to a positive.

The American labor delegation brought to Paris the proposal of the right of free association, free assembly, and free press, he declared, but these can not be found in labor's bill of rights. Taking up the question of representation, he said, that provision was made for four members from each nation on the labor conference, two being Government delegates, one representing the employers and one the employes. This, he maintained, was three to one against labor. The British Empire would have twenty-four members, he added, for there would be four for Britain and four each for the self governing dominions.

In replying to Mr. Furuseth, Mr. Gompers said that he had never been in such an awkward and uncomfortable position as he was nine-tenths of the time when presiding over the Commission of International Labor Legislation. He said he had been elected unanimously, but soon found himself in the minority on every proposition he submitted. Mr. Gompers declared emphatically that in his propositions he was opposed as much by the radicals and Socialists as he was by the representatives of capitalism. In his effort to decrease the voting power of Governments, the argument and vote of the radicals, Socialists, and the capitalists defeated him, he added.

As the labor convention was drawn up at first, said Mr. Gompers, it met with the disapproval of Mr. Furuseth, who agreed that it would be satisfactory to him if a compromise proposal were made. He said he wrote the preamble after which Furuseth declared, "Now we are safe. I congratulate you, Sam." He was surprised to learn later that Mr. Furuseth had sent a letter to the President protesting against the labor charter, but was unsuccessful in obtaining from Furuseth a copy of the letter to Mr. Wilson. A copy of Mr. Furuseth's letter to the President was then read and Mr. Gompers said that the head of the Seamen's Union had undertaken to speak in the name of American labor.

Referring to the Furuseth letter to the President, in which he said that the labor covenant had shocked British labor leaders, Mr. Gompers asserted that the Parliamentary Committee of the British Trade Union Congress and the British Labor Party had approved the covenant.

Mr. Gompers said that the document was not perfect, but that he would not play into the hands of the politicians by opposing it. If war was to be avoided, how could it be done except by agreement? he asked. What was there left to stand as a barrier against war if the proposed covenant were defeated? He did not desire to support those who would inflame the world with the horrors of war whenever their nation felt itself strong enough. He pointed out that an airplane flew across the Atlantic last week in 16 hours, and said the United States and Europe were so close together that it was essential that the best possible relationship should exist between the people of both continents. He was confident that the indorsement of labor would give the legislators at Washington an incentive to indorse it.

"When I heard that Mr. Furuseth had sent a letter to the President," he declared, "I sent my secretary, Guy Oyster, to Mr. Furuseth for a copy of the letter. He called three times for it, but was not able to get it, and then he left a note with the clerk of the hotel for Mr. Furuseth, but I never received a copy from that time until this, when a friend furnished me with a copy."

Mr. Gompers declared that Mr. Furuseth had not given one intimation to the American Federation of Labor delegation that he had sent the letter to the President, but he was not surprised, for "some people are so constituted that if you gave them Paradise they would find fault with it."

"I don't want to be believed as a blind follower of any man," continued Mr. Gompers earnestly, "but I do want to say that President Wilson is not only one of the most brainy and brilliant men of our time, but he possesses a conscience and a heart that seeks for the right."

The statement was received with a round of applause.

TO SAFEGUARD STATE FUND.

A telegram was read at last night's meeting of the Central Federated Union from Edward I. Hannah, President, and Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the union, who are in attendance at the labor convention in Atlantic City, calling attention to the preliminary report made by Investigator Connor, who was appointed by the Governor, which included reflections upon the management of the Workinmen's Compensation State Fund. The telegram urged the Central Federated Union to appoint a representative of the union to ascertain what steps should be taken to safeguard the fund. The Chair appointed Abraham Lefkowitz of the Teachers' Union as the special representative.

The union voted to ask President Wilson to veto the repeal of the daylight saving law.

QUITS JOB IN FEAR OF SOVIET REVENGE

HAS SEEN RED-HATE AT WORK

Threats of Bolshevist retaliation made by Santari Nuorteva, "Red" agitator and Secretary of the Soviet Russia Mission, following the raid on its headquarters, at 110 West Fortieth Street, a week ago Thursday by State constables acting under instructions from Attorney General Charles D. Newton, assumed new and sinister importance yesterday when it became known that in the archives of the Soviet "embassy" was a list containing the names of aggressive enemies of the cult in this country, together with the names of relations or connections they may have in Bolshevist Russia.

"You know, two can play at this game," said Secretary Nuorteva to newspaper men after the "embassy" had been raided and he, with his chief, L. A. C. K. Martens, had been taken to the City Hall under guard to appear before the legislative committee investigating seditious activities. Before making this statement Secretary Nuorteva had laid stress upon the protection he said had been given to American lives and American property in Bolshevist Russia, even when chaos reigned supreme in the early days of the November revolution.

Archibald E. Stevenson, associate counsel to the Legislative Committee, was busy yesterday going over the papers seized. He declined to make any statement regarding the character of the documents in his hands which had not yet been produced before the committee.

Reports that the blacklist existed became current simultaneously with the news that Dr. Alessandro H. Carasso of 190 South Oxford Street, Brooklyn, had resigned as official translator for the Legislative Committee. Dr. Carasso resigned because he objected to the methods pursued by the committee. In a statement made public after he had offered his resignation Dr. Carasso denounced the raid on the Soviet "embassy" as a folly that would bring retribution upon Americans in Russia on whom the Bolshevist rulers can lay their hands.

"I know Bolshevist vengeance and I fear it," said Dr. Carasso in his statement. "My wife and only child are still there and will probably pay preciously for this political escapade of Stevenson's group."

When asked regarding the report that the raid had brought to light a blacklist kept to enable the Lenin-Trotzky Government to take vengeance upon friends and relatives in Russia of Americans who may have offended the Bolshevist spokesmen in this country, Dr. Carasso said:

Dr. Carasso was one of the last Americans officially in Russia to leave that country. He was attached to the American Embassy as official translator. While in Russia he married the daughter of a Russian General. His wife comes from the Russian nobility. Dr. Carasso himself was persecuted by the Bolsheviki before he contrived to escape, and bitterly hates them.

"Residing in Russia for a decade and being one of the last Americans to leave the country, I was able to view thoroughly the brutality which Bolshevism developed there," said Dr. Carasso. "Robbery, murder, rape, and 'freedom-celebrating' oppression—all this I saw. I suffered myself sufficiently from these hoodlums. None can therefore favor with greater enthusiasm than myself the vigorous prosecution, if not destruction, of this brutal movement.

"I cannot sympathize, nevertheless, with the means taken by certain private persons under the cloak of local legislative authority to combat this serious menace, for the Czaristic methods of espionage and gendarmerie adopted by them is more disgraceful in this free country of Lincoln than it was in the enslaved Russia of the Romanoff.

"America is mighty enough to declare open warfare against its sinister enemy, as she did to Germany. The Bolshevik has already flung his dirty glove in our faces and insolently boasted: 'Who will dare to measure his strength against mine?' And no civilized power has yet ventured to accept the challenge and reply decently. What motive could prompt the delay, I do not now know. What I do now know is that this passiveness of the powers has increased the Bolsheviki's impudence and strengthened his energy. Today we see this erstwhile group of political banditti spoken of as a great world force, with a mighty army and reserve of ammunition.

"What results do you think will be achieved by the raid on the 'Soviet Embassy' last Thursday?" "No result that will be good; of that I am certain. In fact, I am positive this step will prove harmful to our own interests.

"The unfortunate American citizens who are still festering in that Bolshevist hell over there in Russia will have to pay too dear a price for this imprudent step made by the 'investigating' group. Not Martens Hourwich or Weinstein (of the 'Embassy' staff) will be the victims, but defenseless men, women, and children for whom none will intercede and who are completely in the grip of the Bolsheviki. If the Bolsheviki have attained perfection in anything, it is in the fine art of retribution. In this pursuit they have no equals, especially when it is a matter of wreaking revenge on such unprotected and defeated creatures as Americans in Russia are now."

Senator Clayton R. Lusk, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, and Attorney General Newton both left for their up-State homes early yesterday. Senator Lusk expects to return to this city on Tuesday to prepare for the next hearing of the committee, scheduled for Thursday morning.

NO DEALINGS WITH SOVIET.

State Department Issues Denial of "Mission's" Inuendoes.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Flat denial that the American Government had ever had any relations with the so-called "Soviet Mission," whose offices in New York were raided a few days ago, was made in a formal statement issued by the State Department late this afternoon. Not only has the Washington Government had no relations with the "Soviet Mission," with which Martens, self-styled and unrecognized "Ambassador"; Professor Lomonossoff, and Nuorteva, a Finn, have been prominently identified, but it was made plain that the State Department had never received any representative of the mission.

Acting Secretary Polk twice previously, once in April and again in May, issued brief announcements that the State Department had not received Martens or any representative of the Soviet Government, and in one of the statements American business men were warned that this Government would not back up any contract made with representatives of the Bolshevist Government. The official announcement issued by the State Department today read:

"The Department of State has never recognized and has never had any relations whatever with the so-called Soviet 'Mission,' whose offices were raided in New York a few days ago, and never has received any one as a representative of that so-called 'mission.'

"Acting Secretary Polk stated today, in connection with newspaper reports regarding statements in papers which were seized in New York in a raid, that the assertion that the State Department 'knows that we communicate with Moscow and received large sums of money from there' is untrue, and Mr. Polk added that it was untrue that he had ever seen a committee from the Soviets.

"Mr. Polk said: 'I have never talked with Martens or with Lomonossoff, or with any committee of Soviet representatives, and the only time I ever saw Nuorteva was about five months ago, when some friend brought him in and introduced him. That was before Martens had appeared on the scene in this country. I devoted most of the time to telling Nuorteva that the United States would never recognize any people or Government that failed to respect the sanctity of diplomatic and Consular offices, a sanctity which the Bolsheviki violated in holding American Consul Tredwell hostage for months, despite protest against this violation of diplomatic and Consular usage, which every civilized Government respects.'

"On two occasions—once in April and again in May—the Department of State took occasion to issue a statement to the press regarding the activities of Martens and the Bolsheviki."

SAYS GERMANY AIDS REDS.

Huns and Bolsheviki Despoiling Russia, Charges Mme. Breshkovsky.

Mme. Catherine Breshkovsky, the "grandmother of the Russian revolution," who left Russia several months ago because of the restrictions to which she was subjected by the Lenin-Trotzky Government, issued yesterday through the Russian Information Bureau a statement in which she charges that Germany is still the power behind Trotzky and Lenin in their efforts to complete the triumph of Bolshevism everywhere in Russia. Through this backing of the Bolsheviki, says Mme. Breshkovsky, Germany still hopes to realize her dream of making Russia a German colony.

But for German support, the really patriotic Russians, who are fighting the mercenaries of Trotzky and Lenin, would long ago have won. Mme. Breshkovsky adds:

"The real situation, however, is altogether different. Against Russia there is still arrayed Germany—her Bolshevist and monarchist wings—and, in company with Lenin, these two German groups are strenuously endeavoring to crush Russia to earth. Today the Russian army of liberation is fighting fresh German forces splendidly equipped and led by experienced officers. Germany, in violation of the twofold peace, (one of Brest-Litovsk and the other resulting from the armistice,) has not desisted from waging an obstinate war against Russia by supplying Lenin and Trotzky with arms, officers, and higher leadership.

"Germany still hopes to realize her eternal dream of converting Russia into a German colony for territorial and economic aggrandizement. Before the eyes of the whole world Germany continues to violate her obligations, and, taking advantage of Russia's exhaustion, in company with the betrayers of our country, sneers at all laws defining international relations. Confident of immunity, Germany, by her complicity in the Bolshevist deeds of violence and destruction, is before the very eyes of our allies converting our beautiful and rich land, with its enormous population war-weary and distracted by the counter-revolution of the Bolsheviki, into an incubator of moral and physical dissolution which is spreading infection all over the world.

"Germany, in formal union with Lenin and Trotzky, is tearing apart the body of Russia, is gnawing away at her heart, and is sucking her life blood. According to the latest information from Russia, Germany has turned over to Trotzky 1,500,000 rifles and a great quantity of ammunition, has equipped the Red Army with officers, and given it a German staff. Numbers of Germans are fighting in the ranks of the Bolsheviki against the Russian revolutionary army, and these are, indeed, the main obstacles to the offensive movement of our forces. Such a state of affairs is fraught with danger for Russia, and is no less menacing for all those who look with callous indifference upon the growth and the strengthening of the union between the Russian Bolsheviki and the German chauvinists."

BACKS WILSON LOAN TO SIBERIAN ROAD

ATTACK LED BY WOOD

Democrats, in Defense, Said Vote Would Be a Repudiation of Contracts.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The House, by vote of 92 to 39, today refused to instruct President Wilson to turn into the Treasury $4,000,000 intended to be used in helping to finance the trans-Siberian railroad. An attack on the use by the President of this money out of the War Emergency Fund was led by Representative Wood of Indiana, supported by Representatives Walsh of Massachusetts and Goodykounts of West Virginia.

Representative James A. Good, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, opposed interference with the President's policy in this respect. He was supported by many Republicans, while Representative Byrne, Democrat, of Tennessee vigorously denounced those Republicans whom he charged with "playing partisan politics."

The issue came before the House when Representative Good moved to strike out that paragraph in the Sundry Civil Bill which provided for the return of $4,000,000 from the War Emergency Fund to the Treasury.

If Congress should adopt the section, he added, it would be a repudiation not only of the President, but of lawful contracts on behalf of the Government, and he was not willing to take responsibility for such a course.

Representative Goodykounts opposed Mr. Good's motion.

"Already the Democratic Administration has sunk $1,000,000,000 in the operation of our own railways," said Mr. Goodykounts, "and are now trying to sink more for a Russian railroad. If I thought it would help bring back our soldiers any sooner I would not oppose it, but I do not believe it will."

Representative Byrne of Tennessee, ranking Democrat on the Appropriations Committee, said the President had received full authority to use the $100,000,000 War Emergency Fund in any way he saw fit for national defense.

"He would have been a superman if he had been able to spend it all in such manner as to avoid any criticism by the members on the Republican side of the House," said Mr. Byrne.

ROPER DISCOURAGES HOPES OF THE 'WETS'

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The hope expressed in some quarters that a way would be found to prevent the nation from going dry on July 1 received another setback today when Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, stated that "I see no reason to doubt that the war-time prohibition as provided for in the Agricultural bill, approved Nov. 21, 1918, will become effective July 1."

"Bills looking to the enforcement of the war-time prohibition," Mr. Roper added, "have been introduced into the Congress and it is my understanding that the Judiciary Committee of both the Senate and House are actively engaged in the consideration of the measures with a view to reporting to the respective legislative bodies as early as possible bills meeting their approval."

A letter read by Secretary Glass to Representative Vilstead, Chairman of the former Committee on the Judiciary, says:

"I am convinced that the Federal prohibitory laws can best be enforced through the Prohibition Commissioner. In my belief he and his agents and assistants should be a part of the Department of Justice, rather than of the Treasury Department. I say this because the enforcement of prohibitory laws is in no way a fiscal matter. It depends for its effectiveness principally on the steps which will be taken in courts throughout the country by the Department of Justice in the punishment of lawbreakers.

"If this view is not concurred in, however, and the Congress shall see fit to create a Prohibition Commissioner in the Treasury Department, I shall use every effort to insure that this responsibility is carried out and that the law is vigorously enforced."

REPORT CZECH SOVIET RULE

COPENHAGEN, June 20.—A Czecho-slovak Soviet republic has been established, according to a wireless dispatch from Budapest.

Unrest continues in Vienna, dispatches from the Austrian capital today say, and preparations are being made for a new Communist attempt against the Government. Communist headquarters, it is said, have been converted into a fortress.

Hungarian Communist troops are expected to cross the Austrian frontier near Neudoerfel, south of Weiner-Neustadt, and to march on Wöllersdorff to occupy the munition factories there. Austrian troops have been sent to Weiner-Neustadt.

REDS IN GARDEN URGE REVOLUTION

6,000 persons present, about half of them women. More than 90 per cent., the police and Federal agents estimated, were of foreign birth, the majority being Russians. A man and woman were taken into custody during the speech of Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, the unrecognized Bolshevist "Ambassador" to the United States. These two persons waved red flags and shouted for the downfall of the United States. The man said he was Joseph Laskens.

Martens, who admits he registered as a German subject in England in 1914, was present during the entire meeting, and he made no remark or in any other way indicated that he did not thoroughly sympathize with the views of the audience regarding the overturn of the American Government and the substitution of a dictatorship patterned after that of Lenin and Trotzky at Moscow. The meeting was advertised as a protest against the raiding of Martens's "embassy suite" a week ago last Thursday by State troopers, who acted under orders from the Legislative Committee now investigating Bolshevism and kindred movements in this State.

"Irish Citizen" There.

Benjamin Gitlow, formerly a Socialist member of the Assembly, and now a National Committeeman of the Socialist Party, presided. The speakers were Dennis E. Batt, a member of the Socialist National Committee from Michigan; Eastman, who read the alleged Polk-Lansing confidential cablegram; James Larkin, a British subject, who said he thanked God that he was not an American citizen but "a citizen of the Irish Republic"; Rose Pastor Stokes, C. E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, and A. A. Spokiltzky, the only speaker who talked in the Russian language, who, for that reason, got more applause from the audience than all the other speakers combined. As a Captain of Police explained, "Everybody understood Spokiltzky," while probably not more than one-half of those present understood those who spoke in English.

Gitlow introduced Batt as one of the leading Socialists of the country and as "a man thoroughly in sympathy with the proletarian movement."

"The thing that we must do first of all," shouted Batt, "is to conquer our ruling classes here in America. We must start such a socialistic and revolutionary movement that the capitalists of America will tremble in their boots. We can learn from the fact that the proletarians of Germany tore open the prison gates and liberated Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg, and we can do the same here in America for Debs and the other comrades who languish in prison. We have a mighty task to plant revolution in the minds of the American working people.

"We must teach the American working classes to take charge of society and to establish a dictatorship of the proletariat here in America and to expropriate things to ourselves. No one knows when the revolution will break, but it is only a question of time when the proletariat will control all Europe and, here in America, over the hills the Red sun is rising."

For a "Class War."

Rose Pastor Stokes came next. She was introduced as a comrade who was out on bail and was under sentence to serve ten years in prison for disloyal activities during the war. She was bitter in her remarks, and openly urged class war. She argued for "one big union" as offering the best means of having Bolshevism in America.

"The capitalistic class," she said, "has started a campaign of terrorism against the working class of America, but they will fail to terrify, and we shall go forward, and all the time we will be organizing. I see in an afternoon newspaper that Charles E. Hughes warns against the Reds in America. We warn Mr. Hughes and his crowd that we will go on, that we know the work that is before us, and that we can no longer be confused by the slogan of race, or of religion, of creed or color or of nationality. We shall stand by Russia and we shall refuse to fight our comrade workers in Russia.

"Our slogan is one big union and it will continue to be our slogan until we have captured the bourgeoisie state. The work of organizing lies with you, and we want every one of you to pledge yourselves to redouble your efforts for the cause. Go out and use your every moment; use the printed and the oral word to tell the workers and the comrades the truth about their slavery.

"They called out 6,000 soldiers last night to see what they could do to control the city. Think a moment and imagine what that little 6,000 could do against the working classes. The change must come, and we hope it comes with as little violence as possible. Before us is the opposition, and the opposition must yield or else it must be crushed. I say again to you that the day will come, and whether it will be days or months or years depends on you."

C. E. Ruthenberg, also introduced as a member of the Socialist National Committee, followed Mrs. Stokes. He is the man who organized the May Day demonstration in Cleveland, and, according to Gitlow, "the capitalists are now trying to send him to the penitentiary for fifteen years."

Hails Advance of Bolshevism.

"The time has come," he said, "when we are ready to end the rule of the capitalist class in the United States. In Russia the masses rose from under and lifted the ruling class and left them hanging in the air waiting for their extinction. In Germany Bolshevism is growing, and it will continue to grow until the present German Government is swept out of existence. Here in America if the working class carry on our propaganda and agitate for revolution we can sweep this Government out of existence. Our work, our duty, in this hour is to plant the new idea into the minds of the working people of this country."

Here followed an impassioned appeal to the class instincts of those present. The Government stenographers took every word down and the transcript of the speech will be handed to the proper officials today.

Alexander Stokilitsky, the only speaker who used the Russian language, followed Ruthenberg. He had the crowd shouting most of the time, and brought about the biggest outcry of the evening when he called for "three cheers for the Bolsheviki Government of Russia."

Max Eastman and the alleged Polk-Lansing cablegram was next on the program. Eastman, who, during the war, was indicted for conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the draft law, caused the audience to laugh when he referred to the fact that he was an American citizen.

"We have been preaching Bolshevist propaganda for years," he said. "We shall continue to agitate for Bolshevism until it ends in a dictatorship of the proletariat in the United States. We don't need any help from Europe and all that we ask of the Russian Soviet Republic is that it shall continue to exist. There is no secret about the communist nature of our propaganda."

Eastman then produced the alleged copy of the Polk-Lansing cablegram. He led up to it by saying that the Administration's opposition to the Bolsheviki was "the blackest page in American history." He then made his charge that President Wilson was waging "a private war" against Lenin and Trotzky, and read the cablegram which, he argued, proved his charge. The asking of money from what he termed the President's "private fund" proved that American operations in Siberia and Russia were a private undertaking of the President, he said.

When Eastman mentioned the name of the President a storm of hisses came from all parts of the house. When he read the alleged cablegram a big Russian shouted in broken English, "Its a shame," and the audience cheered its approval. Martens, the "Bolshevist Ambassador," was the next speaker. They cheered him for five minutes.

Martens Defends Soviets.

"Protesting most vigorously against interference in Russian internal affairs by outside forces, Soviet Russia does not want to interfere in the internal affairs of other peoples," declared Martens. "Being a Government of the workers and for the workers, based on the principles of Marxian socialism, the Russian Soviet Government quite naturally entertains cordial feeling toward Socialists in all countries.

"Yet, our bureau is being incessantly attacked by the bourgeois press and, at this particular time, by a legislative committee of the State of New York, on the alleged ground that the aim of the bureau is to propagate Bolshevism in the United States."

Larkin declared that there were 90,000 organized Irishmen who were sympathetic with the Bolsheviki. He expressed a wish that the Government would deport him to Ireland, whence he came about five or six years ago. During the meeting men and women passed through the aisles selling Bolshevist and other radical publications.

DECAY-GERMS NOW "GASSED" BY OXYGEN

You have found that teeth will decay and will get yellow in spite of the constant use of ordinary dentifrices.

The reason is plain; no dentifrice is sure to reach every hiding place of the germs of decay, every time you brush your teeth.

There is one way to be sure—and hundreds of thousands have already discovered it, and that one way is to "gas" the dangerous decay-germs with OXYGEN. OXYGEN is a beneficial gas or vapor and penetrates where the tooth brush fails.

OXYGEN is Nature's life-giving substance; without oxygen in the air we would die. McK & R Calox Tooth Powder contains quantities of real oxygen, but it is "chemically imprisoned." In contact with the mouth-fluids this oxygen is readily released, penetrates into the crevices and hiding places of the mouth and quietly gasses the germs into harmlessness.

McK & R Calox tastes better than any dentifrice you ever tried—no "druggy" flavor. Being a powder it "takes hold" in a pleasing way. Try it for ten days and watch your teeth whiten. Twice a year at your dentist's and twice a day with McK & R Calox spells safety.

PALMER DEFENDS BOSCH PLANT SALE

READS LETTER FROM HEINS

DENIES SALE WAS SECRET

Committee Passed on His Action—Sharp Exchanges Before Senate Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, testifying before the sub-committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee today, met the attacks which have been made upon him by former Attorney General Lewis of New York and A. T. Andrews, based on the sale of the Bosch Magneto Company while Mr. Palmer was Alien Property Custodian, by producing a letter sent to Dr. Heinrich Albert, one-time German representative in New York, by Otto Heins, former General Manager of the Bosch company, in which he set forth in detail the program which the concern had carried out during the war to hamper plans of the British to protect London and other communities from Zeppelin raids.

Mr. Palmer spoke of Andrews, who has said he was an attorney for the Bosch Magneto Company from 1906 until the property was seized in 1918 by the Alien Property Custodian's office, with a scornful note. He offered in evidence a check for $500, signed by Andrews, which, he said, the latter accepted as a settlement for claims against the Government.

The statement that he had favored friends in disposing of the Bosch Magneto Company was denied by Mr. Palmer with emphasis. He said that he supposed he was the one man most hated in this country by the Germans because he had set out determinedly to destroy their economic hold in the nation.

He testified that there was nothing secretive about the sale of the Bosch Magneto Company, and that he disposed of it at what his advisory committee, of which Otto T. Bannard was chairman, deemed a reasonable figure. He admitted that he had not sought to hold the stock of the company until there was a market which might pay more money into German pocketbooks. Every step he had taken, he said, was open to inspection, and he invited a thorough investigation.

Mr. Lewis, Andrews, and Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, who is also attacking Mr. Palmer, were present at the inquiry, and there were several sharp passages. Mr. Palmer asserted that Senator Frelinghuysen had gone to the extent of inquiring of detectives and financiers in New York whether they "had anything on" the Attorney General.

At the close of the testimony the subcommittee held a brief executive session and then adjourned until tomorrow, when it will be decided whether the inquiry will proceed, and if it does proceed the lines to be followed.

Reads Heins Letter to Albert.

The presentation of the Heins-Albert letter by Mr. Palmer was the day's most interesting incident. The letter was dated Nov. 30, 1915, and directed Mr. Palmer said to Dr. Albert, New York City. Mr. Palmer then quoted the letter as follows:

"Honored Mr. Albert:

"In connection with the obstruction policy, upon which we agreed at the beginning of the war, in matters concernong deliveries of our products, especially the special-magneto-apparatus, I should like in the following to make several statements, from which one will clearly see, that the accomplished obstruction policy has, in every way, been successful.

"In short, we had agreed at the beginning of the war not only to withhold the much needed special-airplane apparatuses from the Allies, but by every means to succeed in accomplishing this, that the Allies, especially the English, not being able immediately to obtain substitute apparatuses, would attempt to manufacture them.

"In this case special apparatuses are involved, as for instance they are necessarily used in flying machines, airships and speed boats. The apparatuses related in this way are, on the whole, very different from normal apparatuses, which are usually used on automobiles and motorcycles.

"While it was still possible for the Allies, they meeting with no difficulties in obtaining any quantity of these normal apparatus in Europe pr from any of the competitors here, these apparatuses, which can be utilized on ordinary automobiles and motorcycles, yet this was not the case in reference to such special apparatuses.

"A simple consideration resulted in this, that in the beginning of the war, the Allies were given to believe that they could not obtain any Bosch apparatuses at all, then at this period it would be quite clear to them that they would be obliged to take up the manufacture of special apparatuses with great energy. It would have been comparatively easy for the Allies, if at this time had they come to the conclusion of undertaking the manufacture of special apparatuses, since at the beginning of the war the workshop as well as the material conditions which came under consideration for the manufacture of these special apparatuses were by far more favorable than later on, when entire factories and materials were being utilized exclusively for other purposes.

"Working from this point of view, we agreed without any further ado at the beginning of the war not to refuse the demands of the Allies, but to enter into apparent negotiations with the representatives, thereby creating with the Allies the impression that they, too, would receive the necessary special apparatuses at the desired time. These negotiations began after the first declaration of war, and it was possible on account of the technical character of the negotiations to extend them far beyond the opening months of the war.

Filled Orders for Normal Apparatus.

"Besides these orders and contracts for special apparatuses, there naturally came from the Allies orders for the aforementioned normal apparatuses. Even though they would be able to receive them in any quantity from the local competitors, the fact would be that the further consideration still would remain that it would not be expedient to cut them off entirely from the delivery of such normal aparatuses just now, for if this were to happen they would have recognized immediately that the negotiations concerning delivery of special aparatuses were only entered into as a ruse, and that later they would not be in a position to obtain special apparatuses from us—just as they were not able now to obtain normal apparatuses.

"It was necessary, therefore, in certain cases to make spot deliveries of normal commercial apparatuses, which would help to postpone the contracts for special apparatuses, and the impression already aroused, that the delivery concerning the special apparatuses would surely be made at the desired time.

"The result of this impression, which we kept alive, in that we made spot deliveries of normal apparatuses, while we carried out the procrastination policy in matters of special apparatuses and which resulted in certain expectations on the part of the Allies, that they could count upon us for the supply of special apparatuses, was this, that they, and especially the English, had taken no special steps to begin their own manufacture, relative to the supply of special apparatus. Our policy had lulled them into the certainty that at the proper time (in May and June, 1915) they would receive the necessary amount of special Bosch apparatuses.

"This procrastination policy was, according to agreement, carried out during the period of August, 1914, until July, 1915. After this period it was no longer possible to put off the Allies and they only then awakened to the fact that they would receive no special apparatuses from me.

"They only now began to take the necessary steps to manufacture for themselves the special apparatuses which they were in such pressing need of. But this was at such a time disproportionately more difficult than at the beginning of the war—just as we had anticipated since we had carried out the policy of procrastination—since entire factories were engaged in the manufacture of other war products, and the securing of special materials, which are necessary to the construction of these apparatuses, is now much more difficult than a year ago at the beginning of the war.

"One proof that they are just beginning to make a special effort to obtain such materials is their present urgent demand and orders, by wire and by letter. We could, because of our business connections, ascertain exact information, and were further able to bring about the result that such orders in certain cases of these special materials were never executed. There were often involved in these special insulation parts which should be manufactured exactly according to Bosch models. The Boonton Rubber Manufacturing Company of Boonton, N. J., received a number of such demands and orders, all of which they refused. Often, in fact, the firms delivering the contracts were American, but these were only used by the Allies, so that the desired materials might reach England. * * *

"As to the direct results of our policy of procrastination, I would say that because of it the English especially are not in a position to supply themselves with as effective defensive air fleet, which they might have accomplished if they had a sufficient number of special apparatuses at their disposal. One proof of this is embodied in this fact, that at present the English are not in a position actively to defend themselves by their airplane fleet against the raids by Zeppelins upon London and other places in England, while never has an airship been either damaged or disturbed by English airplanes. * * *

"An eyewitness of the Zeppelin air raids, Mr. Adams, gives as the sole reason in his letter of Oct. 27, 1915, to me, for the unsuccessful defense of London against these raids, that England possesses far too few airplanes."

"Then he goes on to say," added Mr. Palmer, "that the reason Paris escaped was because France had taken over the Bosch Magneto Company plant in Paris. That was fighting the war in Massachusetts, when we were all trying to be neutral."

Heins Confessed to German Ownership.

Mr. Palmer testified that Heins, during a dramatic scene in the office of the Alien Property Custodian in April, 1918, had broken down and wept for ten minutes, and then confessed that he, as a "dummy" Director, held stock for Robert Bosch of Stuttgart, Germany, who was the real owner of the concern.

The charges by Mr. Andrews and Mr. Lewis that the stock of the concern was sold at a price which made it possible for the buyers to reap huge profits brought a sharp rejoinder from Mr. Palmer.

"This sale was passed on, and every other sale for that matter," Mr. Palmer told the committee, "by my Advisory Committee, composed of Otto T. Bannard, Cleveland H. Dodge, Ralph Stone, George L. Ingraham, and Alex Griswold, Jr. I never signed my name giving the approval of this or any other sale without the unanimous approval of this committee."

Addressing Mr. Lewis directly, Mr. Palmer declared: "When you accuse me of selling out my Government you accuse Otto Bannard, Cleveland H. Dodge, Ralph Stone, and the other members of my Advisory Committee, all experts and upstanding American citizens, of selling out their Government."

"In selling the Bosch plant," said Mr. Palmer, "I sold it so as to use my power to strike a blow at the Germans. Mr. Lewis says we ought to have delayed the sale for a better market—for a time when industrial conditions would be more settled. I was not going to hunt the best market to put millions in the Treasury for a lot of Germans to hire lawyers and come and fight for after the war. We did not name the date when they declared war on us. Why should I wait for the best market. They started the war. And I advertised this property for sale while the war was still on. Mr. Lewis charges some one made money out of this sale. I am glad some Americans made money out of this property."

Mr. Lewis sketched the history of the Bosch company since the Government seized it as an alien property. It was sold last December and reorganized as the American Bosch Company. He stated the evidence would show that on an issue of the new stock insiders got it for $85 and that within a few days they were able to get $85 and more for it on the market.

Mr. Palmer insisted it was unfair to cite such figures without showing that similar industrial stocks went up in a like manner. The new stock was floated by Hornblower & Weeks, of which former Senator Weeks of Massachusetts is a member.

The sale price of the Bosch Company was $16,150,000, whereas its real value was at least $16,000,000, Mr. Lewis contended.

Senator Frelinghuysen explained to the committee that he had not brought formal charges against Mr. Palmer, but that he only transmitted information furnished to him by others.

"Yes," snapped Mr. Palmer. "You make no charges, but you have gone to New York, and you have gone to see detectives and you have had them go to people in the financial district and asked them if they didn't have something on Mitchell Palmer. Your detectives called on unsuccessful bidders. It's true you make no charges, but you have handled these charges in the newspapers. It is difficult for me to see the difference between that and actually preferring charges."

PALMER IS AGAIN ATTACKED.

Representative Good Says He Paid Excessive Fees to Lawyers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Representative James A. Good, Chairman of the House Appropriation Committee, charged in the House today that A. Mitchell Palmer, while Alien Property Custodian, permitted the payment of excessive attorney fees to former Judge J. Harry Covington, of the District Supreme Court, and other lawyers. To Mr. Covington was paid $15,000, and Frank L. Crocker of Washington $10,000 while acting as attorneys for chemical companies under the control of the Alien Property Custodian. Mr. Covington was formerly a member of Congress from Maryland.

In the case of ex-Judge Covington's fee Mr. Good intimated that the matter was open for investigation. "It seems to me," said Mr. Good, "that inasmuch as an able attorney, who has been occupying a position on the bench here, at a salary of $6,000 a year, could within a few weeks take down from one concern a fee of $15,000, it is at least a matter that was open to investigation."

"The fact that a man was a Judge or served in this House does not brand him incompetent to receive the fee which this man received," replied Representative Byrnes of South Carolina. "The question is whether the service was rendered, and no man can challenge that."

"The report shows," said Mr. Byrnes, "that, as a result of the work of these two attorneys, there has been paid $1,000,000 of income taxes, fraudulently kept out of the Treasury by action of alien enemies. On any basis when counsel through his efforts unearths for the Treasury a million dollars, a fee of $15,000 is not exorbitant. It is not as high as would be paid by other corporations."

GERMAN PLOTTERS SHUT OUT FOR GOOD

BAN INCLUDES BERNSTORFF

Peace Treaty to Make No Change in Attitude Toward Those Who Abused Hospitality.

If the case of Captain Hans Tauscher, of the German Army, is to be a precedent, German subjects who plotted in this country against the Allies will not be permitted to return after the treaty of peace is signed. Captain Tauscher, who was the American representative of the Krupps, and is the husband of Frau Johanna Gadski, the opera singer, accompanied Count Bernstorff back to Germany after the severance of diplomatic relations in 1917. He had served as a military attaché during the first two years of the war, his chief being Captain von Papen, who directed most of the German plots in this country.

Tauscher's intention to return came to the attention of the Government in an unusual way. He addressed a letter to an acquaintance in New York which was brought across in an "irregular way" probably by hand. Enclosed was a letter addressed to Frau Gadski, in which Captain Tauscher said he expected to return as soon as peace was declared, resume his business operations, and make this country his home.

The acquaintance to whom the letter was addressed, realizing that war regulations had been violated, turned the letter and its inclosures over to the Department of Justice, and word was sent through regular channels to Tauscher that his presence in this country was not desired and would not be permitted.

Captain Tauscher, while with Bernstorff's embassy, was indicted in connection with the conspiracy to blow up the Welland Canal in Canada. Before trial he offered to plead guilty, provided he should be punished only with a fine, the offer coming through counsel. District Attorney H. Snowden Marshall refused to consider any compromise and the case went to trial. Tauscher being acquitted by a jury. In the trial several United States Army officers testified in his behalf and Maj. Gen. William Crozier, once Chief of Ordnance, addressed a letter, in Tauscher's behalf, to the judge who presided.

The request of counsel for Tauscher," said Mr. Marshall, "was refused on the ground that the United States could not admit that a mere fine was sufficient punishment for a crime the object of which was the assassination of innocent civilians."

So far as is known, Tauscher is the first of the former German agents in this country to indicate a desire to return. It has been rumored that Captain Boy-Ed would like to come back, but this has not been verified. Countess von Bernstorff was born an American, and if she returns to visit relatives she must leave the Count behind, according to a statement made yesterday by a man familiar with the situation.

REDS KILL SALVADOR JUDGE.

Bomb Sent to Dr. Castillo Also Injures a Servant.

SAN SALVADOR, June 19.—An infernal machine sent to Dr. Manual Trejo Castillo, Civil Judge of Santa Ana, in Western Salvador, today caused the death of the Judge and the serious injury of a servant.

The explosive was contained in a small box provided with a lock and key. The fatal explosion occurred when the box was opened, and the report was so loud that it was heard throughout the city.

to hasten the Germans in refusing or delaying to sign the treaty.

Senator Sherman's speech was not generally relished in the Senate. Senator Ashurst said the charge that the Roman Catholic Church might dominate the League was "monstrous and absurd," and that he would not be surprised to hear next that the Mormon Church would try to control it. Senator Thomas observed that it would be most unfortunate if religious questions were introduced into the discussion.

Senator Sherman explained before he began his speech that although he was acting contrary to the advice of many, he felt it to be his duty to make known his apprehensions.

"Probably my colleagues will not agree with me," he told the Senate. "I have not consulted with the Advisory Committee on this side of the Chamber, and it is purely on my own responsibility that I speak. And I speak not precipitately, but from deliberation founded on long investigation.

"I have no personal feeling in the matter. I am a member of the Church. I regret to say, I have blood relations in both the Protestant and Catholic Churches. But if I did not touch on this feature of the League I would regard myself as derelict in my duty.

"From an early age," said Senator Sherman, "the occupants of the Vatican have believed and still believe in the inherent right of papal authority to administer civil government. I know how old this controversy is, and how bitterly assertions have been made and denied. It is with the utmost regret I fail to find recorded in the course of papal claims of later days any renunciation or disavowal of the doctrine. So far as a layman can discover the Vatican still believes it ought, and would if the power permitted, assume to administer ecclesiastical and civil government as its joint, exclusive, and paramount power."

Religious Lineup of Nations.

The Senator went on to say that of the original thirty-two member nations, signatories to the proposed League, twenty-eight were Christian nations and four of other faiths.

"Of these twenty-eight Christian nations," he continued, "seventeen are Catholic nations, either a majority or an overwhelming preponderance of the population being of that religious faith, and eleven are Protestant. The seventeen Catholic nations will be represented in the League in all human probability by Catholic delegates.

"The peril lies in the claim of papal power, never abjured, never disavowed. Shall the United States commit itself to the mercy of a power from which our ancestors delivered us? Shall we risk entangling ourselves and our posterity in the toils we have escaped through their wisdom and the warnings they left to guide us in the duties and perils of our generation? The covenant of the League of Nations bears within its folds a reactionary power more fatal and insidious than a Prussian helmet, more dangerous than future war."

Mr. Sherman asked whether in these circumstances the Senate might not well hesitate in voting the United States into the League when it became practically impossible ever to withdraw, inasmuch as difficulties, if it was sought to leave, could be raised by the smallest and most insignificant of the member States.

The Senator presented a newspaper story of an interview between the President and the Pope, March 17, 1919, in which the Pope was quoted as saying:

"President Wilson put the matter so clearly that my doubts began to melt, and before our interview closed I agreed with him on the main lines of his plan. The President struck me as being far more interested in his League of Nations than in fixing the frontiers of the newly created States."

Senator Sherman commented:

"Miraculous conversion or the deep, traditional wisdom of the Holy See, which? The great pontifical dignitary gives no random interviews. Neither can we believe both the President's visit and the interview were not for a pre-conceived purpose. It reveals, too, our absent President as making the League of Nations the paramount purpose of his presence at the peace table.

"The controversy over Fiume and the resulting troubles recall the belief among many Italians that the Vatican is not in sympathy with the civil government of Italy on this subject. It is fair to infer that the Pope cordially approves of President Wilson's stand against Orlando and the Italian civil authorities. Our good President's appeal to the people of Italy over the head of Orlando and his official associates may have been made with due deliberation and foreknowledge.

"There is a most remarkable continuity in the sequence of events from the Vatican's first efforts toward mediation to the Fiume controversy. While the evidence is circumstantial, all tends to connect President Wilson with influences unfriendly to the temporal power of Italy and inimical to the future welfare of the United States."

As an alternate course there was discussion of a possible joint resolution in case Germany signed the treaty declaring the war at an end, with the object of relieving Congress of the blame for continuing war operations while ratification of the treaty is delayed.

Still another proposal contemplated a second round robin to give notification of the strength of Senate opposition to the treaty in its present form.

All these expedients are expected to come in for discussion at tomorrow's conferences.

WASHINGTON, June 20, (Associated Press.)—There were growing indications today that opponents of the League of Nations might abandon all efforts to force a test vote on the subject in the Senate before the Germans act on the Peace Treaty at Versailles Monday.

Hope of bringing a roll call on the Knox resolution virtually had been abandoned and some leaders thought it might be permitted to die without even coming formally before the Senate for action.

URGE SENATE TO RATIFY.

Republicans Here Send Communication to Wadsworth and Calder.

Well-known members of the Republican Party are the signers of a communication to the United States Senators from New York State urging that political partisanship has no place in the consideration of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations and urging affirmative action by the Senate on both questions without amendment or delay. The communication is as follows:

To Hon. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Hon. William M. Calder, United States Senators:

Gentlemen—The undersigned, regularly enrolled Republicans of the State of New York, respectfully urge that political partisanship should have no place in the consideration on its merits of the constitution of the proposed League of Nations. The Republican Party, which has done so much to promote the principle of the peaceful settlement of international disputes, cannot justly be placed in an attitude of hostility to the project adopted by the Conference at Paris for the extension of that principle to all the associated nations for the purpose of averting all preventable wars.

The undersigned urge that the treaty containing the peace covenant be promptly ratified by the Senate without attempting to embarrass it by amendment, thus delaying the conclusion of peace and the establishment of a great agency for its future preservation.

BELA KUN SLURS ALLIES.

Not in Position to Intervene Effectively in Hungary, He Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, June 18.—The Budapest correspondent of the Politiken visited on Sunday the Hungarian Bolshevist front north of Kaaas and Lagrin, going right up to the front positions while the artillery duel was raging overhead.

"There were no trenches, as ordinarily understood," says the correspondent. "It is a pure war of movement, this war between Hungarians and Czechs and each man must seek cover as he advances. The Czechs seem very weak in artillery, as compared with their enemies, their guns firing at longer intervals of time and with weaker weight of metal; and as the fighting terrain is hilly and roadless, rendering retreat very difficult, this artillery superiority is telling heavily against the Czechs, who are in some danger of being completely cut off.

"In the liberated territories, that is, the territories reconquered by Bela Kun, the Czechs apparently made themselves generally hated, and in their retreat took with them many prisoners on the ground of their Hungarian nationalist sympathy; and there are the usual stories of shootings and plunderings of private property."

The correspondent quoted asked Bela Kun his opinion on the note from Clemenceau, in which an ultimatum was given the Hungarian Government to cease hostilities against the Czechs. Bela Kun declared that he regarded the note as an effort to save the Czechs from their desperate situation. He himself was ready at any moment to take part in a conference on the basis of self-determination for the Hungarian peoples, but this basis was opposed by the Czechs themselves as regards the Allies' threats. Bela Kun declared he was not much impressed, as he did not think the Allies were in a position to be able to intervene effectively in Hungary.

TO AID IRISH COMMITTEE.

John A. Murphy of Buffalo to Join Walsh in Paris.

The friends of Irish Freedom, which with affiliated organizations is raising a million-dollar fund for an Irish republic, announced last night the receipt of a cablegram from Frank P. Walsh, former member of the National War Labor Board, and ex-Governor Dunne of Illinois, members of the committee sent to France to represent the cause at the Peace Conference, stating that their work had just begun. The message said:

"Fight only just started. Suggest additional member be added to committee and that assistant secretary be sent also, because work is too heavy for one."

The local committee at once named John A. Murphy of Buffalo as the additional committeeman and decided to send L. S. Trigg, formerly an assistant to Mr. Walsh in the National War Labor Board, as assistant secretary. They will sail this morning on the Espagne. Mr. Murphy went to Ireland after the Easter uprising in 1916 to distribute funds raised in this country.

It was announced that New York's quota of $150,000 for the Irish cause is nearly raised and that there is no doubt the sum collected will greatly exceed the amount asked for here and throughout the United States. The fund originally sought was $1,000,000.

CLEMENCEAU HAS APPEAL.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Acting Secretary Polk notified the Senate today that its request to visit relatives and representatives of the provisional Government of Ireland be given a hearing at the Peace Conference had been delivered to M. Clemenceau, President of the conference, and his attention especially invited to the request."

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—Eadward De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," is in Philadelphia, according to a persistent report tonight among Irish sympathizers. The report is to the effect that Mr. De Valera, whose absence from Ireland has been commented upon by the cable dispatches, came here secretly and is living in seclusion, and that at the proper time he will announce himself and personally appeal to the American people for recognition of the Irish Republic.

TO LET BANKS AID IN FOREIGN CREDITS

Federal Reserve Board Will Ask Congress to Pass New Legislation.

WOULD PROVIDE $100,000,000

Investment of 5 Per Cent. of National Banks' Capital and Surplus Proposed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The steps which will be necessary to meet the immediate demands for the extension of long term credits to European countries which are in great need of financial aid from the United States for the work of reconstruction, were discussed today by the Federal Reserve Board with leading bankers of the country, and it was decided to recommend to Congress the passage of legislation which would make it possible for national banks, until Jan. 1, 1921, to invest not more than 5 per cent. of their capital and surplus in this manner.

American financiers have been urging for some time the necessity for action on the part of the Government which would permit the extension of a helping hand to Europe, and this point was emphasized by Henry P. Davison, Frank A. Vanderlip, and others when they were here a few days ago to testify in connection with the receipt in this country of copies of the treaty of peace text.

By the adoption of the legislation which will be recommended, national banks of the country would be able to devote about $100,000,000 to this purpose if they so desired. On March 4 there were 7,081 national banks, and their capital and surplus aggregated $1,960,938,000. Since that time the capital and surplus of the national banks has gone over the $2,000,000,000 mark.

In connection with today's conference the Federal Reserve Board made this announcement:

"The Federal Reserve Board had today a conference with the Executive Committee of the Federal Advisory Council, (James B. Forgan of Chicago, L. L. Rue of Philadelphia, Daniel G. Wing of Boston, and W. S. Rowe of Cincinnati,) to consider problems relating to the financing of the foreign trade of the United States.

"There was discussion as to what unusual features attached to this trade and the bearing thereof upon the American banking situation. The board and the committee of the council were in entire accord that the matter of providing long-term advances for Europe presented an investment rather than a banking problem and that the necessary help must therefore come from the investment market.

"It was, however, the opinion of the conference that as a step toward supporting plans for the financing of our foreign trade it would be well to add a new paragraph to Section 25 of the Federal Reserve act so as to permit national banks until Jan. 1, 1921, without regard to the amount of their capital and surplus, to invest not exceeding in the aggregate 5 per centum of their capital and surplus in the stock of one or more corporations principally engaged in such phases of international or foreign financial operations as may be necessary to facilitate the export of goods from the United States."

The Board voted to recommend this legislation to Congress.

To Ask for Legislation Today.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Legislation to permit all national banks to become stockholders of corporations engaged in promoting foreign trade will be recommended to Congress tomorrow by the Federal Reserve Board.

It was the opinion of a conference of the board held today that as a step toward supporting plans for the financing of the nation's foreign trade it was advisable to make it possible for national banks to participate in the formation of trade groups, such as that now in process of organization by the cotton interests, so that Europe might buy raw materials immediately on collateral of adequate security.

Aside from the actual capital put into such enterprises by the banks, it is felt that the general public will be encouraged by the banks' participation to take stock also, which will be an indirect stimulation of the continued saving believed necessary to provide new capital.

At present, national banks are limited by law in their ownership of stock in other enterprises. A bank must have $1,000,000 in capital and surplus in order to apply to the board for stock in a corporation engaged in international or foreign banking, and may not invest more than 10 per cent. of its capital and surplus.

The amendment to Section 25 of the act to be sent to Congress tomorrow would permit any national bank "until Jan. 1, 1921, without regard to the amount of its capital and surplus, to invest an amount not exceeding in the aggregate 5 per cent. of its paid-in capital and surplus in the stock of one or more corporations chartered or incorporated under the laws of the United States or of any State thereof and regardless of its location, principally engaged in such phases of international or foreign financial operations as may be necessary to facilitate the export of goods, wares, or merchandise from the United States to any foreign country, provided, however, that in no event shall the total investments authorized by this section by any one national bank exceed 10 per centum of its capital and surplus."

The time limitation of the amendment was said not to contemplate that any bank should give up stock purchases by it, but merely to emphasize that the emergency was one of war reconstruction, as only a few of the very large banks under the existing law own stock in corporations doing foreign banking.

BOND RECEIVER IS PAROLED.

J. J. Cunney Placed in Custody of Priest and Escapes Prison Term.

John J. Cunney, 19 years old, a clerk, of 752 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, was paroled in the Bronx County Court in the custody of Father Louis, of St. Anselm's Catholic Church, yesterday, having pleaded guilty to a charge of criminally receiving $42,750 in Liberty bonds. Cunney was sentenced by County Judge Louis D. Gibbs to the penitentiary, but execution of the sentence was suspended and he will be required to report to the priest once a week for two years and six months.

On Dec. 30 last $135,000 in Liberty bonds was stolen from McClure, Jones & Reed, of 115 Broadway, by Cornelius Creighan of 69 Eagle Avenue, the Bronx. Creighan communicated with a chorus girl in Philadelphia and in that way was apprehended by Detective Grover C. Brown. He gave a large amount of the bonds to his brother, Lester, and also gave to Cunney a large block of the bonds.

VANDERLIP QUIT BANK TO GET TIME TO THINK

Says Men of Large Affairs as a Rule Are Too Busy to Study World Problems.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 20.—Frank A. Vanderlip, former President of the National City Bank, said today that the reason he resigned the presidency of the National City Bank was because he "wanted time to think."

"We are in the most interesting time in history," said Mr. Vanderlip. "Men of large affairs are, as a rule, too busy looking after dollars to pay due attention to the great problems now before the world.

"If Europe is to come back to normal conditions within the next few years she must have credit extended to her. There are only three ways in which European countries can make the necessary return on credits: by payments in gold, (and we do not want any more of that because we have enough inflation now,) by sending us goods, and by secured pledges on their resources. Look at our trade balance for the past eleven months. Despite the fact that we have been buying heavily of Europe we have sold $3,500,000,000 worth of goods more than we have bought in Europe.

"Any nation that can send machinery or the raw material or foods needed should do so and let the credits be arranged on some satisfactory basis. The farmers individually cannot afford to send grain on credit. It must be done through arrangements with the banks, the Government or some other means to be settled promptly.

"It might be well to have a large corporation to serve as an intermediary betwen the European borrowers and the American bankers and investors. We must not expect our banks to take care of the loans, which will of necessity amount to vast sums, because it would be unwise to further tie up their resources in this manner. It is the American investors who must furnish the money for credits.

"Getting the people back to work will take care of the anarchist situation in large measure, and if this is done then we shall have in America the greatest era of prosperity that ever was known."

WANTS NEW TRIAL METHOD.

Dr. MacDonald Would Bar Jury Decisions on Sanity.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—Questions as to the sanity of a prisoner should not be determined by a jury, nor should such evidence be introduced during a court trial.

These were among the changes advocated by Dr. Carlos F. MacDonald, the New York alienist and neurologist, in an address today to the American Medico-Psychological Association.

He suggested that a jury be asked merely to pass upon the facts and determine if the defendant did or did not commit the crime charged. If a verdict of guilty was rendered a board of qualified alienists should then determine the "sanity" aspect of the case and report their findings to the court, which would then be in a position to determine what sentence should be imposed.

"The Harry K. Thaw case could have been disposed of in a few hours if this method had been followed," he said.

He urged that lawyers be forbidden to inform the jury as to the punishments which might be meted out to prisoners if found guilty.

Senate Asks About Reported Lump-Sum Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Information as to a reported Treasury Department plan to authorize lump sum payments to war risk insurance beneficiaries, in place of the present monthly payments, was asked of Secretary Glass today in a Senate resolution adopted, without opposition.

The measure was introduced by Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, after several Senators had protested against the proposal as contrary to the intention of Congress when the war risk law was enacted.

Senator Smoot, Republican, of Utah, declared committee hearings when the bill was framed had established that only 8 per cent. of insurance beneficiaries are able to take care of insurance money for any length of time.

ASK ACTION ON CANAL TOLLS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Efforts to get early enactment of legislation changing the system of levying Panama Canal tolls were renewed today in communications sent to Congress by Secretary Baker, Governor Harding of the Canal Zone, and Captain Sargent, making superintendent at the canal. Proposed legislation failing in the last Congress was recommended on the ground that under it tolls would be based on tonnage "so measured as to express actual earning capacity."

Pacific Coast lumber interests, which opposed the previous legislation, may be expected to renew their fight, Captain Sargent said.

AMERICAN SHIP IN DISTRESS

HALIFAX, N. S., June 20.—A wireless call for assistance was received here today from the United States steamship West Point, which sailed from Baltimore on June 12 for Rotterdam carrying food products. The radiogram, picked up by the Marine and Fisheries Agency, said the ship's engines were disabled and asked that American coast guard cutters be sent to help her.

There is no American cutter at Halifax and the appeal was sent forward to the United States authorities.

The West Point is a United States Shipping Board vessel of 5,708 tons gross, built at Seattle in 1918.

IDAHO JOINS PACIFIC FLEET.

Transferred Ships to Mobilize in July and Sail in August.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Vessels of the present Atlantic fleet which are to be assigned to the new Pacific fleet will mobilize at an Atlantic port late in July and will probably leave for the west coast via the Panama Canal in early August. In making this announcement the Navy Department said that Secretary Daniels would be a passenger on one of the battleships unless some unforeseen circumstance made this plan impracticable.

One of the ships of the new Pacific fleet will be the superdreadnought Idaho, the newest battleship of the navy. She will take President-elect Pessoa home to Brazil and will then proceed directly to the west coast.

4,000,000 in German Unions.

Since the signing of the armistice on Nov. 11 the membership of the Free German Trade Unions has almost tripled and now totals more than 4,000,000, according to data found in the Münchener Post of May 13. The leading organization, the Metal Workers' Union, boasts a membership of more than 1,000,000, having gained 475,000 members in the last six months. When the war broke out the membership of the Free German Trade Unions was about 2,500,000, while some 500,000 other workers were organized in the Catholic Trade Unions and the Hirsch-Dunker (employers') socie-

RICHMOND ASSAILS HIS FORMER CHURCH

Sees "Uncovered Snobbish Tendencies" Among Episcopalians in This Country.

ALSO ATTACKS THE POPE

Former Philadelphia Rector, Now a Baptist, Criticises "Parading of Wealth" on Fifth Avenue.

The Rev. George Chalmers Richmond, who renounced the Episcopal Church on Dec. 25, 1918, after a stormy career, during which he frequently differed with the authorities of the church, described his feelings toward that church and toward the Roman Catholic Church in an address yesterday morning before the Baptist Ministers' Council of New York City.

Dr. Richmond was received into the Baptist Church three weeks ago, and his Episcopal ordination was accepted as qualifying him to preach in that Church, in which he intends to accept a pastorate. Dr. Richmond's address was applauded and, by resolution, will be printed by the council.

Dr. Richmond expressed himself freely on some of the topics which brought him into collision with the authorities of his former church, and in addition gave some impression of modern society, asserting that the parading of wealth in this city, especially on Fifth Avenue, was a direct incitation to Bolshevism, which he held to be less evil than the things which, in his opinion, produced it. At the end of his sermon Dr. Richmond said that one of his hearers had predicted that he would end by quitting church institutions altogether and forming an independent organization, after the recent example of Dr. John Haynes Holmes.

"The basic fact," he said yesterday, "is that the churches, both Catholic and Protestant, are to be recognized as institutions existing not for public service, but for private propaganda. In other words, these churches stand today in the religious fields as ends in themselves and not as means to the great end of establishing the Kingdom of God upon the earth."

Dr. Richmond said that in 1916 and 1917 he had contemplated joining the Roman Catholic Church, but decided against this, mainly because of his opinion that it lacked democracy, but he added to his objections yesterday an attack on the position of the Pope throughout the war.

Criticises the Papacy.

"I desire to say here," he said, "that the attitude of the Papacy during the recent war was totally contrary to the teachings of the spirit of Christianity. It was diplomacy of a pretty poor and outworn stripe which caused Benedict to refrain from an out-and-out condemnation of Germany and the Prussian position. That has always been the weak feature of the Papacy, its diplomatic character. Instead of issuing forth with prophetic boldness and moral leadership, which gave the prophets their claim to the Apostolic spirit, it has sought to follow cautious and diplomatic counsels. Away with your diplomacy, Benedict! The world is in search of a prophet, not of diplomatists."

"The Episcopalian Church in the United States is the daughter in more ways than one of the Church of England. The Episcopalian Church is the church of a class, and no class church can ever expect to flourish spiritually or to win to its doors the souls of the plain people. I know from my Episcopalian experiences in New York and for the last twelve years in Philadelphia that those poor people who seem to love to boast of their connection with the Episcopal Church are for the most part people who have uncovered snobbish tendencies, or a desire to get on in some Wall Street offices or to exist on the fringe of our so-called 'Society of 400,' which I suppose in reality is a myth today."

Asserting that he had found a lack of broadmindedness and democracy in the Episcopal Church, Dr. Richmond said:

Assails Episcopal Church.

"Bishop Rhinelander in deposing me, as he was compelled to do by the un-Christian and inhuman canons which govern that so-called Church of God, the Episcopalian, refused to admit that the Baptist Church is a Church. He refused to put on paper in my deposition the words 'Baptist Church' but refers to it as the Baptist communion. He regards it as a sect. And it is his Church which now has the audaciousness to advocate Church unity.

"Think of such an ecclesiastic making overtures, as he is doing at the present time, to the New England Congregationalists, and urging their ministers to seek Episcopalian ordination. But the worst feature of this is that he can find quite a few ministers of Puritan following who are willing to follow with these representatives of a system which is seeking to turn the world upside down in the interests of the Anglican Church."

Speaking of his own difficulties in Philadelphia, Dr. Richmond said that his work for social betterment had caused the men who controlled the church to single him out as a disturber.

"I became a marked man," he continued. "I had dared to take an interest in industrial affairs, and this in Philadelphia is contrary to the moral code of those old fogies, who in a large degree control rents, prices, car fares, pew rents, and standing in society."

AWARDS SOLDIER $60,000.

Harry Bauman Gets Verdict After Previous Award Had Been Set Aside

In the suit of Harry Bauman, a soldier, who sued the Norfolk & Western Railroad Company because both his legs were cut off while he was on guard in the railroad yards at Lynchburg, Va., during the early days of the war, and got a verdict for $75,000, which was reduced to $35,000 by the Trial Justice, and which was set aside by the Appellate Division because no negligence by the railroad was shown, a jury before Supreme Court Justice McAvoy returned a verdict for $60,000 yesterday at the second trial.

Justice McAvoy reserved decision on the application by the counsel for the railroad company to set aside the $60,000 verdict on the ground of the Appellate Division ruling.

ACCIDENTS PASS WAR TOLL.

226,000 Americans Killed at Home to 56,000 Killed in France.

DULUTH, Minn., June 20.—At the conference of Michigan, Wisconsin, and Minnesota mining engineers, general superintendents, inspectors and safety engineers last night, F. E. Morris, Chief Secretary, National Safety Council, Chicago, said that during the nineteen months the United States was in the war 56,000 American soldiers were killed in Europe, while during the same period 226,000 men, women and children were accidentally killed in the United States.

His investigation as to why women get off street cars backwards and suffer accidents led to the discovery that out of 17 women, 12 alight facing the rear. "The reason," he said, "is that a woman's right arm is usually the stronger and she uses it in alighting. With a man both arms are developed.

TAFT INSISTS LABOR MUST BE RECOGNIZED

Advocates Collective Bargaining as a Barrier Against Bolshevism.

CHICAGO, June 20.—"I wish to insist upon the high importance of interposing no obstacles to the organization of labor, which must organize to be on an equality with employers," said William Howard Taft in an address today before the National Hardwood Association.

"I do not fear Bolshevism in this country," he continued, "I do not mean that in congested centres foreigners and agitators will not have influence. But the Bolshevists do not understand that Americans as a whole have a deep love for America. It is a vital love that the sensational appeals of Bolshevist agitators cannot weaken.

"But it is essential that we have forces that can organize against Bolshevism, in favor of an effective League of Nations, so that we may have a power where it can do good in protecting the world and society against retrogression.

"The great body of our workingmen are utterly opposed to Bolshevism and we should conduct ourselves in such a way as to retain them and keep them out of the hands of the extremists by the square deal. This means a system of collective bargaining and recognition of trades unions; not necessarily a contract with them, but a recognition of their value and an encouragement to assume responsibility as American citizens prompted by a love of society and a love of the Government that has done and this is one of the great arguments so much for all of them."

ZIMBALIST PAYS AUTO FINE.

Thirty-four speeders, many of them prominent, were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Frederick B. House in the Traffic Court.

"I am sorry you did not come here Tuesday, when we had 519 cases—there would have been a larger audience," commented Magistrate House as Efrem Zimbalist, the violipist, 30 years old, of 315 West 100th Street, pleaded guilty to operating his automobile at twenty-seven miles an hour on Seventh Avenue, from 123d to 117th Street, on complaint of Motorcycle Policeman Winfield H. Merritt. The violinist stated he was returning from Fisher Island when he was caught. He paid the $25 fine the court imposed.

Raymond Belmont, 30 years old, who gave 43 Exchange Place as his address, was summoned for operating an automobile at twenty-six miles an hour on Park Avenue, from Seventy-second to Sixty-ninth Street, on complaint of Motorcycle Patrolman John J. Gerhardt. An adjournment till June 27, at the request of the defendant, was granted. Charles C. Ross, 32 years old, an artist of 418 Central Park South, was convicted of speeding as a second offender on the complaint of Motorcycle Patrolman Winfield H. Merritt. Ross was charged with operating his automobile at a speed of twenty-seven miles on Fifth Avenue, and had previously been fined $75 on Sept. 13, 1918, by Magistrate Cobb for traveling at a thirty-five-mile rate of speed on the same avenue. This time he was fined $100, which he paid, adding that he would appeal the case. Tony Viliano, 22 years old, a taxi chauffeur of 20 Sherman Street, Long Island City, who had previously pleaded guilty to operating a taxicab owned by the Black and White Taxicab Company on Broadway at thirty miles an hour, urged the Magistrate to send him to the City Prison for only two days because of his eight months' service in France. He was given a fifteen-day sentence in the Workhouse. An investigation by Probation Officer William McElroy, it is said, disclosed that he had never been in France, but had been but five months in the army at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga. Magistrate House, the record disclosed, had dealt with him twice before in regard to speed charges.

SAYS VILLA WON'T MAKE REPRISALS

NOTE FROM GEN. ANGELES

He Asks Gen. Erwin to Explain Why United States Troops Crossed the Border.

EL PASO, Texas, June 20.—Villa will make no reprisals upon American property and lives in Mexico because American troops drove his men back from the border Sunday night, a courier from Villa's camp near Villa Ahumada, who arrived here last night on an important mission, asserted.

He also had a communication from General Felipe Angeles for Brig. Gen. James B. Erwin, district commander. The communication asked why American troops crossed to the Mexican side Sunday night. The communication was received by General Erwin, acted upon and referred to Maj. Gen. De Rosey C. Cabell, Southern Department commander.

General Erwin sent back word to Angeles that General Erwin would have nothing to do with the Villa chieftain.

"There is but one Government in Mexico recognized by the United States of America and it appears that you or your principal are in no way connected with, or claim to be connected with that Government which is recognized by the United States of America," General Erwin's reply read.

"I therefore decline to have any communication whatsoever with you or your principal on any subject related in any way to those Governments."

The courier said Villa was afraid Carranza soldiers would fire into El Paso to force American troops to cross, and it was for this reason that he remained outside of Juarez three days, hoping that the Federals would come out and give battle in the open.

The courier said the first Villa knew of the American expedition was when he heard bursts of shrapnel, whereupon he ordered his men to evacuate the town and leave for the foothills at once. Villa was more than a mile from town at the time and started immediately for his base near Samalayuca. It is not reasonable, according to the courier, to believe Villa's men would snipe across the border into El Paso when Villa hesitated to attack Juares for fear bullets would fall in El Paso and bring about complications.

The courier said Villa did not command in the first night's fighting, but led his men in person Sunday evening and directed the fighting in the streets and around the Custom House. Villa had 2,400 men in his entire command, but only 1,000 took part in the attack, he said.

The Villa officer confirmed the death of Manuel Castro and Alberto Jimines, two Villa Generals, who were killed during the fighting in Juarez. He said seventy Villa men were killed and 110 wounded.

The situation on the border appeared more quiet today than for some time. Five hundred Mexican Federal troops who started yesterday to protect the American Mormon colonies near Casas Grandes, today were well on their way in that direction. On the American side of the border military dispositions remained much as they were yesterday. Scattering bands of Villa's men were reported from various points, but little importance is attached to their appearance, as they are thought to be stragglers.

With a force of airplanes here it was expected scouting flights would be undertaken on a considerable scale today, the first flight yesterday by Major Edgar Tobin having located a small number of men supposed to be Villa adherents.

26,450 TO BE ENLISTED FOR MEXICAN BORDER

Will Replace Men Who Entered the Army Only for the War Against Germany.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Secretary Baker today announced that he had issued instructions for the authorization of the enlistment of 26,450 men for special assignment to organization now on duty on the Mexican border. The purpose of this, it was explained, was to release for discharge men who enlisted only for the period of the emergency of the war against Germany.

At the same time these enlistments will enable the army to maintain at full strength its units along the border or within striking distance of the border. Men will be enlisted for the following arms and corps not to exceed the numbers indicated:

Infantry, white, 6,000; infantry, colored, 2,000; cavalry, white, 10,000; field artillery, 2,000; engineers, 800; medical corps, 1,300; ordnance, 150; signal corps, 300; air service, 500, and Quartermaster Corps, 1,500.

NO MANDATE FOR MEXICO.

Polk Calls the Prediction of British Control Absurd.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Frank L. Polk, Acting Secretary of State, today characterized the published story of a possible British mandate over Mexico as absurd and mischievous. He said that such a suggestion had never been made except in several newspapers, and that no such mandate had ever been contemplated. Mr. Polk said that under the provision of the covenant of the League of Nations there was no provision for mandates except for German colonies and for parts of the Turkish empire.

From this it would appear that there could also be no foundation for the stories printed some time ago to the effect that the United States Government might be asked to take a mandate for Mexico from the League of Nations.

6,000 CHINESE ARRESTED.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Arrest of 6,000 Chinese students at Fuchow by Chinese and Japanese military authorities was said in official circles here today to have resulted from the anti-Japanese boycott growing out of the decision of the Peace Conference on the Shantung question.

Fuchow, in Fukien province, opposite Formosa, has been held by the Japanese to be within their sphere of influence, it was said, and when the disorders began they were reported to have been regarded as justification for the landing of Japanese troops.

The Chinese authorities, fearing forcible action by Japan, are said to have been trying to stop the boycott, which has been largely fomented by Chinese students.

TO EXTEND TARIFF HEARING.

Chairman Fordney Says Statistics Are Now Being Assembled.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Hearings looking toward a general revision of the tariff will be started by the House Ways and Means Committee soon after July 4, Chairman Fordney of the committee announced today at the close of hearings on the request of the potash and dye industries for protection.

Statistics and data, Mr. Fordney said, are now being assembled and the committee proposes to go extensively and exhaustively into the whole subject with a view to drafting a bill revising the tariff in accordance with the campaign promises of the Republican majority in Congress.

A Ways and Means subcommittee, of which Representative Green, Republican, is Chairman, will begin hearings Monday on the pearl button industry.

PHELAN WOULD BAR JAPANESE ENTIRELY

California Senator Says They Are Making a Silent Conquest of Western Hemisphere.

SEES NEXT WAR ON PACIFIC

Asserts They Have a Foothold in Mexico and Will Unite with Mexico to "Smite" Us.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Cancellation of the so-called gentlemen's agreement with Japan and prohibition of all immigration from that country was urged before the House Immigration Committee by Senator Phelan, Democrat, of California, who declared the Japanese were rapidly making a "silent" conquest of the western hemisphere. America's next war, he said, would be "on the Pacific and not on the Atlantic."

"The Huns of the East have come," Senator Phelan declared. "Already they have spread over California and are stripping the State of its Americanism. They have invaded South America, and have obtained a firm foothold in Mexico, where they are protected and are a part of the Carranza machine. Some day the Mexican and Japanese problem will come to smite us with united force."

Senator Phelan said he had no sympathy with the "percentage" plan of immigration which would limit Japanese to come into this country the annual rate of from 2 to 5 per cent. of those already here.

"The Japanese are not to be compromised with," he asserted. "We must be eliminated entirely. The swarm of locusts, which they are, equal in economic destructiveness, 1 per cent. should be allowed to enter, not even a quarter of 1 per cent. of population should be enacted to bar them entirely. This might hurt Japanese feelings, but America comes first.

"The sore spot of the world is the Orient. It is the place which we must watch; zealously and unceasingly."

Senator Phelan urged also legislation to prohibit Japanese from owning or leasing land in this country and to make "picture bride" marriages illegal.

The greatest danger from the Japanese, the Senator said, was caused by their "innate and deep-rooted desire to become land owners."

"The Japanese refuse to work for anyone else when it can be avoided," he declared. "When they acquire a piece of land they work eighteen or twenty hours a day. For that reason Americans are being driven out of the State."

Land owners of California are sympathetic, Senator Phelan said, because they are able to obtain from the Japanese far more for their land than they could make by leasing or selling it to Americans by working it themselves.

"The American laborers are not unfortunate, however," he said, "for they are deprived of their means of livelihood. Can you wonder that many have joined the ranks of the Bolsheviki, the I. W. W.'s, and the radicals?"

Labor unions of the west coast, beginning to realize "the seriousness of the question," the Senator added, are making determined efforts to have Japanese excluded.

Senator Phelan said he had aided in obtaining the State Department's approval to the proposed sale by Mexico of 800,000 acres of land near the American border to a Japanese corporation for colonization purposes.

"But who knows when other and more successful attempts will be made," he asked. "We must be on our guard continuously."

BRAZIL'S PRESIDENT IS NATION'S GUEST

Dr. Pessoa and Party Taken from Crippled French Warship at Sea by the Imperator.

SALUTED BY HARBOR FORT

Goes to Washington Today to Meet Vice President Marshall—Will Tour American Cities.

Dr. Epitacio Pessoa, President of Brazil, arrived on American soil yesterday afternoon as the nation's guest, completing an interrupted trip from Europe on the transport Imperator, which brought back more than 9,000 American soldiers. The guns of Fort Wadsworth boomed the Presidential salute of twenty-one guns as the Imperator, flying the Brazilian flag at her mainmast, and escorted by four American destroyers and an army airplane overhead, came slowly through the Narrows.

Officials representing the Government went down the bay on the Manhattan and boarded the steamer to welcome officially the distinguished guest to the United States. Among the officials were Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State; Rear Admiral W. B. Caperton, U. S. N.; Major Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, Hallett Johnson, Acting Chief of the Division of Latin American Affairs of the Department of State; G. Cornell Tarler, Secretary of Embassy; John Barrett, Director General of the Pan-American Union, and Commander S. S. Baker, U. S. N.

There was a slight delay at Sandy Hook, due to the sailing of the Leviathan, it being deemed inadvisable for the big ships to pass in the channel. That was the second delay experienced by Dr. Pessoa and his party on their trip to the United States. The first was caused by an accident on the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc at sea, which made it necessary to transfer the President and his party to the Imperator.

Preparations had been made at the Port of Debarkation, Hoboken, to receive the visitors. The upper deck of Pier 4, where the Imperator docks, was decorated throughout with flags of the Allies, the Brazilian emblem being especially conspicuous. A military guard stretched along the length of the pier, and a military band was there to play patriotic airs.

As Dr. Pessoa and the sixteen members of his official party walked down the gangplank to the pier the band played the Brazilian national anthem. Dr. Pessoa halted alongside of Admiral Gleaves, his hat removed, while naval and army officers stood at salute. After the rendition of the anthem Dr. Pessoa smiled and nodded to the members of the band in appreciation of their courtesy, and turned to be greeted by Brig. Gen. Peter W. Davidson, in command of the Port of Debarkation in the absence of Major Gen. Shanks, who is abroad.

Caught in Downpour.

Then Dr. Pessoa, accompanied by Senhora Pessoa and their daughter, Senhorita Laurita, and followed by Senhora Pessoa de Queiroz, his secretary, Captain Armado Burlamaqui of the Brazilian Navy, his naval aid, and Mme. Burlamaqui; Lauro Muller, Jr., Secretary of Legation, and Mme. Muller; Senhora Mauricio Nabuco of the Brazilian Foreign Office; Senhora Gustavo Barroso, Attache, and Mme. Barroso, and Senhora Eugenio Preta, Attache, and Senhora Preta, walked briskly toward the shore end of the pier, where automobiles were awaiting them. Despite the threatening clouds, a large crowd had gathered at the entrance to the piers, and cheered Dr. Pessoa when he and his party appeared.

No sooner had the guests entered the closed automobiles than the downpour of rain began. Many of the greeting officials were unable to reach shelter and were drenched. After a delay of ten minutes, the Presidential party proceeded to New York by way of the Twenty-third Street ferry.

Officers of the Port of Debarkation, acting, they said, under instructions from General Davidson, refused to allow any one but the official welcoming party to approach the visitors at the pier. Naval officers on the Imperator said Dr. Pessoa expressed deep appreciation of the welcome he received as the steamer came up the bay. They said Dr. Pessoa was greatly interested in the skyline of lower Manhattan. "This is indeed the happiest moment of my life," he was quoted as saying.

The party was met at the Twenty-third Street Ferry by a mounted police escort which led the way up Fifth Avenue, through the heavy downpour, to the Waldorf-Astoria, where the party stayed until this morning. The Presidential suite, on the fourth floor facing Fifth Avenue, was in readiness for Dr. Pessoa. He retired to his rooms and denied himself to newspaper men who sought an interview. It was explained by a member of his party that Dr. Pessoa did not feel disposed to talk for publication until after he had paid his official respects to Vice President Marshall in Washington this afternoon.

Last night Dr. Pessoa and several members of his party dined on the Brazilian warship Sao Paolo at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Fifty American army and navy officers were among those who attended the dinner, which was given by the officers of the ship.

The President arrived at the navy yard shortly before 8 o'clock and received the honors due him from the navy. He was met at the gangplank of the Sao Paolo by Captain Arthur Thompson, the commander, who escorted him aboard, while the crew stood at attention.

Dr. Pessoa and his party will leave this morning for Washington, where he will remain for several days as the guest of the nation. He will return to New York later and will start from here on a tour of the country which will take him to many of the larger cities.

Transferred at Sea.

The transfer of Dr. Pessoa and his official family from the Jeanne d'Arc to the Imperator in the early hours of June 17 was quite dramatic, according to Captain Casey Morgan, commander of the Imperator. He said that on the afternoon of the preceding day he intercepted a message sent by the Jeanne d'Arc to the Roanoke saying that she had been crippled as a result of leaking condensers and faulty boilers. As the senior navy officer of the vessels in the vicinity, Captain Morgan said he sent wireless messages to ten vessels within a radius of several hundred miles, asking them if they had suitable accommodations for the distinguished guests.

"None of them did, and I was faced with a problem," Captain Morgan said. "I was 200 miles to the westward of the Jeanne d'Arc and had only taken on coal at Brest sufficient to allow for only a two-day margin. I immediately ordered a survey of the bunkers and found we had a margin of 700 miles. I figured it would require at least 500 tons to go to the French cruiser. I decided that since the Imperator was the only vessel having suitable accommodations it was up to me to go.

"First sending a radio message to the Mexican to stand by the Jeanne d'Arc in case of accident until I could arrive, I started for her. We reached her at 1 o'clock in the morning and found her dead still in the water, which was quite calm. Rear Admiral Grout, designated to accompany Dr. Pessoa, came over and we arranged to transfer the party in small boats. The President enjoyed the tossing swell en route from the French cruiser, a quarter of a mile away from us, but the women in the party were a little frightened. Some of the men didn't like the experience either.

After the Brazilians had all come aboard, Captain Morgan said, they were given the best suites and made comfortable. The transfer was accomplished in two trips. As a token of his appreciation, Dr. Pessoa gave Captain Morgan an autographed photograph.

WELCOME FOR MRS. BOOTH.

She Tells Soldiers and Sailors That Mothers Helped Win the War.

Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth got a ringing welcome last night by more than a thousand soldiers and sailors who gathered at the Amsterdam Opera House in West Forty-fourth Street to greet her upon her return to this country after many months of service with the boys during the war and since the armistice. She in turn welcomed them to the shores of America. Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen, greeted Mrs. Booth in the name of Mayor Hylan, and Adjt. Gen. Berry represented Governor Smith in extending to her the appreciation of the people of the State for her splendid services abroad. Telegrams in a similar vein were read from Governor Cox of Ohio, Governor Bickett of North Carolina, and Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey.

When the formal greetings had been said, and Mrs. Booth had blushingly received an enormous bouquet of American Beauty roses, the War Camp Community Service Volunteer Entertainment Bureau provided a program of vaudeville entertainment, which was succeeded by a dance.

Mrs. Booth brought with her from her experiences abroad a vivacious enthusiasm for the soldier boy. "When I got to Paris at the beginning of my service," she said, "I decided that myself and the 300 workers of the Volunteers of America would not do well to form a separate organization, as there were so many of them already in the field, so we joined the Y. M. C. A., and I have never been sorry for it. They asked me where I wanted to go. I had heard of one place in France where it rained all the time, and the mud was many feet deep, and I had thought that it would be in just such a place that I would be needed most.

"Much has been said, as you know, as to who won the war, but I think that I have really found out. It has been mooted in some quarters that the M. P.'s won it. When I was on the Rhine with the marines I knew that the marines had won it. In fact, every time I changed my division I changed my opinion as to who had won it. But then I sat under a leaky roof with a water-soaked doughboy who showed me a letter from his mother which adjured him to be sure always to keep himself warm and dry, and with another boy whose mother had told him to be sure to give his full name and address to General Pershing so that if anything happened to him the General could sit right down and write home about it, and with still another whose mother had written to her son, who was taking part in the Argonne drive, that when the firing went on he should be very careful. And when I thought of these mothers, hoping and praying for their boys thousands of miles away, I knew that the mothers had helped win the war."

Mr. Moran paid a glowing tribute to Mrs. Booth for her services in the war. General Berry read a message from Governor Smith in which he regretted his inability to be present and assured Mrs. Booth of the appreciation of the people for what she had done.

Charges Against Detective Who Arrested Women, Later Freed.

Charges have been preferred against Detective John J. Gunson because of his arrest of Lillian Cohen and Sallie Kobin, convicted of disorderly conduct in Jefferson Market Court by Magistrate Francis X. Mancuso, but honorably discharged by Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions when the case was appealed. District Attorney Swann said that Police Commissioner Enright had told him that Gunson would be tried within a week, and that the police wanted any assistance the District Attorney's office could give in clearing up the matter. Mr. Swann, while announcing his approval of the vindication of the girls by Judge Rosalsky, defended the action of Magistrate Mancuso on the ground that he was guided by the testimony.

To this Judge Rosalsky replied yesterday with a review of the case. He said that the dismissal of the complaints against the girls had been recommended by Assistant District Attorney Brothers.

"I had every reason," Judge Rosalsky said, "to assume that the District Attorney had read the record before he approved of the action of the trial assistant, but from what I have read in the public prints it seems that the District Attorney now contends that, on the facts as they appeared before the Magistrate, the Magistrate rendered a proper decision. I fail to understand the attitude of the District Attorney.

"It is to be regretted that an erroneous impression was conveyed in the original publication that I had severely criticised the conduct of Judge Mancuso. Such statement is unwarranted by the facts. I simply stated that I was surprised that Judge Mancuso, who has had extensive experience as a prosecutor, should have made an erroneous decision in this case."

Mr. Swann said the matter was closed so far as he was concerned, except to say that his defense of Magistrate Mancuso was in no way intended to be a criticism of Judge Rosalsky.

Magistrate William Blau in the Women's Court yesterday rejected the uncorroborated testimony of a policeman, charging Irene Bonser, 21 years old, of 1,239 Third Avenue, with disorderly conduct. The Magistrate said the girl was innocent on the facts, and thereupon the court ordered the complaint dismissed. The arrest of Irene Bonser on May 24, and her arraignment by Detective Joseph Maloney, was in similar form to the prosecution of Lillian Cohen and Sallie Kobin, whom Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions vindicated by his overruling of the Magistrate's decision. Gunson, who made the latter complaint, is a fellow member of the Vice Squad with Maloney. Magistrate Blau condemned such arrests without sufficient legal evidence and the present system of trying these cases.

ARREST TICKET SALESMEN.

Philip Guyran, of 618 West 142d Street, and Robert Bihn, 3100 Broadway, salesmen for Leo Newman, theatrical ticket agent, at 1482 Broadway, were held in $2,000 bail each by Judge Wadhams yesterday in General Sessions on indictments charging perjury. It is alleged that Bihn, on May 27, sold to Lester Lloyd, a subpoena server at the District Attorney's Office, two $3 tickets for the Plymouth Theatre, for which the buyer was charged $4 apiece, and that when Bihn was arraigned in the West Side Court he swore falsely that Guyran had made the sale, and that Guyran also swore falsely when called as a witness.

The city ordinance prohibits more than 50 cents profit on the sale of a theater ticket. Assistant District Attorney Kilroe said that new enforcement measures were being taken to compel ticket speculators to obey the ordinance.

Army Ambulances Burned.

CAMP DIX, N. J., June 20.—Army transportation equipment valued at $35,000 was destroyed in a fire of unknown origin that started with an explosion in a one-story building of the Motor Transport Corps at daybreak this morning. Six new army ambulances with complete equipment and two motorcycles with side cars were lost. General Hale has appointed a board of officers to make an investigation of the fire.

Opposes Change in Canal Plan.

The Bergen Beach Land Corporation made application to Justice Benedict in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday for an injunction to restrain the city from asking the Secretary of War for permission to return to the original route selected for the Jamaica Bay Ship Canal. This plan was made in 1911 and was revised in 1917. The 1917 plan would put the canal closer to the land of the Bergen Beach Corporation than the 1911 plan.

FINDS ANARCHY IN FORD THEORIES

SCORE OF EXAMPLES CITED

Quoted Views on War and Patriotism Called Those of Tolstoy and Bakunin.

Special to The New York Times.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., June 20.—Jurors in Henry Ford's suit against The Chicago Tribune listened this morning to a scientific dissertation on anarchism, syndicalism, socialism, Bolshevism, and radicalism. Jesse N. Reeves, Professor of Political Economy at the University of Michigan, was the witness. He was called as an expert on anarchism by The Tribune. Attorneys for Mr. Ford opposed admitting his testimony, but the court let him tell of theories accepted as anarchistic.

"Do you find the principles of well known and recognized anarchists in the statements of Mr. Ford?" asked Mr. Stevenson for The Tribune. Most of the statements were quoted from an article written by Edward Marshall after an interview with Mr. Ford.

The witness said he did find such principles and was asked to point them out. He said that Mr. Ford's theory that "One country, State or city is not of paramount importance" was a theory held by such anarchists as Gardner, Rudolph, Bagunin, Tucker, Tolstoy, and others.

Mr. Ford was quoted as having said: "There is no such thing as independence. There is only interdependence. We want to talk about the world. World patriotism is what we want to glorify."

"That," Dr. Reeves said, "is an anarchistic idea, a world brotherhood instead of national patriotism."

Another quotation of Mr. Ford's, "Why do men allow themselves to be marched off to slaughter for no good purpose except to satisfy the greed of a few money lenders?" the witness declared was a principle of anarchy. "Humanity can make mistakes, but do no worse," Mr. Ford was quoted as saying. This, Dr. Reeves said, was the well-known anarchist idea that if men were left alone, unhampered by laws, they would work out their own destinies better. "I don't blame men for refusing to enlist. Why should a man who doesn't want to be a butcher be compelled to be a soldier?" was another Ford quotation which the witness said were anarchistic. Others were:

"The moment we can get to refuse to go to war, there will be no wars.

"Only two classes benefit by war—the militarists and the money lenders.

"I think this war is the result of greed on the part of those who profit by it.

"If I had my way I would beach every warship and abolish the army and navy.

"I will pull down the flag and never raise it again after the war.

"I don't believe in patriotism—patriotism is the recourse of scoundrels."

W. J. Avery, who was Assistant City Editor of The Chicago Tribune, testified that he sent a telegram to The Tribune's Detroit correspondent asking for the Ford plans for caring for employes who went to the Mexican border. It was upon the reply made to the Detroit correspondent that the "libelous" editorial was written. The reply quoted Mr. Klingensmith of the Ford Company as saying that the Ford Company would not pay employes while they were in Government service; that it would not care for dependents of such men and would not hold their jobs for them.

MAY SHOW WAR TROPHIES.

But Harris Says City Must Get Them from Recruiting Officer.

Grover A. Whalen, Secretary of the Mayor's Committee on Welcome to Homecoming Troops, yesterday gave out a letter from Adjutant General P. C. Harris, United States Army, in reply to one from Mr. Whalen asking for war trophies for New York City. In his letter General Harris said that the War Department could not distribute such material without the sanction of Congress.
